SPORTS

A day before the Winchester High School golf team's biggest match of the season, the Division 2 North Shore and Greater Boston Golf Championships, Sachem senior co-captain Mike McGinty offered the following prediction.

"If we were ever to win this thing," said McGinty, "Coach (Dave) Miller would go nuts."

Buoyed by the tremendous performance of junior Dave Fiorentino and a solid team effort, Winchester pulled off the shocker, capturing the crown after defeating 12 other schools last Thursday (Oct. 29) at Brookline's Putterham Meadows. See Sports for full details.

Shannon still king of the (Beacon) hill

Casey breezes to win by wide margin

By Stephen Olivieri and Deborah Trask

Sen. Charles Shannon (R-Winchester) will be returning to Beacon Hill for another term after fending off a challenge from the man he toppled two years ago, former Sen. Salvatore Albano (D—Somerville).

As expected, both men won their home towns, but Shannon was strong in the neutral territory of Medford to take the Second Middlesex senatorial seat.

Shannon garnered 33,218 votes in the district, with 8,001 votes in Winchester, 11,833 votes in Somerville, and 13,384 votes in Medford. Albano received 29,009 total votes, with 3,535 in Winchester, 15,135 in Somerville, and 10,399 in Medford.

Albano and Shannon first met in 1990 when Shannon pulled off a major upset by unseating the three-term incumbent in an election charged with strong anti-incumbent feelings due to the state's fiscal condition. The two rarely agree on issues, and have been barely civil to each other during debates.

In an interview at his home the morning after the election, Shannon said he was surprised at the margin of victory considering the strong support for Clinton in the district. "They voted the person rather than the party," said Shannnon. "It's local. In the last two years, I've stayed local."

Shannon said his goals for the next two years are to make sure HMOs are solvent, work on no-fault insurance, and attempt to make the cost of the MWRA cleanup be spread across the state.

Getting legislation passed may not be very easy for Shannon and his fellow Republicans for the next two years. The Republicans lost their veto-sustaining number in the state Senate, and even lost their minority leader, David Locke. Shannon said he may attempt to run for the leadership position, but only if he is sure it will not hinder his ability to serve his district.

Shannon thanked his constituents for their "belief and trust" in reelecting him to office.

Election 1992

	Charles Shannon (Republican)	Salvatore Albano (Democrat)
Medford	13,384	10,339
Somerville	11,833	15,135
Winchester	8,001	3,535
Total	33,218	29,009

"It's very disappointing for all the people who worked so hard on the campaign," said Albano in an interview following his defeat. He pointed to the number of town officials in all three communities who got behind the Shannon campaign and tipped the scales.

"When you look at Winchester, all the selectmen were working for Shannon; the mayor of Somerville and town officials in Medford, all were out. That's tough to compete with," said Albano. "I don't think there was anything we could have done," he said.

"We were definitely outspent by them and couldn't do all the things we wanted to do," said Albano. "But, in the end, the vote was there for him."

Voter turnout is high

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester tied a town record for voter turnout as 89 percent of the registered voters showed up at the polls to cast a vote.

The record tied the one set in 1988 for the presidential contest between George Bush and Michael Dukakis. The gubernatorial races have been slightly lower than the presidential ones. In the 1990 race that saw William Weld defeat John Silber, 82 percent of eligible voters showed up at the polls. The 1986 election drew 68 percent of the voters.

The turnout was a substantial improvement over this year's primaries in September when only 31 percent of the town voted.

Town Clerk Carolyn Ward said that with the high number of newly registered voters, this year's election probably had the most votes cast with 14,260. In 1988, 13,880 Winchester residents voted.

Counting the high number of ballots resulted in a late night for Ward and her staff at the Clerk's Office. The results were made official at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Clinton tops the ticket

Perot posts strong showing

By Deborah Trask
Editor

Winchester broke tradition and turned out in droves to help elect Democratic Gov. William Clinton as the forty-second president.

Clinton carried 5,704 votes in Winchester, and Bush garnered 4,505. Perot chocked up 2,378 votes.

DeVallon Bolles, Winchester Clinton/Gore Committee chairman said that although the victory did not represent a landslide, Winchester's change to voting for a democratic president was a notable one.

The last time Winchester voted for a Democrat for president was in 1968 when Hubert Humphrey edged out Richard Nixon by 50 votes. The town has been stingy in giving the nod even to favorite son Democrats. Winchester voters chose Nixon and George Bush over John Kennedy and Michael Dukakis in 1960 and 1988.

"I think Clinton was a great candidate, and he will make a great president," said Bolles as the final results came in. "In the primaries Winchester Democrats were very strong for Tsongas. Many people were not sure about Clinton's style. But as people got more familiar with his style; as people focused on the substance of what he said, rather than how he said it, they changed their minds.

"I'm very pleased. All in all it's a good night for Democrats," added Bolles.

Bolles attributed some of the success to the "zillions" of phone calls made by the Winchester Clinton/Gore Committee members and other volunteers. "The main thing was to get the vote out," said Bolles.

"The basic issue on every voter's mind was the economy," he said. Bolles said that Clinton's ability to stay focused on that issue hit home with many voters. "This is a new world for Winchester, for everyone," he added.

Fall Town Meeting tonight

Fall Town Meeting will commence Thursday, Nov. 5 at the Winchester High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Four warrant articles regarding the town's water supply will be the major issue. Randall Swartz, the chairman of the Board of Health, is asking for changes in the water treatment system, which he feels could pose a health danger to town.

Another warrant article will attempt to transfer money from the housing trust fund into the town's general fund. There will also be two procedural articles on the town's committees.

The Board of Selectmen have unanimously voted not to approve any of the articles.

WINCHESTER NEWS

POLICE LOG

Saturday, Oct. 31

8:57 p.m.
Officer James Covino responded to the Ledges for a report of a group of people in a parked motor vehicle.

When police arrived, the vehicle sped away and would not stop when ordered to do so by police. Police pursued the vehicle until it finally stopped on Westland Avenue. According to police, a can of beer was found in the vehicle. The operator, a Winchester youth, was cited for failure to stop for a police officer and a minor transporting alcohol.

Inspector Paul Deluca observed a motor vehicle on the side of the road on Ridge Street missing a left front tire.

The operator was attempting to put the tire back on as police arrived. According to police, someone had taken the lug nuts off of the wheel, causing the tire to fall off. The accident damaged the fender, brakes, rotor, and undercarriage.

7:13 p.m.
Officer James Covino responded to a Mayflower Road residence for a reported larceny.

The occupant told police that earlier in the week someone had entered her residence and stolen $1,000 worth of silverware.

5:52 p.m.
Officer Peter MacDonnell was dispatched to a liquor store on Main Street for a report of an adult buying alcohol for minors.

Police observed a man who fit the clerk's description walking on Main Street. According to police, the man confessed that he had just bought alcohol for two youths. The man was told he would be summoned for purchasing alcohol for a minor.

12:57 p.m.
Officer Peter MacDonnell to a Main Street card store for a report of an attempted flimflam.

The owner of the store told police that a man had come into the store an attempted to confuse her into giving him a $20.

Friday, Oct. 30

9:12 p.m.
Officer Jonathan Dean responded to a report of a stolen motor vehicle at the intersection of Sunset Road and Washington Street.

A Woburn man told police that someone had stolen his caterpillar backhoe, valued at $30,000.

3:21 p.m.
Sergeant John Alford was dispatched to the garage at Winchester Hospital for a hit-and-run. Upon arrival, he met a woman who said she left the hospital and found her vehicle had been damaged in the back door and lower left side panel.

Thursday, Oct. 29

9:43 a.m.
Officer William O'Neil received a report from a woman who said her motor vehicle had been struck the night before while it was parked on Palmer Street. The motor vehicle was damaged in the driver's side door.

Wednesday, Oct. 28

3:15 p.m.
Officer William O'Neil received a report that a 21-speed bicycle was stolen from Winchester High School. The bicycle, valued at $200, had been locked. On Sunday, Nov. 1, the bicycle was found and returned to the owner.

1:12 p.m.
While on patrol, Officer Steven Fields observed a motor vehicle parked on the sidewalk on Cross Street. As he approached the vehicle, the operator drove away and Officer Fields observed that the registration on the license plate had expired. Officer Fields stopped the vehicle, and a check with dispatch showed that the operator's license had been suspended, and his registration had expired. The operator was cited for operating with a suspended license and operating an unregistered motor vehicle. The motor vehicle was towed.

FIRE LOG

Monday, Nov. 2

■ Engine 3 and the ambulance were dispatched to Watson Place for medical assistance to two men who had been fighting. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 11:22 p.m.

6:48 p.m.
■ All engines responded to a report of a gas stove fire at a Forest Street residence. Firefighters found that a loose gas switch caused a minor flash fire. Firefighters shut off the gas. Engines returned to quarters at 7:08 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 29

7:14 a.m.
■ Engine 3 and the ambulance were dispatched to a Lake Street residence for medical aid. The ambulance transported the patient to Winchester Hospital. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 7:26 a.m.

4:06 a.m.
■ Engine 3 and the ambulance were dispatched to an Everell Road residence for medical assistance. The ambulance transported the patient to Winchester Hospital. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 4:23 a.m.

Tuesday, Oct. 27

6:46 p.m.
■ All engines were dispatched to McCall Middle School on Main Street for a fire.

Upon arrival, firefighters found smoke in a second floor room. A short-circuited ballast had set some wood, insulation, and ceiling tiles on fire. Firefighters used a booster to put out the fire and a smoke ejector to clear the room. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 7:57 p.m.

Halloween graffiti turns offensive

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Halloween mischief turned ugly as two buildings in town were defaced with racist and obscene graffiti.

The Muraco elementary school on Bates Road and the A Better Chance (ABC) home on Dix Street were both the object of malicious vandals on Oct. 31.

Police received a call that some youths wrote a racial slur on the sidewalk in front of ABC, a residence for minority students who attend Winchester High School. According to the President of the board of directors of ABC Sandy Thompson, someone had sprayed "NIGGERS SUCK" on the pavement in shaving cream. The youths were gone before police arrived, and the shaving cream was washed away that night.

Thompson said the incident was "symbolic of some of the racism that exists in town. There's a lot of denial in this community that racism exists."

Thompson said she thinks that the racist attitude displayed by the vandals consists only in a "handful of people", but she said it is important that people are aware of what happened.

"This can be an opportunity ... We can use this in a constructive way ... and examine our feelings about it," said Thompson.

According to police reports, a wall in the playground at Muraco school was covered with obscene graffiti written with black spray paint. Police received a call regarding the graffiti on Sunday morning. Principal Andrea Wong told the Star that someone had been watching the school until 10:30 p.m.

Police said they found vulgar drawings of sex organs, epithets, and obscene language on the wall. Wong said that most of the graffiti was cleaned on Sunday, and the rest would be gone on Monday.

"It's just upsetting," said Wong. "It shows a lack of respect."

Communities collaborate to battle housing fire

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester firefighters helped battle a fire at an elderly complex in Woburn as Winchester Hospital and two Winchester nursing homes handled the displaced elderly.

A fire at the Woburn Nursing Center broke out at 4:07 p.m. on Oct. 30 when gas from a pipe line, which had undergone work earlier in the day, leaked and exploded, blowing part of the roof into a nearby cemetery. The Winchester fire department was called to cover the Woburn fire station 10 minutes after the fire began and were called to the complex on Frances Street to assist in extinguishing the fire at 4:30.

Engine 1 and the town ambulance were on the scene. Winchester firefighters helped evacuate residents from the second floor and put out the fire on the second and third floors. The Winchester firefighters were at the scene for two and a half hours.

Many of the 100 elderly displaced by the fire were brought to Winchester. Six elderly were taken to the Aberjona and Winchester nursing homes, which are owned by the Salter family, who also own the Woburn Nursing Center.

Twenty-three residents are being housed at Winchester Hospital until they can be placed at a nursing home. The hospital also sent health care providers and medical supplies to the Wyman school in Woburn were many elderly were fire taken. Some received medical care at the hospital, but there was no one seriously injured in the fire.

"There was an outstanding response on the part of our employees," said Stephen Laverty, executive vice-president of Winchester Hospital. "Many came from home to lend assistance."

According to Robert Salter, all of the residents should be permanently housed within a few days. He added that the Woburn Nursing Center would be repaired within six months.

Players set for the "Cocktail Hour"

"You see what happens? You arrive here and within a half-hour you've thrown the whole family into disarray. It's happened all your life. Par for the course, my friend. Par for the course."

So complains Bradley to his thirty-something son, John, in A.R. Gurney's sparkling family comedy, The Cocktail Hour. John, a playwright, returns to home to Upstate New York to ask his family's permission to have his autobiographical play produced in New York City. The play John wrote, also titled The Cocktail Hour, lets some skeletons out of the family closet, and although the names have been changed to protect the not-so-innocent, needless to say Bradley and his wife, Ann, have reservations.

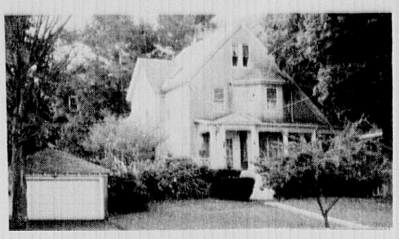

And Nina, John's sister, at first seems more concerned with the number of lines her character has than what John has to say about her. ("I just play a minor role. If I get ulcers, they're minor ulcers. If I die, it's a minor death.")

A.R. Gurney, who brought us such contemporary classics as The Dining Room and Love Letters, is at his witty best in The Cocktail Hour, while also giving us a touch of Pirandello. Comments about theater and, more specifically, The Cocktail Hour itself create a wonderful play-within-a-play. "Nobody likes long plays," says Bradley. "Everybody likes to get it over with promptly, then go to bed."

SENIOR NEWS

FROM THE JENKS CENTER

By Mary Kelly
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Seminar on stroke and heart attack prevention at Jenks

Under the sponsorship of the Winchester Seniors Association's Health Committee, chaired by Dr. Robert M. Smith, a seminar on stroke and heart attack prevention will be presented at the Jenks Senior Center on Friday, Nov. 13, at 10:30 a.m.

Many heart attacks and strokes are caused by gradual deposits of calcium in major arteries of the head and neck. Early recognition of such build-up allows earlier operative treatment and greatly reduced complications.

Pathologist W. R. Green, Ultra Life Inc., Florida, will discuss a new approach to this problem at this presentation on Nov. 13. This new approach involves a device which measures the amount of calcium deposited in major arteries and the degree of blockage. This instrument requires no anesthesia, but simply sends sound waves across the artery to be measured, and from these results the degree of arterial constriction is computed. Since diagnosis of arterial obstruction frequently has been missed until vessels were almost completely blocked this new approach seems to have great promise.

Mark your calendars now! No prior registration is necessary, and there is no charge. All are welcome!

Reminder: quilt tickets now on sale

Seniors are reminded that raffle tickets are now on sale for the colorful and beautifully worked quilt on display in the Jenks Center's lobby. This "Scrapaholic" quilt, designed and put together by so many talented and loving hands, in Jane Norberg's Crafts and Stitchery class, will be raffled off at the Center's Christmas Party on Wednesday, Dec. 9. Raffle tickets are now being sold at the Reception Desk at the Center, $1 each, six for $5.

Parkinson's support group marks anniversary

The following is the second part of a history and statement of purpose of the Parkinson's Support Group which meets at the Jenks Center, as submitted by Allan Tarin, Winchester resident and program coordinator or the group.

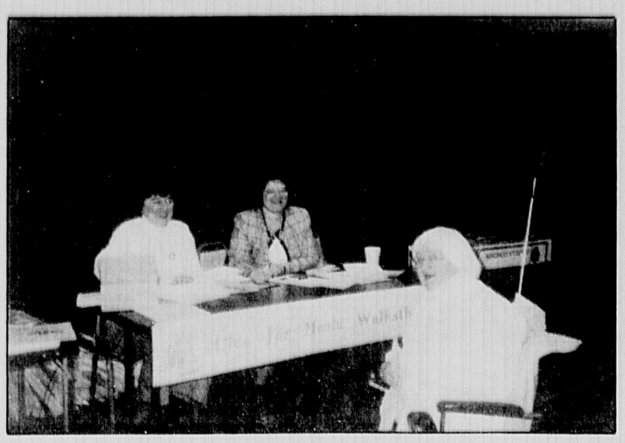

Soon after the group's formation, I approached Barbara Ciampa about getting in touch with professionals in the healthcare field who could provide information about Parkinson's disease. Barbara was more than happy to have the assistance and designated me as program coordinator.

We decided the group would give the direction as to the balance of having speakers versus having group discussions where we shared common experiences. It seemed to be a good mix having a guest speaker every second or third month. Very soon after our first meeting, we started to compile a listing of people's addresses and telephone numbers for the dual purpose of being able to contact them on a monthly basis, to inform them of meetings and, also, allowing people a way of communicating and sharing with each other between meetings.

By February 1991, the group had grown to the point that we needed to move to bigger quarters (the downstairs conference room). Cathi Thomas, Registered Nurse, from the Neurological Referral Center of the Boston University Medical Center, was our first guest speaker. In June 1991, I arranged for Susan O'Doherty, a physical therapist from the North Suburban YMCA, to talk to the group about the importance of exercise and keeping active for the physical health of Parkinsonians. When we have had speakers, the attendance at the meetings increased. In the fall of 1991, our numbers had increased to two dozen. Through personal contacts, I prevailed upon the lead pharmacist at Harvard Community Health Plan (HCHP) in Cambridge to have two pharmacists speak to the group about the common medications used to control the symptoms of Parkinson's disease.

For the group's first anniversary in November 1991, Dr. Peter Mosbach, a clinical psychologist at the Boston University Medical Center, addressed the group on "Coping with Parkinson's Disease." Early in 1992, during one of our sessions, we viewed the tape "Awakenings." In the spring of 1992, Anne Mitchell, Winchester Hospital Chief Dietitian, came to discuss the importance of a balanced diet as well as how a low protein diet seems to be helpful to Parkinsonians. We combined our August/September meeting by inviting Dr. Brian Mercer, Chief of the Department of Neurology at HCHP. He spoke about the latest neurological technology as well as the primary medications used to control Parkinson's.

The Parkinson's Support Group will celebrate its second year of monthly meetings on at the Jenks Center, on Nov. 12, at 10 a.m., with a demonstration of exercises appropriate for Parkinsonians. Guest speaker will be Linda Perry of University Hospital. Perry is a Registered Nurse and holds a master's of education degree.

TV producers and directors wanted!

Mert Ober, Chairman of the Jenks Center's TV Production Committee, has been meeting with the members of the committee who have been trained in the technical aspects of TV production. Members currently on the committee are: Merton Ober, Chairman, Bernard Eyden, Lee Ferrara, George Harris, Ernest Hickin, Marlowe Kirkendall, Claire Mountain, Frank Sennott, M.D., Frank Wilder, and Barbara Ciampa.

These trained seniors have assisted TV Channel 19 with operation of cameras at Town Meeting and other civic events. The committee has obtained appropriate technical equipment to proceed now with production of programs that will spotlight events at the Jenks Senior Center and profiles of various Winchester seniors.

Mert has put out a call for a senior or two to join the committee, someone having experience and skills in program production and directing.

If any senior in town, with these skills, is interested in joining the committee, please contact Mert Ober, 729-0114, or Barbara Ciampa, 721-7136. You would be warmly welcomed to this committee whose future plans include taping events to be shown on Channel 19 on a regularly scheduled basis.

Miles for meals walkathon

Despite the rain and slippery leaves, over 35 walkers participated in the recent annual Miles for Meals Walkathon. Starting at the Jenks Center, participants toured the path along Judkins Pond to Mt. Vernon Street, past the Jenks Center. Others, because of the weather, did their walking stint inside the Center.

Therese Ryan of Winchester will be leaving Nov. 8 to begin two years with the Peace Corps. Ryan's destination is Malawi, West Africa, where, after completing training in Lilongwe, she will work as an HIV/AIDS counselor. "I will do in-service training, design and conduct counseling training programs and assist in the establishment of new facilities as well as working on school AIDS education," Ryan said. Ryan's previous experience includes working with the high risk population as a psychiatric and medical social worker and helping develop social work out reach programs.

Ryan graduated in 1988 from Boston University with a master's degree in social work. She decided to join the Peace Corps to see and experience the world. "I joined the Peace Corps to reach out to people in need with peace and professional skills, because I believe I am a world citizen with an ability to improve lives, I also wanted to learn to better understand the world through friendship," Ryan states.

Adanalian is named vice president of student association

Christian Adanalian, son of Linda and Khosroff Adanalian of Squire Road, Winchester, was elected vice president of the Armenian Student Association at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst earlier this year.

The Armenian Student Association is a student organization at the University founded to provide Armenian students with a forum to exchange ideas and experience Armenian culture.

Adanalian was elected to a one-year term as vice-president and his duties will include planning activities and meetings as well as organizing clerical duties. He is a member of the class of 1994, majoring in English, at the University. Adanalian graduated from Winchester High School in 1990.

Brown is deployed on oiler USS Kalamazoo

Navy Seaman Craig T. Brown, son of Edward F. and Janice M. Brown of Hemingway Street, recently deployed aboard the replenishment oiler USS Kalamazoo, homeported in Norfolk, Virg., to the Mediterranean with the USS John F. Kennedy aircraft carrier battle group.

The battle group is composed of more than 9,000 sailors and Marines, 10 ships, two submarines and a variety of aviation squadrons and detachments. The Navy and Marine Corps, sea-air-land team is capable of a full range of action — from port visits and humanitarian relief to major offensive operations.

Brown will participate in numerous exercises designed to challenge the mission readiness of the ship and crew. The battle group will have the opportunity to make several port visits. The battle group will replace the USS Saratoga aircraft carrier battle group.

He joined the Navy in May 1992.

The Winchester Star would like to remind seniors that there is a discount rate available for the paper. Subscription rates for seniors is $15 a year, and outside of Middlesex County, $25 per year.

Markey gets mandate for new term

By Connie Paige
HARTE-HANKS STAFF WRITER

WALTHAM — The race was over, but U.S. Rep. Ed Markey, the winner, and Stephen Sohn, the loser, were still arguing last night, with Markey calling his victory a repudiation of negative campaigning.

Markey also promised to assert a new national agenda on jobs, health care, education and the environment through his chairmanship of the congressional Subcommittee on Telecommunications and Finance.

"I intend over the next two years to fight for all the things that all of us believe in that have been long delayed by Reagan-Bush obstructionism. I think the next two years could be among the most productive and optimistic our country has seen in a generation," Markey said in his acceptance speech.

Markey, D-Malden, outpolled Sohn in all 17 cities and towns except one in the new 7th Congressional District, which includes Framingham, Natick, Waltham and Weston.

Markey tallied higher than Sohn in Framingham, 15,945 to 8,438; in Natick, 9,476 to 5,254; and in Waltham 12,264 to 7,379. Only Weston went for Sohn, 3,002 to 2,591.

Markey said he won in spite of Sohn's TV ad showing pigs feeding at a trough. The negative campaign, Markey said, showed Sohn was out of touch with the people, just like his fellow Republican, George Bush.

"Instead of focusing on the economy, on the environment, on health issues, they want to focus on the personal, and it has been repudiated overwhelmingly in this congressional district and all across the United States," Markey said.

But Sohn insisted he had not run a negative campaign, and that Markey won because of name recognition — an explanation unconvincing to some voters.

"Who is Steve Sohn? He's the guy with the pig, right?" said John Howland, 50, of Framingham. Howland said he disapproved of negative campaigning.

But Kevin Murphy, 35, of Framingham, said he knew nothing about Sohn or the pig ads, and pulled the lever for Markey because the name was familiar.

"Markey was a name I recognized, and I had no negative association with it. It's not a good reason, but that's why I did it," Murphy said.

As part of a platform focusing on term limits and congressional perks, Sohn used the pig ads to point out, among other things, Markey's 16-year tenure in Congress.

Markey ran on his record as an author or supporter of arms-control, consumer, energy, environmental, human rights and security regulations laws.

As chairman of the Energy Conservation and Power Subcommittee from 1985 to 1987, Markey was the architect of two energy efficiency laws. His campaign estimates the measures will save New England consumers at least $6 billion on energy bills over 20 years and eliminate the need for more than 40 large power plants nationwide.

Recently, he was able to marshall the votes to override President Bush's veto of a bill regulating cable TV.

Markey has also fought for federal funding for the cleanup of Boston Harbor and for a national bill mandating recycling of bottles.

Sohn, 48, is a plastic surgeon on leave from the staffs at Newton-Wellesley New England Baptist, and New England Deaconess hospitals.

Also in the race was unenrolled candidate Robert Antonelli, who failed to appear at three of the four candidate debates. Antonelli did show up at the debate sponsored by the Framingham League of Women Voters, but did not speak.

MULTICULTURAL NETWORK

Parents need to confront old ideas, says local educator

Parents need to challenge the "melting pot" myth in themselves and to appreciate their own cultural backgrounds, according to Valerie Batts of Visions who spoke to an audience of more than 75 on Oct. 29. Batts' visit was arranged by Hillary Turkewitz for Parent-to-Parent, and co-sponsored by the Multicultural Network.

"Success in the Salad Bowl" is the theme of Parent-to-Parent's programs this year, and Batts started the evening by asking the audience how the salad bowl is different from the melting pot. The answers included phrases like, "keeping the crunch, more exciting and interesting, different ingredients," and Batts contrasted those ideas with the concept of assimilation or the "melting pot" idea — the cultural norm that says it's better to be more alike than different. Most adults have grown up with that idea and it is difficult, if not painful, to change. The challenge, she said, is to start to begin to question, and to notice our own reactions — to listen differently.

All of us "catch" misinformation, on both a factual and emotional level, she asserted, but we have an opportunity, through our children, to see what we have "caught." The challenge is to question and correct it, not to blame ourselves or others.

It is important to notice our emotional responses to children when issues of differences come up. How do we react when a child stares at someone with a physical handicap; what do we say when a child notices that someone is of a different race; what is our response when he or she notices that someone looks old? What is the message when we deny those differences? "Differences are," she said, "how do we see what's good about them?"

Batts, a parent of two children herself, says she asks the question "How do I communicate what I believe in?" In order to do that, she feels you have to know your own attitudes, beliefs and feelings. That's where exploring your own cultural background and values comes in. "How do we see differences and similarities?" she asked.

How we express negative attitudes has changed over the years, she added. Various prejudices were expressed openly just a few years ago, but as laws have been instituted designed to address racial and other injustices, those same prejudices went "underground." Since the mid-70s, society has not given us permission to examine the reasons for those prejudices. "We are taught that all people are equal," she said, "but our experience is different."

"The invitation is to start to begin to question," Batts said, and to be open with children. "Children initially resist oppression," she stated, and "there is a child in each of us." Modeling open and accepting attitudes is a powerful gift that each of us can give our children.

Batts said that to create effective multicultural systems. we must work at four levels — personal, interpersonal, institutional and cultural. She said we need processes by which we can examine differences, and we need support, training and rewards for learning new things. Teachers and administrators need support as well as training and resources, she emphasized.

At the end of the evening members of the audience thanked Turkewitz for arranging the program, and many left talking excitedly about the ideas presented. "It was exciting for those of us who worked on planning this program to scramble for more chairs — a clear sign that the community is interested in these issues," she said.

LIBRARY LINES

American Indian stories to be subject of library program

By Richard Welton
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Come to the Winchester Public Library on Saturday, Nov. 7, at 2 p.m. to hear "Sky Tales Of The North American Indians," told by storyteller Yvonne Coleman. Coleman is head of Children's Services at the Winchester Public Library and has told stories to family audiences from all across the country. A direct descendent of Daniel Boone, she has had a life-long fascination and love for nature and Native American culture. Children and their families who attend this program will have a chance to hear humorous and powerful stories about animals and the weather. The program is recommended for ages 6 and up. No tickets or advance registration is required.

This program is intended to accompany the concert by the American Music Ensemble being presented at Town Hall by the Winchester Concert Series on Sunday, Nov. 8, at 3 p.m., which will tell the story of American music from a multicultural perspective.

Children's Room to present program for Children's Book Week

The Children's Room will highlight Children's Book Week, an annual national celebration of Children's Books, with a mini-series of programs entitled "Pictures, Palaces, And Puzzles." On Monday, Nov. 9, and Monday, Nov. 16, there will be sessions for 5 and 6-year-olds; on Tuesday, Nov. 10, and Tuesday, Nov. 17, there will be sessions for 7 and 8-year-olds. Registration for these free programs will begin on Monday, Nov. 2. For information about this program, or any of the Library's services for children, call 721-7140.

Handbook on Americans with Disabilities Act now available

The Americans With Disabilities Act, which mandates accessibility and reasonable accommodation for persons with disabilities, will bring about major changes in the way that businesses and public institutions conduct their affairs. Managers who are planning on how they will comply with this law will find "Accommodating Disabilities," published by Commerce Clearing House, a useful resource. This new "looseleaf" service provides comprehensive information on the ADA. It includes checklists for compliance planning and accessibility guidelines to make compliance easily understandable. There are sections on transportation, telecommunications and related state and federal laws. The service includes an ADA training manual and a subscription to the Accommodating Disabilities newsletter. This resource can be found on the Business Table in the Reference Room.

Be a library volunteer

If the Winchester Public Library is important to you, and you have time to spare, consider becoming a Winchester Public Library volunteer. The library depends very heavily on its volunteers. They donate their time by shelving and straightening books, mending, filing, helping at programs and delivering books to homebound library patrons. Their work frees the staff for more direct patron services. If you are interested in becoming a library volunteer, please contact Barbara Yuan at 721-7171.

Friends of the library publish reading list

The Friends of the Winchester Public Library have just issued "Into The Stacks," a suggested reading list for fall. This annotated list has been prepared by Mary Lou Cowgill, who serves on the Friends' board. It includes the best in fiction and nonfiction, along with Cowgill's critical comments. Copies are available in the library and a copy is available for reference on the New Book Table in the Reference Room.

Friends board to meet on Nov. 10

The Board of the Friends of the Winchester Public Library will have its next meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 7:30 p.m. The Friends will discuss their upcoming programs and listen to a presentation by the Technical Services Department. The public is welcome.

If you have a question or comment about anything mentioned in this column, call the Community Services Librarian at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171.

Local VFW to hold Veteran's Day ceremonies

Charles Lizotte, commander of Aberjona Post 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has announced that the veterans organization will again sponsor ceremonies in Winchester to mark Veteran's Day on Wednesday, November 11, 1992. A small parade will assemble at Laraway Road by the Winchester Common at 10:30 am from where it will march off promptly at 10:45 am. After pausing to place a wreath by the War Memorial at the Lincoln School, the parade will proceed to the Honor Roll at Town Hall to gather there at 11:30 am, the hour of the armistice that ended World War 1 on November 11, 1918. Michael D. Saraco will preside as Master of Ceremonies. Reverend Arline C. Sutherland, Senior Minister of the Winchester Unitarian Church, will offer opening and closing prayers, and brief remarks will be delivered by Thomas W. Schmitt, Chairman of the Board of Selectman, Paul Casey, Representative from the 34th Middlesex District, and School Committee member Edward F. O'Connell on behalf of the veterans of the town. Commander Lizotte and his colleague Dr. James Stygles, Commander of American Legion Post 97, will place a wreath at the Honor Roll. Included in the line of march will be Director Priscilla Miller and the Winchester High School Band, Chief Joseph Perritano and the Winchester Police Department Color Guard, Chief Charles McNutt and a delegation from the Winchester Fire Department, members of the Board of Selectman, Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer,Jr., and Veterans Affairs Officer Dominic Serratore.

Commanders Lizotte and Stygles invite the general public to attend this civic program and to visit the VFW Headquarters at 30 River Street for a social immediately following.

Make-up flu clinic to be held Nov. 12

The Winchester Board of Health, in cooperation with the Jenks Senior Center and the Visiting Nurse & Health Care Inc. will be sponsoring a make-up flu and pneumonia clinic. The clinic will be held at the Winchester Town Hall from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m on Nov. 12.

The vaccine is comprised of three viruses: A/Texas like; A/Bejing like; and B/Panama and is different from what was given last year, so anyone who received a flu shot last year needs to receive another shot this year. The vaccine is recommended for those at risk of developing complications from the flu such as:

persons over 65 years of age.

adults and children who have chronic medical problems such as diabetes, heart or lung problems.

residents of nursing homes or other chronic care facilities.

Those who should not receive a flu shot include anyone allergic to eggs, or anyone on immune suppressant drugs. Anyone who is acutely ill should delay receiving a flu shot until the illness subsides.

The flu and pneumonia clinic is open to all residents and no appointment is necessary.

The Wampanoag Nation of Singers ready for their performance in Winchester.

Ensemble explores American music

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

A local music ensemble will hold its debut in Winchester with a show on the history of American music.

The American Music Ensemble, as part of the Winchester Concert Series, will hold a performance on Nov. 8 at Town Hall. The show will consist of diverse American music such as a scene from West Side Story, native American music, jazz, and black spiritual music. Music Director of the American Music Ensemble Stephen Andre said he intends to take the ensemble throughout the New England area.

Andre, a Winchester resident, said the show is both political and musical. "The music is both delightful entertainment and also thought-provoking," said Andre.

Andre said that the diversity of the music demonstrats the diversity of the American experience. He added that the politics of the music is not one-sided, pointing to both the music of the Wamponoag tribe and the not-so-politically-correct patriotic colonial songs. "All sides of the political spectrum are heard," said Andre.

The production has many nationally known talents, according to Andre. Robert Honeysucker, who has sung with numerous opera companies and symphony orchestras, will sing Black spirituals and work songs from America's slavery period. Semenya McCord, recipient of the 1988 Boston Music Award for Outstanding Jazz Vocalist, will present a set of jazz pieces. Also performing are Judith Black, Avery Sharpe, Jorge Arce, Jayne West, Jean Demart, Mixashawn, Lee Ann Hillmer, the Boston Composers String Quartet, and Johannah Segarich, a Winchester teacher.

Andre is also the artistic director of the Winchester Concert Series. He said starting in Winchester was a natural choice. "Years from now, I hope people will look back and be proud ... because my goal is to make the group nationally known and tour around the world," said Andre.

Andre said the company intends to tour around the country and has some dates for shows at the International Music Festival in France in 1993.

Police rein in robbery suspects

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester police helped rein in six people sought by Arlington police for armed robbery and assault and battery.

According to Arlington police, on Oct. 30 several males in three vehicles were verbally harassing an attendant at the Gulf Station on River Street. Police said that when the attendant asked the men to leave, they physically assaulted him. The men punched and kicked the attendant and took his wallet, which contained no money. The assault and robbery took place shortly after 9 p.m.

While on patrol on Main Street, Winchester Officer Peter Hersee and Auxiliary Chief Donald Halpin received a radio call from Arlington police regarding the robbery suspects when they spotted three vehicles traveling north on Main Street matching the Arlington police description. Police pulled over the three vehicles, a Lincoln, an Oldsmobile, and a Pathfinder, at the intersection of Main Street and Russell Road.

After stopping the vehicles, two of the cars attempted to flee. Halpin stayed with the Lincoln and radioed for assistance. Hersee returned to his cruiser and pursued the Pathfinder and the Oldsmobile. Hersee caught the Pathfinder, but the Oldsmobile fled down Cross Street. According to police, two or three individuals exited the Pathfinder and fled on foot as it was being chased by the cruiser. Arlington police say they have a plate registration lead on the Oldsmobile.

The Lincoln contained three youths and one adult, 21-year-old Rafael Velez, from Chelsea. Police found cans and bottles of beer and a bat in the Lincoln. The Pathfinder had one adult from Topsfield, 19-year-old Christopher Dichiara, and one youth from Chelsea.

Arlington police arrived on the scene with the victim who positively identified the suspects and the cars. All six were charged with armed robbery and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon. The operator of the Lincoln was charged with a minor transporting alcohol.

ABOUT TOWN

American Red Cross holiday assistance program

Although the American Red Cross has been deeply involved in recent hurricane disasters, they still do not want to lose sight of the fact that many local families are struggling to feed their families on a very limited income. This year, as in the past, the group wants to help them through their special "Holiday Assistance" program.

Last year, through the generosity of individuals, schools, churches, banks, companies and organizations, the group was able to assist over 116 families and 355 individuals with gift certificates for food at local supermarkets.

This year due to the current status of the economy, many more requests are anticipated.

Residences can "brighten the holidays" for less fortunate families by sending their Thanksgiving contribution by Nov. 9 and/or Christmas donation by Dec. 7. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross-Holiday Assistance Program and mailed to the Red Cross at 786 Main St., Melrose.

Celebrities raise funds for Stone Zoo

The First Annual Stone Zoo Celebrity Golf Challenge sponsored by Friends of Stone Zoo was held recently at Ipswich Country Club. Crowds of golf fans and zoo supporters were on hand to watch Bob Lobel and Mike Macklin of TV 4 match their skills against Sean McDonough and Bob Montgomery of TV 38. Not only was the event entertaining, but helped raise some critical funds necessary to continue the rebuilding process of the Walter D. Stone Memorial Zoo in Stoneham.

"We are proud to be associated with such a worthy cause," was the sentiment expressed by all four celebrities, "and we look forward to participating next year."

If you missed the live event and want to find out which team won, you can catch the action on SportsChannel.

Words as weapons

Don't call it a harmless prank. We don't buy it.

The person responsible for the racial slur written on the outside of the ABC house on Halloween knew what he was doing. The words were calculated to hurt, and so they did.

The students living in the ABC house can't help but wonder at the commitment of the local residents as they strive within the community toward a better life.

Are the same smiling faces the students see during the day actually filled with hatred and waiting to strike at nightfall? The answer is maybe.

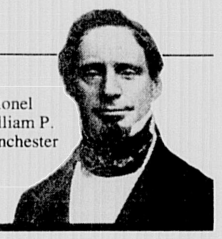

A resident of Winchester, Agnes K. Lugira, in a recent letter about the incident, described her horror when she went to pick up her two children, who were visiting the ABC house and found the graffiti. "I was amazed and outraged ... Racism should not be tolerated. Everybody has a right to live peacefully," wrote Lugira.

There is no doubt that this racist attitude does not represent the majority of Winchester residents. However, if we fail to condemn the actions of these few, it will reflect poorly on us all.

Winchester's last tannery

By Dan Chane
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

For well over 100 years, Winchester as well as Woburn was a center for the tanning of leather, and at one point in time there were six such establishments in town.

The largest of these stood at Swanton and Main Streets, known variously as Moseley's Loring and Avery and finally Beggs and Cobb.

Work at Beggs was dirty, smelly and gruelling but the plant provided a steady livelihood for countless residents of Winchester and Woburn—until a series of labor disputes and a change of ownership spelled doom to the plant.

In 1957, Mr. Henry Remis purchased the Winchester plant, the operations in Dover-Foxcroft, Maine and the Boston sales offices.

At the juncture of affairs he chose to expand at Dover-Foxcroft and shut down operations in Winchester.

Periodically during 1957 demolition was carried out inside the rambling seven story wooden building, and there was mounting concern by Chief James E. Callahan of the fire department over the potential for disaster.

On the brisk clear morning of September 17, 1959, a resident of Loring Avenue noticed smoke billowing from the plant and pulled Box 42.

As the apparatus arrived, Captain Peter Galluffo ordered the general alarm sounded for a blaze that was seriously out of control.

Within fifteen minutes the huge seven story tannery was fully involved from end to end and fire apparatus from as far away as Waltham began arriving in town to help.

Chief Callahan happened to be in Boston at an area fire chiefs conference and received word there at 11:00 am. As he left the state house the ominous plume of black smoke roiled hundreds of feet in the air from the fire at home.

Firefighters along Swanton Street crouched behind steel plates to protect themselves from the intense heat —while plastic shop signs on Main Street melted, and windows of nearby houses cracked from the same heat.

Frank Smith's house on Swanton Street caught fire and was saved by a water curtain. Flying embers also caused fires on Spruce and Tremont Streets-and the awning and porch of Nick Fitzgerald's house over on Washington Street also took fire.

Incredibly, within the hour, the massive tannery complex was gone except for the massive brick firewall rising up starkly from the brick powerhouse and the gaunt iron frame of the water tower.

During the height of the inferno, the round wooden water tank atop the tower-"Beggs and Cobb" in white letters around its circumference-exploded in flames.

As it crashed to the ground on that September morning, over thirty years ago, the last vestiges of Winchester's tanning industry disappeared forever.

The heart need not let go

TERRY MAROTTA
COLUMNIST

In remembering, we visit in thought the ones we knew; climb, filament by filament, laterally across the webs of association; or else upward, along the spidery ladders, past attic-y decades, where sleep the oldest family tales.

The phone rings at 3:15 p.m. It is a friend from the early days, calling from Manhattan, a lawyer now, daily contending. "The hours are long," my friend observes. "I guess they were long when we were kids too, waiting for school to end at 2:30. But by 3:15 you could be outside on a day like this, hanging out in the Sheehy's garage, and it seemed anything was possible."

It seemed so then. We'd play outside 'til the early dusk, stealing each other's bikes, pelting each other with windfall apples, dawdling along on one another's paper routes; and finally burst into our own warm kitchens, almost late for supper, red-cheeked and raw-wristed with the cold, bits of leaves in our hair and the cuffs of our playclothes.

A letter comes from another friend, related not by blood but by the primacy of memory in both of our lives.

He sends one page: a letter by his great-great-grandfather James, written from the battlefield at Fredericksburg, where he fought alongside his brother. It goes like this:

"my Dear Weif and children: i received your leter to day and was glad to hear that you and the children was well. You donte no how Glad i am When i Git a leter from you. i wish that you wold rite oftener i want to no how mutch the pig waid You must save all the money that you can for if i donte come home you and the children will want it...i hope that the lord will spair my life to come home and i blev he will and want you and mother to pray for us and ask in faith and you shal receive whatsoever you ask for.

"...You must take good care of your mother and giv her a few boild potatoes every day. rite all about how you git along and dont be out in the colde if you can helpe it It is very rainy here today. heve you eny snow in new hampsher there? you must rite all the nuse about the war. Tell Charley and Sissy that i wish i could rap up into bed with them this winter and have them little arms around my neck i think if i live long i shall come home all things together for the Good to them that love the Lord Good luck to you all from James M. Jones."

James survived the shells at Fredericksburg, though not the ones at Chancellorsville. But he had fathered that little son, who had a son, who had daughter, who had a son; and that man is my friend, and ally in remembering. At our last high school reunion, someone had brought a display of black-and-white photos of some of us in the ninth grade. I was among them, in a V-necked sweater. When he came by our table, my friend leaned down: "That sweater you're wearing in the old picture? It was green."

I am 19, ringing doorbells in an election campaign with another such student activist. The world is before me, I think: graduate school and foreign sojourns and brave civic poses. Suddenly I see my co-worker in profile and go weak with precognition. I will marry this boy, I know suddenly. I remember this now, when, sleeping beside him, I can still discern beneath the gentled-down skin of advancing years, that young man's chiselled profile.

Robert Frost speaks in a poem about a little child out with big brother picking wild grapes from where they hung high in some birches. He bends a limb down the better for the child to reach them; but being so light, the child is carried skyward when he lets go the limb, and hangs there in terror. "Don't you know anything?," big brother calls. "Let go!" But the child can't, 'til he climbs the branch to bend it down again. "I had not learned to let go with the hands," the rememberer concludes, looking back across time, "As still I have not learned to with the heart."

"I may yet, as I know others have
To wish in vain to let go with the mind
Of cares at night, to sleep,
But nothing tells me
That I need to learn to let go with the heart."

The children we once were; the arms of our little ones tight about our necks; the daily blessing of friendship and memory: of these, I think too, we need never let go.

ON THE RECORD

Over the Halloween weekend, a new American flag was stolen from the flagpole in front of the Lincoln Elementary School. The flag had just been obtained by the school's parent association as part of its efforts to improve the school grounds. Given to the school by Congressman Brian Donnelly's office, the flag had flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. Members of the Lincoln school community expressed dismay over the theft. School officials indicated that if the flag is returned, no questions will be asked.

So goes St. Mary's school, so goes the nation. In a mock election held the day before the national elections, Bill Clinton was the favorite among the teachers, workers, and students, kindergarten through sixth-grade, at the elementary school. The vote, however, was a lot closer at St. Mary's then it was across the nation. The Arkansas governor got 39 votes, President Bush got 38 votes, and Ross Perot got 36 votes. In case you doubt the importance of your vote, one ballot was left blank. Wonder if it would have made the difference for Bush.

The town's water supply may be the major issue for the next few Town Meetings. Even if the changes proposed by Randall Swartz are rejected at Fall Town Meeting, the town, under federal mandate, will eventually have to ante up for a water treatment plant. Town Manager Chadwick Maurer has estimated the cost as between $5.5 and $6.9 million. One person attending the meeting, Assessor Mark Lombardi, said the town shouldn't pay for the system with water rates. "It's just a little budget game they play here so that they can stick it to the ratepayers and then they blame the MWRA," said Lombardi.

The School Committee's first attempt to stick to their 10 p.m. curfew went by the boards. According to the committee's decision, if a meeting cannot be rapped up by 10 p.m., a meeting is scheduled for the next week, but with Election Day the next Tuesday, the committee didn't want to schedule a meeting. Chairman Mark Lombardi said the committee is going to have to work at keeping their comments brief and not repeating things already said. At the committee's last meeting, Lombardi timed member James Evans and pointed out to him that he had spoken nine minutes longer than anyone else. "I think it's everybody's opinion on the committee that the other four talk too long," said Lombardi.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Lincoln parents question loss of school monitors

To the editor:

As presidents of the Lincoln School Parents' Association, we are writing to express our concern over the recent School Committee decision not to fund before-school monitors at our elementary schools. This decision creates an unsafe environment for our elementary youngsters.

Lincoln School has 385 students who enter the building through three different entrances every morning. These entrances are located on two main thoroughfares in the center of Winchester. Both Main Street and Washington Street are especially busy commuter routes at the time children are arriving at Lincoln School. In fact, these two streets are heavily traveled throughout the day.

The loss of a crossing guard at the intersection of Main and Washington Street this September clearly placed the safety of our children at risk already. With this additional reduction of monitors we will have two individuals responsible for insuring the safety of, and supervision of 385 students at three different locations around the building. This is an unacceptable and unsafe situation.

We urge the School Committee to reconsider this decision.

Phyllis Murphy and Margie Harvey

To kill or not to kill

To the editor:

Capital punishment is a controversial issue, and one that poses particular challenges to the judiciary (system) and to the American voter. It is the only sentence that is irreversible and final. Most arguments for and against the death penalty are based on everything from religious concerns to calculating the cost of incarcerating a death row inmate.

Since it is impossible to be entirely certain that a person is truly guilty, are we as a society willing to permit such mistakes? Obviously so, because 37 states have been using the death penalty as a form of punishment. Two decades ago public opinion was not in favor of the death penalty. Over the last decade, the number of Americans favoring capital punishment has increased from 65 percent to 75 percent. Much of the rest of the world has shown the opposite trend. Democratic countries have abolished the death penalty. The United States is the last remaining major democratic country to have returned to capital punishment, without any clear evidence that it promotes public safety.

The question of capital punishment is one that will be coming into focus more in the next few years. On Tuesday, Oct. 20, Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackum stayed the execution of Missouri killer Ricky Lee Grubbs. The next U.S. execution will set a record for the most in a year since the death penalty was restored in 1976. Every year, the U.S. is sending more and more death row inmates to the electric chair. The Supreme Court is now deciding whether or not to limit the number of appeals an inmate is able to receive before being put to their death, even if new evidence is found that could prove their innocence. In the past few years, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist has limited the grounds on which death row inmates can file appeals in federal court, yet the justices have always said that they would take a different view if there were a possibility that the defendant was innocent.

A recent capital punishment case in Texas has put this question of "new evidence" in the hands of the

NEWS NOTES

Casey overrides Gov.'s veto on COLA

Representative Paul C. Casey and his colleagues in both the House and Senate have again offered their strong support for state, county and municipal retirees by overriding Governor William Weld's veto of a cost of living adjustment (COLA) for pensioners.

"It has been a difficult struggle from the start. We have had to overcome two vetoes and countless other obstacles thrown at us by the Administration, but the results have sure been worth the fight," said Casey.

To Casey, the issue is respect and fairness. "our retirees are those who have protected our streets, taught our kids and provided for our elderly. I appreciate those efforts and believe that now, when our retirees find themselves on fixed incomes which limit their ability to meet their own needs, it is only right that they receive this modest increase," Casey noted.

Casey's effort now clears the way for retirees to receive a 5 percent increase on the first $9,000 of their pensions.

Casey announces bonus for veterans

Representative Paul C. Casey, vice chairman of the special commission on veterans affairs, announced recently that Armed Service veterans who were in service during the Gulf War will be receiving a bonus check in appreciation of their efforts on our behalf.

"This is a tremendous victory for all of us who have been fighting for the opportunity to reward our veterans. Many of our state's men and women endured undue hardship by volunteering to protect us. Students involved in ROTC interrupted studies, mothers and fathers spent months away from their children, and men and women risked their lives. I am proud to have had such an active part in providing a little extra to some extraordinary people," said Casey.

In early 1991, State Senate President William Bulger and House Speaker Charles Flaherty established the fund from which the bonuses would be provided. Treasurer Malone, however, held off on the distribution of the raised monies when donations slowed. "It has been difficult at times, but we have finally forced the administration and the treasurer to do the right thing. The money was there, but no one was benefiting from it," said Casey. Casey was instrumental in the release of the allocated funds for Gulf War veterans and those in service during those months at other locations. Applicants must have had a legal domicile in Massachusetts for at least six months before active duty began, been released or discharged under honorable conditions, and had at least 30 days of active service during the period between Aug. 2, 1990 and April 11, 1991. The Office of Veterans' Services emphasize that bonuses will not be paid to eligible veterans until after their discharge or release from active military service, and authentic copies of the applicants' discharge certificates must accompany the applications.

Application forms have been made available through the Veterans' Agents of all cities and towns. In addition, Outreach Center personnel located in Beverly, Fall River, Framingham, Gardner, Hyannis, Lawrence, Pittsfield, Roxbury and Springfield will provide assistance in preparing the applications.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 19-Report No. 44
Massachusetts House and Senate
Oct. 30, 1992

THE HOUSE AND SENATE. The House and Senate met only informally last week and there were no roll call votes. Formal sessions are expected to resume following the November elections.

This week, Beacon Hill Roll Call records local representatives votes on five previously unrecorded roll calls from House action on the fiscal 1993 state budget.

OVERLAY (H 5600) — House 90-64, rejected an amendment replacing the section providing that assessors in cities and towns exempt overlay accounts from the provisions of Proposition 2½. Overlay accounts include money put aside for property tax abatements.

The amendment would allow the local appropriating authority to place the exemption question on the ballot at a regular election for voters to decide.

Amendment supporters said voters, not the legislature, should decide whether to approve this exemption which will result in property tax hikes.

Opponents said this mild change in Prop. 2½ will help cash starved cities and towns. The automatic exemption remained part of the final version of the budget and was vetoed by Governor Weld. The legislature has not yet acted on this veto.

A Yes vote is for the amendment giving voters the power to exempt overlay accounts. A No vote is against the amendment.

Representative Paul Casey voted yes.

HEALTH INSURANCE (H 5600) — House 118-35, rejected an amendment requiring any newly hired state employees to pay 25 percent of the cost of their health insurance. Current state employees pay only 10 percent.

Amendment supporters said this will not affect current employees, but will save the state millions of dollars by making future employees' contribution more in line with the private sector.

Opponents said this increase is unfair to new employees who are struggling during the recession.

A Yes vote is for the 25 percent contribution. A No vote is against it.

Casey voted yes.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT (H 5600) — House 91-50, rejected an amendment reducing funding for the Revenue Department by $9 million (from $104 million to $95 million).

Amendment supporters said the reduction will help balance the budget and argued the $9 million was not requested by the Governor.

Opponents said the $9 million is necessary and argued this funding is cost effective and will enhance tax collections.

A Yes vote is for the $9 million cut. A No vote is against the cut.

Casey voted no.

ENTERPRISE ZONES (H 5600) — House 109-40, rejected a lengthy amendment allowing for the creation and implementation of enterprise zones in the state.

Amendment supporters said this amendment creates a mutually beneficial partnership between business and government. They noted it will provide various tax incentives to attract private sector investment in depressed areas and help create jobs and stimulate business, neighborhood and housing growth.

Opponents said the legislature is working on a better plan and argued major legislation like this should be the subject of a separate bill and public hearings.

A Yes vote is for the enterprise zone amendment. A No vote is against it.

Casey voted no.

URBAN (H 5600) — House 116-31, approved an amendment providing $5 million for a loan and grant program for inner city neighborhoods for job training, business development, health and day care, violence and crime prevention and housing.

Amendment supporters said this is a good beginning of a response to the crisis in many of the state's cities.

Opponents offered no arguments.

A Yes vote is for the $5 million program. A No vote is against it.

Casey voted yes.

LETTERS

Supreme Court. President Bush's administration has taken sides with the Texas prosecutors.

His administration claims that the Constitution "does not guarantee a defendant the right to appeal a trial court judgement of conviction" — even one that may seem wrong today. President Bush is ready and willing to put an inmate to death even though new evidence could prove his innocence. Justice Antonin Scalia says "One has to consider how much damage we do to the criminal justice system; the burden this would put on a system of justice would be enormous."

Justice Scalia is obviously not willing to overlook the financial burden this creates when dealing with a human life. I believe this country's judicial system places a greater concern on financial matters rather than the value of being alive. Over the next few years, the American voter has choices to make and opinions to consider regarding capital punishment: don't let your choice place a value on human life.

Resident thanks fire department for help

This letter was submitted to the Star for publication.

Dear Chief McNutt:

I recently had two occasions to call on the Winchester fire department for assistance. I would like to thank Captain McNutt and his men for their prompt response and for the professional manner in which they handled the situation. I feel Winchester is most fortunate in having these men in your fire department.

Accident victim thanks town and rescue workers

This letter was submitted to the Star for publication.

Dear Friends:

I want to say thank you for keeping me in your thoughts and prayers. The support of the community has been extraordinary and enabling. I know you're all the reason why I can write this letter today.

To the crews that met me at the accident, it looks like you made the right decisions. Thank you. I understand I was conscious as you tended to me, but I don't remember your names. If I did I'd thank you all individually. In its place, please accept this thanks. Rather clearly, I owe you my life.

Diane DeAmato and Bernard Dann

Diane DeAmato is bride of Bernard Dann

Diane Marie DeAmato, daughter of Frank and Joan DeAmato of Winchester, became the bride of Bernard John Dann of Burlington. The bridegroom is the son of Leonard and Elizabeth Dann of Yonkers, N.Y.

The bride's uncle, Father Norbert DeAmato, performed the service at St. Joseph's Church. A reception followed at the Colonial Hilton in Lynnfield.

The bride wore a Bianci white gown with a bodice of pearls, sequins and lace. Her headpiece of sequins and pearls held her illusion veil and she carried Stephanotis, orchards and babybreaths.

Jean Rotondi, sister of the bride, was the Matron of Honor, Bridesmaids were Karen Dann and Jeannette Doll. The Best Man was Harry Dann, brother of the groom. Timothy Dann and James Matessino served as Ushers.

Junior Usher was Gino Rotondi, nephew of the bride, and Joanne Rotondi, niece of the bride, was the Junior Bridesmaid.

The Flower Girls were Katie Doll, the groom's niece, and Marianne Rotondi, the bride's niece.

The bride, a graduate of Winchester High, is an office manager at Datatape Inc. Her husband, a graduate of the State University of New York at Oneonta, is a sales executive with UIS Inc.

Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, Mr. and Mrs. Dann are now residing in Woburn.

Diane Marie Intravaia

Diane Intravaia is bride of Christopher Cipro

Diane Marie Intravaia, daughter of Robert and Phyllis Intravaia of Winchester recently exchanged marriage vows to Christopher Jon Cipro, son of Dr. Robert Cipro of Haverhill and Norma Caserta of Andover at St. Mary's, Winchester. Father George Butera performed the double ring ceremony. A reception followed at the Burlington Marriott.

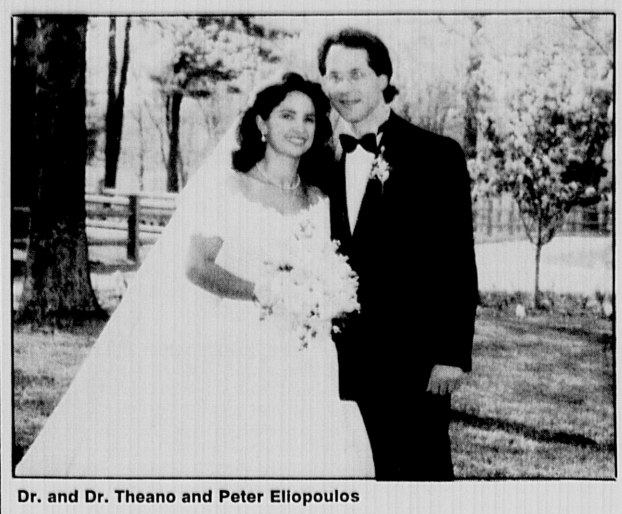

The bride was given away by her father, and chose Patricia Cronin, sister of the bride as her matron of honor and Leanne Intravaia, also a sister of the bride as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Rosemarie DeCicco, cousin of the bride; Patricia Piecz and Lisa Maney, friends of the bride. Laura Anglin, cousin of the bride served as flower girl.

Brian Cipro, brother of the groom, served as best man. Performing ushers duties were Alfred Cronin, brother-in-law of bride; John Merola, Mitch Berger, and Dave Raymond, all friends of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School, Tufts University and Suffolk University Law School. She is employed as an attorney in the law offices of Raymond B. Watstein, Boston.

The groom is a graduate of Austin Prep and Tufts University. He is employed as an operations manager at CTI Inc., Malden.

After a wedding trip to Walt DisneyWorld and Marco Island, Fla., the couple are residing in Andover.

Dr. and Dr. Theano and Peter Eliopoulos

Theano Geraniotis is bride of Peter Eliopoulos

Dr. Theano Geraniotis was married to Dr. Peter Angelo Eliopoulos on Sunday, May 17, at the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary Church in Woburn. The bride is the daughter of George Geraniotis of Plato Terrace. She is also the daughter of the late Lola Geraniotis. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Eliopoulos of Westford.

The bride wore a Priscilla wedding gown of white silk, with off-the-shoulder neckline and fitted bodice, which ended slightly below the waistline in a scalloped edge. The bodice and chapel length train were appliqued with venise lace. Her headpiece was made of a wreath of hand rolled silk roses and venise lace. The veil was three tiered, with the third layer falling over the chapel length train. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, white roses, english ivy and tulle.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Constance Geraniotis of Centerville. Her flower girl was Cassandra Zouzas, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Zouzas of Chelmsford. Best man for the couple was Philip Eliopoulos, cousin of the groom. The ushers included Dr. Van Geraniotis, brother of the bride, and Michael Eliopoulos and Steven Eliopoulos, cousins of the groom.

A wedding reception hosted by the bride's father was held at the Indian Ridge Country Club in Andover, immediately after the ceremony.

Geraniotis is a graduate of Winchester High School, Tufts University and Tufts University School of Dental Medicine. She practices general dentistry in her practice in Woburn. Eliopoulos graduated from the Middlesex School in Concord, Boston College, and Tufts University School of Dental Medicine. He owns a general dental practice in Chelmsford.

The couple reside in Westford, after honeymooning in Carmel, Calif. and in Hawaii.

Jill Cavicchi to wed Mark C. DiCara

Mrs. Marie Cavicchi of Arlington recently announced the engagement of her daughter, Jill Marie Cavicchi, to Mark C. DiCara of Winchester. The bride-to-be is daughter of the late Richard Cavicchi of Arlington. She is a graduate of Matignon High School and a 1990 graduate of Fisher College. She is employed as a kindergarten teacher.

The son of Guido and Maria DiCara of Winchester, the groom-to-be is a graduate of Winchester High School and a 1990 graduate of Northeastern University. He is employed by ABB Impell Corporation.

Jennifer C. Parsignault is bride of Ryan D. Greene

Jennifer C. Parsignault and Ryan D. Greene were married on Saturday, Sept. 12, in a garden ceremony held at the Coldwater Canyon, Calif. home of Greene's mother, Elaine Greene. Receptions were held for the newlyweds immediately following the wedding in California, and one week later, at the bride's grandfather's home in Illiers-Combray, France.

Parsignault, who will continue to use her maiden name, is the daughter of the late Helen M. Parsignault, formerly of Winchester, and Dr. Daniel R. Parsignault, of Winchester and Bali, Indonesia.

The couple honeymooned in France, traveling along the Loire and returned to their home in Hollywood, Calif., where Greene is a recording engineer/producer and Parsignault is a freelance vocal artist and assistant to the managing director of EMI Music Publishing.

WINCHESTER PEOPLE

Polcari congratulates Scout troop 503 leader

Selectman Gerald Polcari is shown congratulating Dr. Stephen Galli, committee chairman of Boy Scout Troop 503, on the occasion of the Troop's 75th Anniversary celebration. Troop 503 has been sponsored by Winchester's First Congregational Church since 1917 and is presently under the direction of Dr. Jeffrey Drazen as Scoutmaster.

The selectman presented the troop with a commemorative medal during its banquet and celebration on Sunday, Oct. 4. Current Troop 503 Scout and adult leaders, Boy Scout council officials, early Scoutmasters William Burrows of Oneida Cir., Paul Dunn of Sussex Road, Lawrence Keats of Summit Avenue, and Ross Farrar from Brookline were recognized. George Whitten, formerly of Winchester, recalled both his own as well as his father's (Robinson Whitten) long service to the troop.

Paul Gleason of Wedgemere Avenue, a former committee chairman, reviewed the history of the troop. Thomas Raphael of Grove Street, presented the history of Winchester Explorer Post 503 which he had recently compiled from the family of one of the post's early advisors, Lawrence E. Beckley. This presentation was followed by a recognition of Raphael's service to the troop by John Looney of Winthrop Street. The evening concluded with a dedication to the ideals of scouting and to the future of the troop by Galli.

Local students join class of '96 at Rensselaer

John Richard Chen and Anthony Bryan Sartin of Winchester have enrolled as freshmen at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Chen, who lives on Thornberry Road, has majored in engineering, while Sartin, of Everett Avenue, has majored in management.

The 1100-member class of 1996 has an outstanding academic profile. According to Rensselaer's admissions office, about 57 percent of this year's freshmen were in the top 10 percent of their high school classes.

The students also attained high standardized test scores. On the Scholastic Aptitude Test, where a perfect score is 1600, the combined SAT math plus verbal scores for the middle percent of the entering freshmen are in the range of 1100 to 1290.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute is the oldest technological university in America. Since it was founded in 1824, many of its graduates have become corporate leaders, scientists, engineers, technologists, and inventors whose work has shaped the modern world.

Lucero is enrolled at Hobart College

Stephen M. Lucero of Winchester has been enrolled in Hobart College as a member of the Class of 1996. He is the son of Thomas and Jeanne Froude.

Ju receives grant from Cancer Society

Shyr-Te Ju, Ph.D., of Winchester, a researcher at the arthritis center in the department of medicine at Boston University, recently received a research grant from the American Cancer Society.

Ju will use his grant to study the role of heat-shock proteins which protect cancer cells during hyperthermia (heat-shock) treatment. He will also study the role of the immune system in heat-shock treatment.

Ju will receive $450,000 over a two-year period, which began July 1.

Ju's grant is one of 38 made to Massachusetts scientists by the American Cancer Society for the second half of 1992. Researchers in the state received a total of $4,496,250 in funding, approximately 12 percent of the amount awarded nationwide.

Grants are awarded twice a year. Funds for research are obtained primarily through contributions from the public raised by American Cancer Society volunteers.

Local residents on loan to United Way

Winchester residents Donald J. Leete, Jim Mangan and Anthony F. Mulone are lending their time to help our community become a better place to live.

Mulone, Mangan and Leete, along with more than 100 other individuals, are presently on loan to the United Way of Massachusetts Bay as fund-raising consultants.

Their participation in the United Way Loaned Executive (LE) program makes it possible for the United Way to raise funds to serve the needs of more than 1.7 million people who benefit from its family of more than 200 human and health care agencies covering 81 cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts.

The majority of LEs are personally selected by their organization's chief executive officer, and are relieved of their regular organizational responsibilities to work full-time for the United Way during its annual three-month campaign.

LEs come to the United Way with diverse career experiences and backgrounds, enabling United Way to increase fund raising capabilities without incurring additional administrative costs.

United Way's 1992 Loaned Executive recruitment chair Robert A. Shafto, president and chief executive officer of The New England, said, "Each year, United Way's LE program continues to grow and attract high quality, dedicated volunteers. That's important because the community's need to have a successful campaign is greater now than ever before."

Brown is deployed on oiler USS Kalamazoo

Navy Seaman Craig T. Brown, son of Edward F. and Janice M. Brown of Hemingway Street, recently deployed aboard the replenishment oiler USS Kalamazoo, homeported in Norfolk, Virg., to the Mediterranean with the USS John F. Kennedy aircraft carrier battle group.

The battle group is composed of more than 9,000 sailors and Marines, 10 ships, two submarines and a variety of aviation squadrons and detachments. The Navy and Marine Corps, sea-air-land team is capable of a full range of action — from port visits and humanitarian relief to major offensive operations.

Brown will participate in numerous exercises designed to challenge the mission readiness of the ship and crew. The battle group will have the opportunity to make several port visits. The battle group will replace the USS Saratoga aircraft carrier battle group.

He joined the Navy in May 1992.

EnKa Society held fall town meeting

The EnKa Society recently held its fall meeting at the Parish of Epiphany. President Nancy Clarke presided and called for reports from various officers and committee chairmen. Nancy McMahon, vice president, reported three members had passed away since the June meeting.

Sandy Alla spoke in memory of Pat Buros, Kate Shoemaker in memory of Helga Spencer, and Peg McCreery in memory of Marion Wright. Danice O'Neil, gifts committee chairman, announced gifts to the following: Winchester High School Music Trip, Winchester High School Russia Trip, Boy Scout Troop 507, Winchester-Roxbury Tutoring Program, Town of Winchester Design Review Committee, Winchester Foundation for Education Excellence and The Winchester Concert Series.

Terri Stevens, an EnKa Exchange chairman, reported the Exchange moved to its new and permanent location, 1037 Main St. The Exchange has been very busy and is well stocked with good used clothing, the public is invited to bring in clothing on consignment, Wednesdays only. The shop is open Tuesday, Friday, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Wednesday, Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Clarke presented to the Building Search Committee with a plaque to be placed in the Exchange. The members honored for their commitment to finding a permanent home for the Exchange were, Gerry DeGeorge, Pam Boerner, Joyce Cummings, Nancy McMahon, Patty Mac Hewitt and Louise O'Donnell. Pat Byrne, civic chairman reported a donation check had been given to the Meals-on-Wheels Program. There will be a Christmas workshop to make gifts for VNA patients.

Mary Jo Sliney, social service chairman, reported plans are underway to prepare and deliver holiday baskets for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Judy King and Jane D'Entremont, "Field of Dreams" Fair chairmen, reported the fair will be held May 14 and 15. The meeting concluded with the 33rd annual fashion show. Provisional members modeled various clothing from the exchange. Mary Knox was the commentator and Sandy Alla provided piano accompaniment.

Christmas fair thank you extended

A successful fair was held by The Westley Garden Club Seniors, Oct. 17, in the Community Hall.

We thank the following who donated to our raffle: two Bruins tickets (on the ice) — a special friend; generous donation — Senator Charles Shannon; certificate for spiral sliced ham — D'Agostino's; Purity gift certificate — a friend.

To the men who worked in the kitchen from morning coffee right through lunch, thank you.

Finally, thanks to all or members and friends, especially to the people who came to our Christmas fair.

Said Albano, "I would like to thank all the people who worked very hard everywhere, in Winchester, all over. It was a real grass roots effort."

Rep. Paul Casey (D-Winchester) will also be returning to the State House as he handily beat his opponent Brian Broad (R-Stoneham). It will be Casey's third term.

Casey received 13,733 in the 37th Middlesex District with 8,856 votes from Winchester and 4,877 votes from Stoneham. Broad pulled in 5,248 votes with 2,863 votes from Winchester and 2,385 from Stoneham. The district consists of all of Winchester and precincts 2,3,4, and 6 in Stoneham.

"My hometown really pulled through. In the other kid's hometown we beat him convincingly," said Casey in a telephone interview with the Star.

Casey said he looked forward to his third term as one in which he could be more proactive than defensive, as he says he has been because of the state's financial troubles. Casey said his third term will be about "getting the state back on its feet in all capacities."

Reached at his home by the Star, Broad said he was satisfied with the race he had run. "I think I ran a good issue-oriented campaign. There were no personal attacks ... no negative campaigning," said Broad.

Broad concedes that the relationship between himself and Casey was not cordial. "I was disappointed in the attitude of Representative Casey ... He seemed offended that he had to campaign, that he didn't have a free ride," said Broad.

Casey said he felt that Broad shouldn't have run simply for the sake of making sure Casey had an opponent, as Broad had stated during a debate earlier in the campaign.

"You don't run just for the sake of running ... That's one of the most empty reasons for running that I can think of," said Casey. "If you want me to be his friend ... because he tried to take my job ... I find that unacceptable."

Broad said he may seek public office again. "I wouldn't rule it out," he said.

Perhaps. But The Cocktail Hour will certainly be an exception to Bradley's personal dramatic theory. It's the type of play that leaves you wanting more. And, as John points out, people might raise their voices occasionally, but nobody screams and shouts. "And are they going to take their clothes off?" Bradley asks. "No, they won't do that. I promise. This play's about us, Pop."

The Cocktail Hour, directed by B.J. Williams and produced by Dirck Stryker and Alice Connolly, will be presented on Nov. 6, 7, 8, 13, 14 in Metcalf Hall at the Winchester Unitarian Church, 478 Main St. The Nov. 8 performance begins at 7 p.m. All other performances begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $9 general admission, $7 students and seniors. For reservations call 721-1814.

Federal Heating adds to sales force

Donald W. Paquette has joined Winchester-based Federal Heating & Engineering Co. Inc. as a sales representative.

Paquette, a Marlboro resident, is responsible for fuel oil sales to suburban homeowners and small businesses west of Boston. Prior to joining Federal Heating, he served as sales representative for Bay State Gas Company and Whale Oil Company. "Don has an excellent background in the energy field," said Brian LaPointe, vice president of sales at Federal Heating. "His knowledge will be of benefit to our customers."

Founded in 1951, Federal Heating is a fuel oil dealer which specializes in both the residential and small business markets. According to LaPointe, the company is currently expanding its sales force in the residential and commercial areas of the business. "Our goal is to continue our growth in the suburbs north and west of Boston," said LaPointe.

SCHOOL NEWS

High School engages in year-long study

Winchester High School is currently engaged in a yearlong self-study which precedes an evaluation, in the fall of 1993, by the Commission on Public Secondary Schools of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. NEASC membership requires that a school undergo a self-study and formal evaluation at least once every 10 years.

A Steering Committee, comprising Jean Johnson and John Ritchie as co-chairs, and Janice Dolan, James Smith and Robert Boyd as members, has organized the self-study process, which will continue throughout the 1992-93 school year. Prior to his move to the central office, Thomas Budrewicz served as a co-chairman of the Steering Committee.

Each faculty member will serve on two committees during this school year: one to study the philosophy, structure and strengths and weaknesses of each of the departments; and one to study the school "standards," including curriculum and instruction, student services, school facilities, school climate and other important areas. In these latter "standards" committees, parent representatives will be needed and desired. Those interested may call Jean Johnson, at 721-7020.

A first step in the accreditation process is the development of a school philosophy and statement of goals. At its Oct. 13 meeting, the Winchester School Committee approved the following statement, written by the Philosophy Committee and ratified by the WHS faculty:

The full development of all students' potentials requires a school climate in which they can safely continue to generate awareness of their true selves and build self-esteem, a climate which does not favor expression of prejudice and which does allow for and celebrate individual differences. Fundamental to an understanding of their roles in the broader world around them is an appreciation of various cultural perspectives and a recognition of their own personal links to local, national, and global issues. Since the school is a community of learners, it is essential that WHS foster and approve growth and change not only for adolescents, but also for adults.

The following is a statement of goals drawn up by the Steering Committee:

1. The school will accept all students as they are, as people of worth, without regard to race, color, creed, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, physical handicap or socioeconomic status, and accepts the responsibility to provide them equal educational experiences.

2. The challenge of excellence is to inspire all students to reach their highest individual potentials. The school will provide the opportunity for intellectual and artistic growth through curricula which incorporate critical and creative thinking, problem-solving, and risk-taking.

3. A good school climate calls for the development of self-discipline through the establishment by consensus of limits and boundaries. The school must provide a setting where learning will take place without fear of making errors and without intimidation by students or teachers.

4. The school will encourage open communication among all members of the school community.

5. Basic human respect is a touchstone of a healthy school climate. The school must foster an environment that is positive, encouraging, challenging and safe.

Sixth grade outdoor experience gets high marks

The motto of the sixth grade students and staff participating in the Winchester Outdoor Experience was "play hard, play safe, play fair." Principal Vandy French and his staff designed a three-day outdoor experience within the borders of Winchester which replaced the traditional out-of-town camping trip. The three part project included a tour of Winchester, a nature walk and team-building exercises on Manchester Field.

Several adults from Project Adventures worked with students and staff using various problem-solving games, role plays and team activities to galvanize cooperation and respect for teams and individuals.

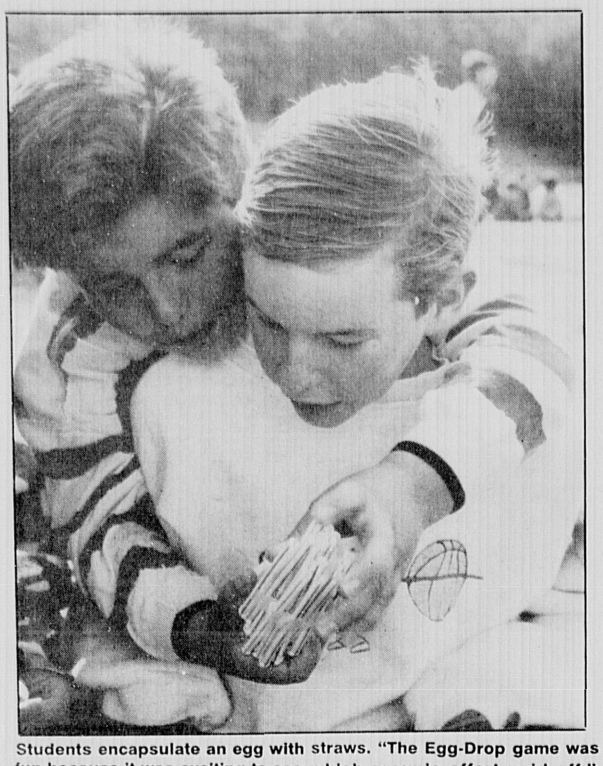

Winchester Trails volunteers trekked around the Fells with small groups of students. One student shows the breadth of knowledge gleaned on this nature walk. "Walking the Winchester Trails, I learned a few things about nature. For instance, I learned how a larva grows inside a gall and that it is camouflaged like an acorn, blueberry or cherry to be protected from animals. I also learned that it takes a lichen about 25 years to grow to the size of a quarter. I especially liked standing on Indian Ridge and looking out over Winchester."

While students inspected flora and fauna in the Fells, other students surveyed the downtown architecture with faculty member Bill O'Connor. "I liked the historical walk with Mr. O'Connor because I learned a lot about all the factories and the background of downtown Winchester. I also thought the slides that Mr. O'Connor showed were fun. It was interesting to see the changes Winchester has been through," said a sixth grader.

French sums up the experience in one word, "Successful. There was tremendous teamwork all round. The faculty brainstormed and planned the program; the volunteers in the community added their time and expertise; and the students brought their energy, creativity and intelligence. We'll fine tune the program to ensure an even stronger Outdoor Education Program for years to come."

On Oct. 15, 75 first-graders and 15 chaperones visited George Hill Apple Orchard in Lancaster. Apple picking, cider pressing, and even an apple theater kept everyone busy for the entire outing. A mid-day picnic was also enjoyed by all, even the bees!

Students encapsulate an egg with straws. "The Egg-Drop game was fun because it was exciting to see which group's effort paid off." None of the eggs broke when dropped from a height of seven feet.

Winchester High senior runner Sarah Bonnell (Colby sweatshirt) is most comfortable out in front of the pack.

Bonnell driven in run for first

By Jerry Spar
SPORTS EDITOR

She won five dual meets this season, which would be enough to please most runners.

Winchester High School CROSS COUNTRY

But Winchester High junior runner Sarah Bonnell knows she can do better. In fact, she has before.

"Right now I think I'm not as strong as I was sophomore year," she said. "I think I can get back to that level."

Winchester coach Joe Cantillon is also aware of the predicament, but he does not blame Bonnell's effort.

"It's kind of an interesting situation," Cantillon said. "I think she's in the best shape of her life, but her times have been slower than they have been as a freshman or a sophomore."

The apparent reason for Bonnell's slight dip is an injury she suffered last fall, when she developed hip and knee problems. She has worked her way back to the Middlesex League elite, but has yet to duplicate her earlier times.

Neither Bonnell or her coach are worried, though, because they expect to see her shine during the rest of the running season.

"I think she's positioning herself for a terrific winter and spring season," Cantillon said. "She's very versatile. She can run any race, and has run everything from 400 meters to the 2-mile."

Bonnell is already looking forward to the outdoor track season.

"Spring track is definitely my favorite," she said. "It's outdoors and it's shorter than cross country."

Bonnell has also had her most success running the mile, winning the race at the Middlesex League meet last year. She hopes to improve on her personal-best time of 5:35 this season.

A two-time league all-star heading into this season, Bonnell has combined with another two-time all-star, senior Ray Regan, to give Winchester's girls' and boys' cross country teams a top-flight contender in each race.

"Every so often we get interesting combinations of a boy and girl runner," Cantillon said. "It's been a long time since we've had one dominant male and female. I think the last time was 10 years ago."

Despite Bonnell's success, the Sachemettes finished the season 2-7, culminating with last Friday's 25-34 loss to Woburn at Horn Pond. Bonnell won the race in 20:21.

"I think we'll be better next year," Bonnell said. "Since I've been here, this is our best year — two wins. We had one win last year and none the year before. So we're showing improvement."

Said Cantillon, "The girls team is gaining more experience, but for a lot of them it's their first year running. I've seen a lot of progress for both teams."

A member of the Liberty Athletic Club since the seventh grade, Bonnell will try to make a mark in a bigger pond beginning Saturday when she competes in a state meet at Franklin Park.

Winchester boys 'n' the Hoods

Twins Dave and Eric Hood quietly play key roles in Sachems' success

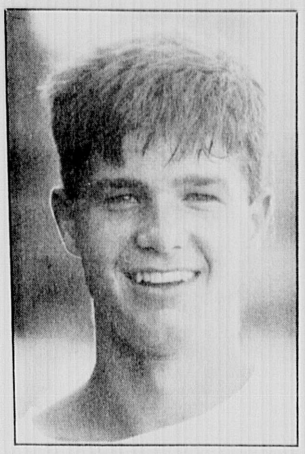

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

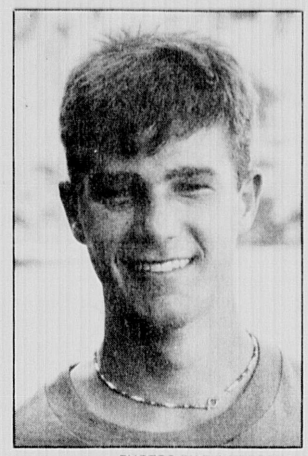

About the easiest way to tell identical twins Dave and Eric Hood apart is if they're wearing their soccer jerseys. Eric wears No. 8; Dave, No. 18.

In fact, the Hoods, arguably the two most unheralded players on the Middlesex League-champion Winchester High School boys' soccer team, are often distinguished only by the fact that Dave plays sweeper and Eric plays halfback. The seniors, both 17, are that similar.

Dave has started on defense for three years under Winchester coach Gene Bouley. He had some big shoes to fill this year when he was assigned to the sweeper position, left vacant when Middlesex League All-Star Mike Cramer graduated. Hood made the change effortlessly.

Winchester went on to set a school record by posting shutouts in the first seven games of the season. Dave anchors a defense which includes keeper Andy Nolan, fullbacks Jeff Rotondi and Jamie Lanzo, and stopper Dave Middleton.

Twins Dave (left) and Eric Hood played important roles in the Sachems' league title run.

"Dave is small for a sweeper," says Bouley. "He doesn't have the physical size most sweepers have, but he plays the ball very well. He never gets outjumped for a ball, and he's never out of position."

Dave very often clears the ball in the direction of his brother, the team's right halfback. Once Eric gets the ball, he knows exactly what to do with it.

"I just try to get the ball to Shaun (Oliver, Winchester's league-leading scorer)," says the younger (by 10 minutes) Hood. "He does the rest."

Bouley, however, gives Eric, also a three-year starter, much more credit.

"Part of what makes Shaun so good is the way he and Eric work together," claims Bouley. "They're a great team. They've played together so long (since third grade) that they have a real feel for each other."

Bouley says that what sets the Hoods apart from other highly skilled players is their mental attitude on the field.

Sachems earn right to be called best top to bottom of Middlesex League

By Jim McKenzie

The Winchester High School boys' soccer team clinched the Middlesex League championship for the first time since 1988 with a 5-1 victory over Watertown last Friday, Oct. 30, at Skillings Field.

Winchester High School SOCCER

The game was delayed about 20 minutes as Watertown had trouble getting a bus. With darkness promising a shorter game, Winchester hoped to get off to a quick start.

Playing without two starters, fullback Jamie Lanzo and centerhalfback Jeff Tahnk, Winchester exploded for three goals in the first five minutes against and never looked back. Brian Taylor got things started for the Sachems, picking up a loose ball at the 18-yard line and smoking it into the top right corner of the goal just two minutes into the contest.

Peter Manning connected for his third goal in five games 26 seconds later, tipping in a Shaun Oliver cross for a 2-0 lead. Eric Hood completed the early blitz by taking a touch pass from Peter French and converting at five minutes.

Sachems leave shutout in their Wakefield

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

Winchester High School football coach John Donohue had reason to dance last Saturday.

Winchester High School FOOTBALL

Though he wouldn't admit he was doing a little jig as reporters approached, no one would have blamed the Sachem mentor, whose team had moments earlier finished pinning a 27-0 thrashing on Wakefield at Knowlton Stadium.

"A shutout is really nice," said Donohue, after watching his club limit the Warriors to just 77 yards of total offense in moving back above the .500 mark (4-3). "We've worked really hard all season for this."

Winchester's offense looked like that of a Super Bowl contender as it rolled over Wakefield for 254 yards of rushing yardage. No fewer than 11 Sachems carried the pigskin on the day as Donohue sent wave after wave of talented runners at a beleagured Warrior defense.

John Rauseo led Winchester with 69 yards on nine rushes, while halfback Josh Carroll (4-49) and fullback Mike Szczepanski (7-47) kept the Warriors guessing. Wakefield's inability to stop the triple option left Warrior coach Ray Boghos steaming after the game.

Winchester's Josh Carroll breaks away for a big gain during Saturday's victory over Wakefield at Knowlton Stadium.

"That was the worst loss ever," Boghos fumed. "We were humiliated. We've gone over (controlling the option) all week. Everyone had an assigned man and nobody did their job."

The Sachems' first drive stalled when Rauseo was sacked by Wakefield's Pat Doyle on the Wakefield 35. Wakefield responded with its best drive of the day, but it wasn't much. The Warriors covered just 29 yards in 12 plays before punting the ball back to Winchester.

WHS golfers first at Div. 2 qualifier

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

A day before the Winchester High School golf team's biggest match of the season, the Division 2 North Shore and Greater Boston Golf Championships, Sachem senior co-captain Mike McGinty offered the following prediction.

"If we were ever to win this thing," said McGinty, "Coach (Dave) Miller would go nuts."

Buoyed by the tremendous performance of junior Dave Fiorentino and a solid team effort, Winchester pulled off the shocker, capturing the crown after defeating 12 other schools last Thursday (Oct. 29) at Brookline's Putterham Meadows.

Winchester, with a team score of 329, bested North Andover (330) and Ipswich (332), the tournament co-favorites. Coach Miller's Sachems became the first-ever WHS team to qualify for the state championship, which will be held June 7, 1993, at a Central Mass. site.

"This is no question the biggest thing to happen in Winchester High golf history," said Miller. "To be the top qualifier in the whole sectional is quite an accomplishment."

Fiorentino, the team's best golfer over the past two seasons, fired a 76, which tied him with two other golfers for the tournament's low score. The impressive showing came on a course Fiorentino had played just twice.

While Fiorentino was holding court at the top of the leader board, McGinty was busy carding an 81, another low score considering

WHS field hockey on rise

Sachemettes complete campaign with high hopes for future

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

Success is defined differently by different people. Some may consider anything less than a championship season an unsuccessful year, while others might consider a trip to the postseason or a .500 record a milestone.

At Winchester High, the field hockey team has floundered for years. With no clear direction, the sport was nearly dead in Winchester. But something changed this year with the arrival of coach Michelle Palumbo. Palumbo, a 1989 graduate of the University of New Hampshire, came to Winchester with only one thing on her mind: turning around a dying program.

With the season now complete, the analysis is clear: mission accomplished.

Starting from scratch at preseason camp in late August, Palumbo took a team of willing young girls and fashioned a team of winners. Though the team won just one of its first eight games, including an 0-5 start, the Sachemettes turned the corner with a tie against Woburn on Oct. 1, and went on to finish at 4-12-2.

Though the final record might not appear overly impressive, Palumbo has nothing but praise for her team.

"They made my first year as a coach a great year," Palumbo said. "I remember walking into preseason and saying, 'Where are we going to be?' But there wasn't one game when I was disappointed with their effort. They never, ever gave up. They've come such a long way."

Winchester placed one player on the All-Middlesex League team, senior Rose McCaul. In a letter sent to the Star, McCaul expressed her feelings about the season, and the impact new coach Palumbo had on the team.

"She picked this team up and instilled her winning attitude in all of us," McCaul wrote. "We played hard and with a lot of poise at every game. Throughout the season we worked day in and day out to become a better team. We practiced hard and intensely, making sure to have a few laughs along the way.

"We learned that this new coach was going to do wonders for this team. People began to recognize the Winchester field hockey team. Michelle Palumbo changed our formation, she changed our attitude, she changed how a lot of other teams will look upon us in the future.

"Along with our outstanding coach there were my outstanding teammates. It sometimes takes more courage to be on a losing team than a winning one. My teammates all played hard and with a lot of heart throughout the season.

"The season came to an end last season at Woburn High School. For the eight seniors it was a roller caoster of emotions. It was disappointing and sad because we lost 2-1. But there was also a feeling of happiness because in our heart we would always be winners.

"I will truly miss the game I started four years ago with jv coach Jan Keefe when I didn't even know which side of the stick to use. I will also miss the teammates, the fans and the competition which I loved the most. Watch for the WHS field hockey team in the future because coach Michelle Palumbo will take them to the top."

McGinty had only played Putterham once.

Senior Brian LaPointe and sophomore Jeff Lucero each scored 86, which was the team balance Miller was hoping to see.

"Dave shot a great round on a course he doesn't know well," said Miller. "When you have a kid come in with a 76, it gives you some play on the other end."

Winchester must now wait until the conclusion of the spring season to compete for the state title. Miller isn't sure what effect the long layoff will have on the team.

"Other teams may have an edge," said Miller, "because they will have been competing for a couple of months, but hey, we've never gone this far, so it's a whole new realm for all of us."

Winchester's Shaun Oliver, shown in action from a recent game at Belmont, finished the regular season as the top scorer in the Middlesex League.

Sachem soccer best in field

"We did exactly what we wanted to," Sachem coach Gene Bouley said. "We said we wanted to go out and put the game away early and we were able to do that. I'm very pleased."

Oliver, who captured his second straight ML scoring title, made it 4-0 late in the half when he took a pass from Matt Fuller, raced down the sideline, shook three defenders, and sent in a ball which deflected in off a Watertown defender and into the goal.

Henry Kayulu scored on a penalty kick three minutes into the second half to make it 5-0. Watertown's Rudy Dela Rocca ruined the shutout bid of Sachem goalies Andy Nolan and Andrew Pywell, beating Pywell after a wild scramble in front of the Sachem net midway through the second half.

Sachems prep for states

Winchester moved to 16-1-1 after the victory against Watertown. Tuesday's game with Woburn was postponed due to rain until Wednesday. Since the state tournament seedings were scheduled to be announced Wednesday evening, Bouley and Woburn coach Peter Hantzis agreed to cancel the game if the field was still unplayable Wednesday afternoon.

With a win or cancellation, Winchester was expected to be the top seed in Division 2 North, while a loss would drop them no lower than fifth.

Meanwhile, the WHS girls' squad was left in limbo. One point up on second-place Burlington, the Sachemettes regular season finale against Woburn was also postponed Tuesday. It was rescheduled for Wednesday. A win or tie against Woburn would have given Winchester its third straight Middlesex League championship, and its ninth in the last 10 years.

As with the boys, a win would have guaranteed the Sachemettes the top seed in Division 1 North, while a loss could have dropped them as many as three spots.

Sachemette swimmers finish strong

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

It has been a season of challenges for the Winchester High School girls' swim team, which has seen meet after meet come down to the wire before a winner was decided.

But as has been the case throughout most of the season, Winchester (5-2) had enough to fend off its last regular-season challenge, slipping by a much-improved Lexington squad, 48-37 on Saturday, Oct. 31, at Northeast Voke.

"It was the best meet of the year," said quad-captain Patti Williams. "It was really close and very tense."

With several Winchester swimmers being adversely affected by the highly heated pool (creating humidity problems), the Sachemettes needed solid performances out of some new faces in order to turn back the Minutemaids.

They got them from the 200-yard freestyle relay team, which turned in a first-place showing to give Winchester some breathing room late in the match. Freshmen Sarah Rotondi, Rebecca Malatesta and Nadia Tagliavento teamed with senior Allison McKay in winning the race in 1:59.55.

The four Sachemette captains, seniors Julie Buchanan, Tara Juwa, Heather Manahan and Williams, put the meet away with a win in the 400 free relay.

Three Sachemettes were three-event winners. Williams won the 50 free in a personal-best 27.13, and took the 100 free in 1:01.66, another personal best. Buchanan added firsts in the 200 medley relay and the 100 fly to her win in the 400 free relay. Juwa took the top spot in the 200 IM and the 100 breaststroke.

Winchester was scheduled to compete in the Middlesex League meet on Thursday, Nov. 5, at Bentley College in Waltham.

Hood twins peak

"With both of them," says Bouley, "it's their intelligence. They always make the smart play, the thinking play."

Not suprisingly, the Hoods are as impressive in the classroom as they are on a soccer field. Dave, who is ranked 13th in his senior class, carries a 3.97 grade point average. Eric, who is 17th in the class, is just behind in GPA, at 3.92.

The brothers, who plan to attend college together, have their hearts set on Cornell. They both intend to try out for the Cornell soccer squad, but say that education is the most important thing.

Well, almost the most important. First there's the little matter of the Division 2 state soccer tournament, in which Winchester is one of the favorites to win the championship. Both Hoods hope to be on a state champion team, but as their subdued personalities suggest, neither is too stressed out about it.

"I want to go further than before," says Eric. "If we play well and lose to a good team, that's fine. But it would be nice to beat Danvers (which eliminated the Sachems last season)."

Dave, one of the Sachem tri-captains, says that the team's lone regular season loss, a 4-0 blowout at the hands of Belmont two weeks ago, could serve as the helpful reminder.

"All season long we were winning," he said. "Belmont reminded us that we can lose. We don't want to have that feeling again."

SPORTS BRIEFS

Winchester Soccer Club seeks players

The Winchester Soccer Club is planning to field boys' soccer teams in the Middlesex League next spring in the under-16 and older age divisions.

Since boys in these age groups do not participate in the fall developmental program, separate registration is necessary to determine the level of interest.

If interested in playing in the under-16, under-17 or under-19 divisions, boys born between Aug. 1, 1973 and July 31, 1978 should call the appropriate coordinator no later than Nov. 12 for more information.

For boys born Aug. 1, 1976 through July 31, 1978, call Don Wright at 729-6817 or 494-2751. For boys born Aug. 1, 1973 through July 31, 1976, call Don Sutton at 721-2228.

Winchester Soccer board meeting Nov. 12

The Winchester Soccer Club Board of Directors invites all members and the public to attend its annual meeting on Thursday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m., in the Lincoln School gym.

The board will review fiscal 1992 performance, and the WSC Board of Directors for fiscal 1993 will be elected.

Bigelow heads adult hoop camp

Winchester's Bob Bigelow, a former NBA player and first-round draft choice, will be directing a new adult basketball skills program at the North Suburban YMCA at 137 Lexington Street in Woburn.

Bigelow is currently a New England-based scout and director of the country's only skill development camp for college players.

The program, for players of all levels and abilities, runs five consecutive Sundays (Nov. 15-Dec. 13) from 3-4 p.m. The fee for this five-session course is $45 for YMCA members and $55 for non-members. Enrollment is limited. Call Bob Bigelow at 729-6134 for more information or mail an application to Bigelow at 69 Church Street, Winchester, 01890.

Boys grades 7-8 basketball tryouts

Winchester Youth Basketball has scheduled tryouts for its boys' traveling teams.

On Monday, Nov.9 and Thursday, Nov. 12, 6th graders are invited to show up for a tryout at the Lynch School from 6-7:30 p.m.

For more information, contact Bob Morrison at 721-2290.

Girls grades 7-8 basketball tryouts

Winchester's 7th and 8th grade girls' traveling team basketball tryouts will be held Monday, Nov. 9 at McCall Junior High School from 6-8 p.m.

For additional information, contact Maria Montuori at 721-4743.

General youth basketball signup

Winchester Youth Basketball announces signups for girls and boys grades 3 through 8, at the Knights of Columbus, on Thursday, Nov. 5, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Learn to skate program Nov. 20

The 1992 Winchester Youth Hockey Learn to Skate program has been scheduled for Friday Nov. 20, from 5-7 p.m. at Medford's Flynn Rink.

The program teaches basic skating skills to children ages 3 and older. Among the skills which will be taught are skating forwards and backwards, hockey stops, snow-plow stops, puck control and directional control.

Skaters are divided into groups according to their ability. Older, more experienced skaters will be eligible to play clinic hockey games as their skills improve.

For more information, including an application, contact Winchester Youth Hockey, P.O. Box 145, Winchester, 01890, or call Ron Martignetti at 720-1313.

Winchester Badminton begins 60th season

The Winchester Badminton Club, one of Winchester's oldest continuing organizations, has started its 60th season.

The club is a recreational organization open to all adults and meets twice weekly, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings (7:30-9:30), at the McCall Junior High School on Main Street in Winchester.

All levels of racquet sport skills are represented by the club members and players, whether experienced or not, are invited to attend any or all sessions, which will continue through March, 1993. Play consists primarily of doubles. Dress is athletic/casual.

Now an olympic sport, badminton played on a hard surface indoors is very unlike the game people play in their backyards. Badminton played in clubs such as Winchester places no premium on age, size, strength or gender, but emphasizes finesse, reflexes and thinking; all due to the relatively small court area and the speed of the shuttlecock of over 100-plus miles per hour to a tantalizing crawl.

If interested, players may attend any session, or for more information contact Ray Jenkins of the Winchester Badminton Club at 729-0807.

High Intensity Basketball Camp

The men's basketball coaching staff of Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill will be conducting its High Intensity Training Basketball Camp on Nov. 27-29 at the NECC gym.

The camp is open to freshman through senior high players and is designed to prepare players for the first day of practice. The camp will stress conditioning, agility and shooting skills, designed to be especially helpful for athletes who have participated in fall sports.

The boys' session will be daily, 9 a.m.-noon, and the girls will go from 1-4 p.m. The cost of the camp is $50 for the three sessions. Any school that has five or more players in a session will receive a 20 percent discount on all fees.

Space is limited, so early registration is advised. For more information or a registration form, contact coach Mike Rowinski at (508) 373-0810 (home) or (508) 374-3822 (school).

Maccabiah seeks swimmers over 35

The United States Maccabiah Team is seeking swimmers age 35 and over to compete in the Masters Division of the 14th World Maccabiah Games, to be held July 5-15, 1993, in Israel.

For more information, write or call the U.S. Committee Sports for Israel at 1926 Arch St., 3rd Floor, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103, or call (215) 561-6900.

Hockey camp in Saugus Nov. 23-28

The Northeast preseason Hockey Conditioning Camp, for boys in grades 9-12, will be held Nov. 23-28 at Kasabuski Arena in Saugus.

The program will be held Nov. 23 and 24 from 4:10 p.m.-5:50 p.m., Nov. 25 and 27 from 2:30 p.m.-4:10 p.m., and Nov. 28 from 2 p.m.-4:10 p.m.

Tuition for the program is $95. Participants must wear full hockey equipment. Helmets and mouthpieces are mandatory.

For more information, contact Muse at 662-2551, McCarthy at 665-3563 or White at 246-0227.

Easter Seals, Celts sponsor Shoot-Out

Hundreds of area youngsters have received invitations from Boston Celtics star Kevin McHale to participate in the 1992 Easter Seal/Boston Celtics Basketball Shoot-Out. Local schools and youth organizations have also been invited to participate.

"We know kids like to shoot baskets in their yards, their neighborhoods and churches," said McHale, the Shoot-Out chairman. "Kids can take part in the Easter Seal Shoot-Out on their own or at their schools."

Youngsters participating in the Shoot-Out collect pledges from family and friends for each basket shot during a three-minute period. A parent, teacher or coach signs off on the number of baskets completed. The shooter collects his or her pledges and sends the money to Easter Seals to fund services for people with disabilities.

Last year, nearly 5,000 youngsters raised $150,000 in Basketball Shoot-Outs all over Massachusetts. The top 100 fund raisers joined McHale and Dee Brown in the Boston Garden for a special basketball clinic.

This season, 100 winners will attend the clinic at Boston Garden on March 26, 1993.

For more information, call David Lamacchia at 1-800-922-8290.

Blazers win tourney

The Winchester Blazers took first place in the Pingree School Columbus Day Soccer Tournament in Hamilton.

WINCHESTER ACHIEVERS

Winchester, playing the under-14 Division 1, won all four of its games, outscoring the opposition 36-2 on its way to the gold medal.

Local sailing honors

Peter Gustin of Winchester High School and Rich Canzano, a Winchester resident who attends Belmont Hill School, were recently announced as members of the New England Schools Sailing Association's 1991-92 All-New England Sailing Team.

Gustin was named one of NESSA's 10 best sailors while Canzano was one of the best crew members.

Sachems' defense stifles Wakefield

The Sachems took advantage, rushing the ball on 11 straight plays before Ed Russo scored his first touchdown of the season. On the scoring play, Russo took a Rauseo pitch near the left sideline, skirted the linemen, and dove across the goal line for a 15-yard TD. The PAT rush was muffed, but Winchester had a 6-0 lead.

Winchester got the ball one more time in the half, with 1:21 remaining, and went into a hurry-up offense. On the first play from scrimmage, tight end Todd Sundstrom and receiver Sean Furey teamed up to make what Donohue called "the hit of the season" on Wakefield defender Chris Francis, dropping the red-faced Warrior in his tracks and springing Rauseo for a 28-yard pickup.

A 15-yard swing pass to Brian Lindmark put the Sachems on the Wakefield 5, and Lindmark followed a host of blockers into the end zone on the next play. Rauseo ran in on the conversion virtually untouched, as Winchester opened a 14-0 lead with six seconds left in the half.

Rauseo, whose play at safety has lifted the Sachem defense in the past two weeks, picked off Wakefield QB Mike Murphy and raced 58 yards for the back-breaking score just 3:34 into the third quarter, as Winchester opened a 20-0 lead.

"The defense is playing better and better each week," said Donohue. "John made a big play on that interception."

It was three plays and out for Wakefield on its ensuing possession, before Winchester picked up its final score after a quick, six-play, 62-yard drive. An outstanding run by Carroll, who spun away from four different tacklers, set up a two-yard plunge by Szczepanski to close the scoring.

This week: Melrose

Melrose comes to town Saturday tied for second place in the ML with Woburn; both teams are 4-1-1 (5-1-1 overall). Melrose is coming off an emotional 28-13 upset of tumbling Stoneham. The Red Raiders have one of the league's top defenses, having allowed just 56 points. Winchester will have to work especially hard to crack the Melrose defense, which limited Stoneham's vaunted rushing attack to just two late rushing TDs.

Game time at Knowlton Stadium for the last Sachem home game of the season is 1:30 p.m.

COMING EVENTS

WHAT'S GOING ON IN YOUR AREA IN THE COMING WEEKS

Local breastfeeding support group

La Leche League of Winchester, a support group for breast-feeding mothers, holds meetings on the third Tuesday of each month in the Michelson Room of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Nursing mothers are welcome to attend with their babies. Pregnant women considering breastfeeding are also encouraged to attend.

The Winchester meeting is open to mothers from any community. Local group leaders are available to answer questions and provide information both at the monthly meetings and by telephone.

La Leche League is an international nonprofit organization whose purpose is to offer help and mother-to-mother support to women wanting to breastfeed their babies. The local group meetings provide an opportunity for nursing mothers to meet informally and share their experiences.

A lending library of books on childbirth, breastfeeding and child care is also available to members. For further information, call Nancy, at 729-1163, or Sophia, at 396-7329.

Free morning and evening beginner step classes

The Energy Connection is offering one-half hour of free beginner step on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. at the Jenks Center and on Fridays at 9 a.m. at Crawford Methodist Church. Come and learn the basics of this great conditioning workout. Steps are provided. The Energy Connection has a full schedule of morning and evening fitness classes. For information call Marie Dacey at 729-7268 or Linda Vacovec at 729-3256.

Class of 1977 reunion

The Winchester High School Class of 1977 will hold its 15th year reunion on Friday, Nov. 27, at the Winchester Knights of Columbus.

A mailing with details will be going out shortly. The Reunion Committee would appreciate current addresses for anyone who is not at the address listed in the high school records. If any of the class knows of anyone who has moved, please help the committee get in touch with them.

Any class member with ideas or an interest in helping with the reunion is encouraged to call.

Please call or send address changes to Denise Driscoll Wyer, 228 Forest St., Reading, Mass. 01867, or call at 942-2891.

Music Society to sponsor sight reading in Nov.

On Sunday, Nov. 15, the Music Society will sponsor an open sight reading of Mozart's "Requiem" in the choir loft of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. The "Requiem" will be directed by Suzanne McAllister and accompanied by Louise Mundinger on the Fisk organ. This occasion will afford Winchester residents an opportunity to meet McAllister, the new minister of music at the Parish of the Epiphany. Soloists rehearse at 1:30 p.m. and singers at 2 p.m.

Putting on the glitz

Winchester's A Better Chance ("ABC") will hold its tenth annual benefit dance on Friday, Nov. 6 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Winchester from 8:30 - 12:30 p.m. The dance theme is "Putting on the Glitz" — Prom Nite Revisited." Everyone is encouraged to come in "Reminiscent Attire" including their wrist corsages and boutonnieres.

There will be a cash bar and people may bring their own snacks. A silent auction will take place during the evening, providing everyone with a chance to bid on sports tickets, weekend getaways at summer and winter homes, as well as merchandise from the local merchants.

Proceeds from the dance and silent auction will help support the boys currently living at the ABC house in Winchester and attending Winchester High School, who have been selected for the program based on academic ability and other outstanding qualities. Tickets may be purchased by contacting Dot Butler at 729-8436. Donations are always welcome. We look forward to seeing many old friends and do hope to attract some new faces to this fun event.

Magic and miracles for kids at Nov. 14 gala benefit

A magical night will take place on Saturday, Nov. 14, when hundreds gather to dine, dance and bid on auction items at the Hyatt Regency Cambridge.

"Keep the Magic Alive" is the night's theme for the Fifth Annual Boston Dinner Dance and Silent Auction to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Yolanda and Officer Bill (Connell) are the honorary co-hosts of the event which is expected to draw about 500 guests to compete in the annual "silent" auction to benefit the children of St. Jude.

A $125 ticket admits participants to this evening of non-stop excitement. Only once a year can guests bid on items, dine, dance to the sounds of the Cartels, be entertained by a roving magician and more, while changing money into miracles for children fighting cancer.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded 30 years ago by the late entertainer Danny Thomas, whose dream it was to help find a cure for childhood cancer. Attendance at "Keep the Magic Alive" on Nov. 14 will help insure the continuance of New England success stories.

Octets in concert

The Winchester High School Octets will hold a concert with the chorus and "The Russians" on Sunday, Nov. 22, 3 p.m. at the Winchester High School Auditorium.

Tickets are on sale at Book Ends, Carlson Real Estate, WHS Music Department and at the door. Prices for admission are $10 for adults, $3 for students, $5 for seniors and $25 for families.

Christmas Goose Fair to be held at Church of Epiphany

The Christmas Goose Fair will be held at the Church of the Epiphany, 70 Church St., on Friday, Nov. 13, from noon to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Featured will be a wide variety of handmade items, baked goods, antiques, plus the creations of many professional crafts people.

A cafe will serve gourmet refreshments and a Friday night supper, and there will be a Children's Fair on Saturday morning. Admission is free and proceeds support the work of the Women of Epiphany.

Chocoholics announce "A Chocolate Sunday"

Members finalized plans for 'A Chocolate Sunday' to be held Sunday, Nov. 22, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mahoney's Garden Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Recreation, the event will provide delicious confections from top chocolatiers and bakeries for only $10 for adults and $5 for children under twelve. Held in the conservatory at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, guests will be able to mingle through the "enchanted forest" of Christmas trees while sampling some of the finest sweets. Since the event is being held the week prior to Thanksgiving, guests will be able to purchase their favorite delights to share with family and friends.

The Friends of Winchester Recreation provide a variety of services and programs for adults and youth. What a great way to spend a Sunday afternoon — supporting a worthwhile cause and satisfying your sweet tooth!

Tickets can be purchased at various Winchester businesses including Craddock Apothecary, 22 Church Street and Carlson Real Estate, 552 Main Street. For more information feel free to call Freya Surabian, chairwoman of the event, at 729-4911 or Dotty Volpe-O'Malley at 729-0058.

Auditions for Rock for Youth

Auditions for Rock for Youth will be held at Town Hall, Nov. 13, 7-10 p.m.

The audition is open to all high school and/or 18 plus bands. Those wishing to audition will pay a $25 returnable entrance fee, should play at least one cover, and will be judged on musicianship, showmanship and general appeal.

There is a fee of $2.50 to judge. Five winners play in the annual March 27 Rock for Youth concert. Call 729-2437.

Breakfast at Epiphany

A breakfast to benefit the Meditation Room at the Winchester Hospital will be held in Hadley Hall, Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St., on Saturday, Nov. 7, at 9.30 a.m.

Tickets cost $5 for adults and $3.50 for children and may be obtained by calling 729-5083 or 729-5054 or by contacting a board member of Church Women United through any local church.

The breakfast menu will include ham and eggs, home fries, orange juice, homemade muffins, coffee, tea and milk. Background music will be provided by Tad Hitchcock, guitar, and Valarie Walton, woodwind. The funds raised by the breakfast, which is being planned by Barbara Fickett and her committee, will enable Church Women United to continue its service of providing flowers and decorations for the Meditation Room.

Tables set at Northeast Metro for business EXPO'

Tables may now be rented for the Business Expo sponsored by the Northeast Metro Tech PTO. The Business Expo will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 18, from 4 to 9:30 p.m., in the cafetorium of the school, 100 Hemlock Road, Wakefield. This is also the night and date of this year's first Parent-Teacher Conference. The Business Expo tables are rented to raise money for the Northeast PTO's Scholarship fund and general fund. There will be a table of raffle items such as a gingerbread house and again this year, culinary students will be selling baked goods and refreshments. Other shops, groups and classes will be participating also.

For more details about the Business Expo please call Robin at 935-4868. The public is invited to attend, and there is lots of free parking.

Jumelage Winchester St. Germain-En Laye fund raiser

Programs for children

Karate programs for kids

Students in these classes will learn the basics of Karate. Kinder-Karate and Karate will expose your child to group dynamics, emphasize gross motor development, balance, coordination, and respect for others. Classes consist of warm-up exercises, basic blocks and strikes, and the use of a Karate bag. There is a class for children age 3 to 6 called Kinder-Karate on Tuesdays from 6:15 to 7 p.m. Kinder-Karate course number is 925-PS-01A and has a fee of $34. Karate class is for children age 7 through grade 5 and is on Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m. Course number is 925-ES-01A and has a fee of $37. All classes are at the Lynch School and begin Nov. 10, running for six consecutive weeks. The instructor, Dan Lynn, is a second-degree black belt who has been teaching Karate for more than nine years. Please call the Recreation Department at 721-7125 for more information.

Deck the halls this season

Welcome the holiday season with Priscilla Carter by making three special holiday crafts to decorate your home or to give as gifts. This four-session class will begin with a special Thanksgiving project, the class will work up to our final project: a children's size gingerbread house complete with shredded wheat roof and gumdrop landscape. A $10 materials fee to the instructor will be collected at the first class. There will be a course for children age 4 to kindergarten starting Monday, Nov. 16 — course number 925-PS-02A; grades 3 to 5 starting Tuesday, Nov. 17 — course number 924-ES-04A; grades 1 and 2 starting Wednesday, Nov. 18 — course number 924-ES-04B. All classes run from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. in the Lynch School art room and have a course fee of $28.

Thanksgiving goodies to make

Thanksgiving isn't just for great smelling turkey! Students in grades 3 through 5 may join Madeline DiCiccio as we make a wonderful basket and wreath that your whole family will love! These special decorations will be more fragrant than home-baked apple pies. A $12 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class. This one-session class will take place in the Vinson-Owen art room on Wednesday, Nov. 18, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Course number is 924-ES-03A and has a registration fee of $9.

Special events

Eighth annual ski & skate swap is coming

The Recreation Department & Council on Youth will sponsor the eighth annual Ski & Sports Swap on Saturday, Nov. 14, at Lynch Elementary School. In this community service project and fund-raiser, residents bring used skis and skates to be sold, get 80 percent of the sales price, and find wonderful bargains on "new" equipment. We also sell new equipment and selected ski clothing and cross country equipment at reduced prices. Equipment to be sold may be delivered Friday night from 5 to 7 p.m. or Saturday from 11 a.m. to noon at the Lynch School Gymnasium. Equipment will not be accepted after noon on Saturday. (Out-of-date equipment will not be accepted.) The sale is from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 14.

Pickup of equipment not sold and/or sale vouchers is from 4 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 14. The Recreation Department will retain 20 percent of the sales price of each item. Items priced $5 or less will be considered a donation.

Christmas Pops

If you see several buses filled with festive people going through town on Friday night, Dec. 18, it will be the Recreation Department heading into see this annual holiday event. If you want to be a part of the festivities and not left out in the cold waving, you must order your tickets today! First balcony seats are guaranteed. These hard to come by tickets are $39 per person and include transportation. Buses will leave from the Winchester High School at 6 p.m. for the 7:30 p.m. performance on Friday, Dec. 18. Maximum four tickets per registration. Winchester residents receive priority through Nov. 20. To order by VISA or MasterCard call 721-7126, 24 hours a day.

Programs for adults

Make a pillow quilt (new)

Keep warm this winter under a lap quilt you make yourself. This terrific holiday gift folds into a neat pillow when not in use. A supply list will be available upon registration. This two-session class begins on Friday, Nov. 6, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Lynch School. The fee is $28.

Homemade quilted holiday ornaments (new)

Start a tradition in your family. Create cherished ornaments that can be handed down from one generation to another. In this one-session class, you will make three different ornaments. A supply list will be available upon registration. The class will be held on Friday, Dec. 4, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Lynch School. Fee is $16.

Additional date for victorian tree

Because our first class filled up so quickly, we have added an additional date for this popular class. Decorate a beautiful, miniature, 15-inch Christmas tree with roses, baby's breath, berries, dried flowers, ribbons, and pearls. To enhance your holiday experience, you may scent your finished design with balsam fragrance. Please bring a glue gun, scissors and wire clippers. A $30 materials fee is payable to the instructor. This workshop takes place on Monday, Nov. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the High School cafeteria. The fee is $18.

Try advanced crocheting

This course is for those who have a basic knowledge of the fundamental crochet stitches and would like to know more intricate stitches and understand how to read patterns. We will have several patterns to choose from to make that perfect holiday gift, or you may bring a pattern of your own. Please bring a skein of yarn and a crochet hook to the first class. This five-session program will be held Thursdays beginning Nov. 12, from 7 to 9 p.m., in the High School. Fee is $35.

More classic French cuisine

Impress your friends and family with a classic French menu. Let our expert show you how easy these dishes are to prepare! The menu will include fresh chicken liver and cognac pate, green salad with classic French dressing, pork roast, spaetzle (an Alsatian noodle), and raspberry sherbet for dessert. Come enjoy the tastes and smells of France! A $10 food fee is payable to the instructor. This one-session class will be held on Thursday, Nov. 12, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the High School cooking room. Fee is $18.

Attend a runners workshop

Whether you just began or have been running for years, this workshop is for you! Topics covered include postural evaluations, gait testing, preventing injuries, stretching and strengthening techniques. The instructor will also emphasize motivational skills. Dr. Fitts has been in private practice in Winchester for seven years and works with world-class athletes. This class will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Winchester Chiropractic Center. Fee is $8.

Drop in on afternoon STEP aerobics

Feeling tired at the end of the day? Revitalize yourself by exercising with us on Wednesday afternoons. This class consists of a warm-up, strength and flexibility exercises, an aerobic component utilizing the Reebok Step, and a relaxing cool down. Participants are encouraged to work at their own pace and are always welcome to walk around the room during the aerobic component. Class is held at Lynch School on Wednesday from 3:14 to 4:15 p.m. for the next six weeks. Fee is $4.50 per visit.

Try co-ed volleyball

Come enjoy a great game of volleyball! Teams will be formed by the participants to maximize the fun. Volleyball is held every Wednesday, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Lynch School. Groups meet only when school is in session. Fee $2 per week.

How to decrease your child's college costs

Parents of college-bound high school students will find this program invaluable! In it, you will learn to lower the cost of college, nursing, or technical school for your child and save thousands of dollars yearly. No matter how high your income or the cost of the school, you will be able to afford to send your child to any college or university. Areas covered include: maximizing your eligibility for financial aid; making the equity in your house work for instead of against you; and selecting investments that help fund an education rather than increase the cost. This one-session class will be held on Thursday, Nov. 12, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the High School. Fee is $14.

Registration information

Registrations for any of our programs/events are accepted in the Recreation Office, Lynch School, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Call the 24-hour registration line at 721-7126 to charge on VISA or MasterCard.

COMING EVENTS

Bartlett School plans holiday fair

Bartlett School, 40 Samoset Road, is holding its third annual Holiday Craft Fair on Saturday, Nov. 14, in the school auditorium. The fair will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All are welcome.

Each Bartlett class will be exhibiting their own selfmade crafts, alongside local professional craftspeople. Fair items will include homemade baked goods, a white elephant table, homemade caramel apples, snacks, and raffles every hour.

Be early to save up to 65 percent off retail prices on clothing by very famous makers (so famous, we can't mention names) for ladies, girls and boys. Labels intact.

There is still some open table space available for craftspeople to rent and sell their wares. Tables are $25.

Please contact the Bartlett School for more information.

Special Education overview

Continental Cable local channel TV-19 will televise the Winchester PAC presentation "Overview of Winchester's Special Education Programs" on Thursday, Nov. 5, at 8 p.m. and on Friday, Nov. 6, at 12 p.m. This presentation was made by Mr. Frank Bianco, Special Education director, and his staff and originally held on Wednesday, Oct. 21.

The Christmas Goose Fair at the Parish of the Epiphany will be Nov. 13 and 14. Holly Hamstra of the Hospitality Committede and Ellen Wilson, fair chairman, are shown with the goose.

Fair opens on Nov. 13 at Church of Epiphany

The holiday season will be in full bloom at the Christmas Goose Fair at the Church of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. Opening on Friday, Nov. 13, from noon to 9 p.m., the fair will continue on Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the members of the parish will be offering home-baked goods and jams and jellies as well as hand-knitted items. Again this year the white elephant table will rival a real antique shop, with fine merchandise and good prices. There will also be books and jewelry, holiday items and giftware to suit every need, taste and pocketbook.

The Christmas Goose Fair is also a craft show, with some of the most outstanding and talented crafts people in the area exhibiting their creations and making them available for purchase. One of the most enjoyable parts of the fair is the Gourmet Cafe that will be in operation throughout the two days, offering snacks and light meals, and in addition there will be a delicious chicken supper on Friday night. The younger set will especially like the Children's Fair which will feature fun and games on Saturday morning.

The popular Parish of Epiphany cookbook, with all its wonderful recipes, will be for sale, and would make a great gift for any culinary expert or would-be expert. Admission is free and everyone is cordially invited to a delightful holiday event!

GMC Truck Typhoon

Engineering prowess takes market by storm

It runs zero to 60 in under six seconds. It has 285 turbocharged and inter-cooled horsepower, all-wheel drive, four-wheel anti-lock brakes, a spacious leather-lined cabin with seating for four and attention-grabbing good looks.

With complete composure and a little drama, this vehicle stormed into the automotive marketplace in 1992, creating a legendary reputation for its American manufacturer. Built just outside of Detroit, the vehicle is the GMC Truck Typhoon.

Typhoon — a two-door compact sport utility that blows the doors off most high-performance cars. This super-quick super truck is a technical showcase for GMC Truck's advanced technology and engineering. A limited-production vehicle. Typhoon exemplifies the way GMC Truck uses engineering prowess to accomplish the mission of each vehicle in the Division lineup.

Typhoon exemplifies the way GMC Truck uses engineering prowess to accomplish the mission of each vehicle in the Division lineup.

For 1993, this outrageous sport utility continues to offer a limited number of enthusiasts a most brilliant and civil blend of luxury. versatility and awesome performance.

New England International Auto Show continues at Bayside Expo

BOSTON - Four hundred New England auto dealers have brought nearly 500 new 1993 models from 27 domestic and foreign manufacturers to Boston for their nine-day viewing at the 36th annual New England International Auto Show, being held through Nov. 8 at the Bayside Exposition Center.

While strong performance remains an important factor in the new models for 1993, buyers are also interested in quietness, smoothness and reasonable fuel efficiency. What buyers will see in 1993, therefore, is a polite and efficient increase in power delivered by a growing number of multi-valve four-, six- and eight-cylinder engines.

According to Reed Exhibition Companies, producers of the event, more than 450,000 people are expected to see the 1993 models during their visit to the Bayside Exposition Center.

While strong performance remains an important factor in the new models for 1993, buyers are also interested in quietness, smoothness and reasonable fuel efficiency.

"Ours is one of the first and certainly one of the largest shows that mark the official start of the new car season,": says Garry Edgar, group vice president of REC's Auto Show Group. "The 1993 fleet of new vehicles officially went on sale Sept. 26, and the New England Auto Show is typically one of the country's most heavily attended because it's held almost immediate after the new cars hit dealers' lots."

Car makers who will be showing their vehicles at the auto show include: Audi, BMW, Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Dodge, Eagle, Ford, Geo, Honda, Hyundai, Infiniti, Lexus, Lincoln, Mazda, Mercedes, Mercury, Mitsubishi, Nissan, Oldsmobile, Plymouth, Saab, Saturn, Subaru, Toyota, Volkswagen, and Volvo.

Admission to the show is $7 for adults, $2 for children 6-12; children under six are admitted free. Local newspapers and participating new car dealers have $1 discount coupons available; the newspaper coupons are worth $2 Monday through Friday.

Hours are: Nov.. 4-6, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Nov. 7, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and, Nov. 8, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Engineering prowess takes market by storm

of technical, exterior and interior enhancements designed to augment and refine the existing package. These enhancements include:

- A returned rear suspension that delivers better road feel, reduced harshness and increased maximum lateral acceleration.
- An overhead console provides two reading lamps plus a convenient storage area for sunglasses and a garage door opener.
- A standard leather trim driver's seat featuring 6-way power adjustments and power lumbar support.
- A front passenger seat now featuring power lumbar support as standard equipment.
- A door-activated illuminated entry offering additional nighttime convenience.
- Addition of a cargo area convenience net that keeps packages and gear secure — a much appreciated benefit when lapping a skidpad or autocross course.
- A new body-color grille and bolder tailgate graphic enhancing Typhoon's aggressive appearance.
- A new monochromatic white-on-white exterior color package.

Raw Power and Refinement

Typhoon offers a distinctive blend of explosive power and refined accommodations. Its basic attributes include:

- The 4.3-liter turbocharged and intercooled V6 engine.
- A four-speed automatic overdrive transmission.
- Full-time all-wheel drive.
- Leather-trimmed front sport bucket seats, rear seats, steering wheel, interior spare tire and door and quarter panel trim inserts.
- A folding rear seat to provide a spacious 67.3-cubic-foot cargo area.
- A front fascia with integral fog lamps, rear fascia, and aero moldings on the front fenders, doors, rocker and quarter panels — all Syclone-styled features — make Typhoon's aggressive good looks a head-turner at every corner.

CAR OF THE WEEK

Typhoon offers a distinctive blend of explosive power and refined accommodations. Its basic attributes include the 4.3-liter turbocharged and intercooled V6 engine.

CAFE ON THE GREEN
AT THE HOLIDAY INN

1200 BEACON ST., BROOKLINE 566-8875

Any day can be Thanksgiving at Publick House!

Miss Polly's Family Style Turkey Dinner.

With all the trimmings, plus appetizer & dessert.

$69 for a table of four.

Come and enjoy a traditional New England Thanksgiving feast with friends and family, hosted by Miss Polly, who has greeted guests at the Publick House for over 50 years.

Dine in one of our historic rooms and feast on tender roast turkey from local Bennett Farms, carved tableside with all the trimmings.

It's a complete dinner, starting with appetizers and seasonal salads and topped with freshly baked pies for dessert. All for $69.00 for a table of four; each additional guest is $15.00. The larger your party the bigger the turkey. And we'll wrap up the leftovers for you to take home.

This offer is not available on holidays.
Reservations are required. Please call:

THE WINCHESTER STAR

VOLUME 111, NUMBER 46 | SERVING THE RESIDENTS OF WINCHESTER SINCE 1880 | THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1992

INSIDE THIS WEEK

COMING EVENTS

■ Controversial Herald columnist Don Feder will be giving a speech at St. Eulalia's Church on Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. on "Abortion and the Challenge to Western Civilization." The church is located on Ridge Street in Winchester. The event is sponsored by the Arlington/ Winchester Mass Citizens For Life.

NEWS

■ "Positioning yourself to buy a home", a program for low to moderate income families interested in buying a home, will be held on Thursday, Nov. 19 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the public meeting room of the Winchester Public Library. This will be an opportunity to: find out about the process of buying a home; review what is available in the Winchester market; and discuss individual housing needs. Sponsored by the Winchester Interfaith Housing Corporation. For further information, contact Candace Margles, 729-5600.

■ For the convenience of our readers and advertisers, The Winchester Star has switched from standard ink to "No-Rub" ink. The use of "No-Rub" ink will substantially reduce the amount of ink that comes off the newspapers when handled.

■ Correction: Independent candidate for Congress Robert Antonelli received 1,107 votes in the Nov. 3 election, not 728 as was reported.

SPORTS

■ Winchester's Julie Russo gets rid of the ball just before a Peabody player converges on the play. The Sachemettes defeated the Tannerettes last Friday in the state tournament's opening round but were upset by North Andover in a shootout on Sunday. The WHS boys also lost in the second round. See sports pages for the full story on Winchester's tournament appearances as well as the WHS football team's comeback victory over Melrose. See sports, page 1B.

Town settles in Charles George case

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

Following a recommendation by town counsel, selectmen voted to settle in the lengthy battle over the Charles George landfill contamination case.

Selectmen voted 5-0 in favor of settling a massive lawsuit, which began in 1985. The town will pay $475,000 to the commonwealth over a period of 10 years at four percent interest for the cleanup of the site.

"This settlement vindicates all the effort people have put in over the last several years," said Town Counsel Wade Welch in making the presentation to the Board of Selectmen on Nov. 9. Welch said he recommended accepting the deal since the town retains the right to sue fourth parties, such as other municipalities. Settling would also end the legal costs involved in protecting town interests. Total cost for lawyers, experts on toxicity and paperwork hover around the $50,000 mark, according to Welch. The new payment schedule represents a reduction from some $620,000 originally proposed.

Winchester, along with 12 other communities became third party defendants in a lawsuit alleging improper dumping of hazardous materials in a landfill in Tyngsboro. In 1985 the state and federal governments sued the George company and 23 other parties when the site contaminated a nearby water line.

The suit mushroomed as the 24 parties originally sued went on to sue 13 municipalities in 1989 for their contributions to the trash at the site. Some 70 defendants and 130 law firms are involved in the lawsuit. According to Welch, in the end, the lawyers even hired other lawyers to act as liason counsel to unravel the complex web of liability.

Welch recounted the story which he said began when the EPA closed down the town transfer station in 1978 and the town was forced to haul its trash. The Charles George Co. was the lowest bidder at that time and began hauling the town's trash to Tyngsboro. According to town records, the company continued hauling for the time period of 1978 to 1983. In February 1983 the town went

Monitor stipends highlight fiscal tensions at schools

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

A discussion on funding for before-school monitors for elementary students turned into a full-blown debate over the School Department's budget.

The School Committee has held several intense meetings this fiscal year on prioritizing their spending within a tight budget. Last year the school administration had to ask the Finance Committee for a bailout with less than a month left in the fiscal year. The committee has vowed to scrutinize the Fiscal Year 1993 budget throughout the course of the year to avoid a repeat of last year's debacle.

Parents of elementary students showed up at the Nov. 10 School Committee meeting to ask the members to allocate $2,500 in stipends for five before-school monitors. The proposal had been presented to the committee at an earlier meeting this fall but was rejected.

A warm and charming evening from Players

By Meredith Fife Day
HARTE-HANKS STAFF WRITER

The reluctant examination during cocktail hour by one WASP family of its shaky foundations and fragile facades provides fertile ground for the Winchester Players' current production.

A.R. Gurney's two-act play, "The Cocktail Hour" unravels tangled interpretations of a family's history, reveals vulnerabilities and uncovers the inevitable skeletons in the closet, all with four actors on stage deferring to booze and money as the major characters. The actors establish their role identities early on, balancing stereotype and nuance in a way that enables the audience to relate with the characters throughout the performance.

The curtain opens on an elegant and traditional living room, bathed in a warm, soothing pink light. Two well and comfortably dressed men enter. They are publisher/ playwright, John, and his businessman father, Bradley. John carries the script of a play he has just written and Bradley carries a silver tray filled with the requisite bottles for cocktail hour. The tray is placed at center stage, a position it occupies physically as well as symbolically throughout the play.

Although the touch is light, father and son are clearly uncomfortable with each other. John's new play, titled, ironically enough, "The Cocktail Hour," is about the family, and he has come home to get their permission before it is produced. The stiffness of their communication with one another, through both dialogue and body language, is at once funny and discomfiting. Bradley obviously needs his scotch for more than the pre-dinner ritual. John, on the other hand, makes every effort to Winchester Town meeting member David Mortensen talks about his concerns related to Town Meeting involvement in the appropriation of the Affordable Housing Funds during the Nov. 5 town meeting at Winchester High School.

Town Meeting moves cautiously on articles

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

There will be no major changes in Winchester before spring, as a cautious Fall Town Meeting rejected any warrant articles that would have a significant impact on town government.

Town Meeting rejected articles that would transfer money from the housing fund to the general fund, force the town to shut down the water treatment plant at the North Reservoir, and fund a water study committee for $5,000.

What was passed at Town Meeting were two provisions which start non-funded, advisory studies involving the town's water supply.

There were only seven articles presented at Town Meeting, which was adjourned until spring at 11:17 p.m. on Nov. 5. Earlier in the fall some selectmen had said there would not be a Fall Town Meeting, but they were persuaded otherwise when presented with four articles regarding the town's water system by Randall Swartz, the chairman of the Board of Health. Although the selectmen approved holding Town Meeting by a 4-1 vote, they unanimously opposed all the articles.

Chairman of the Winchester Tax Payers Association Robert Dewald was the main spokesperson for an article that would have transferred $144,792 from the housing trust fund to the general fund. Dewald had originally sought to transfer the entire housing fund of $670,000, but was told that he could not legally divert all of that money, some of which was given to the town directly for affordable housing under zoning bylaws.

Dewald argued that Town Meeting should have control of that money because it was the sole appropriating body in the town. He added that the money could still be spent on affordable housing, but that it should be Town Meeting that should decide that.

Several Town Meeting members argued that the town had a major plan for affordable housing underway, and that the transfer would set that plan back. Selectmen Chairman Thomas Schmitt argued that providing

POLICE LOG

Monday, Nov. 9

4:18 p.m.

Officer Steven Fields was dispatched to Oxford Street for a report of a past breaking and entering.

The resident told police that sometime during the day, someone had entered the house and taken a wallet with $45 and jewelry.

1:44 p.m.

Lieutenant William Saraco received a report from a Belmont woman who said she had her coat stolen from a coat-check room at a club in town. The leather coat is estimated to cost $250.

10:59 a.m.

Officer Arthur Houllahan was dispatched to Mt. Vernon at Winchester Place for a motor vehicle accident.

According to police, the first vehicle operated by a 39-year-old New Hampshire female, was traveling west on Mt. Vernon when it collided with the second vehicle, operated by a 32-year-old Priscilla Avenue male, as he was taking a right onto Mt. Vernon from Winchester Place.

Sunday, Nov. 8

11:03 p.m.

Officer Thomas Romeo was dispatched to Holton Street for a disturbance.

Police had already been dispatched earlier in the night to that area for a disturbance involving a 22-year-old Peabody man. After making sure the man left the area, police discovered that there were two outstanding warrants for his arrest. When police were called to the scene a second time, the man was there, and police arrested him.

10:22 a.m.

A Myrtle Street woman reported to police that someone had been taking things from her home. The woman told police that someone had a key to her apartment and was entering and stealing her things. Police told the woman to change the locks on her residence.

1:14 a.m.

Officer Thomas Romeo was dispatched to Forest Street for a motor vehicle accident.

The operator, a 20-year-old Stoneham male, was traveling east on Forest when he lost control of his motor vehicle and struck a telephone pole. The vehicle was heavily damaged in the front end.

Saturday, Nov. 7

11:25 p.m.

Officer James Covino was dispatched to Westland Avenue for a report of a breaking and entering in progress.

The resident called police from upstairs when he heard someone downstairs. When police arrived, the door to the residence was open, but there was nothing missing.

8 a.m.

Officer William O'Neil was dispatched to Cambridge Street for a three-vehicle accident with personal injuries.

The first motor vehicle, operated by a 82-year-old Cambridge Street male, was entering Cambridge Street from a driveway when it collided the second vehicle, operated by a 26-year-old Main Street male, which was traveling north on Cambridge. The second vehicle spun around and ended in the opposite lane where it was struck from behind by the third vehicle, operated by a 69-year-old Woburn male.

All three operators suffered injuries. The operator of the third vehicle was taken by ambulance to Winchester Hospital. The third vehicle sustained major damage to the front end.

Friday, Nov. 6

1:13 p.m.

Officer Daniel Perenick was dispatched to Shore Road for a report of a larceny from a motor vehicle.

A woman told police she had parked her vehicle on that road that morning and returned at lunch to find that four hubcaps had been stolen from her vehicle.

Thursday, Nov. 5

6:06 p.m.

Officer Kurt Ellis was dispatched to a motor vehicle accident at the intersection of Washington Street and Mystic Valley Parkway.

The first vehicle, operated by a 59-year-old South Border male, was traveling east on Mystic Valley Parkway and entering the intersection when he collided with the second vehicle, operated by a 37-year-old George Street resident, who was traveling south on Washington. The second vehicle had the right of way but had been traveling without its headlights on.

There were no personal injuries.

Wednesday, Nov. 4

3:44 p.m.

Officer William O'Neil was dispatched to a motor vehicle accident at the intersection of Myopia Road and Cambridge Street with a personal injury.

According to police, a motor vehicle was traveling east on Myopia when the operator, a Winchester youth, lost control on some wet leaves and struck a tree. The youth suffered from minor injuries but was not taken to the hospital.

Pension fund receives unexpected shot in arm

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

Aetna will send Winchester a lump sum payment and, in effect, close the books surrounding questions of improprieties in its handling of area pension funds.

According to Town Counsel Wade Welch, the settlement represented $12,746 in a cash payment and $15,000 in fees which were absorbed by Aetna Casualty & Life of Connecticut. Following the Nov. 9 meeting of the selectmen, Welch said Aetna was settling in an effort to put the incident behind it.

A Boston Globe spotlight series last year alleged that former Winchester resident Carmen W. Elio used his position as a broker at Alex Brown & Sons to bring millions of dollars in assets to Aetna and then collected a commission from Aetna for doing it.

Town Comptroller Joseph Bonner said at that time Winchester's pension fund was not at risk and had invested a relatively small portion of funds with Aetna. At the Nov. 9 meeting Bonner said the investment, which spanned from 1985 to 1990, now totalled only $30,000. Bonner said Aetna was settling to stop the flood of claims, but added that Winchester had not been considering any filing. "We think the amount of earnings represented a decent rate," said Bonner.

Following the meeting, Welch said Winchester would still maintain the investment in Aetna, since the funds were part of a "complicated" real estate trust and that the Aetna payment would offset the lack of liquidity.

Aetna paid out a total of $8.419 million to 19 public pension systems in the Commonwealth as a result of its dealings with Elio.

Appreciation coffee for volunteers at Jenks

By Mary Kelly
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

The annual salute to a dedicated group of volunteers at the Jenks Senior Center will be given on Thursday, Nov. 19, from 9:30 a.m. to noon, in the form of an 'appreciation coffee' to be held in the center's Pond Room. These faithful and dependable volunteers are the men and women who serve at the center's reception desk and as drivers who volunteer to transport Winchester seniors who have no other means of transport. Often, the people who comprise these two groups may know each other by telephone contact only. The 'appreciation coffee' provides an opportunity for these seniors to meet in person, for socialization and information.

Anyone who is interested in joining the corps of drivers, or earning more about the operations at the reception desk, is welcome to attend the coffee, hear the reports of the chairpersons, and meet the people involved. There are about 60 people who will be given a show of appreciation for their dedicated work and volunteer services at the Center. In addition to the social aspects of the meeting, there will be annual reports given by Jenness Eugley and Eleanor Farrell, co-chairpersons of the transportation committee, and Ruth Ayres, chairperson of the receptionists.

New drivers and new desk volunteers are always welcome. A good place to start is at this annual meeting where you meet people face to face. Keeping a substantial number of volunteers as desk receptionists and drivers is no small task. More people are needed who are willing to give time to either of these committees. If you can volunteer weekly, biweekly, or once a month, you are most cordially invited to attend this morning coffee hour to learn more about the work involved in service on either committee.

Italian group meets Nov. 16

The Italian Culture Group, meeting on Monday, Nov. 16, at 1:30 p.m., will view a slide presentation, by Anne Gallello, of Italy's leading cities. Visitors to Italy will have pleasant recollections of their travels. Refreshments, including Italian pastries, will be served. All are welcome to attend.

Seminar on financial engineering Nov. 20

Under the sponsorship of the Winchester Seniors Association's Education Committee, Carl Schwartzman, Winchester business administrator and financial services professional, will conduct a brief seminar on the organization of personal assets, at the Jenks Center, on Nov. 20, at 10:30 a.m. Income tax advantages, tax-free income, and other methods of maximizing financial benefits will be discussed. Schwartzman produced the Winchester Cable program "Your Money Matters." Plan to come and be brought up to date in these matters. No prior registration is required, and there is no charge.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club is preparing for its Green Sale at the Crawford Memorial Church on Dec. 2, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Senior ladies have been meeting at the Jenks Senior Center, preparing holiday decorations requiring creativity and imagination, including tree ornaments, wreaths and swags. Pictured above are Helen Hodgdon, Sally Eddy and Cassie Goutanis, making angels.

Reminder: get those quilt tickets now

Remember that raffle tickets are now being sold for the colorful and beautifully worked quilt on display in the Jenks Center lobby. This "Scrapaholic" quilt, designed and quilted by so many talented and loving hands, in Jane Norberg's crafts and stitchery class, is to be raffled off at the Center's Christmas Party on Wednesday, Dec. 9. Raffle tickets are now being sold at the reception desk at the center, $1 each, six for $5.

New: "Reading Aloud" program underway

As previously announced, the Winchester Public Library and the Council on Aging are planning a joint program, starting in January. "Reading Aloud/Reading Together" would involve a group of seniors who would gather at the Jenks Center and read aloud from a particular book to group members who would follow along. The group might cover a chapter a week until that book is finished, and then start a new one. The program would recreate the atmosphere of an old-fashioned "reading aloud" session. The books could be enjoyable classics and other popular books suitable for leisurely reading. They would be selected and supplied by the library, based on the suggestions of group leaders and subject to the availability of the book titles. The library would recruit the volunteer readers, and the meetings would be held for the seniors of the community at the Jenks Center.

There is a sign-up list at the Jenks Center for seniors who are interested in this "Reading Aloud/Reading Together" group starting the first of the year. It is hoped that a dozen seniors will gather together at the Jenks Center and become involved in this new activity. Dates and times of these gatherings will be arranged once the sign-ups are completed. Call Barbara Ciampa of the C.O.A., at the Jenks Center, 721-7136, or Richard Welton, at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171, if you have any questions about this new program.

Time is growing short for share-a-meal

This year again, Church Women United of Winchester will be offering a holiday tray of home-cooked food to town residents homebound on Thanksgiving and Christmas. Winchester's homebound seniors who wish to enjoy a home-cooked meal on a tray delivered to them on Thanksgiving Day, are reminded to sign up now by calling the Jenks Senior Center, 721-7136, and leaving name, address and telephone number.

If you would like to share your own holiday meal, call Susan Schultz, 729-1823, and offer your assistance. Schultz and Ella Gosselin are co-chairpersons of this program.

Still recruiting a TV producer and director

Mert Ober, chairman of the Jenks Center's TV Committee, recently put out a call for a senior or two to join that committee, someone with experience and skills in program production and directing. Those seniors now serving on the committee have been trained in the technical aspects of TV production, and have assisted TV Channel 19 with operation of cameras at Town Meeting and other civic events. The committee has obtained appropriate technical equipment to proceed now with production of programs that will spotlight events at the Jenks Senior Center and profiles of various Winchester seniors.

If any senior in town, with experience and skills in program production and directing, is interested in joining the committee, please contact Mert Ober, 729-0114, or Barbara Ciampa, 721-7136. You would be warmly welcomed to this committee whose future plans include taping events to be shown on Channel 19 on a regularly scheduled basis.

ConsCom to seek land transfer from selectmen

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The Conservation Commission's desire to transfer Mt. Pisgah from park to conservation land was buoyed by neighbors who overwhelmingly support the transfer.

At a pubic hearing for the transfer on Nov. 9, nine neighbors of Mt. Pisgah told the commission they support the switch to conservation land for the 11.1 acres of land surrounded by High Street, Agawam and Girard Roads. No neighbors spoke out in opposition to the transfer.

"I just hope that it will come to a successful conclusion," said Agawam Street resident Lois Kusik. "I don't see in any way how jurisdiction is controversial."

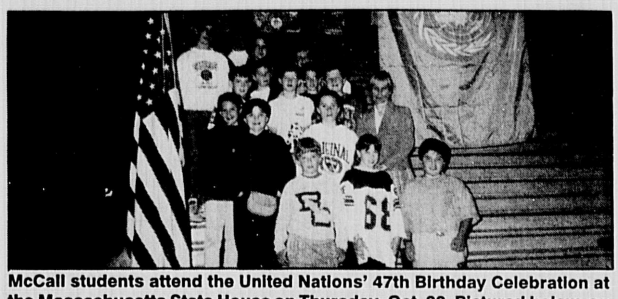

Conservation Commission Chairman Joshua Alper told the neighbors that the switch would have no effect on them, but it would ensure "an extra measure of protection" for the land to preserve its present state.

The commission held another public hearing on the subject on July 27, in which the plan received support from several neighbors. The commission has been considering the transfer for several years and has listed Mt. Pisgah on their Open Space and Recreation list, which contains land the commission feels is most in need of protection.

The land is now a parkland under the jurisdiction of the Board of Selectmen. Alper said the commission intends to address the selectmen requesting the transfer. He was unsure whether the transfer will eventually need the approval of Town Meeting.

Alper said that the transfer has the full support of the Conservation Commission. "I think we all agree it's an area unique in this town," he said.

"It will be most helpful when we carry this forward that ... the abutters and neighbors have favored the transfer of the parcel," said Alper.

Volk discusses the business of the NBA

By Karen Buckley
HARTE-HANKS STAFF

Working as a team is key to the success of any business.

And when your business is the Boston Celtics or the National Basketball Association (NBA), that concept is particularly appropriate, according to Jan Volk, the team's general manager.

Volk entertained members of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce at the group's monthly breakfast meeting, held at the Gables Nov. 4.

According to Volk, the NBA has been instrumental in providing education to its players in a number of areas. This has become increasingly important in light of Earvin "Magic" Johnson being diagnosed as HIV positve and his recent second retirement.

"(The NBA), along with the Players Association, provides many programs," Volk said. One program helps first-year players deal with various situations, particularly in light of their new-found fame.

"They put them in a bar, and in other situations. This is not a friendly type of play acting...It's very serious," Volk said.

Another recently retired player, with greater local interest, is Larry Bird. In the future, the recently-retired superstar will serve as an at-large member of the Celtics' management group, according to Volk.

"There are several things he can do as well as, if not better than, anybody ... He knows the NBA as well as anybody," said Volk. "As a player, he knows it better."

Asked if the high price tag for a game ticket (averaging $35 with a high of $45) puts attending Celtics' games out of reach for most people, Volk responded he believes Boston prices are "very reasonable." Volk said he attended a game in Los Angeles last year, where tickets cost him $100. "And the seats were farther from the court than any seat we have in Boston."

Focusing on the NBA's salary cap, Volk discussed its importance in the success of the league.

Ten years ago, the NBA was in financial trouble, according to Volk. Although things looked good on the surface, few teams were playing to capacity crowds, and about five organizations were on the verge of bankruptcy, Volk said.

Owners sought a partnership with players to solve the group's financial problems. The result, said Volk, was the salary cap.

Although Volk said the Players Association thinks it's time to put the salary cap to rest, "in five years without the salary cap, (the league) would be back to where we were."

EnKa Society building search committee.

EnKa Society held fall town meeting

The EnKa Society recently held its fall meeting at the Parish of Epiphany. President Nancy Clarke presided and called for reports from various officers and committee chairmen. Nancy McMahon, vice president, reported three members had passed away since the June meeting.

Sandy Alla spoke in memory of Pat Buros, Kate Shoemaker in memory of Helga Spencer, and Peg McCreery in memory of Marion Wright. Danice O'Neil, gifts committee chairman, announced gifts to the following: Winchester High School Music Trip, Winchester High School Russia Trip, Boy Scout Troop 507, Winchester-Roxbury Tutoring Program, Town of Winchester Design Review Committee, Winchester Foundation for Education Excellence and The Winchester Concert Series.

Terri Stevens, an EnKa Exchange chairman, reported the Exchange moved to its new and permanent location, 1037 Main St. The Exchange has been very busy and is well stocked with good used clothing, the public is invited to bring in clothing on consignment, Wednesdays only. The shop is open Tuesday, Friday, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Wednesday, Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Clarke presented to the Building Search Committee with a plaque to be placed in the Exchange. The members honored for their commitment to finding a permanent home for the Exchange were, Gerry DeGeorge, Pam Boerner, Joyce Cummings, Nancy McMahon, Patty Mac Hewitt and Louise O'Donnell. Pat Byrne, civic chairman reported a donation check had been given to the Meals-on-Wheels Program. There will be a Christmas workshop to make gifts for VNA patients.

Mary Jo Sliney, social service chairman, reported plans are underway to prepare and deliver holiday baskets for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Judy King and Jane D'Entremont, "Field of Dreams" Fair chairmen, reported the fair will be held May 14 and 15. The meeting concluded with the 33rd annual fashion show. Provisional members modeled various clothing from the exchange. Mary Knox was the commentator and Sandy Alla provided piano accompaniment.

Children's Own School celebrates 50th calling all alumni

Children's Own School, Winchester's Montessori preschool for children 3 to 6, is celebrating its 50th birthday in a series of special events.

The yearlong celebration, called "Children's Own Year," starts with an open house and reunion at the school on Sunday, Nov. 22, from noon to 4 p.m., at 86 Main St., in Winchester.

All former and current students and their parents are invited to the open house to reunite with old friends, meet with teachers and visit the classrooms.

The school is trying to reach all alumni with news of Children's Own Year. Any former students who have not already received an invitation should write or call Rosina Cullinane, Children's Own School, 86 Main St., Winchester (telephone 729-2689), to get on the mailing list for information about upcoming events, such as Kids' Classics in March.

Kids' Classics, a young people's concert scheduled for March 14, at Winchester Town Hall, will provide an introduction to classical music. Performing will be Marion Dry, contralto, and Peter Cokkinias, clarinetist, both of Winchester, as well as Cynthia Huard, harpsichordist, and Bertica Shulman Cramer, pianist. Ticket sales will be open to the public.

Make-up flu clinic to be held Nov. 12

The Winchester Board of Health, in cooperation with the Jenks Senior Center and the Visiting Nurse & Health Care Inc. will be sponsoring a make-up flu and pneumonia clinic. The clinic will be held at the Winchester Town Hall from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m on Nov. 12.

The vaccine is comprised of three viruses: A/Texas like; A/Bejing like; and B/Panama and is different from what was given last year, so anyone who received a flu shot last year needs to receive another shot this year. The vaccine is recommended for those at risk of developing complications from the flu such as:

persons over 65 years of age.

adults and children who have chronic medical problems such as diabetes, heart or lung problems.

residents of nursing homes or other chronic care facilities.

Those who should not receive a flu shot include anyone allergic to eggs, or anyone on immune suppressant drugs. Anyone who is acutely ill should delay receiving a flu shot until the illness subsides.

The flu and pneumonia clinic is open to all residents and no appointment is necessary.

Red Cross holds blood drive in Nov.

The Red Cross Blood Drive for the month of November will take place at the Son's of Italy on Saturday, Nov. 21, from 10 a.m. to 3 pm.

Notice of vacancies on Housing Partnership Board

The Housing Partnership Board has vacancies for two registered voters who hold no other town office, for three-year terms.

The Housing Partnership Board was established by vote of Town Meeting in 1987. The Board consists of 13 voters, seven of whom are appointed by the town moderator. Other members are from the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Housing Authority, Council on Aging, Conservation Commission and School Committee.

The Board makes recommendations to the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Housing Authority and Town Meeting on various matters having to do with affordable housing in Winchester.

Children's room presents program for book week

By Richard Welton
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

The Children's Room is highlighting Children's Book Week, an annual national celebration of children's books, with a mini-series of programs entitled "Pictures, Palaces, And Puzzles." On Monday, Nov. 16, there will be a session for 5- and 6-year-olds, and on Tuesday, Nov. 17, there will be a session for 7- and 8-year-olds. Registration for these free programs is held in the Children's Room. For information about this program, or any of the library's services for children, call 721-7140.

Art enhances beauty of reference room

Since the reference room was refurbished last February, some of the beautiful paintings that were hidden from public view were brought into the public area. These paintings are on display in the reference room.

"Apple Blossoms" by John J. Enneking, is a work by one of the finest interpreters of the New England landscape. Known for his ability to reflect the moods and changing light effects of nature, he was known as the "American Turner." "Apple Blossoms" was the gift of Forrest G. Brackett.

J. Foxcroft Cole, a Winchester resident, was known for his landscapes, seascapes, and farm scenes. "View On The Aberjona (Mystic Pond)" is considered one of his most successful works. It was donated by Georgeanna Skillings Banks in honor of her father, David Nelson Skillings.

Hermann Dudley Murphy was well-known as a frame maker as well as a painter, and many Boston artists used his frames. His "Mount Monadnock," was the gift of Lewis Parkhurst.

Edmund H. Garrett, the painter of "Early Morning, Cape Cod" was also known and respected as an author, illustrator and bookplate maker. This painting was purchased from the David N. Skillings Fund in 1929.

When the reference room was rearranged, many patrons began to notice one of the room's outstanding features, the Tyler Memorial Window triptych, which was formerly overshadowed by shelving. These beautiful stained glass windows were designed by Tiffany and Company, and were presented to the Town in memory of Library trustee Joseph H. Tyler by his family. A tribute to the history of book making, they feature the marks of the great early printers and the centerpiece depicts the invention of the printing press. As a representation of the donor's love of books, these windows constitute a fitting decoration for a library building.

Be a library volunteer

If the Winchester Public Library is important to you and you have time to spare, consider becoming a Winchester Public Library volunteer. The library depends very heavily on its volunteers. They donate their time by shelving and straightening books, mending, filing, helping at programs, "adopting-a-shelf," and delivering books to home bound library patrons. Their work frees the staff for more direct patron services. If you are interested in becoming a library volunteer, call Barbara Yuan at 721-7171.

MacArthur videos offer an unusual change of pace

You probably already know that the Winchester Public Library is a great place to borrow a feature film or children's story on video, but do you know about the MacArthur Foundation videos? These videos were purchased from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, which is best known for its support of public television programming. This collection includes acclaimed documentaries such as "Best Boy" and "Sam Malouf: Woodworker," and informative series such as "Nova" and "The Story of English." The MacArthur videos are available on the video shelves in the library's main lobby.

If you have a question or comment about anything mentioned in this column, call the community services librarian at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171.

Selectman Gerald Polcari and Dr. Stephan Galli.

Polcari congratulates Scout troop 503 leader

Selectman Gerald Polcari is shown congratulating Dr. Stephen Galli, committee chairman of Boy Scout Troop 503, on the occasion of the Troop's 75th Anniversary celebration. Troop 503 has been sponsored by Winchester's First Congregational Church since 1917 and is presently under the direction of Dr. Jeffrey Drazen as Scoutmaster.

The selectman presented the troop with a commemorative medal during its banquet and celebration on Sunday, Oct. 4. Current Troop 503 Scout and adult leaders, Boy Scout council officials, early Scoutmasters William Burrows of Oneida Cir., Paul Dunn of Sussex Road, Lawrence Keats of Summit Avenue, and Ross Farrar from Brookline were recognized. George Whitten, formerly of Winchester, recalled both his own as well as his father's (Robinson Whitten) long service to the troop.

Paul Gleason of Wedgemere Avenue, a former committee chairman, reviewed the history of the troop. Thomas Raphael of Grove Street, presented the history of Winchester Explorer Post 503 which he had recently compiled from the family of one of the post's early advisors, Lawrence E. Beckley. This presentation was followed by a recognition of Raphael's service to the troop by John Looney of Winthrop Street. The evening concluded with a dedication to the ideals of scouting and to the future of the troop by Galli.

Colonel William P. Winchester

In remembrance

By Dan Chane
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Jan. 31, 1918 — John Gironda, the first Winchester man to die in the service. At Chelsea Naval Hospital of cerebrospinal fever.

Feb. 17, 1918 — Stuart Lane. Died at Carney Hospital of double pneumonia.

May 27, 1918 — Charles Lynch. He was killed by shrapnel at Chantigny and was the first Winchester man to die in action.

Aug. 10, 1918 — Mahlon Dennett. Struck by a bursting shell near Chateau-Theirry.

Aug. 12, 1918 — William Glendon. Died at Brest of bronchial pneumonia.

Aug. 13, 1918 — Mario Figioli. Killed in action.

Sept. 29, 1918 — Augustus Leonard. Killed by a high explosive shell in the Meuse-Argonne.

Oct. 1, 1918 — Andrea Barbieri. Killed at the Meuse-Argonne.

Oct. 4, 1918 — Frederick Grant. Died of pneumonia.

Oct. 4, 1918 — Edward McFeeley. Died of influenza.

Oct. 6, 1918 — Fred Brown. Killed in action at St. Etienne-a-Arnes.

Oct. 9, 1918 — William Noonan. Killed at Blanc Mont Ridge.

Oct. 13, 1918 — Bartley Clancy. Killed in action.

Oct. 14, 1918 — Frank Kendall. Died of pneumonia.

Nov. 7, 1918 — John Corbi. Killed in action.

Nov. 7, 1918 — William Donohue. Killed at Meuse-Argonne.

Nov. 17, 1918 — Chester Tutein. Died in an aviation mishap subsequent to The Armistice.

Jan. 6, 1919 — Joseph Hefflon. Died of pneumonia at Neuilly. "Pop" Hefflon was principal at Wadleigh School from 1909 until he died, and was the last Winchester man to die in the service following the "Great War."

The insufferable agony experienced throughout Winchester, especially during the latter months of 1918, can only be imagined as one begins to comprehend the meaning of the names above.

They represented the best of us. They cherished the values inherent in a United States of America — and its beloved flag — far beyond the limited vision we seem to champion in 1992.

The devoted love with which the small band bears the Flag down Main Street each Nov. 11, and the commitment of those who come to bear witness with silent reverence are the brightest jewels in our crown of freedom.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 19 — Report No. 45
Massachusetts House and Senate
Nov. 6, 1992

THE HOUSE AND SENATE. The House and Senate met only in brief, informal sessions last week and there were no roll call votes. Formal sessions and roll call votes are expected to resume in a week or two.

Last week's election results have altered the balance of power on Beacon Hill and left the Senate with only nine Republicans. The GOP lost six of their 15 seats which means Governor Weld no longer has enough Republican senators to sustain a veto.

The Senate has overridden 38 of 44 vetoes since Weld became governor. However, the Senate leadership acknowledges that some Weld vetoes, including proposals to change Proposition 2½ and raise taxes, were never brought to the floor because the Democrats lacked the two-thirds majority to override.

The 160 member House will have 31 new members in January. The current House membership includes 116 Democrats, 36 Republicans, one unenrolled and seven vacancies. The new House in January will include 124 Democrats, 35 Republicans and one unenrolled.

At a press conference following the election, Governor Weld said he hopes the legislature does not look at the results as an invitation to push through tax hikes and excessive spending in 1993. In response, House Speaker Charlie Flaherty said Democrats are also fiscally responsible but will continue to push for their agenda including some changes in Proposition 2½. He indicated some of these changes may be included in an education reform bill which will be addressed before the end of the year.

This week, Beacon Hill Roll Call reviews local legislators' votes on proposed changes in Proposition 2½ during the 1991 and 1992 session. While none of the changes were signed into law, the new makeup of the legislature leaves passage of these proposals and override of an expected Weld veto a possibility in 1993.

AUTO EXCISE TAX (H 5600) — In 1991, the House 114-39, Senate 25-10, rejected an amendment striking a budget section allowing voters in local communities to double the auto excise tax from $25 to $50 per $1,000 of valuation.

Proposition 2½ reduced this tax from $66 per $1,000. Amendment supporters said this is another tax hike which will hurt taxpayers and the car industry. Opponents said this is a local option to allow communities to raise money for necessary services. Although there seemed to be enough votes to override a veto, the provision was later dropped from the final budget.

The hike was not included in this

"SO YOU SAY THIS IS WHAT THINGS IN TOWN WILL BE LIKE IF YOU DON'T GET ALL THE FUNDING YOU'RE ASKING FOR?"

Mystery of the Orient beckons

TERRY MAROTTA
COLUMNIST

The Chinese have a saying about themselves: "We eat everything except planes and trains," it goes. OK, it really goes "Chule feiji zhi wai, yangyang dou chi." However you put it, it gets nicely at what we like best about going into a Chinese restaurant: that sense of adventure to be found there, arising not just from the variety of foods served, but from the whole exotic ambience of the place, that silvery ting! of the mystical you feel lurking just behind the bamboo curtains.

Now it should be said from the start that we are talking here about real Chinese restaurants, not the kind you see at, say, Disney World, where the food is portion-controlled, mass-produced, and cooked by those standard-issue D.W. employees that look like members of the Young Republicans Club.

You know you're in the right kind of place if there's a steel vat the size of a dumpster out in the alley outside and one of the employees in an apron no longer clean is pouring the used oil into it, dark and viscous and glistening with amorphous lumps of — well, best not ask what.

When you walk into a place like this, the enigmatic messages inscribed on the menus, the placemats and even inside the fortune cookies, give you the sense that here you'll not only eat things you've never before eaten, but come to see things as you've never before seen them.

Walk into this Chinese restaurant, for example, where under the front window stands a fish tank 30-feet long, in which creatures the size of spaniels swim in wobbly parabolas. We ask the waiter when he comes over, "Are those for decoration?", thinking them not so decorative, actually. "No, for sale. To eat here," he answers solemnly. They are black bass he adds, and if you give enough notice, you can have one for lunch.

When he wanders off to get menus, we approach them for a closer look. There are about 12 fish, but only the most energetic are swimming. The rest seem to have settled to the bottom and are leaning, this way and that, like old three-masted schooners on the verge of break-up. They are mouth breathers, of course, and they look, well, unintelligent. Dorky, even, like you felt in that dweeby jacket you once had whose hood zipped up the middle and, unzipped again, lay down in two pieces and made you look like you had a couple of bath mats on your shoulders. These poor dorks puff and roll their eyes and seem to sigh at their plight.

Normally at this point, we would start to sigh with them — but the menu and placemat come, and these are always irresistible. A Chinese Zodiac printed on the placemat advises all those born in the Year of the Monkey that they are enthusiastic achievers but easily discouraged and confused. The news is mixed, too, for those born the Year of the Rat, who are ambitious yet honest, prone to spend freely, and seldom make lasting friendships. The descriptions are frank, and candid as tips from Dr. Ruth. We like them for this, and consider briefly writing our own: ("You are hardworking, though clumsy. Sometimes you get your shoelaces caught in escalators." "Though timid, you like to sing to pigeons in the park and feed them Jujyfruits." "Everyone you know hates to sit near you. How did you get a burping disorder, anyway?")

And the menus are even better. The Chinese speak of eating forbidden foods, and have a somewhat unfashionable taste for the meat of endangered creatures (bear paws and caribou noses.) But most menus offer such a smorgasbord, the average American restaurant is put to shame. For here are Spiced Chicken Ding; Fish Stomach; Sauteed Octopus; Hon Sue Fish Head; Duck Feet With Black Mushroom. Beef Skirt With Noodle Foon.

Some of the items are hard to visualize. For example, is Squid Disco a wet leggy thing dressed up in a white leisure suit like John Travolta? What is Jumbo Jumbo Rainbow, besides a string of words denoting something vast and colorful? And what does it mean that there are virgin cocktails "for our non-alcoholic lovers"? Do drunken lovers come here, and if so what do they do? Grapple madly and fall out of their chairs?

But at the best Chinese restaurants, you're not meant to understand word for word what's being said, any more than you're meant to know food for food what you're eating. We open our fortune cookie and read its message. "You have a potential urge," it says, and who could argue with a phraseology so vague? Here's to potential urges everywhere, we therefore say; and to the still-veiled mystery of the Orient.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Chamber thanks Haunted House volunteers

To the editor:

On behalf of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, I would like to thank all the people who volunteered to help with the 22nd production of the Haunted House — a tradition enjoyed by many Winchester residents over the year.

Special mention must be made about the following: Allan Eyden and Robert Salter, our co-chairmen for taking on the enormous responsibility of organizing this major fundraiser for the Chamber; to Vinnie Guarno, our talented and dedicated artistic director, who created and built four of our five scenes; to John Frongillo of Pisces Pantry, whose last scene makes a memorable impression on our visitor; to Justin Magee who took charge of traffic control; to Cathy Jackson of the Bayberry Shoppe and Martha O'Neil of Topsy Turvy, who were the total charge of refreshments and tickets respectively; to Bette Donaghey who continues to lend a hand to Chamber events even though she has officially retired.

This event requires hours of work and the dedication of many people who generously donate time and resources to insure its success. We are indeed fortunate to have so many of our young people volunteer to work in the scenes and we are proud of how well they perform as hundreds of people walk through.

Thanks to the entire community for your support and interest in continuing a tradition for the entire town to enjoy.

Catherine S. Alexander
Executive Director

Casey thanks supporters for reelection effort

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Winchester Star and all of my supporters for their votes of confidence this election year. It is inspiring to witness such a strong show of support from the people of Winchester.

My heartiest thanks goes to the backbone of this campaign, the countless volunteers who came out in support of my reelection, all of whom worked tirelessly and enthusiastically on my behalf. More than 500 people assisted us by sending out "dear friend" cards, affixing bumper stickers and roof racks to their cars, making phone calls, holding signs mornings and evenings, chauffeuring voters to the polls, and staffing our district office.

The phenomenal voter turnout was indicative of the general optimism that we, as a community and a nation, can effect change. Thank you for the continued opportunity to do my part for our cause.

Rep. Paul Casey

Thompson agrees with recent editorial

To the editor:

Thanks to the editor of The Star for speaking out and condemning the actions of those who wrote racial graffiti on Dix Street Halloween night. It is important that the town take a strong stand against intolerance directed at any group.

When we as individuals fail to confront any sort of slur, we are giving our tacit approval. The same is true of organizations, communities, and governments. Each individual in Winchester can help to make our town and our country a better place — by simply taking responsibility for our own actions and noticing what goes on around us. If we model attitudes of respect and understanding, and gently but firmly help others unlearn the misinforma-

ON THE RECORD

Lincoln Elementary School parents are relieved now that their American flag has been returned. In this space last week, we reported that the newly acquired flag was stolen on Halloween night from a flag pole in front of the school. The flag was returned one week later. The Lincoln Parents Association had obtained the flag, which has flown over the Capitol Building, from Congressman Brian Donnelly.

Does Winchester have alligators in its sewers? At the Fall Town Meeting, during a discussion of the town's water system, member Clarence Borggaard said that he had found an inch-long alligator in a strainer over his water faucet. Borggaard said he brought the alligator to the Department of Public Works, who dismissed it. Borggaard later conceded that he wasn't sure what the one-inch object was and that calling it an alligator was "hyperbole."

Town Clerk Carolyn Ward noted in a report to the Board of Selectmen that an estimated 90 percent of all eligible voters in Winchester are registered. Of those registered voters, more than 89 percent voted in the Nov. 3 election. Between Dec. 1, 1991 and Oct. 6, the last day of registration for the presidential election, 2,283 people registered to vote, according to Ward.

The School Committee has voted to excess two former school buildings, the Sanborn House and the Mystic School. Committee members unanimously decided to hand over jurisdiction of the land to the Board of Selectmen. The buildings have not been town-run schools for awhile but have been rented out. "We'd like to get out of the rental business," said Acting Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald.

Parent surveys on redistricting were probably less positive than the administration had hoped for. Eighty parents received surveys on their feelings about the redistricting implemented at the beginning of this year. Fitzgerald said 28 parents responded with nine saying they were very positive about the situation, eight saying they had a neutral opinion, and 11 conveyed negative feelings. Fitzgerald said he expects that in a follow-up survey in January, children and parents will be more comfortable with the changes and will have more positive reactions.

year's budget. If the proposed hike is revived in 1993, there may well be enough votes to override an expected veto.

A Yes vote is against allowing communities to raise the tax. A No vote is for allowing communities to raise the tax.

Representative Paul Casey voted no.

Senator Charles Shannon voted yes.

OVERLAY (H 5600) — In 1992, the House 82-68, no (Senate roll call) rejected an amendment striking a budget section providing that all cities and towns exempt their overlay accounts from the limits of Proposition 2½. Overlay accounts include funds set aside for tax rebates and abatements.

Amendment supporters said this exemption is an assault on Prop 2½ and is simply a $140 million property tax increase. Opponents said this change will help cash starved cities and towns maintain services and argued it is a long overdue change in a law which is too stringent. They noted the local appropriating authority will still decide whether to appropriate the money.

The exemption was included in this year's final budget and was vetoed by Governor Weld. The legislature has not yet acted on the veto. The 68 votes in the House against the exemption combined with the current makeup of the Senate seem to indicate the legislature does not have enough votes to override this year. The fate of the proposal next year is difficult to predict.

A Yes vote is against exempting overlay accounts. A No vote is for exempting overlay accounts.

Casey voted yes.

INFLATION INCREASE (H 5252) — In 1991, the House 109-47, (no Senate roll call) rejected an amendment striking a provision allowing communities, if approved by voters, to adopt a system which allows annual increases in property tax levies at a rate equal to inflation, up to five percent.

Amendment supporters said this section begins to dismantle Prop 2½ and will hurt homeowners. They noted current law already provides for a reasonable override of Prop 2½. Some said they would support this increase mechanism if it included a provision allowing voters to lower property below the 2.5 percent cap.

Opponents said the section still gives voters final control but offers them new tools to go beyond the outdated and arbitrary constraints in order to face new fiscal realities.

The inflation increase provision was not included in last year's final budget, but was included, without a roll call vote, in this year's final budget. It was vetoed by Governor Weld and the legislature has not yet acted on the veto which would likely be sustained in the Senate. There may well be enough votes next year to override a veto.

A Yes vote is against the amendment allowing increases up to 5 percent. A No vote is for allowing increases up to 5 percent.

Casey voted no.

Watch Non Compos Mentis on Channel 19

From time to time the Star will publish articles on the activities of the Council on Youth.

By Joe Corkery
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Is it true that the Apocalypse was postponed so you could watch Non Compos Mentis? Well that is the impression given from the posters put up in the high school. NCM is a locally produced public access television show shown on Winchester's own TV-19. The show was written, directed, produced, edited and starred a group of students from Winchester High School. NCM is in its first season this year, the second episode (the Halloween episode) aired last Thursday, Oct. 29, at 5:30. This hilarious episode ranges from an insane take-off on sports to tips on how to have a "fun" Halloween NCM-style, there is something for everyone in each show. The show should repeat every two weeks on Thursdays until the coming of the next episode (most likely in two months.) To check when the show will be broadcast just tune into TV-19 and watch the week's schedule. Due to the nature of the show, it usually takes two months of constant work to film and edit every segment. Surprisingly enough though, NCM is already receiving fan mail, from local watchers to people from other towns, because it was accidentally broadcast outside of Winchester by a computer error. However it still should be aired there for fans once again.

The original episode was really an experimental episode that was a big success, so NCM decided to produce more by popular demand. The show took everyone by surprise, the original was not well-publicized and seen mostly by random channel flippers the airing night. Not everyone down at TV-19 was aware of the show, once during a live broadcast of Sportsview, NCM aired a commercial for the first show without telling Sportsview. Their surprise was just hilarious. This Halloween episode was also a huge success with the students of Winchester High, and hopefully with their parents too. Currently the next episode is already in the making, but the contents won't be revealed until the next episode. So if you are interested in original television programming, strange actors, and even stranger segments, check TV-19, watch NCM, and mail in your opinions (fan mail is greatly appreciated). On a final note, I won't tell you what Non Compos Mentis means.

Sandy Thompson

Resident expresses dismay at graffiti

To the editor:

I have been dismayed to hear recently about incidents of racist graffiti and ethnic slurs in Winchester, which are dehumanizing and hurtful to the whole community.

I believe that the diversity of Winchester is a potential source of strength. If we as townspeople can work together to increase our understanding of the varied cultural backgrounds represented here, we will all be enriched by the experience.

Monitors debated

from a letter sent to the School Committee from the presidents of the five parent's associations, said the situation regarding the monitors was "dangerous and unacceptable." Murphy said that at Lincoln, which is situated between two busy streets, 385 children are watched by two supervisors before school.

Acting Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald and School Committee Chairman Mark Lombardi both said they were in favor of allocating the money. Lombardi said, in spite of the fiscal problems, it would be "money well spent."

Member James Evans said that although he recognizes the importance of the expense, the committee does not have the money available. "I don't know where we're going to get the money to cover what we have already allocated, much less any additions," said Evans.

Fitzgerald said that if all their accounts were fully spent, the School Department would be $32,000 short at the end of the year. Fitzgerald said that $2,500 for bus monitors has been budgeted but not used and could be used for the before-school monitors without increasing the $32,000 shortage.

Evans, however, said he estimates the budget as being short $80,000. Member Jerilyn Heinold pointed out that the cost for hiring a new superintendent, for one, has not yet been factored in to the shortfall. "We've haven't discussed that budget at this table ... When are we going to do that?" said Heinold.

Another added expense is $45,000 for a litigation settlement on a special education suit. Lombardi said he will discuss paying the settlement from the town's reserve fund with the Finance Committee. However Finance Committee member Robert Beatti, who attended the meeting, said other sources, such as the settlement in the Charles George lawsuit, also need the money. "We have no way of meeting your overrun," said Beatti.

Lombardi said before-school monitors are too high a priority not to fund, no matter what the budget numbers are. "I would rather be $2,500 over at the end of the year and have to explain that to Town Meeting than to have to go through the year worrying about a significant safety issue such as this," said Lombardi.

Evans said because of the budget shortfall, he would not support the allocation. "We are already spending money that has not been allocated to us by the Town Meeting," said Evans.

Heinold said she might support the funding if she were told from what budget item the money could be taken from. Heinold said there was no room for additional spending without corresponding cuts. "We're already in a financial free-fall. We're not even close to having a balanced budget," said Heinold.

Fitzgerald agreed with Heinold's assumption that eventually something was going to get underfunded. "Every other week we try to squeeze a little bit more and a little bit more. It's just not there. Something's going to give," said Fitzgerald.

The committee declined to take immediate action on the funding and decided to make the subject, which was not an offical agenda itme, an agenda item for the next meeting. "I apologize for making people wait two weeks. I just hope nothing happens in those two weeks," said Lombardi.

TM moves cautiously

affordable housing sometimes requires immediate action, such as applying for or matching available grants, and Town Meeting does not meet often enough to take those actions. "Over the last several weeks, we've done just those things," noted Schmitt.

Schmitt also added that the selectmen solicited public comments before taking actions with the housing fund. He said there were fifteen public hearings for the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Study, an action plan for providing affordable housing in Winchester.

"The meetings of the selectmen on this have been highly public," noted Housing Partnership Board member David Mortensen. "The Board of Selectmen loathed to take any action without having public comment."

In addition to the Board of Selectmen, the Housing Authority and the Council on Aging also unanimously opposed the article. The Finance Committee supported it by an 8-3 vote.

Even Town Moderator John Sullivan questioned the article, saying the housing fund is "not a fund that Town Meeting didn't know about ... That money is in there because you and I put it there ... It appears that everything has been very public." When Dewald mentioned that he might try to secure the entire $640,000, Sullivan responded, "You'd better get yourself an attorney."

The article was rejected by a voice vote by Town Meeting.

... Water articles lead to minor changes

A committee to study the town's water supply was passed by a voice vote. Town Meeting seemed to agree with the argument by the article's sponsor, Swartz, that "Town Meeting forms committees all the time, why not?" However, Town Meeting was a little more stingy when it came to funding the committee. Swartz had asked the town to fund the committee for $5,000, but Town Meeting rejected the funding article by a 59-62 standing vote.

Swartz's article calls for a seven-member committee that would evaluate the town's potable water treatment system. The committee would consist of three people selected by the Town Moderator, one by the Board of Health, one by the Board of Selectmen, and one by the Finance Committee. Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer has said that the new water treatment plant, to be established under federal mandate, will be the major topic of discussion at Spring Town Meeting.

The committee, officially called the "Water System Review Committee of the Town Meeting" was extended to 10 members by an amendment put forth by Town Meeting member Barbara Joslin and approved by a voice vote by Town Meeting. The committee will also consist of a Planning Board member, Conservation Commission member, and a Capital Planning Committee member.

Article 5 would have discontinue the operation of the North Reservoir disinfection station until the chlorine contact time could be increased to 30 minutes. Swartz said the article was about "being sure that our water will not make some townspeople sick."

Joslin put forth another amendment, adopted by Town Meeting by voice vote, which substituted the article with one that called for the selectmen to study the disinfection station situation instead of shutting it down.

After a lengthy discussion on chlorine contact time, giardia, and pH levels, a Town Meeting member pointed out that many members didn't fully understand the situation, and for that reason, should be hesitant to support an article of which they don't fully understand the implications. Joslin added, "I've been waiting for an honest man, or woman, to say, 'I don't know what this is all about.'" She then proposed her amendment that asks the selectmen, as the town's Water Commissioners, to reconsider operation of the disinfection station and hold a public hearing on the subject.

Article 6 would have raised the pH level at the disinfection station at the South Resevoir. The cost would have been $30,000. After an assurance from Schmitt that selectmen would also study this station, Town Meeting indefinitely postponed the article by a voice vote.

Players performance is warm

avoid cocktails, knowing the alcohol will exacerbate his anger and frustrations.

Enter the mother, Ann. Played with style, wit and empathy by Renee Miller, Ann accepts her first martini of the evening and temporarily defuses the mounting, albeit muffled, rage between the two men. Announcing that their new kitchen help means "dinner is on a wing and a prayer," she goes on to remind John that the cocktail hour is still "sacred" in their home and "helps people to unwind."

There's lots of unwinding to do.

John's sister, Nina, arrives with Portia on her mind. Portia represents a passion of Nina's which comes to figure prominently in the evening's revelations and changes in direction.

White wine in hand, Nina quickly becomes upset that her role in John's play is minor. With a candor and astuteness that mark her character throughout the play, she paints for her family a picture of her life that is not quite in sync with the role any of them gives her. Each character, in turn, reveals a similarly hidden and unacknowledged self.

Even the absent brother, Jigger (yes, "Jigger"), has revelations to make. Telephone conversations with the happy, piano-playing son and sibling, are pivotal to the changes the family faces before dinner is finally served.

Meanwhile, John's play is a matter of grave concern for all. It becomes intertwined with the role of Bradley's money in the lives of his children. And money turns out to be as rife with ambivalence as any character in the play.

Ann pleads with John to write a book instead of a play, because he can tell the truth "quietly" in a book. It is later learned that Ann's suggestion has as much to do with her own repressed history as it does with discouraging John from staging his interpretation of their family life.

The play ends on a well-earned optimistic note. The tension of the first scene comes full-circle with plenty of sympathetic laughs, but nary a gratuitous note. Actors Miles Cares as Bradley, Larry Peterson as John, Carolyn Hickok as Nina and Miller as Ann are well-cast. Director B.J. Williams and producer Dirck Stryker seem to have stepped inside a Winchester living room and recreated any number of cocktail hours in one warm and charming production.

"The Cocktail Hour" is performed in Metcalf Hall, Winchester Unitarian Church, 478 Main St., at 8 p.m. Nov. 13 and 14. General admission is $9; seniors and students, $7. For reservations call 721-1814.

Town settles case

on line with NESWIC and the relationship was terminated.

Welch noted precise records can trace the path of the 200,000 cubic yards that Winchester had hauled away by the George company. In battling the suit Welch said a variety of defenses were used. "The next two years (from 1989) our defense was that municipal trash was not hazardous. ... We lost that defense in the summer of 1991. The case then began to turn on how much are we liable," explained Welch.

The board began to fight in earnest on the political front, according to Welch. And the limitations on the town's liability were arrived at in October 1991 with the help of Sen. John Kerry. At that time Winchester had pulled out of the group of municipalities and made a separate offer to the government.

That action, although it caused chaos in 1991, triggered legislative involvement in the form of the four percent rule. Kerry worked on encouraging legislative limits on municipal liability in Superfund clean-up projects to four percent of the total cost of the cleanup, according to Welch.

Selectman Peter VanAken asked what would happen if Winchester refused to go along with the latest agreement.

"We'd be back in court and we'd have exposure to all the people who did settle for contributions," said Welch. When VanAken asked if there was any way of lowering the assessment, Welch replied. "We do know that we had 200,000 cubic yards up there ... I see no probability of a lower settlement."

According to Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer, the payments will be deducted from the state funds paid to the town on a quarterly basis.

The First Annual Stone Zoo Celebrity Golf Challenge sponsored by Friends of Stone Zoo was held recently at Ipswich Country Club. Crowds of golf fans and zoo supporters were on hand to watch Bob Lobel and Mike Macklin of TV 4 match their skills against Sean McDonough and Bob Montgomery of TV 38.

Laura S. Seeley, the author and illustrator of two books, The Book of Shadow-Boxes, A Story of the ABC's and the just published The Magical Moonballs visited Ambrose Elementary School on Oct. 16.

Seeley is currently teaching illustration at the Atlanta College of Art. Before writing and illustrating her own books, she illustrated Tom Hall's Christmas and the Old House and Agatha'a Feather Bed by Carmen Agra Deedy. She was named Georgia Author of the Year for Juvenile Books in 1992.

First graders were given an opportunity to see her demonstrate her artistic ability, while trying their hand at art work. The fifth graders, who are themselves writing and illustrating their work, will have an opportunity to learn about the craft of writing from this guest speaker.

Bethany Pongratz of the first grade enjoys a big bite of pizza.

Muraco hosts pizza party for families

A fun time was had by all at the Muraco pizza party given recently by the Ways and Means Committee of the Parent's Association. There were games, face painting, pictures with a "witch," raffles and balloons. Thanks to 19 fifth grade volunteers, the games were a great success. It was a great combination for a delightful evening.

The students and faculty of Vinson Owen Elementary School were recently visited by a marine education program entitled Mr. and Mrs. Fish. Run by Jeff and Deb Sandler, the program mixes humor and information on marine life that kept their audience (adults and children alike) enthralled for almost two hours. The Sandlers costume themselves as a variety of ocean creatures and act out marine science concepts in a manner that keeps their audience laughing as they learn.

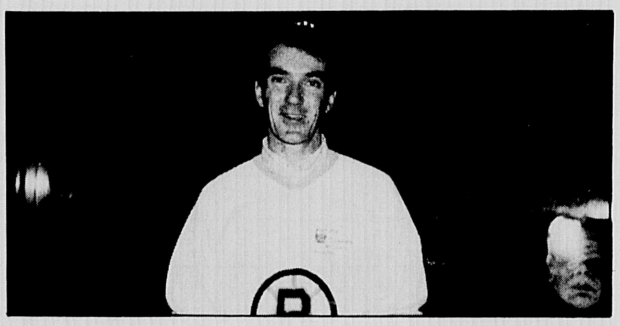

The program was sponsored by the Community Schools Association (CSA).

Fifth grade students Katie Britt and Jennifer Hill check the roll of students during the Ambrose school mock election.

Ambrose school holds mock election

Recently Ambrose school held a mock presidential election. Fifth grade students prepared voting booths and ballots and then staffed the polls as students throughout the school learned about voting and how presidents are elected.

Is that Cam Neely? No, it's Lynch Elementary School Principal Charles McInnis showing off his Halloween spirit.

Bartlett School to participate in arts program

Students at the Bartlett School will participate in a unique educational performing arts program by David Zucker, presented by Young Audiences of Massachusetts on Wednesday, Nov. 18. Young Audiences is a non-profit organization which brings live professional dance, theater and music education programs to schools.

The Bartlett School program is entitled "Poetry in Motion." In "Poetry in Motion," Zucker brings to vivid life the best of poetic literature. This participatory program recreates the fine tradition of spoken verse with the poems of such authors as A.A. Milne, Lewis Carroll, Shel Silverstein, Langston Hughes, James Whitcomb Riley, and many more. Zucker is known throughout Massachusetts as the creator of "Mime Magic." His own rare talents of acting and mime, aided by various props, costume pieces, masks and puppets, is a special attraction in this popular and effective program.

Programs are funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency. Interested parents, educators and arts program sponsors are invited to call Young Audiences at 577-0570 for information about this and other programs.

The Meditation Room background

The Meditation room at the Winchester Hospital was dedicated on January 13, 1985. It was made possible through the efforts of a sub committee of Church Women United in Winchester for the purpose of providing a special area in the Hospital where all persons, regardless of their church affiliation, could sit quietly and meditate.

The Meditation committee is responsible for care of the furnishings of the room and keeping it in good condition. Many Winchester people have contributed Memorials and many persons use these facilities daily. Church groups and Garden Clubs take care of the weekly flowers that contribute to the beauty of this area.

The Meditation room will again sponsor a Benefit Breakfast at the Church of Epiphany on Saturday morning, Nov. 7th at 9:30 am. Tickets are available through Church Women United Representatives in each church and the Meditation Room Chairman, Mrs. Fred Fickett, 10 Yale Street.

Winchester Home and Garden Club

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church at 12:15 p.m. The hospitality committee under the direction of Cynthia Murphy will serve refreshments. A short business meeting conducted by Florence Gosselin, president, will follow.

Linda Anderson, program chairman, has chosen "Holiday Decorating: A Learning Experience" for the topic of the meeting. There will be five simultaneous demonstrations, each with a holiday theme. Paul Gillespie, a professional assisted by talented club members, will staff the stations and share their expertise.

Marie Kelliher will lead the morning workshop from 10 a.m., to noon. Participants will continue to prepare items for the Christmas Greens Sale.

The annual greens sale and luncheon will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 2, from 9:30 a.m., to 2 p.m., at the Crawford Methodist Church. The theme of the sale is "Boughs and Bows." In addition to wreaths and greens many beautiful decorations reflecting this theme will be available.

Helen Hodgdon will again be in charge of the bake table and Pat Byrne will conduct the plant sale.

Edna Dayton has planned a gourmet luncheon to be served at two sittings, the first from 11:30 a.m., to 12:30 p.m., and the second from 12:45 to 1:45 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the Nov. 18 meeting.

Denise Muggia

Denise E. Miller is bride of Frank C. Muggia

A reception was given in the Orchard Park Country Club after the marriage of Denise E. Miller and Frank C. Muggia on Saturday, Oct. 10, at 4 p.m., in Trinity Lutheran Church in Buffalo, N.Y. The Rev. Ralph W. Loew, pastor emeritus and the Rev. Charles E. Bang performed the ceremony for the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald E. Miller of Orchard Park and the son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert L. Muggia of Winchester.

The couple is at home in North Reading after a trip to the U.S. Virgin Islands.

An account representative of Mead Data Central, Boston, the bride is a graduate of Orchard Park High School and Hamilton College. The bridegroom, a trial attorney with Burns and Levinson in Boston, is a graduate of Belmont Hill School, Middlebury College and Boston University School of Law.

Rebecca Birks

Rebecca MacKay is bride of James Birks

Rebecca Brinton MacKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Douglas MacKay, was married to James Michael Birks on Oct. 11.

MacKay is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allister Roderick MacKay of Winchester and Mrs. Shermer Haines Stradley Jr. of Kennett Square, Pa. and the late Dr. Shermer Haines Stradley Jr.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Glenn C. Abbott at the Brewster Baptist Church, Brewster, and was followed by a reception at the Eastward Ho! Country Club in Chatham.

Birks is the son of Lorraine Reed Birks of Columbia, Md., and James N. Birks of Silver Spring, Md.

The bride wore a gown by Bonny International from Lillians of Hanover. The gown was made of ivory slipper satin with a sweetheart neckline and a pearl and sequined encrusted bodice. A bow from the back cascaded onto the cathedral train and was adorned by large motifs of imported lace that were hand beaded and sequined. She wore a coordinating chapeau made of matching satin tooling. She carried a cascading bouquet of three different roses — bridal white, champagne and pink, also white iris, dendrobium orchids, white aspastilbe and ivy designed by Amy White of Harwichport.

Martha Fraser MacKay was the maid of honor with Roseanne Cuccinello, Sarah Goulstone and Shanna Duncan, bridesmaids. They wore midnight blue silk lace over taffeta.

J. Christopher Birks served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Randall Balderson, James Turk and Maarten Sengers.

After a wedding trip to St. Maarten, Mr. and Mrs. Birks will make their home in Bethesda, Md.

The bride graduated from Lexington High School and University of Maryland. Birks graduated from Atholton High School and University of Maryland.

Jacqueline Gorrasi to wed Douglas MacNab

Arthur and Joan Gorrasi of Washington Street proudly announce the engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline Ann Gorrasi, to Douglas Eaton MacNab of Virginia, son of James MacNab of Windsor, Conn. and Judy MacNab of West Lebanon, N.H.

The future bride is a 1984 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1989 graduate of Westfield State College. She is currently employed as a medical receptionist at Lexington Pediatric Associates.

Her fiance is a 1985 graduate of Lebanon High School and a 1989 graduate of Norwich University. He is currently a field chemist at Laidlaw Environmental Services Inc. in Norfolk, Va.

An October wedding is planned.

Winchester soccer: 2 games Andover

Sachems lose 2OT thriller

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

Same field, different team, same story.

Less than 24 hours after the Winchester High School girls' soccer team was unceremoniously dumped from the state tournament, the WHS boys' team suffered the same fate.

Winchester High School SOCCER

Winchester's top-seeded Sachems, picked by many as a contender to capture the Division 2 state championship, dropped a double-overtime heartbreaker, 2-1 to Andover on Monday afternoon at Skillings Field.

The loss put the lid on what many had thought was a chance for Winchester to field state champions in both boys' and girls' soccer.

For the first 10 minutes, it looked like a Winchester rout was about to take place. With precision passing and near-perfect execution, the Sachems took apart the Andover defense, firing shot after shot at Golden Warrior goalie Matt Reghitto.

Just 7:36 into the contest, Winchester drew first blood on a picture-perfect play. Senior winger Shaun Oliver started the play on the left wing, passing ahead to Peter Manning. Manning worked his way into the corner and sent a crossing ball to Brian Taylor, who ripped a shot on Reghitto. The shot was deflected to Peter French, who slammed it home for a 1-0 Sachem lead.

The goal seemed to wake the Warriors out of their sleep, as they spent the better part of the next 15 minutes pressuring the Sachem defenders. But outstanding work by the backline corps of sweeper Dave Hood, backs Jeff Rotondi and Jamie Lanzo and stopper Dave Middleton kept Andover from getting any decent shots on Sachem keeper Andy Nolan.

The Golden Warriors stopped two excellent Winchester chances late in the half. First Oliver raced down the right sideline, beat three defenders in one-on-one situations, and smoked a shot which Reghitto smothered.

Two minutes later, Jeff Tahnk outran Reghitto to a long pass from Lanzo, nudging it past the Andover netminder towards an open net. But moments before it crossed the plane, sweeper Rhett Bachner arrived to clear it out of play. Winchester went to the break up 1-0.

"We could have put them away early," said Sachem coach Gene Bouley, "but we didn't. I've always said you

Sachemettes deserved better fate

There are times in sports when two teams engage in an epic battle. There are times when two fighters struggle mightily to the end, battling to the point of exhaustion, until finally, one team, one fighter, emerges victorious.

Jim McKenzie

It is then that we read quotes like "neither team deserved to lose," and "no one said life is fair." It is then that a coach swallows his or her pride and says something like "it was a great game between two great teams. It's too bad someone had to lose."

That wasn't the case this time.

In a high school Division 1 girls' soccer game dominated by Winchester, North Andover stole away with an unlikely, improbable, 1-0 victory on Sunday at Skillings Field. The Sachemettes and Scarlet Knights battled through 110 minutes of scoreless soccer, with No. 3 seed Winchester constantly forcing the play and 11th-seeded North Andover back on its heels.

Then suddenly, it was over. The two teams went to a breakaway shootout. The Scarlet Knights scored twice, the Sachemettes once. The dream of another Winchester state championship was over. No one seemed quite sure what to do. North Andover's players froze for a moment, before realizing they had actually slayed the giant. Winchester's players froze, stunned that they weren't going to advance. The crowd of about 700 partisan Winchester fans went silent. Totally silent.

"Stunned" was the word Sachemette coach Chris Scanlon used to describe his feelings. It was probably the best word to describe the entire scene.

N. Andover stuns host Sachemettes in shootout

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

It happened so suddenly.

After beating Peabody in the opening round of the Division 1 North Sectional tournament, the Winchester High School girls' soccer team was shocked by North Andover, 2-1, in a penalty shootout on Sunday at Skillings Field.

Winchester High School SOCCER

Winchester, the No. 3 seed, and North Andover, the 11th seed, struggled to a 0-0 tie through 80 minutes of regulation and four overtime periods, bringing on the penalty shootout. The Scarlet Knights scored twice, Winchester once.

"I'm stunned," said Sachemette coach Chris Scanlon, "I'm just stunned. We totally dominated the second half. We just couldn't put the ball in the net."

While much of the credit goes to North Andover goalie Shelagh O'Hagen (15 saves), it was Winchester's bad luck which kept the Sachemettes from advancing. The Sachemettes rang five shots off the post and crossbar and narrowly missed the net on several other good scoring chances.

North Andover, respecting Winchester's offensive talent, employed a 4-4-2 set, which clogged the middle and often forced the Sachemettes to the outside. After a first half of relatively even play, Winchester adjusted to the defense and attacked continuously.

Winchester shot the ball just over the crossbar four times within a 10-minute span early in the half, before the game's defining moment occurred.

Kelley intercepted a pass out of the goal area and broke in on O'Hagen one-on-one. The Scarlet Knight chose to run straight at Kelley, knocking her shot away. Julie Russo was there to pick it up, however, and she whistled one off the crossbar from the left corner. The ball deflected down, hit O'Hagen in the back, and danced along the goal line for a moment before being cleared by a North Andover sweeper.

Jenna DeSimone's one-timer from 25 yards out was tipped wide by O'Hagen with 5:30 remaining in regulation. A Kelley header off a pretty feed from freshman Krissy Nowell clanged off the crossbar late in sudden death play.

"We did everything but put the ball in the net," said Scanlon.

The game was decided with a breakaway shootout competition. North Andover went first and took the lead when Katie Josephs beat Russo. Kelley tied it for Winchester by deking O'Hagen and pushing the ball into an open net. A.J. Kupps then beat Russo to put Andover up 2-1 and O'Hagen stopped Catherine Doherty and Allyson Livada to clinch it for the Scarlet Knights.

"You know, we practiced this (shootout) in practice," said Scanlon, "but I honestly didn't expect it to come to this against North Andover. It's tough. Somebody always has to take it on the chin."

Last Friday at Skillings Field, Winchester opened the tournament against Peabody, the same team it had beaten in the opening round last season. The result was exactly the same, also, as Winchester beat the Tannerettes, 2-0.

Livada scored at 28:38 of the first half, and Kelley Smith scored just over two minutes into the second half. The game might have been a Winchester rout were it not for excellent goaltending from Peabody's Amy LeJeune. Winchester got off 21 shots on net, while Peabody managed just one.

Sachem gridders rally to defeat Melrose

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

Something happened at halftime in the Winchester locker room at Knowlton Stadium last Saturday. Something happened indeed.

When the Sachems left the field at halftime of their game against Melrose, they were trailing, 14-0, and it looked as if it might be a long day for the Winchester faithful. But when Sachem quarterback and co-captain John Rauseo sprinted out of the locker room 10 minutes later and challenged the entire Melrose team to try to beat his team, on his turf, one had to wonder what had happened in the locker room.

Rauseo, playing his final home game for Winchester, went out for the second half and led a spirited Sachem team to victory, 28-22. The emotional Sachem leader finished with 159 yards rushing, two touchdowns, a passing touchdown and a potential game-saving pass breakup in sparking the Winchester comeback.

"We've been through a lot down here (Knowlton Stadium)," said Rauseo. "There's a lot of memories on this field. We don't want to be upset on our own field."

Winchester head coach John Donohue wasn't surprised at the way Rauseo and the rest of his seniors responded to the Red Raider challenge, insisting "there was no Knute Rockne in there," when the coaching staff and players entered the locker room.

"They feel no one can beat them on their home field," said Donohue. "They knew they had played well (in the first half), but we were a little down."

Not for long. After surrendering two Red Raider TDs in the final two minutes of the first half, Winchester's defense stiffened considerably, while Melrose's offense completely self-destructed.

Melrose ran three plays and punted to open the second half, and Rauseo quickly led the Sachems on an eight-play, 63-yard drive. Co-captain Mike Szczepanski, leading by example along with Rauseo, crashed his way for 4 yards on a critical fourth-and-1 situation to keep the drive alive, then Rauseo connected with wideout Sean Furey for a 16-yard TD in the corner of the end zone. Then the fun began.

On the play, a Melrose defender shoved Furey well after the catch was made. The act earned Melrose a 15-yard penalty which was assessed on the kickoff. After Winchester missed the PAT, Mike Wallwork kicked off for the Sachems and dropped the ball on the Melrose 1. The Melrose return man, apparently confused about his field position, stepped back into the end zone and knelt down, giving Winchester an automatic safety, and cutting the deficit to 14-8.

Winchester also got the ball back, and Rauseo went right back to work. Carrying the ball on seven of 10 plays, Rauseo eventually bulled into the end zone from three yards out, and the Sachems had suddenly tied the score with 8:57 left to play.

Things got even worse for Melrose, as the kickoff was fumbled and Winchester's Greg Carroll was there to cover it. Szczepanski once again made the yardage on fourth-and-1 to keep the drive alive, and on the next play, Rauseo raced around the right end for a 32-yard score. Rauseo's two-point rush made it 22-14 Winchester, as Melrose struggled to right itself.

Another Melrose fumble gave Winchester another chance, but the Red Raider defense held on fourth-and-4. Melrose regrouped for one more attempt at the tying score, but huge plays by Rauseo and Josh Carroll put the game away for Winchester.

With 2:43 remaining, Melrose QB Matt Dancewicz dropped back on second-and-13 from his own 40. Spotting receiver Brian Fogarty all alone in the defensive backfield, Dancewicz unleashed a bomb. As Fogarty settled under it, Rauseo materialized out of thin air, diving to knock the ball away.

"We brought John in at corner for that one play," said Donohue. "We thought he had lost his guy, then he comes out of nowhere to make the play. What else can you say about the kid?"

The last in a day of huge plays for the Sachems came after Melrose had moved into scoring position at the Winchester 21. Melrose's Dustin Reid tried to beat the Sachems on an end around, but Rauseo and Carroll were there to stack him up. Suddenly, there was Carroll, running the other way with the ball. Eighty yards later, it was touchdown, Sachems.

"We both stuck him," said Carroll of his game-breaking play, "and I just ripped the ball away and started running."

Melrose scored with seconds remaining to account for the 28-22 final.

"It was a great job overall," said Donohue. "Offense, defense, special teams. It was just a super game."

But what happened in the locker room?

WHS runners race Franklin Park

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

With most of the senior runners busy with their SATs, last Saturday's State Track Coaches Cross Country Meet gave the Winchester High School underclassmen a chance to race at Franklin Park in Boston.

Winchester High School
ROUNDUP

Junior Alain Toussaint was the Sachem star of the day, racing to a personal best 17:02 in finishing 20th over the 3.1-mile course in the boys' 11th grade race. Toussaint's Top 30 finish earned him a medal.

"It was a real good effort on his part," said Sachem coach Joe Cantillon. "He was right up there with some of the better runners in the area."

Other Sachem runners finishers included: Girls' 11th grade race (3.1 miles) — Elodie Kayulu (22:36), Emile Kilker (24:55); Girls' 9th-10th (2.2 miles) — Katie Daley (14:44), Alicia Franke (15:08), Susie Corkery (16:08), Jeanna Kim (16:30); Boys' 11th — Andy Ratner (17:45), Andy Aldrich (18:29), Mike Kenny (18:45); Boys' 10th — Brandon Smith (18:11), Steve McRae (19:19), Peter Ju (22:37); Boys' 9th (2.2 miles) — Brian Castner (12:46), Tom Witt (14:38).

Next on the Sachem agenda is the State Meet, which will be held Saturday at Franklin Park. The top seven runners from each school are eligible to compete.

Sachemette swimmers third at league meet

The Winchester High girls' swim team finished third at the Middlesex League meet on Thursday, Nov. 5, at Bentley College in Waltham. The meet was dominated by an overpowering Reading squad, which won seven of the 11 events.

Winchester's score of 265 followed Reading (524) and second-place Belmont (359). Leading the way for the Sachemettes was senior quad-captain Patti Williams, who took home three second-place finishes. Williams was out-touched in both the 50- and 100-yard freestyle races by league MVP Heidi MacDonald of Reading.

Williams and fellow captains Tara Juwa and Julie Buchanan teamed with freshman Erin McDonough to place second (again to Reading) in the 200 medley relay. Buchanan had a second in the 100 fly, while Juwa was third in the 200 IM. On Wednesday, diver Helen Martinelli turned in a terrific performance at the league diving championships. Martinelli missed third place by just two points.

Several Sachemettes qualified for the North Sectional swimming championships, scheduled for Friday at Regis College in Weston. Juwa qualified in the 200 IM and either the 100 back or 100 breast. Buchanan can compete in the 100 fly and the 200 free, and Williams made it in the 50 and 100 free. Freshmen Becca Malatesta and McDonough, along with Ashley Carrigan and Allison McKay, will fill in with the three quad-captains on three Sachemette relay teams.

JV soccer caps impressive campaign

While the varsity soccer programs were busy completing outstanding seasons, both the boys' and girls' junior varsity programs finished impressive years of their own.

Coach Paul Austin's girls completed their third straight undefeated season, finishing at 13-0-1. The team, which was Austin's youngest in his six years at WHS, scored over 60 goals while limiting its opponents to just four.

Among the Sachemette stars was freshman Krissy Nowell, who was called up to the varsity after scoring 16 goals. Junior Erica Quigley was another top scorer, while junior Kristina Racek and sophomores Stephanie Deering, Liz Bittarelli and Nicole Bonasera also starred.

The goaltenders were sophomores Lea Casalinuova and Stephanie Robbat. Offensive players included Cheryl Hintlian, Katie Hood, Kim Middleton, Allison Mooney, Julie Murphy, Corinne Imperatore, Marisa McCarthy, Meredith McGowan, Keira Powers, Julie Stevens and Sarah Fiumara. Defensive players included Teresa Cella, Michelle Lentini, Sarah Stevens, Michelle Kennedy and Courtney Simpson.

On the boys side, coach Sean O'Loughlin's club was bothered by injury problems all year long, but still compiled a 5-5-2 record. Among the standout players were Mike Millerick, Nate Haskell and Nate Plowman, who O'Loughlin called the "Gordie Lockbaum of the team." The Sachems were led by captains Brett Dimazo and Matt Desmond.

Stolen moment

Winchester has grown to national prominence. Since the fabulous 24-0 season in 1990, when Winchester finished the season as state champs and the top team in the nation, according to USA Today, the Sachemettes have constantly been ranked as one of the top 25 high school teams in the country. Losing in the quarterfinals of the North Sectional tournament is a tough pill to swallow.

But the way they lost makes it that much tougher. It was as if a higher power was working against Winchester on this day. Shots which game after game were finding the net were instead hitting the post or clanging off the crossbar. Winchester's potent offense, which had scored 90 goals as the team completed a 16-0-2 regular season and beat Peabody, 2-0 in the first round of the tourney, couldn't score once against North Andover. It wasn't for lack of opportunity; rather, it was just pure, dumb luck.

The whole thing could be summed up with the description of one play. With 17 minutes left in regulation, North Andover goalie Shelagh O'Hagen robbed Winchester's Liz Kelley on a breakaway, sliding to knock away a sure goal. But the ball ricocheted to Julie Russo, who ripped off a left-footed shot which hit the crossbar, bounced off O'Hagen's back, and rolled along the chalk of the goal line before being cleared by the Scarlet Knights.

Winchester took 25 shots this day. O'Hagen made 15 saves and was helped by the crossbar (three times) and the posts (once each). O'Hagen then stopped two of three in the shootout. North Andover managed just four shots on Sachemette keeper Jenn Russo during the 11-on-11 phase of play.

One fan mentioned how Winchester might have to repair a dent in the post after Kelley ripped a shot off it from 20 yards out during the first half. Jenna DeSimone had a chance to be the hero with five minutes left, but her blast from 25 yards out was tipped wide by the diving O'Hagen.

Freshman Krissy Nowell set up another great scoring bid with 30 seconds left in the first sudden death-overtime. Her chip to the middle found Kelley, whose header had plenty of steam, but clanged off the crossbar.

So, as it was last year, when Winchester fell to Framingham in the North Sectional final under the exact same circumstances, a team game played by 11 players came down to a one-on-one shootout. Perhaps the biggest shame is that three of Winchester's best players on this day, and indeed throughout the season, may most remember their momentary failure.

Goalkeeper Jenn Russo, who many claim is the best goalie in Eastern Mass, gave up goals to the first two North Andover players. But hopefully, no one will forget the incredible save she made to give Winchester one last chance, when she robbed North Andover's third-leading scorer, Kara Allen, with a fantastic sprawling save.

Sweeper Catherine Doherty made a great move to deke O'Hagen out of position in the shootout, but her shot rolled just wide of the goal. Hopefully, people will remember Doherty as the finest player at her position in the Middlesex League. Hopefully, people will remember that, anchored by Doherty, the Sachemette defense yielded just nine goals in 20 games.

Trailing 2-1 in the shootout, senior winger Allyson Livada had the task of beating O'Hagen and prolonging the contest, but O'Hagen stopped her. Hopefully, people will remember Livada for her outstanding speed and skill on the wing, and her penchant for scoring the big goals.

When the game was over, North Andover loaded up its bus and sped out of town. There was no time for post-game interviews with the winning team or its coach. The Scarlet Knights knew they had stolen one, and weren't about to wait around for the police.

Winchester didn't deserve to lose this game. This wasn't a game where you could honestly say that the better team won It didn't. This wasn't a game where you could say that neither team deserved to lose. One did, one didn't. Case closed.

Sachems stung by Andover

need that second one to win."

Oliver made a bid to get the second goal immediately off the second half kickoff, but was denied. When a Tahnk rocket was deflected wide by Reghitto's left leg save moments later, the momentum started to turn.

The teams matched skill and intensity levels over the next several minutes until Andover's top scorer, forward Josh Nelken, jumped on a loose ball in the Sachem crease. Only a fine, hustling play by Eric Hood, who came out of nowhere to block Nelken's empty-net chance, preserved the Sachem advantage.

Nolan made one of several great saves with 11 minutes remaining, stuffing Nelken after the Golden Warrior had dribbled past the Winchester defense. Nolan came up big minutes later when he tipped a Nelken bullet over the crossbar with eight minutes left.

The Warriors finally broke through with 6:17 to go in regulation. Kevin Nusky received a corner kick about 15 yards out, and his backwards bicycle kick found teammate John Martin all alone at the side of the net. Nusky jammed it home and suddenly the game was tied.

Winchester had a chance to win it with three minutes left, but Tahnk's shot off an Oliver feed was tipped over the crossbar by Reghitto, setting up two mandatory 10-minute overtime sessions.

Winchester had few chances in the overtime, as Andover forced the play. With 8:43 gone in the first OT, Andover's Lyle Morgan stuffed home a Nelken cross for the go-ahead goal. Winchester couldn't fashion any scoring chances in the second OT; in fact, Nolan kept it 2-1 only by making four diving, one-armed saves.

Andover coach Dave Munson said the difference between the two teams was minute.

"They've beaten us up (physically) before," said Munson, "but we didn't let them do that today. We got the extra goal today."

Bouley, meanwhile, said his team should not be ashamed.

"We played a good game," the Sachem mentor reminded. "Our defense was outstanding, our passing was there, we just couldn't put them away."

Throw-ins:

The Sachems advanced to the Andover matchup by defeating 16th-seeded Tewksbury, 3-0, Saturday at Skillings Field. Jeff Tahnk had two goals and Dean McLearn one as Winchester dominated the outclassed Redmen.

Winchester's defensive unit was outstanding in the loss to Andover. Lanzo and Middleton stood out particularly, the former using his powerful leg to change the play on several occasions, while Middleton played perhaps his finest game of the season at stopper. Rotondi displayed real toughness, taking a kick to the face at one point but returning just moments later. Dave Hood contributed his usual superb play at sweeper. Nolan was brilliant in goal, keeping the deficit at one goal while the Sachem defenders pressed for the tying goal. With everyone up, Nolan made four consecutive highlight-quality saves, including two on Nelken, the Golden Warriors' top scorer.

"We were worried about our defense coming into the season," said Bouley, "but they were really excellent."

SPORTS BRIEFS

Soccer Club meeting Nov. 12

The Winchester Soccer Club Board of Directors invites all members and the public to attend its annual meeting on Thursday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m., in the Lincoln School gym.

The board will review fiscal 1992 performance, and the WSC Board of Directors for fiscal 1993 will be elected.

Winchester Soccer recruiting players

The Winchester Soccer Club is planning to field boys' soccer teams in the Middlesex League next spring in the under-16 and older age divisions.

Since boys in these age groups do not participate in the fall developmental program, separate registration is necessary to determine the level of interest.

If interested in playing in the under-16, under-17 or under-19 divisions, boys born between Aug. 1, 1973 and July 31, 1978 should call the appropriate coordinator no later than Nov. 12 for more information.

For boys born Aug. 1, 1976 through July 31, 1978, call Don Wright at 729-6817 or 494-2751. For boys born Aug. 1, 1973 through July 31, 1976, call Don Sutton at 721-2228.

Bigelow heads adult hoop camp

Winchester's Bob Bigelow, a former NBA player and first-round draft choice, will be directing a new adult basketball skills program at the North Suburban YMCA at 137 Lexington Street in Woburn.

Bigelow is currently a New England-based scout and director of the country's only skill development camp for college players.

The program, for players of all levels and abilities, runs five consecutive Sundays (Nov. 15-Dec. 13) from 3-4 p.m. The fee for this five-session course is $45 for YMCA members and $55 for non-members. Enrollment is limited. Call Bob Bigelow at 729-6134 for more information or mail an application to Bigelow at 69 Church Street, Winchester, 01890.

Learn to skate program Nov. 20

The 1992 Winchester Youth Hockey Learn to Skate program has been scheduled for Friday Nov. 20, from 5-7 p.m. at Medford's Flynn Rink.

The program teaches basic skating skills to children ages 3 and older.

Skaters are divided into groups according to their ability. Older, more experienced skaters will be eligible to play clinic hockey games as their skills improve.

For more information, including an application, contact Winchester Youth Hockey, P.O. Box 145, Winchester, 01890, or call Ron Martignetti at 720-1313.

Sachemettes fall in shootout

"This was the type of game that's good to get under your belt," said Scanlon. "We're starting to get lots of (scoring) chances, and obviously some of them are going to go in."

Throw-ins:

Winchester finished its regular season by beating Woburn, 4-1, last Wednesday, Nov. 4, at Woburn's Connolly Stadium. The Sachemettes, needing a win to clinch their 14th Middlesex League championship in 15 years, trailed 1-0 at halftime, but roared back with four unanswered goals after the break to take the title.

Livada started the scoring, picking up a loose ball after a Doherty free kick and ripping it into the goal to knot the game at 1-1, less than five minutes into the half. Nowell, starting in place of All-Scholastic candidate Liz Kelley (ankle sprain), made her starting debut a memorable one, as she scored one of the prettiest goals of the year to put Winchester on top to stay.

Picking up a deflection about 30 yards out, Nowell sped towards the net, made a nifty spin move to lose a defender, then ripped a high shot just over the fingertips of Woburn keeper Karen Irving.

Winchester got goals from Diana Grande and Livada (her second) to close the scoring.

"It was a great second half from Winchester," said Scanlon. "(Nowell) was spectacular right from the get-go. She's a hero today."

COMING EVENTS

WHAT'S GOING ON IN YOUR AREA IN THE COMING WEEKS

Local breastfeeding support group

La Leche League of Winchester, a support group for breast-feeding mothers, holds meetings on the third Tuesday of each month in the Michelson Room of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Nursing mothers are welcome to attend with their babies. Pregnant women considering breastfeeding are also encouraged to attend.

The Winchester meeting is open to mothers from any community. Local group leaders are available to answer questions and provide information both at the monthly meetings and by telephone.

La Leche League is an international nonprofit organization whose purpose is to offer help and mother-to-mother support to women wanting to breastfeed their babies. The local group meetings provide an opportunity for nursing mothers to meet informally and share their experiences.

A lending library of books on childbirth, breastfeeding and child care is also available to members. For further information, call Nancy, at 729-1163, or Sophia, at 396-7329.

Free morning and evening beginner step classes

The Energy Connection is offering one-half hour of free beginner step on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. at the Jenks Center and on Fridays at 9 a.m. at Crawford Methodist Church. Come and learn the basics of this great conditioning workout. Steps are provided. The Energy Connection has a full schedule of morning and evening fitness classes. For information call Marie Dacey at 729-7268 or Linda Vacovec at 729-3256.

Class of 1977 reunion

The Winchester High School Class of 1977 will hold its 15th year reunion on Friday, Nov. 27, at the Winchester Knights of Columbus.

A mailing with details will be going out shortly. The Reunion Committee would appreciate current addresses for anyone who is not at the address listed in the high school records. If any of the class knows of anyone who has moved, please help the committee get in touch with them.

Any class member with ideas or an interest in helping with the reunion is encouraged to call.

Please call or send address changes to Denise Driscoll Wyer, 228 Forest St., Reading, Mass. 01867, or call at 942-2891.

Music Society to sponsor sight reading in Nov.

On Sunday, Nov. 15, the Music Society will sponsor an open sight reading of Mozart's "Requiem" in the choir loft of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. The "Requiem" will be directed by Suzanne McAllister and accompanied by Louise Mundinger on the Fisk organ. This occasion will afford Winchester residents an opportunity to meet McAllister, the new minister of music at the Parish of the Epiphany. Soloists rehearse at 1:30 p.m. and singers at 2 p.m.

Gala concert WHS Octets and chorus

The Winchester High School Octets will hold a concert with the chorus and "The Russians" on Sunday, Nov. 22, 3 p.m. at the Winchester High School Auditorium.

Tickets are on sale at Book Ends, Carlson Real Estate, WHS Music Department and at the door. Prices for admission are $10 for adults, $3 for students, $5 for seniors and $25 for families. For ticket information, call 729-5600. A silent auction will be held at the concert. For auction information, call 729-6821.

Christmas Goose Fair to be held at Church of Epiphany

The Christmas Goose Fair will be held at the Church of the Epiphany, 70 Church St., on Friday, Nov. 13, from noon to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Featured will be a wide variety of handmade items, baked goods, antiques, plus the creations of many professional crafts people.

A cafe will serve gourmet refreshments and a Friday night supper, and there will be a Children's Fair on Saturday morning. Admission is free and proceeds support the work of the Women of Epiphany.

Chocoholics announce "A Chocolate Sunday"

Members finalized plans for 'A Chocolate Sunday' to be held Sunday, Nov. 22, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mahoney's Garden Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Recreation, the event will provide delicious confections from top chocolatiers and bakeries for only $10 for adults and $5 for children under twelve. Held in the conservatory at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, guests will be able to mingle through the "enchanted forest" of Christmas trees while sampling some of the finest sweets. Since the event is being held the week prior to Thanksgiving, guests will be able to purchase their favorite delights to share with family and friends.

The Friends of Winchester Recreation provide a variety of services and programs for adults and youth. What a great way to spend a Sunday afternoon — supporting a worthwhile cause and satisfying your sweet tooth!

Tickets can be purchased at various Winchester businesses including Craddock Apothecary, 22 Church Street and Carlson Real Estate, 552 Main Street. For more information feel free to call Freya Surabian, chairwoman of the event, at 729-4911 or Dotty Volpe-O'Malley at 729-0058.

Auditions for Rock for Youth

Auditions for Rock for Youth will be held at Town Hall, Nov. 13, 7-10 p.m.

The audition is open to all high school and/or 18 plus bands. Those wishing to audition will pay a $25 returnable entrance fee, should play at least one cover, and will be judged on musicianship, showmanship and general appeal.

There is a fee of $2.50 to judge. Five winners play in the annual March 27 Rock for Youth concert. Call 729-2437.

Tables set at Northeast Metro for business EXPO'

Tables may now be rented for the Business Expo sponsored by the Northeast Metro Tech PTO. The Business Expo will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 18, from 4 to 9:30 p.m., in the cafetorium of the school, 100 Hemlock Road, Wakefield. This is also the night and date of this year's first Parent-Teacher Conference. The Business Expo tables are rented to raise money for the Northeast PTO's Scholarship fund and general fund. There will be a table of raffle items such as a gingerbread house and again this year, culinary students will be selling baked goods and refreshments. Other shops, groups and classes will be participating also.

For more details about the Business Expo please call Robin at 935-4868. The public is invited to attend, and there is lots of free parking.

First Congregational to hold annual fair

Katherine Dunn, chairperson, and her committee members are busy putting the final touches to the annual fair at the First Congregational Church (on the Common). The fair will be held on Friday, Nov. 13, from 6 to 9 p.m.; and Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Available will be holiday decorations and wrappings, knitted goods, handmade articles, baked and frozen items, preserves, jewelry, used books, recycled toys and games, white elephants, an auction and more. Supper will be served on Friday and lunch on Saturday.

Admission is free. All proceeds to charity. For information call 729-9180.

Alice McCarter and Tom Maher display a poster advertising the years first Jumelage fundraiser: A.R. Gurney's "The Cocktail Hour" on Saturday, Nov. 14 at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church. The cost is $20 an includes a ticket to the show and dinner. For information call 721-4564.

Columnist to give speech on abortion

Herald columnist Don Feder will give a speech at St. Eulalia's on Ridge Street on Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. The topic of the speech will be "Abortion and the Challenge to Western Civilization." The event is sponsored by the Winchester/Arlington Mass Citizens For Life.

Fair opens on Nov. 13 at Church of Epiphany

The holiday season will be in full bloom at the Christmas Goose Fair at the Church of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. Opening on Friday, Nov. 13, from noon to 9 p.m., the fair will continue on Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the members of the parish will be offering homebaked goods and jams and jellies as well as hand-knitted items. Again this year the white elephant table will rival a real antique shop, with fine merchandise and good prices. There will also be books and jewelry, holiday items and giftware to suit every need, taste and pocketbook.

The Christmas Goose Fair is also a craft show, with some of the most outstanding and talented crafts people in the area exhibiting their creations and making them available for purchase. One of the most enjoyable parts of the fair is the Gourmet Cafe that will be in operation throughout the two days, offering snacks and light meals, and in addition there will be a delicious chicken supper on Friday night. The younger set will especially like the Children's Fair which will feature fun and games on Saturday morning.

The popular Parish of Epiphany cookbook, with all its wonderful recipes, will be for sale, and would make a great gift for any culinary expert or would-be expert. Admission is free and everyone is cordially invited to a delightful holiday event!

"It's a Grand night for Singing!" is the theme of the Eighth Annual Choir Concert at St. Eulalia Church this Saturday evening.

The concert, featuring the combined voices of St. Eulalia's Choir and Boston University's Choral Society, is a special treat this year, according to B.U. conductor Therese Provenzano, because it's the only concert the students will do this year outside of their school.

"It's become a tradition" says Provenzano. "The audience is spectacular and its just a great community to come to." Her sentiments are echoed by St. Eulalia's choir president Georgeann Abbanat of Winchester. "It's our way of saying thank you to the community," Abbanat adds.

The choir,s songs will range from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "It's a Grand Night for Singing" to international and native American folks songs to Pachelbel and Palestrina.

The B.U. group also does show tunes, vocal jazz, and Duke Ellington. "Boogie Woogie Bugel Boy" is a feature of this year's concert as well as a haunting rendition of "Shenandoah".

Singers in the 85-member B.U. Choral Society are from all schools within B.U.and come from all over the United States and abroad. A smaller group of students, the Chamber Society, will also sing in the concert.

St. Eulalia's 58-member choir includes 18 Winchester residents. Selections at the concert will also include a chorus from Handel's Messiah, which the B.U. and St. Eulalia groups will sing together.

The one and a half hour concert , on Saturday, November 14, at 8:15 in the churtch at 50 Ridge Street, Winchester, is free to all, and is accessible to the handicapped. A reception will follow.

The Gables at Winchester will hold a holiday fair for its residents and members of the local community. The fair will be held on Sunday, Nov. 15, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at The Gables at Winchester, 299 Cambridge St.

There will be a variety of goods for sale, many of them handcrafted by Massachusetts craftspeople. Items will include: jewelry (beads, silver pieces and costume), wooden toys, flower arrangements — silk, dried and fresh, pieced and quilted pillows, framed theorem paintings on velvet, decorated sweatshirts for women and children, Avon goods, women's apparel, books, a white elephant table, and a raffle from a local travel agency.

For information call 756-1026.

Bartlett School plans holiday fair

Bartlett School, 40 Samoset Road, is holding its third annual Holiday Craft Fair on Saturday, Nov. 14, in the school auditorium. The fair will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All are welcome.

Each Bartlett class will be exhibiting their own selfmade crafts, alongside local professional craftspeople. Fair items will include homemade baked goods, a white elephant table, homemade caramel apples, snacks, and raffles every hour.

Be early to save up to 65 percent off retail prices on clothing by very famous makers (so famous, we can't mention names) for ladies, girls and boys. Labels intact.

There is still some open table space available for craftspeople to rent and sell their wares. Tables are $25.

Please contact the Bartlett School for more information.

Spaghetti supper at Congregational

A spaghetti supper will be held at the First Congregational Church in Winchester on Friday, Nov. 13 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. The public is welcome. The menu includes spaghetti and meatballs, garden salad, garlic bread, cheesecake or cookies, punch, milk, coffee and tea. Admission is $5 per person, $2 for children under 12. The supper is part of the Candlelight Fair, which features a silent auction, books, white elephant, jewelry, bakery, wrapping paper, international table, homemade crafts and used toys.

Genealogy Group to meet in library on Nov. 17

The Genealogy Group of the Winchester Historical Society will meet Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Winchester Public Library (lower level). The group will see a video tape of a talk by Dr. George M. Redmonds at the annual meeting of the New England Historic Genealogical Society held in April. Dr. Redmonds, editor of "Old West Riding" and an authority on English surnames and place names, suggests ways in which naming pattern customs can be useful in genealogical research.

Free cleaning of donated clothing at Fresh Touch Cleaners

Fresh Touch Cleaners is again serving as a collection point for Goodwill Industries Project Wear and Share. Last November area residents contributed more than 1,500 garments and blankets to help less fortunate people. Because of last year's success and an even greater need this year, Project Wear and Share is being run again by Fresh Touch Cleaners, 757 Main St. Donated clothing is cleaned by Fresh Touch and sent to Goodwill Industries, Boston. The clothing is sold by Goodwill at very low prices to fund a multitude of charitable programs.

All garments are cleaned free of charge at Fresh Touch. Owner, Bruce Smith, assures, "all clothing is accepted with open arms. Anything that is not used by Goodwill is sent to a textile recycling center. Nothing goes to waste, nothing goes to a landfill or is incinerated."

"This is the third year for Project Wear and Share," said Smith. "The need is obviously much greater this year than last. Goodwill Industries needs our help more than ever before."

Fresh Touch Cleaners is located at 757 Main St. Hours of operation are 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays. Residents are encouraged to bring in unwanted clothing during the month of November only.

International Fabricare Institute, of which Fresh Touch is a member, is the national organization which has organized this program and hopes to establish November as clothes recycling month all across the country.

RECREATION NEWS

Ski & Skate swap this weekend

Ski season is fast approaching. Why not check out our bargains before deciding to purchase new equipment this year. The Council on Youth & Recreation Department will sponsor the eighth annual Ski & Skate Swap on Saturday, Nov. 14, at Lynch Elementary School. In this community service project and fundraiser, residents bring used skis and skates to be sold, get 80 percent of the sales price, and find wonderful bargains on "new" equipment. We also sell new equipment and selected ski clothing and cross country equipment at reduced prices. Equipment to be sold may be delivered Friday, Nov. 13, from 5 to 7 p.m.; or Saturday, from 11 a.m. to noon, at the Lynch School Gymnasium. Equipment will not be accepted after noon on Saturday. (Out-of-date equipment will not be accepted.) The sale is from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 14.

Pickup of equipment not sold and/or sale vouchers is from 4 to 5 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 14. The Recreation Department will retain 20 percent of the sales price of each item. Items priced $5 or less will be considered a donation. Please call the Recreation Department at 721-7125 for more information.

Deck the halls this season

Welcome in the holiday season with Priscilla Carter by making three special holiday crafts to decorate your home or to give as gifts. This four session class will begin with a special Thanksgiving project, the class will work up to our final project: a children's size gingerbread house complete with shredded wheat roof and gumdrop landscape. A $10 materials fee to the instructor will be collected at the first class. There will be a course for children age 4 through kindergarten starting Monday, Nov. 16 course number 925-PS-02A; grades 3 to 5 starting Tuesday, Nov. 17, course number 924ES-04A; grades 1 and 2 starting Wednesday, Nov. 18 course number 924-ES-04B. All classes run from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. in the Lynch School Art Room and have a course fee of $28. "Deck the Halls" with us this season.

Sweet treats to be made

"The Candyman can...," and you can too! Students in grades 3 to 5 will make one pound of delicious candies to take home in festive holiday shapes. As the candies chill, the instructor, Linda Cassino will help you create a fabric-covered gift box to display your work. A $9 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class. Choose one of two sessions. Course number 925-ES-07A will take place on Dec. 3, from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. Course number 925-ES-07B will take place on Dec. 17, from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. Both classes are held on Thursdays at the Lynch School and have a registration fee of $10

New: "My Time" is a time for you

"My Time" is a new program designed for children walking to 5 years of age. "My Time" is a time for children to meet other children, do arts and crafts, learn new stories and songs and have an enjoyable morning or afternoon. "My Time" is also a time for the parent to go shopping, visit a friend, have time to yourself while knowing that your child is having a fun day in a safe, friendly environment. The instructor, Annette Kennedy is well known in town for her work with pre-school children. "My Time" will be run on Tuesdays, Dec. 1, 8, 15 and 22 at the Library Meeting Room. Parents may pick either the morning session, 9:30 a.m. to noon or the afternoon session, 12:30 to 3 p.m. Children may come for one, two or three days, morning or afternoon session at a cost of $12 a day/session or save over 10 percent by enrolling in all four days at a total cost of $43. There is a discount for the second child when enrolling siblings. The Recreation Department is very excited about this program. Please call us at 721-7125 for more information.

Homemade quilted holiday ornaments

Start a tradition in your family. Create cherished ornaments that can be handed down from one generation to another. In this one-session class, you will make three different ornaments. A supply list will be available upon registration. The class will be held on Friday, Dec. 4, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Lynch School. Fee is $16.

Additional date for Victorian tree

Because our first class filled up so quickly, we have added an additional date for this popular class. Decorate a beautiful, miniature, 15-inch Christmas tree with roses, baby's breath, berries, dried flowers, ribbons, and pearls. To enhance your holiday experience, you may scent your finished design with balsam fragrance. Please bring a glue gun, scissors and wire clippers. A $30 materials fee is payable to the instructor. This workshop takes place on Monday, Nov. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. The fee is $18.

Students can make wooden wonders

In this class, students in grades 3 to 5 can chose to make one of two wooden projects with instructor, Linda Cassino. The first is a Keepsake Wooden Box, which is ideal for holding baseball cards or jewelry. The second is a Personalized Door Plaque with your name on it. Students who choose this project will also make a matching light switch. Please specify at time of registration which project you will be working on. A $10 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class. This class will be offered in two different schools. Muraco School will have a class on Friday, Dec. 11, from 3 to 4:3 p.m. The course number for that class is 925-ES-05B and has a registration fee of $9. Ambrose School will have a class on Friday, Dec. 4, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The course number for that class is 925-ES-05A and has a registration fee of $9. Please call the Recreation Department for more information.

Yule log

You have heard about the wonderful Buche de Noel. Now you will learn how to make this fabulous Yule Log from scratch using a classic French recipe including butter cream filling and traditional decorations. A $10 food fee is payable to the instructor. This class will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the cooking room at the high school. Fee is $16.

Attend a runners workshop

Whether you just began or have been running for years, this workshop is for you. Topics covered include postural evaluations, gait testing, preventing injuries, stretching and strengthening techniques. The instructor will also emphasize motivational skills. Dr. Fitts has been in private practice in Winchester for seven years and works with world-class athletes. This class will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Winchester Chiropractic Center. Fee is $8.

Holiday shopping in New York

Just in time for holiday shopping. Spend an entire day, Wednesday, Dec. 9, shopping on Fifth Avenue, go to Germantown, the Village, Zabar's, SoHo. Use the time to visit the garment district, buy antiques or take in a matinee. The time is yours to use as you wish. The motorcoach will leave from McCall Middle School at 6 a.m. arriving in New York City at approximately 10:30 a.m. We will leave New York at approximately 6 p.m. and return to Winchester by 11 p.m. Come see the Big Apple brightly polished for the holidays. Joins us as we travel to New York for a wonderful day. The trip will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 9. The fee is $44.

Understanding mutual funds

Does the financial vocabulary of the investment counselor confuse you? In this class, you will learn the meaning of such mysterious terms as load and no-load funds, tax-free, double tax-free, and taxable bonds, money market funds, stock funds, growth and income stocks. You will learn how to read a prospectus so you can develop your own investment strategies. We will also talk about investment opportunities, how funds are set up and regulated, and how to evaluate a fund's performance. This one session program will be held on Thursday, Nov. 19, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the High School. The fee is $16.

Rock for Youth auditions held Friday night

The "Rock for Youth" audition, an annual Winchester event, will be held Friday, Nov. 13, from 7 to 10 p.m., in the Town Hall auditorium. All youth are welcome to come vote for their favorite band.

During these auditions, high school bands from throughout the Greater Boston area try out for one of the five spots in the March 1993 concert. All participating bands pay a $25 returnable tryout deposit. All spectators vote for the top five. Last year, 17 bands tried out. The Youth Center won a special award for our "Rock for Youth" donation to the Woburn Council of Social Concern.

The concert co-chairs are Genevive White and Jeremy Cook. Call 729-2437 for further information and registration. Spectator tickets are $2.50 and purchased at the door.

Your best colors: holiday style

Before investing in holiday clothing and makeup, discover the palette of colors that best enhances the tones of your skin, hair, and eyes. You will learn the make-up colors that are most complimentary to you and your wardrobe palette. Each student will go home with a packet of fabric swatches to use as a shopping guide. Price of the packet is included in the registration fee. Class is small to guarantee individual attention. This one-session class will be held on Thursday, Nov. 17, from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m. in the high school. Fee is $46 and includes the price of the fabric swatches.

Friends of Recreation news

Chocoholics, come out of the closet

Bring your sweet tooth to "A Chocolate Sunday" held Sunday, Nov. 22, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mahoney's Garden Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Recreation, the event will provide delicious confections from top chocolatiers and bakeries for only $10 per ticket. Held in the conservatory at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, guests will be able to mingle through the "enchanted forest" of Christmas trees while sampling some of the finest sweets. Since the event is being held the week prior to Thanksgiving, guests will be able to purchase their favorite delights to share with family and friends.

The Friends of Winchester Recreation provide a variety of services and programs for adults and youth. What a great way to spend a Sunday afternoon — supporting a worthwhile cause and satisfying your sweet tooth!

Tickets can be purchased at various Winchester businesses including Cradock's Apothecary, Carlson Real Estate, Bayberry Shoe and the Recreation Department. Call the Recreation Department at 721-7125 for more information.

OBITUARIES

James M. Fennell

WAS SALESMAN

James Michael Fennell, a retired office salesman for Georgia-Pacific Plywood Co., died Wednesday, Nov. 4, in Mount Auburn Hospital, Cambridge. He was 79.

Formerly of Charlestown and the West End of Boston, Fennell lived in Winchester for the past 14 years.

After 25 years of service, Fennell retired in 1978 from Georgia-Pacific.

In addition to his career as a salesman, he had served with the 148th armored signal company of the United States Army in World War II's European theatre, and had been a member of the Charlestown School Boys Association.

He leaves his wife, Jane (Fitzgerald) Fennell; his brother, Peter J. Fennell of Chelsea; his sister, Marie Clauss of South Weymouth; and several nieces and nephews.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Saturday, Nov. 7, in St. Mary's Church, Winchester.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Arrangements were made by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home, Winchester.

Paul A. Senesi

Paul A. "Bucky" Senesi died Wednesday, Nov. 4.

He leaves his wife, Mildred J. (Querques) Senesi; his son, Paul M. Senesi of Wilmington; his sisters, Lena Sica and Clara Maiella, both of Somerville; and three grandchildren.

He was the brother of the late Joseph Senesi.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Friday, Nov. 6, in St. Mary's Church, Winchester.

Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery, Winchester.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home, Winchester.

Ada R. Sleeth

HOSPITAL WORKER

Ada Ruie Sleeth, administrative office worker for 32 years at Winchester Hospital, died Saturday, Oct. 24 in Winchester Hospital. She was 82.

Born in Amherst, Nova Scotia, Canada, Sleeth lived most of her life in Winchester. She had been a senior member of the American Association of Hospital Administrators.

She leaves her godchild, Susan W. Baynes of New London, N.H.

She was the daughter of the late James F. Sleeth and Agnes (McKay) Sleeth.

A private funeral service was held.

Burial was in Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

Arrangements were made by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home, Winchester.

Alice J. Merklee

MACHINE OPERATOR

SOUTH DENNIS — Alice Julia Merklee, retired employee of Waltham Bag and Paper, died Wednesday, Nov. 4 in Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis. She was 79.

Born in Waltham, Merklee had attended Waltham grade schools and Waltham High School. She lived in Waltham most of her life, and, in 1991, moved from the Leland Home in Waltham — where she lived since 1985 — to South Dennis.

At Waltham Bag and Paper, later known as Longview Fibre Co., Merklee worked until her retirement as a machine operator.

She leaves her sister, Ruth Carter of East Dennis; her nieces, Thelma Jurewicz and Susan Jurewicz, both of Winchester; and her nephew, David E. Jurewicz of Winchester.

She was the daughter of the late Charles Merklee and Sadie (Polinsky) Merklee.

A private funeral service and burial will be held.

Donations may be made to Hospice of Cape Cod, 923 Route 6A, Yarmouthport, MA 02675.

Arrangements were made by the Doane, Beal & Ames Funeral Home, Hyannis.

Marie Y. Johnson

Marie Yvonne (Chevarie) Johnson died Sunday, Nov. 8 in her home. She was 69.

Born in Cambridge, Johnson lived in Winchester for 37 years.

Wife of the late Vann Johnson Jr., she leaves her sons, Glenn T. Johnson, Gregory A. Johnson and Michael Johnson; her daughters, Susan Murphy, Carol A. Hodgdon and Martha E. Johnson; her brother, Edward Chevarie; her sisters, Marie Gavin, Emilie Dempsey and Claire Marshall; and nine grandchildren.

She was the sister of the late Edna Woody.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday, Nov. 11, at St. Eulalia's Church, Winchester.

Donations may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home, Winchester.

Wilma L. Stevens

MEMBER OF WOMEN'S CLUB

Wilma Ladd Stevens, member for more than 30 years of the Athol Congregational Church Women's Club, died Tuesday, Nov. 10, in Winchester Hospital. She was 72.

Born in Orange, Stevens lived in Winchester for the past seven years.

A member for 30 years of the Athol Congregational Church Hospital Auxiliary, she had worked in the Winchester Hospital Gift Center, and had been active in the Jenks Center and Fortnightly of Winchester, a women's club.

Wife of the late Paul O. Stevens, she leaves her daughter, Paula A. Donahue of Winchester; and her grandchild, Kasey Donahue of Winchester.

A graveside service will be held Friday, Nov. 13, at 11 a.m. in South Cemetery, Orange.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Service, Winchester.

Gertrude T. Kenney

BELMONT — Gertrude T. (McManus) Kenney died Friday, Nov. 6.

Wife of the late Raymond J. Kenney Sr., she leaves her sons, Raymond J. Kenney Jr. of Winchester and Robert T. Kenney of Wollaston; her daughter, Virginia M. Kennedy of Belmont; 11 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, Nov. 10, in St. Joseph's Church, Belmont.

Burial was in Belmont Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Pine Street Inn, 444 Harrison Ave., Boston, MA 02118.

"It's a Grand night for Singing!" is the theme of the Eighth Annual Choir Concert at St. Eulalia Church this Saturday evening.

The concert, featuring the combined voices of St. Eulalia's Choir and Boston University's Choral Society, is a special treat this year, according to B.U. conductor Therese Provenzano, because it's the only concert the students will do this year outside of their school.

"It's become a tradition" says Provenzano. "The audience is spectacular and its just a great community to come to." Her sentiments are echoed by St. Eulalia's choir president Georgeann Abbanat of Winchester. "It's our way of saying thank you to the community," Abbanat adds.

The choir,s songs will range from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "It's a Grand Night for Singing" to international and native American folks songs to Pachelbel and Palestrina.

The B.U. group also does show tunes, vocal jazz, and Duke Ellington. "Boogie Woogie Bugel Boy" is a feature of this year's concert as well as a haunting rendition of "Shenandoah".

Singers in the 85-member B.U. Choral Society are from all schools within B.U.and come from all over the United States and abroad. A smaller group of students, the Chamber Society, will also sing in the concert.

St. Eulalia's 58-member choir includes 18 Winchester residents. Selections at the concert will also include a chorus from Handel's Messiah, which the B.U. and St. Eulalia groups will sing together.

The one and a half hour concert , on Saturday, November 14, at 8:15 in the churtch at 50 Ridge Street, Winchester, is free to all, and is accessible to the handicapped. A reception will follow.

Genealogy Group to meet in library on Nov. 17

The Genealogy Group of the Winchester Historical Society will meet Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Winchester Public Library (lower level). The group will see a video tape of a talk by Dr. George M. Redmonds at the annual meeting of the New England Historic Genealogical Society held in April. Dr. Redmonds, editor of "Old West Riding" and an authority on English surnames and place names, suggests ways in which naming pattern customs can be useful in genealogical research.
Guests are welcome.

Fresh Touch Cleaners is again serving as a collection point for Goodwill Industries Project Wear and Share. Last November area residents contributed more than 1,500 garments and blankets to help less fortunate people. Because of last year's success and an even greater need this year, Project Wear and Share is being run again by Fresh Touch Cleaners, 757 Main St. Donated clothing is cleaned by Fresh Touch and sent to Goodwill Industries, Boston. The clothing is sold by Goodwill at very low prices to fund a multitude of charitable programs.

All garments are cleaned free of charge at Fresh Touch. Owner, Bruce Smith, assures, "all clothing is accepted with open arms. Anything that is not used by Goodwill is sent to a textile recycling center. Nothing goes to waste, nothing goes to a landfill or is incinerated."

"This is the third year for Project Wear and Share," said Smith. "The need is obviously much greater this year than last. Goodwill Industries needs our help more than ever before."

Fresh Touch Cleaners is located at 757 Main St. Hours of operation are 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays. Residents are encouraged to bring in unwanted clothing during the month of November only.

International Fabricare Institute, of which Fresh Touch is a member, is the national organization which has organized this program and hopes to establish November as clothes recycling month all across the country.

RECREATION NEWS

Ski & Skate swap this weekend

Ski season is fast approaching. Why not check out our bargains before deciding to purchase new equipment this year. The Council on Youth & Recreation Department will sponsor the eighth annual Ski & Skate Swap on Saturday, Nov. 14, at Lynch Elementary School. In this community service project and fundraiser, residents bring used skis and skates to be sold, get 80 percent of the sales price, and find wonderful bargains on "new" equipment. We also sell new equipment and selected ski clothing and cross country equipment at reduced prices. Equipment to be sold may be delivered Friday, Nov. 13, from 5 to 7 p.m.; or Saturday, from 11 a.m. to noon, at the Lynch School Gymnasium. Equipment will not be accepted after noon on Saturday. (Out-of-date equipment will not be accepted.) The sale is from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 14.

Pickup of equipment not sold and/or sale vouchers is from 4 to 5 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 14. The Recreation Department will retain 20 percent of the sales price of each item. Items priced $5 or less will be considered a donation. Please call the Recreation Department at 721-7125 for more information.

Deck the halls this season

Welcome in the holiday season with Priscilla Carter by making three special holiday crafts to decorate your home or to give as gifts. This four session class will begin with a special Thanksgiving project, the class will work up to our final project: a children's size gingerbread house complete with shredded wheat roof and gumdrop landscape. A $10 materials fee to the instructor will be collected at the first class. There will be a course for children age 4 through kindergarten starting Monday, Nov. 16 course number 925-PS-02A; grades 3 to 5 starting Tuesday, Nov. 17, course number 924ES-04A; grades 1 and 2 starting Wednesday, Nov. 18 course number 924-ES-04B. All classes run from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. in the Lynch School Art Room and have a course fee of $28. "Deck the Halls" with us this season.

Sweet treats to be made

"The Candyman can...," and you can too! Students in grades 3 to 5 will make one pound of delicious candies to take home in festive holiday shapes. As the candies chill, the instructor, Linda Cassino will help you create a fabric-covered gift box to display your work. A $9 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class. Choose one of two sessions. Course number 925-ES-07A will take place on Dec. 3, from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. Course number 925-ES-07B will take place on Dec. 17, from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. Both classes are held on Thursdays at the Lynch School and have a registration fee of $10

New: "My Time" is a time for you

"My Time" is a new program designed for children walking to 5 years of age. "My Time" is a time for children to meet other children, do arts and crafts, learn new stories and songs and have an enjoyable morning or afternoon. "My Time" is also a time for the parent to go shopping, visit a friend, have time to yourself while knowing that your child is having a fun day in a safe, friendly environment. The instructor, Annette Kennedy is well known in town for her work with pre-school children. "My Time" will be run on Tuesdays, Dec. 1, 8, 15 and 22 at the Library Meeting Room. Parents may pick either the morning session, 9:30 a.m. to noon or the afternoon session, 12:30 to 3 p.m. Children may come for one, two or three days, morning or afternoon session at a cost of $12 a day/session or save over 10 percent by enrolling in all four days at a total cost of $43. There is a discount for the second child when enrolling siblings. The Recreation Department is very excited about this program. Please call us at 721-7125 for more information.

Homemade quilted holiday ornaments

Start a tradition in your family. Create cherished ornaments that can be handed down from one generation to another. In this one-session class, you will make three different ornaments. A supply list will be available upon registration. The class will be held on Friday, Dec. 4, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Lynch School. Fee is $16.

Additional date for Victorian tree

Because our first class filled up so quickly, we have added an additional date for this popular class. Decorate a beautiful, miniature, 15-inch Christmas tree with roses, baby's breath, berries, dried flowers, ribbons, and pearls. To enhance your holiday experience, you may scent your finished design with balsam fragrance. Please bring a glue gun, scissors and wire clippers. A $30 materials fee is payable to the instructor. This workshop takes place on Monday, Nov. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. The fee is $18.

Students can make wooden wonders

In this class, students in grades 3 to 5 can chose to make one of two wooden projects with instructor, Linda Cassino. The first is a Keepsake Wooden Box, which is ideal for holding baseball cards or jewelry. The second is a Personalized Door Plaque with your name on it. Students who choose this project will also make a matching light switch. Please specify at time of registration which project you will be working on. A $10 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class. This class will be offered in two different schools. Muraco School will have a class on Friday, Dec. 11, from 3 to 4:3 p.m. The course number for that class is 925-ES-05B and has a registration fee of $9. Ambrose School will have a class on Friday, Dec. 4, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The course number for that class is 925-ES-05A and has a registration fee of $9. Please call the Recreation Department for more information.

Yule log

You have heard about the wonderful Buche de Noel. Now you will learn how to make this fabulous Yule Log from scratch using a classic French recipe including butter cream filling and traditional decorations. A $10 food fee is payable to the instructor. This class will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the cooking room at the high school. Fee is $16.

Attend a runners workshop

Whether you just began or have been running for years, this workshop is for you. Topics covered include postural evaluations, gait testing, preventing injuries, stretching and strengthening techniques. The instructor will also emphasize motivational skills. Dr. Fitts has been in private practice in Winchester for seven years and works with world-class athletes. This class will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Winchester Chiropractic Center. Fee is $8.

Holiday shopping in New York

Just in time for holiday shopping. Spend an entire day, Wednesday, Dec. 9, shopping on Fifth Avenue, go to Germantown, the Village, Zabar's, SoHo. Use the time to visit the garment district, buy antiques or take in a matinee. The time is yours to use as you wish. The motorcoach will leave from McCall Middle School at 6 a.m. arriving in New York City at approximately 10:30 a.m. We will leave New York at approximately 6 p.m. and return to Winchester by 11 p.m. Come see the Big Apple brightly polished for the holidays. Joins us as we travel to New York for a wonderful day. The trip will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 9. The fee is $44.

Understanding mutual funds

Does the financial vocabulary of the investment counselor confuse you? In this class, you will learn the meaning of such mysterious terms as load and no-load funds, tax-free, double tax-free, and taxable bonds, money market funds, stock funds, growth and income stocks. You will learn how to read a prospectus so you can develop your own investment strategies. We will also talk about investment opportunities, how funds are set up and regulated, and how to evaluate a fund's performance. This one session program will be held on Thursday, Nov. 19, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the High School. The fee is $16.

Rock for Youth auditions held Friday night

The "Rock for Youth" audition, an annual Winchester event, will be held Friday, Nov. 13, from 7 to 10 p.m., in the Town Hall auditorium. All youth are welcome to come vote for their favorite band.

During these auditions, high school bands from throughout the Greater Boston area try out for one of the five spots in the March 1993 concert. All participating bands pay a $25 returnable tryout deposit. All spectators vote for the top five. Last year, 17 bands tried out. The Youth Center won a special award for our "Rock for Youth" donation to the Woburn Council of Social Concern.

The concert co-chairs are Genevive White and Jeremy Cook. Call 729-2437 for further information and registration. Spectator tickets are $2.50 and purchased at the door.

Your best colors: holiday style

Before investing in holiday clothing and makeup, discover the palette of colors that best enhances the tones of your skin, hair, and eyes. You will learn the make-up colors that are most complimentary to you and your wardrobe palette. Each student will go home with a packet of fabric swatches to use as a shopping guide. Price of the packet is included in the registration fee. Class is small to guarantee individual attention. This one-session class will be held on Thursday, Nov. 17, from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m. in the high school. Fee is $46 and includes the price of the fabric swatches.

Friends of Recreation news

Chocoholics, come out of the closet

Bring your sweet tooth to "A Chocolate Sunday" held Sunday, Nov. 22, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mahoney's Garden Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Recreation, the event will provide delicious confections from top chocolatiers and bakeries for only $10 per ticket. Held in the conservatory at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, guests will be able to mingle through the "enchanted forest" of Christmas trees while sampling some of the finest sweets. Since the event is being held the week prior to Thanksgiving, guests will be able to purchase their favorite delights to share with family and friends.

The Friends of Winchester Recreation provide a variety of services and programs for adults and youth. What a great way to spend a Sunday afternoon — supporting a worthwhile cause and satisfying your sweet tooth!

Tickets can be purchased at various Winchester businesses including Cradock's Apothecary, Carlson Real Estate, Bayberry Shoe and the Recreation Department. Call the Recreation Department at 721-7125 for more information.

OBITUARIES

James M. Fennell

WAS SALESMAN

James Michael Fennell, a retired office salesman for Georgia-Pacific Plywood Co., died Wednesday, Nov. 4, in Mount Auburn Hospital, Cambridge. He was 79.

Formerly of Charlestown and the West End of Boston, Fennell lived in Winchester for the past 14 years.

After 25 years of service, Fennell retired in 1978 from Georgia-Pacific.

In addition to his career as a salesman, he had served with the 148th armored signal company of the United States Army in World War II's European theatre, and had been a member of the Charlestown School Boys Association.

He leaves his wife, Jane (Fitzgerald) Fennell; his brother, Peter J. Fennell of Chelsea; his sister, Marie Clauss of South Weymouth; and several nieces and nephews.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Saturday, Nov. 7, in St. Mary's Church, Winchester.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Arrangements were made by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home, Winchester.

Paul A. Senesi

Paul A. "Bucky" Senesi died Wednesday, Nov. 4.

He leaves his wife, Mildred J. (Querques) Senesi; his son, Paul M. Senesi of Wilmington; his sisters, Lena Sica and Clara Maiella, both of Somerville; and three grandchildren.

He was the brother of the late Joseph Senesi.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Friday, Nov. 6, in St. Mary's Church, Winchester.

Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery, Winchester.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home, Winchester.

Ada R. Sleeth

HOSPITAL WORKER

Ada Ruie Sleeth, administrative office worker for 32 years at Winchester Hospital, died Saturday, Oct. 24 in Winchester Hospital. She was 82.

Born in Amherst, Nova Scotia, Canada, Sleeth lived most of her life in Winchester. She had been a senior member of the American Association of Hospital Administrators.

She leaves her godchild, Susan W. Baynes of New London, N.H.

She was the daughter of the late James F. Sleeth and Agnes (McKay) Sleeth.

A private funeral service was held.

Burial was in Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

Arrangements were made by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home, Winchester.

Alice J. Merklee

MACHINE OPERATOR

SOUTH DENNIS — Alice Julia Merklee, retired employee of Waltham Bag and Paper, died Wednesday, Nov. 4 in Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis. She was 79.

Born in Waltham, Merklee had attended Waltham grade schools and Waltham High School. She lived in Waltham most of her life, and, in 1991, moved from the Leland Home in Waltham — where she lived since 1985 — to South Dennis.

At Waltham Bag and Paper, later known as Longview Fibre Co., Merklee worked until her retirement as a machine operator.

She leaves her sister, Ruth Carter of East Dennis; her nieces, Thelma Jurewicz and Susan Jurewicz, both of Winchester; and her nephew, David E. Jurewicz of Winchester.

She was the daughter of the late Charles Merklee and Sadie (Polinsky) Merklee.

A private funeral service and burial will be held.

Donations may be made to Hospice of Cape Cod, 923 Route 6A, Yarmouthport, MA 02675.

Arrangements were made by the Doane, Beal & Ames Funeral Home, Hyannis.

Marie Y. Johnson

Marie Yvonne (Chevarie) Johnson died Sunday, Nov. 8 in her home. She was 69.

Born in Cambridge, Johnson lived in Winchester for 37 years.

Wife of the late Vann Johnson Jr., she leaves her sons, Glenn T. Johnson, Gregory A. Johnson and Michael Johnson; her daughters, Susan Murphy, Carol A. Hodgdon and Martha E. Johnson; her brother, Edward Chevarie; her sisters, Marie Gavin, Emilie Dempsey and Claire Marshall; and nine grandchildren.

She was the sister of the late Edna Woody.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday, Nov. 11, at St. Eulalia's Church, Winchester.

Donations may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home, Winchester.

Wilma L. Stevens

MEMBER OF WOMEN'S CLUB

Wilma Ladd Stevens, member for more than 30 years of the Athol Congregational Church Women's Club, died Tuesday, Nov. 10, in Winchester Hospital. She was 72.

Born in Orange, Stevens lived in Winchester for the past seven years.

A member for 30 years of the Athol Congregational Church Hospital Auxiliary, she had worked in the Winchester Hospital Gift Center, and had been active in the Jenks Center and Fortnightly of Winchester, a women's club.

Wife of the late Paul O. Stevens, she leaves her daughter, Paula A. Donahue of Winchester; and her grandchild, Kasey Donahue of Winchester.

A graveside service will be held Friday, Nov. 13, at 11 a.m. in South Cemetery, Orange.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Service, Winchester.

Gertrude T. Kenney

BELMONT — Gertrude T. (McManus) Kenney died Friday, Nov. 6.

Wife of the late Raymond J. Kenney Sr., she leaves her sons, Raymond J. Kenney Jr. of Winchester and Robert T. Kenney of Wollaston; her daughter, Virginia M. Kennedy of Belmont; 11 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, Nov. 10, in St. Joseph's Church, Belmont.

Burial was in Belmont Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Pine Street Inn, 444 Harrison Ave., Boston, MA 02118.

ARTS UMBRELLA

Gala concert to benefit student trip to Russia

Attention, music lovers and those interested in Russian/American relations. You and your friends and family have a golden opportunity to further those interests when, on Sunday, Nov. 22, at 3 p.m., the Winchester High School Select Octets and Chorus will perform in concert to benefit the February 1993 high school trip to St. Petersburg Russia. Joining the students in concert will be our Russian student guests who will be visiting Winchester from school 213 in St. Petersburg. In addition to the chorus and octets, clarinetist Richard Stoltzman and his son Peter, a member of the chorus and boys' octet, will perform a clarinet and piano duet.

The Octets' portion of the concert will feature a variety of music including a host of new tunes currently in rehearsal. Among those are "Sixteen Tons," "Sherry," "You've Lost that Loving Feeling," "Blue Moon," "It's My Party," "One Fine Day" and "Time in a Bottle." The 70-member Winchester High School Chorus will sing the Russian songs "The Trioka," "Vniz Po Matushka Po Volga," and "Mno Gaja Leta." In a special tribute to President John F. Kennedy, the group will sing "Abraham, Martin and John."

Tickets for the Gala Concert may be purchased from any octet or chorus member or at Book Ends, Carlson Real Estate, the Winchester High School Music Department, or at the door. General tickets are $10, students $3, seniors $5, and family $25. If you need more ticket information please call 729-5600.

As a special added attraction, there is a Silent Auction. Bids may be made at the concert, or any time at Book Ends, or by calling 729-6821. The Silent Auction items are: performances by the Octets for your gathering, an Arthur Griffin print, a large and small set of Matryoshka dolls, a gift certificate to Le Bellecour in Lexington, three sets of Boston Celtics tickets, a Jordan Marsh gift certificate, a dozen Dunkin Donuts every Saturday morning for one year, a Staples gift certificate, fan and vase print by Fox, a subscription to National Geographic, two gift Certificates to MVP Sports, a gift certificate to the 99 Restaurant, two gift certificates to Lucia's Restaurant, a subscription to "Education Today," three Holiday Fruit Baskets, and two Cross Pen/Pencil sets. In addition to auction items, a special holiday CD entitled "Hark!," by Richard Stoltzman and Friends, is available at Book Ends and also at the concert.

Please come on Sunday, Nov. 22 and enjoy a gala afternoon of youthful voices and youthful enthusiasm for music. Special donations to help fund the Russia trip are welcome and may be sent to Music Trip Fund, WHS, c/o Lynne Rahmeier.

Soloists identified for Mozart "Requiem" sight sing

The Winchester Music Society takes pleasure in announcing the following soloists for its open sight reading of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "Requiem" on Sunday, Nov. 15: Cathy Portlock, soprano; Cynthia White Wankowicz, alto; Timothy McCafferty, tenor; and Richard Pharo, bass.

The singing of this choral work, which is the forteenth such musical reading partially supported by funds from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery as administered by the Winchester Arts Lottery Council, will take place at 2 p.m. in the choir loft of the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St. It will be directed by Suzanne McAllister, the new Minister of Music at the Parish of the Epiphany, and accompanied by Louise Mundinger, organist and teacher at Milton Academy, on the recently completed Fisk organ.

Soprano soloist, Cathy Portlock, is a seminarian at Andover-Newton Theological School and a student assistant at the Parish of the Epiphany. She studied voice at Shenandoah Conservatory in Virginia. Alto soloist, Cynthia White Wankovicz of Billerica, is a former resident of Winchester and daughter of Robert White, Director of Music at the First Congregational Church. She studies voice with Eileen Moremen of the Winchester Community Music School. Tenor soloist, Timothy McCafferty of Haverhill, studied voice at the U. of Lowell and, presently, studies voice with Johannah Segarich of the Winchester Community Music School.

Bass soloist, Richard Pharo of Ivy Circle, is Associate Director of Research at MGH and has sung many years with the Masterwork horale and the Boston Conservatory Chorus.

The Winchester Music Society invites all singers and interested listeners to join its members in this pleasurable activity. For further information contact Martin Hitchcock, 29 Wildwood Street (1-800-696-0563, days or 729-2598, evenings).

Art Association photographers to exhibit at library in November

The Winchester Art Association photographers will be showing in the gallery at the Winchester Library for the month of November. Ten different styles of photographic work are combined to reflect a multitude of personalities behind the camera.

The gallery is open during normal library hours.

Soprano voices wanted

The Aberjonas, an all-female a capella singing group based in Winchester, has immediate openings for soprano voices. We meet Monday nights, we have a varied and lively repertoire, we are performance-oriented, and we would love to hear you! Call Sarah at 721-0830.

Prayer to the blessed Virgin; Never known to fail. O' most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of heaven Blessed Mother of Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in the necessity. O' star of the Sea, help me & show me here. You are my mother. O' Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven & Earth, I humbly beseech you, from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity. There are non who can withstand your power. O' Mary conceived with sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee (3x), O' Holy Mary I place this cause in your hand (3x). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. Then you must publish and It will be granted to you. P.C.

Rental & Apartment Living Q&A

by CENTURY 21 WINCHESTER REALTY

Q. What are the obligations of the landlord on security deposits?

A. 1. The statute applies to all rentals of res. prop. except vac. and rec. leases of no longer than 100 days.
2. The maximum amount which can be collected cannot exceed the first mo's. rent, the last mo's rent and a sec. dep. equal to the first mo's. rent.
3. The person who receives a sec. dep. or rent in advance from a tenant must give the tenant a receipt signed by him which sets forth the date rec., a des. of the leased premises and the name of the landlord. A successor owner is bound by a prior owner's receipt of the last mo's. rent, even if it was never transferred to him.
4. No later than ten days after the start of the tenancy or upon receipt of the sec. dep. (whichever is later), the person receiving the dep. must give the tenant a statement of condition listing any damage to the premises and any sanitary or building code violations which have been found by any state or local inspector.
5. Statements of condition must be kept available for inspection by current tenants for at least two years after each prior tenant leaves, together with a description of any damage done and any receipts for repairs. Failure to comply entitles the tenant to return of the deposit.
6. The landlord or his agent must give the tenant a receipt within 30 days of accepting the dep. which indicates the bank, its location within MA and an account number where the deposit is maintained. The dep. must be in a separate, interest bearing escrow account and not commingled with funds of the landlord or agent. An award of treble damages is required for failure to comply with the deposit requirements.
7. Where sec. deps. are held for more than one year, the tenant must be notified annually of the amount of interest earned (must be at 5% or whatever the banks are currently paying, if less), the account number and its location. Either the tenant should be paid the interest or he should be allowed to deduct it from his next rent payment.
8. Within thirty days of the end of the tenancy, the security deposit must be returned with deductions permitted only for: (a) unpaid rent; (b) unpaid real estate taxes under a valid escalation clause; and (c) reasonable amounts for damage caused by the tenant or any person on the premises with his consent. Failure to return the balance could subject the landlord to an award of treble damages.

DEALER • PROFILE

Bonnell Ford

Location: 353 Cambridge Street, Winchester.

History: Owners Ralph Bonnell and Bruce Bonnell, became involved in car sales after their father, and their father's father established the dealership almost 70 years ago. This makes Bonnell Ford one of the oldest Ford dealerships in New England.

The dealership currently employs nearly 60, which includes several generations of the Bonnell family. Recently the dealership was awarded the Massachusetts Police Bid setting up over 350 Fords to be used as police cruisers.

As a respected dealership and family run operation, the Bonnell's stress low pressure and customer satisfaction.

Types of Cars Sold: Bonnell carries Ford and a variety of used cars.

Hottest Sellers: Ford Taurus, Explorer, and Escort.

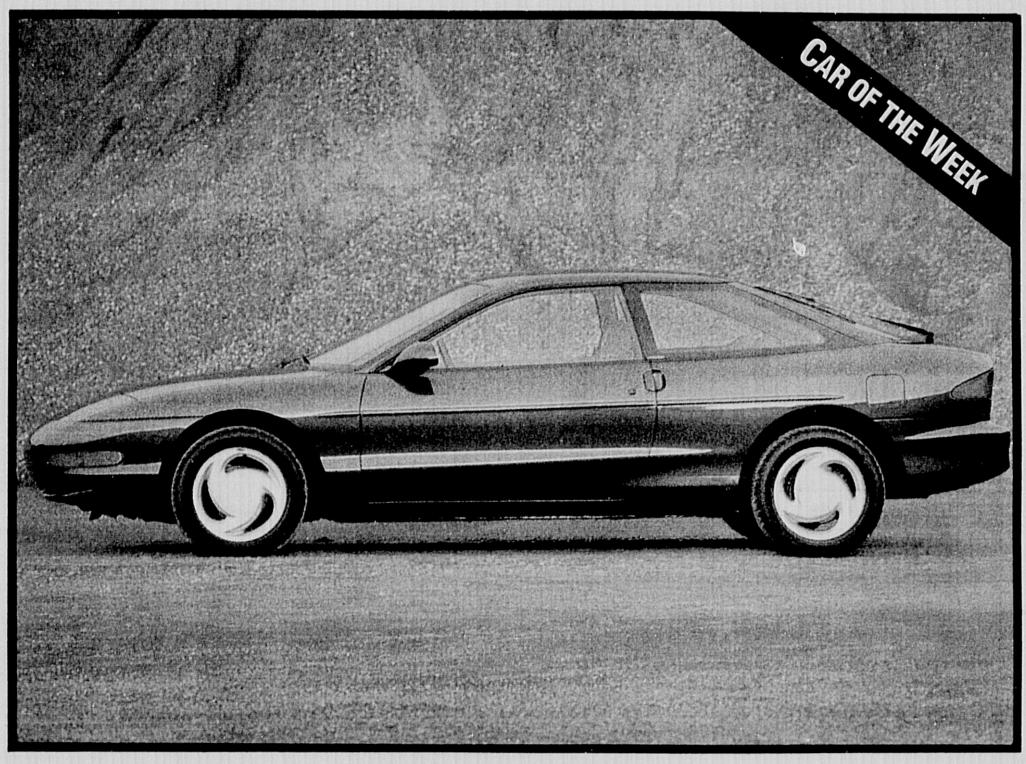

Best Deal on the Lot: The Ford Tempo is a good buy for the money, says Sales Manager Randy Cole.

Specialties: Bonnell offers a value check book to new buyers upon delivery which includes $250 worth of service coupons, and three $100 checks which will be endorsed when a customer refers a friend who purchases a vehicle. Bonnell also offers a courtesy shuttle to service customers for convenience offering them a ride to their destination within a 7 - 9 mile radius.

A 50 bay Service Department offers the new SBDS computer diagnosis system to isolate a problem within the automobile and provide the service technician with a bulletin giving them a head start on repairing the problem.

Dealership Philosophy: "We sell cars the way people like to buy them."

Ford Probe

Ford builds on the success of its original model

The all-new 1993 Ford Probe builds on the success of the original Probe that was introduced in May 1988. The new version features an even more contemporary design and a higher level of technical sophistication than its predecessor.

Overall length and width are increased, along with the wheelbase and tread. "Cab-forward" design, which in essence moves the passenger compartment (or cab) closer to the front of the car, results in shortened front overhang, increased windshield slope and greater interior space.

The new version features an even more contemporary design and a higher level of technical sophistication than its predecessor.

The sporty coupe is available in two models – Probe and Probe GT – each with its own multi-value engine and individual styling cues.

Driver-side air bag supplemental restraint system is standard on both.

Probe GT has a new twin-cam 24-valve V-6 with a cast aluminum block and cylinder heads. It generates 164 horsepower at 6000 rpm and 156 foot-pounds of torque at 4000 rpm. A five-speed manual transaxle is standard, and an electronically controlled four-speed automatic transaxle is optional.

Ford Probe

The standard Probe has a new 2.0-liter four-cylinder engine with twin overhead camshafts, four valves per cylinder and an aluminum head. It produces 115 horsepower at 5500 rpm and 124 foot-pounds of torque at 3500 rpm. It can be teamed with a five-speed manual transaxle or an optional four-speed automatic.

The 1993 Probe has a more aggressive stance than the previous model, a result of increasing the tire tread width more than two inches and lengthening the wheelbase almost four inches. Lowering the cowl (base of windshield) height almost three inches and pulling it forward almost four inches has produced the sleekly assertive "cab-forward" look.

The interior has been designed to complement the exterior. Its all-new instrument panel is integrated with the door panels for a sweeping wraparound effect. A new center console/armrest with storage area and cup holder is standard on the GT, optional on the standard model.

Drive characteristics of both versions of the 1993 Probe have been improved through new suspension geometry. The front suspension consists of modified MacPherson struts.

The Probe GT suspension is further refined to provide the handling, maneuverability and cornering capabilities of a true driver's car. The GT has revised spring rates, additional shock strut bounce and rebound control, and front and rear stabilizer bars. Four-wheel disc brakes are standard, and an anti-lock brake system (ABS) is optional on both models.

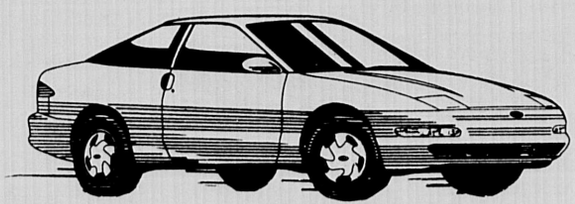

The Probe comes with P195/65R14 tires on 14-inch steel wheels as standard. P205/55R15 tires on 15-inch aluminum alloy wheels are optional. On the GT, P225/50VR16 tires mounted on 16-inch aluminum alloy wheels are standard.

The list of upgraded Probe GT standard features includes a leather-wrapped steering wheel, adjustable power lumbar and seat-

The 1993 Probe has a more aggressive stance than the previous model, a result of increasing the tire tread width more than two inches and lengthening the wheelbase almost four inches.

Saturn Corporation donates car to school program for hands-on learning

By Daniel Strachman
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

Saturn of Boston believes hands-on learning can be a positive experience.

As a result, the Saturn of Boston Corporation has donated a 1992 SL2 vehicle to the General Motors Automotive Service Educational Program (ASEP) at Mass Bay Community College and Minuteman Regional Vocational Technical School.

The car is one of a mixture of GM vehicles students in the ASEP program work on. Saturn donated the vehicle so that students would be able to work on a new car with all the modern technologies in order to prepare them for their field work. By the time students have finished working on the vehicle, it will have gone through almost every conceivable problem a car can have and be repaired to perfect working order.

According to Steve Sullivan, director of the program, the Saturn will be used in classroom exercises to demonstrate everything from basic repairs, such as a front-end alignment, to more extensive problem solving, which includes fixing transmissions and fuel injection systems.

Superintendent Ron Fitzgerald thanks Saturn's Bob Milot for the donation of a car to the school's automotive program. In the background are, from left, Rosie Boisvert, program director Steve Sullivan, Bob Davis, and Saturn's Vinny Perry, Bernie Marino, and Fred Shove.

"The Saturn was shipped up from Tennessee and is slightly damaged. Instead of fixing it, the company decided to give it to the regional school," said Walter Boviak, general manager of Saturn of Natick.

ASEP is a two-year cooperative program that allows students to learn how to repairs cars while working toward their associates degree. Students spend 12 weeks in the classroom studying the basics - reading, writing and arithmetic - followed by 12 weeks in the field working at various shops and dealerships, learning from professionals.

The ASEP program at Mass Bay and Minuteman Tech is one of 52 programs like it in the country. GM has set up the program to enable students to learn about its products, teach them how to fix cars, problem solve and increase their earning potential when they reach the job market.

"The program provides students with a structured learning process. When the students receive their associate degrees, they also get GM course credit," said Sullivan.

Of the students who complete the program, approximately 90 percent are placed in dealerships and others go on to engineering school where they use the credits earned in the ASEP program to complete bachelor degrees.

"There are a lot of people working in the field who are giving back to the state," Sullivan said.

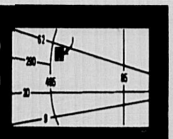

Auto dealers involved in the program set students up with technicians who teach them one-on-one how to work and repair the vehicles. By having the cars in the classroom, the students are one step ahead.

"The dealers are very supportive of the program," said Sullivan.

"The program is excellent. (The students) work in the shop and do a fine job," said Boviak.

Suzuki Sidekick

With a Suzuki Sidekick, off-road fun doesn't cost a fortune

KEANE ON WHEELS
By Tom Keane

The 1993 Suzuki Sidekick JLX is a four-door sport utility vehicle designed to attract the thrifty buyer. Competitive vehicles with similar equipment cost at least $2,000 more.

That's the good news. The down side is the jerky ride. For some, however, bouncing up and down in the seat is part of the fun of driving the Sidekick. In fact, after a week of jostling, I became so used to the ride, I actually enjoyed it. Or to play on words, I began to get a kick out of driving the Sidekick.

The word "cute" isn't exactly flattering for a vehicle that is intended for rough terrain. Nevertheless, the Sidekick is cute because it is smaller than most other sport utility vehicles. It has a cheerful paint job with sturdy molding down the side.

Chrome wheels add sparkle to the overall appearance, and the spare tire on the rear door gives it a rugged look. The tires are hefty 15-inch Bridgestone Dessert Dullers.

The JLX (and the JX) are four-wheel drive models, giving the Sidekick more versatility. It is easy to slip into 4WD with the lever next to the manual transmission shifter. For those with no desire to leave a paved surface, a two-wheel drive JS model is available. It sells for $11,899. The JX is $12,999, and the JLX costs $14,199 — with loads of equipment included as standard. The only options for the top-of-the-line model are the air conditioner and the automatic transmission.

What you get as standard equipment on the JLX is surprising. It has power mirrors, windows and door locks. Incidentally, with one turn of the key in any door lock, all doors either lock or unlock. The JLX also comes with a decent sound system that includes a cassette player.

The storage area is a bit skimpy, but the split backrests on the rear seats fold down for

New Northstar engine will be heart of Cadillac's future

Cadillac has introduced its first all-new V8 engine in more than a decade, and so far, it appears it was worth the wait.

The Northstar, a 4.6-liter, 32-valve engine, was introduced last January on the 1993 Allante, Cadillac's luxury two-seater. The car was the Official Pace Car for the 76th Indianapolis 500 in May.

This fall, Cadillac expanded application of the Northstar to the Seville STS, the Eldorado Touring Coupe and the Eldorado Sport Coupe, a new model for the 1993 model year. Seville and Eldorado models underwent a dramatic redesign for the 1992 model year. The addition of the Northstar complements the redesign.

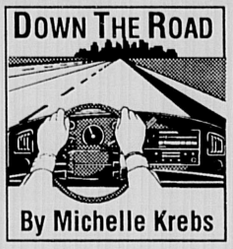

The most obvious advantage of the Northstar is the increased power over the previous V8 in Allante, Seville and Eldorado models. Horsepower on the Allante, Seville STS and Eldorado Touring Coupe has been increased to 295, a 45-percent improvement, and 290 pounds-foot of torque. The sport coupe is rated at 270 horsepower and 300 pounds-foot of torque. The car is tuned differently to give it a different feel; a more powerful launch feel.

Cadillac claims the Northstar-equipped models do 0-60 mph in 7.0 seconds and enjoy a top speed of 150 mph. In addition to increased power, Cadillac engineers set as objectives improved quality, reliability and durability for the engine as well as smoothness and quiet operation.

"The Northstar engine is the outgrowth of a nine-point system of technological performance criteria," says Cadillac Chief Engineer Robert Dorn. "At every development stage, we looked at mass, size and inertial issues, reliability, pleaseability, value, precision, efficiency, flexibility, serviceability and, where necessary, the development of new technologies."

The Northstar is the first multi-valve engine for Cadillac and first multi-valve V8 engine for a General Motors luxury sedan. Until now, General Motors primarily used multi-valve engines in smaller models. Multi-valve engines have been commonplace for several years in small displacement European and Japanese engines because the engines are popular in countries where fuel costs range upward from $2 a gallon.

Multi-valve technology has increasingly gained acceptance even by once-reluctant domestic manufacturers to improve engine efficiency and fuel economy. More valves per cylinder allow an engine to breathe easier at higher speeds. That means engines run more efficiently and fuel economy improves.

Along with the Northstar engine, Cadillac engineers installed a variety of new and/or improved features as part of what they call "the Northstar system." Cadillac has been granted or has applied for 14 patents for innovations on the Northstar system.

The most interesting feature — the first of its kind — is a "limp-home" mode that keeps the engine operating without engine coolant. The mixture of water and antifreeze circulated through the engine block is like the blood running through the arteries and veins of the human body. For most engines, losing all or even some of this lifeblood causes the engine to overheat, quit and possibly fail, requiring an overhaul or replacement.

The limp-home mode on the Northstar reduces the chance of engine damage due to lost coolant. If the engine detects overheating, it converts to the limp-home mode. The engine operates on four cylinders then switches to the other four cylinders. The "idle" four cylinders pump air rather than firing, and the air cools the engine. The car can still reach speeds of approximately 50 mph, allowing the driver to get to a safe location to call for assistance.

Another notable on the Northstar engine is its maintenance — or lack of — requirements. The engine requires no tune-up for the first 100,000 miles; it requires only normal fluid and filter changes. Platinum-tipped spark plugs are part of the reason. The other factor is no moving parts in the electronically-controlled ignition system. Adjustments to the fuel and spark delivery are made by the computer every time the ignition is turned on. On typical engines, manual adjustments to the timing must be made periodically as the engine ages.

The Northstar engine is complemented by a new electronically-controlled four-speed automatic transmission, designed to handle the increased torque from the Northstar engine and provide smooth shifting. A powerful computer management system keeps the engine and transmission in synch for smooth gear shifts.

The Northstar system also includes a road sensing suspension that "reads" the road by measuring the wheel position and car body motion. It responds to changes instantly by adjusting the suspension dampening.

The Northstar system also consists of speed sensitive steering. The system varies the amount of steering effort required by the driver depending on the vehicle's speed.

A second generation traction control is equipped on Northstar-powered models. The traction control applies brakes as well as cuts off engine cylinders during additional storage room. If you're traveling with four adults, plus luggage, there may be two problems: storage and power.

Suzuki Sidekick

With four adults aboard, (my rear-seat passengers complained about the lack of leg room) I tried driving up a steep hill. The 95 horsepower engine caused me to shift down as far as second gear. Under the hood is a 16-valve, four-cylinder, 1.6-liter engine. It's claim to fame is fuel economy, not power; this vehicle is rated 24 city and 26 highway.

With youngsters aboard, it's a different story. The JLX will take you off-road where another way of life begins. Although I wasn't driving to Grandmother's house, I did go over the hills and through the woods. On this journey, I appreciated the narrow width of the Sidekick, as I squeezed past trees that would have blocked my progress in other vehicles.

The narrow width, however, has its drawback on paved surfaces. Speed and quick turns in the Sidekick are a no-no. Suzuki even has a warning notice on the driver's door stating that it can tip over.

Yet the Sidekick, which is really intended for a young family, has a lot of safety features, too. It has four-doors, making it much easier for kids to jump in the rear seat where they can fasten their three-point safety belts.

Yet the Sidekick, which is really intended for a young family, has a lot of safety features, too. It has four-doors, making it much easier for kids to jump in the rear seat where they can fasten their three-point safety belts. There are no door handles on the inside of the rear doors. They can be opened only from the outside — by a parent.

Another safety device is rear-wheel, anti-lock brakes (which operates only in two-wheel drive mode). It would be wonderful to have ABS on all four wheels, but two-wheel ABS is better than nothing, which is what some competitive manufacturers offer — nothing.

The main features that the Sidekick offers is economy. It doesn't cost a fortune to have a well-equipped vehicle that will allow you to enjoy the fun that begins where the pavement ends.

SPARE PARTS

Initial impressions: When plans for Chrysler Motors cab forward cars got underway, they were given the code name LH.

After the cars became a reality, they were named Chrysler Concorde, Eagle Vision and Dodge Intrepid. They are assembled at the Bramalea plant in Ontario, Canada.

The code name for the compact cars that will replace the Plymouth Acclaim and Dodge Spirit is JA, and some say they will be assembled in Sterling Heights, Mich. PL is the code name for a subcompact car.

Achieva's achievement: In a 100,000 mile test, that included miles per gallon, maintenance and repair costs, the operating expenses were: Oldsmobile Achieva, $5,555; Toyota Camry, $7,140; Honda Accord, $7,220.

The fast lane: The latest version of the Jaguar XJR-15 has a 7.4-liter engine that will produce 640 lb.-ft. of torque.

This unique car with exceptional power will be available to a select market; Jaguar is making only five of them.

Two points of view: The good news is that each year, some 135 million drivers spend about 2 billion hours trapped in traffic on American highways.

The bad news is that over the next 30 years, traffic volume is expected to double.

WORDS OF (CAR) WISDOM:

Choke: A plate near the top of the carburetor that enriches the air-fuel mixture by restricting air flow to the engine.

Kennealy joins Cochituate Motors

The all-new Cochituate Motors announces the addition of Dick Kennealy to its quality sales staff.

A resident of Natick, Kennealy has served the transportation needs of the MetroWest public for more than 20 years. He is also active with the Natick Elks, Comets and many civic organizations.

Kennealy said he hopes customers and friends will visit him to discuss their transportation needs.

"I hope to have a long association with the area's number one quality Chevrolet-Geo agency," said Kennealy.

Northstar is heart of Cadillac's future severe wheel slippage. The system, like its predecessors, cuts off five of the engine's eight cylinders, reducing power to the wheels, when sensors detect the wheels are slipping.

Other extras on Northstar-powered Cadillacs include 150 mph, speed-rated tires that never require pressure adjustments for higher-speed driving, anti-lock brakes and driver and passenger-side air bags.

Cadillacs equipped with the Northstar engine don't come cheap. The new Eldorado Sport Coupe is priced at $36,900; the Eldorado Touring Coupe at $38,990; the Seville STS at $41,990; and the Allante at $61,675.

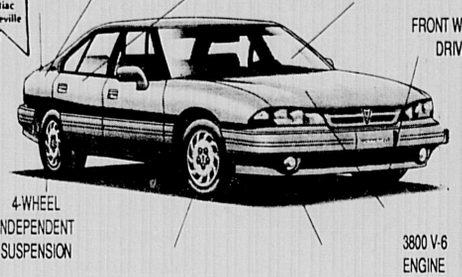

Cadillac calls the Northstar the heart of its product line for the l990s. Look for its application to be expanded in the future.

VOLUME 111, NUMBER 47 | SERVING THE RESIDENTS OF WINCHESTER SINCE 1880 | THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1992

COMING EVENTS

Save your pennies! The Winchester Sports Foundation is planning two Penny Drives for this fall on two Saturdays, Nov. 21 and Dec. 5. The collections will be held at the transfer station from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The pennies (and other coins and bills) collected will be used to help fund the sports programs at Winchester High School. Please be generous and save your change for our young athletes.

Young people's concert

The Winchester Young Performer's Concert, part of the Winchester Concert Series, will be held at the Town Hall on Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p.m. Music students from Winchester School, Winchester Community Music School, and from private piano studios will participate in this musical celebration.

Auditions for solo pianists will be held Dec. 5, at 7 Robinson Circle, at 1 p.m. Pianists living in Winchester or studying with Winchester teachers are eligible. All students entering this audition will receive a certificate and personalized comments from the panel.

William Carrol, quartermaster of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for Post 3719 in Winchester leads the parade and pauses a moment to reflect as the cub scouts wave their flags.

Town honors its veterans

Even in the rain resolute Winchester residents turned out to pay homage to their veterans at the annual Veterans Day parade.

"It wasn't bad," Edward O'Connell, who substituted as Master of Ceremonies, said of the weather. "We take what comes."

The parade started at the Town Common at 10:45 a.m. on Nov. 11 and proceeded through the center of town. The parade made a stop at the War Memorial at Lincoln school, upon which a wreath was laid, and ended at the Honor Roll at Town Hall, where speakers honored those men and women who had given their lives for our country.

Among those participating in the parade were the Veterans of Foreign War, Aberjona Post 3719, who sponsored the parade, the American Legion, The Winchester Police Department Color Guard, the Winchester Fire Department, the Boy and Girl Scouts, The Winchester High School band, state Rep. Paul Casey, Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer, Veterans Affairs Commissioner Dominic Serratore, the Board of Selectmen, and Reverend Arline C. Sutherland, senior minister of the Unitarian Church, who gave the invocation.

"It all went very well," said O'Connell. "It went as well as any I've been involved with in the past 20 years."

Stephen Olivieri

CHAS to take its first step

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

With the passage of a series of five separate motions by the Board of Selectmen, the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS) began the first leg of its five-year journey.

Selectmen voted unanimously to support the plan, disseminate it to every town meeting member and a host of committees, as well as begin implementation of a key aspect of the plan on Nov. 16. The vote came after a series of revisions to the original plan were made following several public hearings.

The CHAS was developed by the Winchester Housing Partnership Board (HPB) to document the housing needs specific to the town. Housing plans became a requirement for federal grant monies in early 1990 with the passage of the National Affordability Housing Act. The strategy focused on the housing problems of the low-to-moderate income elderly, families and the mentally-challenged.

Along with agreement on submission of the plan to appropriate state and federal agencies, the selectmen agreed to send money from the Fletcher fund, a housing fund, to the Community Services Network in Stoneham. The network currently aids people in Winchester who are in imminent danger of becoming homeless.

In addition, selectmen asked the HPB to continue their work on behalf of the town's mentally-challenged residents. Selectman Peter Van Aken said, "This is an area that has been identified as very critical and very high need in this town."

The first step for enactment of the plan over the next few months, according to Van Aken, will be to address the reuse of the Mystic School. A vote of the School Committee on Nov. 10 put the school outside of its jurisdiction, thus opening the way for a study of its suitability for use as elderly congregate housing.

According to Van Aken, the CHAS suggests the use of small subcommittees to study each of the school sites. Parkhurst and Sanborn schools have already been excessed by the School Committee.

Committee may look to reserves to pay off lawsuit

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

School Committee members, who are still trying to reach a consensus over the shortfall in this year's budget, are now facing the possibility of having to pay off a $45,000 legal settlement.

Acting Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald told the committee at its Nov. 17 meeting that he was satisfied with the state of the Fiscal Year 1993 budget except for the possibility of a $45,000 settlement over special education litigation, which he said could not come out of the budget. "This operating budget cannot support that $45,000 ... and it will require that we go to the reserve fund," said Fitzgerald. The settlement is for approximately $65,000, but $20,000 of it had been put away, in anticipation of a settlement, in the Fiscal Year 1991 budget.

School Committee Chairman Mark Lombardi said the committee had three choices for paying the settlement: take the $45,000 from the school budget and make massive corresponding cuts, ask the Finance Committee for the money from the reserve fund, or continue the legal battle, against the advice of counsel, so that the money will not have to be paid right now. Special education takes center stage

This is the first part of a two-part series on special education in Winchester.

It is starting to become one of the hottest topics in town, but those involved say that the public knows little about the programs within the town's comprehensive special education system.

Seventeen percent of Winchester's 2,891 students participate in the school system's special education program, including occupational therapy, speech therapy, language classes, English as a second language, sensory integration, and numerous others.

A look at the early education program, which deals with children between the ages of three and six, reveals the complexity of many aspects of special education. The early education program has approximately 90 special needs students separated into four programs.

Project WIN (Winchester Intervention Network) consists exclusively of children with severe special needs. WIN is for children, ages five- and six-years-old, experiencing difficulty in a variety of areas, including speech, behavior, and motor coordination. It is a full-day program.

The Winchester school system also has an integrated pre-school class of special needs and typically developing children, ages three and four. The integrated pre-school class consists of 49 percent special needs children and 51 percent typically developing children. The latter are selected through a set criteria based on economic need. Early Education Coordinator Cynthia Papoulias said the school system will try to tap some state funds to allow more typically developing children into the early education program.

The early education program also services the town's nursery schools, both testing the children for special needs and working with them by appointments, which may consist of half-an-hour a day.

Winchester also participates in a collaborative school run in Woburn, called SEEM, for severe special needs children. The school consists of children from surrounding communities.

The goal of the early education program, which is administered in large part at Lynch Elementary School, is to identify and work toward solving any difficulty a child may have as early as possible in his life. "The earlier you recognize these problems then the better the oppor-

Trash costs fuel recycling debate

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

Following new state mandates on recycling without going into debt, will remain a challenge for the town, say officials.

Selectman Gerard Polcari, the selectmen's representative to the Waste Study Committee, highlighted the problem areas at the selectmen's meeting on Nov. 9 due to upcoming revisions to state laws. Assistant Town Manager Mark Twogood worked on the report along with Department of Public Works Director Anthony Celli.

Polcari, along with the committee, plans to focus on reviewing the layout of the transfer station with the DPW and educating the public on recycling. Selectmen targeted the commercial rates charged haulers for review and updating. Also under review is the selling of some of the town's trash quota or tonnage to other communities.

In his report to the selectmen, Polcari noted three specific areas of difficulty.

"The Mandatory Recycling Law is going to significantly alter the way we handle trash," said Polcari. Polcari noted maintaining a balance between the cost of recycling additional goods and enforcement of the new state laws would require a delicate balancing act, especially since recycling has already reduced the amount of trash that the town ships to Andover.

Polcari used charts to explain why Winchester paid for 1,822 tons of trash it never shipped to NESWC. (The Northeast Solid Waste Consortium). Under the terms of Winchester's contract as part of that group, the town pays for a specific amount of trash, and must fall within two percent of that number or pay the difference. The guaranteed annual tonnage or G.A.T. is stipulated under a contract with each community in NESWC.

Polcari said many of the changes in the recycling law will make materials now disposed of through NESWC recyclable, thus removing it from the tonnage totals. The paradox, according to Polcari, is that without state funding, the brunt of the burden will fall directly on the town. Thus, the more conscientious the community is, the more it costs. According to Polcari, enforcement will not occur at the local level, but Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) inspectors will be at NESWC.

Book Ends owner Judy Manzo shelving books at her new store

Book Ends is on best-seller list

Winchester residents can head to the center of town to buy required reading for the classroom, books for the children, or the hottest-selling novel on the New York Times best-seller list.

Winchester's only bookstore, Book Ends, located in the center of town, has been revitalized by its new owner, resident Judy Manzo.

Manzo, who lives only a few blocks from the store, says people have been "very supportive" since she bought the store in mid-August. "People are very excited to see a bookstore staying in town," said Manzo.

Manzo, who is a member of the EnKa society, says she sees the business as community-oriented. She sells works (books, tapes, paintings) by Winchester residents, carries books from speakers who visit town, and has an "active working relationship with the schools."

Manzo also has her business side. Manzo says she doesn't worry about competition from large chain stores. "I don't see it as competition. We are a general, community-oriented ... personal business with a relaxed ambience," said Manzo.

To attract repeat business, Manzo is setting up a book buyers club that gives discounts to frequent buyers. The store has a personal touch that can't be matched at larger stores, says Manzo. The employees will order book requests with a two-day turnaround. Around the holidays, the store will gift wrap books free-of-charge.

Manzo is making a special effort to attract parents buying children's books. Beside a large selection of popular children's books, the store has toys and chairs to keep the children out of trouble. "It's a safe and inviting atmosphere for children," said Manzo.

The store is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m. and will have extended hours during the holidays.

William Carrol, quartermaster of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for Post 3719 in Winchester leads the parade and pauses a moment to reflect as the cub scouts wave their flags.

Town honors its veterans

Even in the rain resolute Winchester residents turned out to pay homage to their veterans at the annual Veterans Day parade.

"It wasn't bad," Edward O'Connell, who substituted as Master of Ceremonies, said of the weather. "We take what comes."

The parade started at the Town Common at 10:45 a.m. on Nov. 11 and proceeded through the center of town. The parade made a stop at the War Memorial at Lincoln school, upon which a wreath was laid, and ended at the Honor Roll at Town Hall, where speakers honored those men and women who had given their lives for our country.

Among those participating in the parade were the Veterans of Foreign War, Aberjona Post 3719, who sponsored the parade, the American Legion, The Winchester Police Department Color Guard, the Winchester Fire Department, the Boy and Girl Scouts, The Winchester High School band, state Rep. Paul Casey, Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer, Veterans Affairs Commissioner Dominic Serratore, the Board of Selectmen, and Reverend Arline C. Sutherland, senior minister of the Unitarian Church, who gave the invocation.

"It all went very well," said O'Connell. "It went as well as any I've been involved with in the past 20 years."

CHAS to take its first step

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

With the passage of a series of five separate motions by the Board of Selectmen, the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS) began the first leg of its five-year journey.

Selectmen voted unanimously to support the plan, disseminate it to every town meeting member and a host of committees, as well as begin implementation of a key aspect of the plan on Nov. 16. The vote came after a series of revisions to the original plan were made following several public hearings.

The CHAS was developed by the Winchester Housing Partnership Board (HPB) to document the housing needs specific to the town. Housing plans became a requirement for federal grant monies in early 1990 with the passage of the National Affordability Housing Act. The strategy focused on the housing problems of the low-to-moderate income elderly, families and the mentally-challenged.

Along with agreement on submission of the plan to appropriate state and federal agencies, the selectmen agreed to send money from the Fletcher fund, a housing fund, to the Community Services Network in Stoneham. The network currently aids people in Winchester who are in imminent danger of becoming homeless.

In addition, selectmen asked the HPB to continue their work on behalf of the town's mentally-challenged residents. Selectman Peter Van Aken said, "This is an area that has been identified as very critical and very high need in this town."

The first step for enactment of the plan over the next few months, according to Van Aken, will be to address the reuse of the Mystic School. A vote of the School Committee on Nov. 10 put the school outside of its jurisdiction, thus opening the way for a study of its suitability for use as elderly congregate housing.

According to Van Aken, the CHAS suggests the use of small subcommittees to study each of the school sites. Parkhurst and Sanborn schools have already been excessed by the School Committee.

Committee may look to reserves to pay off lawsuit

School Committee members, who are still trying to reach a consensus over the shortfall in this year's budget, are now facing the possibility of having to pay off a $45,000 legal settlement.

POLICE LOG

Sunday, Nov. 15

5:34 p.m.

A Squire Road man had his license plate stolen from his motor vehicle and replaced with a stolen license plate. Police discovered the switch when the man's license plate was used on a motor vehicle that had committed a larceny at a store in Saugus.

Saturday, Nov. 14

2:45 p.m.

Officer Steven Fields responded to a report from a Methuen man who said his car had been entered while it was parked on River Street. Someone had taken a radio and a telephone from the motor vehicle.

1 p.m.

Officer Douglas Wilkinson responded to a motor vehicle accident on Swanton Street.

The first vehicle, operated by a 31-year-old Lincoln Street female, was traveling west on Swanton Street when it hit from behind the second vehicle, operated by a 36-year-old Harvard Street female, who was taking a left into a driveway. There were no personal injuries.

2:39 a.m.

Police were dispatched to the intersection of Highland Avenue and Main Street for a motor vehicle accident with a personal injury.

Upon arrival, police found a motor vehicle off the road and extensively damaged. The operator and owner of the vehicle, a Winchester youth, was in the driver's seat unconscious. According to police, the youth lost control of his motor vehicle attempting to take a turn from Main Street onto Highland. The vehicle skidded off the road and into a utility pole, leaving 60 feet of skid marks, according to police reports.

The youth was transported to the Winchester Hospital emergency room by the ambulance. He was then taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital for further treatment.

Police said several beer containers from the vehicle and the vehicle was demolished beyond repair. Police were unable to interview the youth because of his condition. The youth was issued citations for operating under the influence and minor transporting alcohol.

Friday, Nov. 13

1:50 a.m.

Officer Thomas Groux was dispatched to Main Street for a report of suspicious youths hanging around a gas station.

Police arrived and saw no individuals but saw three motor vehicles with broken windows. According to police, it appears that someone had thrown rocks through the windows. While investigating the crime, the officers received a call that someone was throwing rocks onto vehicles in a parking lot of condominiums on Swanton Street.

Police spotted two youths near the area who admitted to the vandalism when confronted by police. The youths were taken home and told they would later be charged by police.

4:06 p.m.

Officer Steven Fields responded to a motor vehicle accident at the intersection of Main Street and Swanton Street.

The second vehicle, operated by a 28-year-old Belmont male, was traveling south on Main Street through the intersection when he collided with the first vehicle, operated by a 75-year-old Hemingway Street male, that was traveling east on Swanton.

The operator of the first vehicle told police the sun was in his eyes, and he thought he had a green light. Damage to the vehicles was minor. There were no personal injuries.

2:12 p.m.

Officer Steven Fields stopped a motor vehicle with an expired registration sticker. A check with dispatch showed that the registration had expired and that the insurance had been revoked. The operator, a 28-year-old Cedar Street male, was cited for operating an unregistered and uninsured operation of a motor vehicle. The motor vehicle was towed from the scene.

Thursday, Nov. 12

2:19 p.m.

Officer Steven Fields was dispatched to the intersection of Bacon Street and Mystic Valley Parkway.

The second vehicle, operated by a 44-year-old Woburn female, was taking a left onto Mystic when it was struck from behind by the first vehicle, operated by a 27-year-old Burlington male. The operator of the first vehicle told police that the operator of the second vehicle didn't have brake or directional lights. There were no personal injuries.

A Welcome Gift

McCall Middle School Principal Evander French accepts a a large-screen television as a donation from the Woburn District Court. The 52-inch RCA stereo television was purchased from fines paid to the court by Winchester residents for various offenses. French said the television would be viewed by large groups in the school's auditorium for educational programs. "I really appreciate this gift. There's no way we could have afforded it," said French. Man arrested for purchasing liquor for local minors

By Stephen Ollvieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

As a result of an undercover operation, police arrested a Winchester man for purchasing alcohol for minors.

Police set up surveillance at a Main Street residence after being told that a man who lived there was known to buy alcohol for minors. On the evening of Nov. 14, police watched as a van with three youth passengers pulled up to the residence, and the suspect, 23-year-old Ricardo Colon, got in.

According to reports, police followed the van to a liquor store in Woburn where the suspect went in and emerged with a bag. The van immediately returned to Colon's Main Street residence.

At that time, police approached the van and found a pint and a liter of vodka inside. The three Winchester youths in the van were charged with minors in possession of alcohol. Police went to Colon's house and arrested him for purchasing alcohol for minors. Because two of the youths were under 17, Colon was also charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Colon was arraigned on the charges on Nov. 17 at Woburn District Court.

Winchester Troop 503 announces wreath sale

The scouts of Troop 503 are now conducting the troop's 31st annual Christmas wreath sale. This sale, the troop's only fund-raising effort, provides money used to support the troop's camping and activities program, the scout's registration fees, and tuition for leadership training courses.

The prices are the same as last year: $7 for the plain and $10 for the decorated wreaths. Wreaths will be ready for delivery on Saturday, Dec. 5. The scouts will make an effort to contact all households during the sale. However, if you would like to place an order (large orders are especially encouraged), please contact either Dick Schrock (721-1229) or Steve Galli (729-5239).

Line item review of 1994 budget begins

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The school administration will present the town manager with their Fiscal Year 1994 budget, which will include an approximately $1.5 million increase over this year's school budget.

The School Department received a $13,255,410 budget in Fiscal Year 1992 and will present a preliminary budget to Town Manager W. Chadwick Maurer for $14,710,316. This year's budget was also supplemented with an unexpected $289,100 windfall from the state in August.

In the first-draft budget, personnel services will receive $12,827,429, other expenses will get $475,376, and equipment will be funded for $68,963.

School Committee Chairman Mark Lombardi said the committee intends to have its budget ready early this year to avoid some of the fiscal problems it ran into last year.

Lombardi said at a joint budget committee meeting earlier this fall that if the town manager's bottom line for the schools, which is usually presented in February, is below what the school is looking for, the School Committee may have to begin to immediately hand out dismissal notices to staff.

One reason for the increase in the school budget is the recently negotiated teachers' contract. Teachers will receive a 4.5 percent raise in Fiscal Year 1994, which will add $400,000 onto next year's school budget. While the teachers' contract was settled, the administration still has to work out contracts with the principals, custodians, and secretaries.

Acting Superintendent Robert Fitzgerald said he wanted to restore funding to several items that had been cut or reduced, including $10,000 for curriculum workshops, $54,000 for new textbooks, and $17,000 to purchase library books. Despite the increased funding, however, the teacher-pupil ratio is expected to go up to a 21.1:1 next year.

Fitzgerald said the numbers were only preliminary and would change over the next several months. He said the $1.2 million increase was "optimistic but realistic."

SENIOR NEWS

FROM THE JENKS CENTER

BY MARY KELLY
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Last call for Thanksgiving Share-A-Meal

This is a last reminder to those who wish to participate in this year's Thanksgiving Share-A-Meal program. As in past years, Church Women United of Winchester is offering a holiday tray of home-cooked food to town residents, homebound on Thanksgiving and Christmas. Winchester's homebound seniors who wish to enjoy a home-cooked meal on a tray delivered to them on Thanksgiving Day are reminded to sign up immediately by calling the Jenks Senior Center, 721-7136, and leaving their name, address and telephone number.

The final date for registering for the Thanksgiving Day meal is Tuesday, Nov. 24, in order that the givers and receivers may be matched up.

Remember, also, those who would like to share your own holiday meal, call Susan Schultz, 729-1823, and offer your assistance. Schultz and Ella Gosselin are co-chairpersons of this program.

Seniors invited to 'read aloud/ read together'

Seniors are asked to keep in mind that, starting in January, a program sponsored jointly by the Winchester Public Library and the Council on Aging will be launched at the Jenks Senior Center. "Reading Aloud/ Reading Together" will involve a group of seniors who will meet at the Jenks Center and read aloud from a particular book to group members who will follow along.

There is a sign-up list at the Jenks Center for seniors who are interested in this group starting the first of the year. Dates and times of these gatherings will be arranged when sign-ups are completed. Call Barbara Ciampa of the COA at the Jenks Center, 721-7136, or Richard Welton at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171, for any questions about this new program.

1992 UNICEF card sale

UNICEF greeting cards, seasonal note papers, calendars and other incidental items will be on sale again this Christmas season at the Jenks Center. Church Women United of Winchester is sponsoring this sale for the benefit of the United Nations Children's program, as it has in past years. A representative from Church Women United will be at the Center daily from Monday, Nov. 30, through Friday, Dec. 11, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Channel 19 to show tape of "Senior Issues Forum"

The Senior Issues Forum held recently at the Jenks Senior Center was sponsored by the Council on Aging. Phyllis Hollinshead, COA member and chairman in charge of presenting this program, arranged to have Attorney Harold E. Dreyer discuss the new estate tax changes in Massachusetts.

The program was well attended and COA members Regina Karnilla and Elaine Chipman assisted Hollinshead with refreshments.

For those who missed the presentation at the center, Channel 19 will show the tape of the program on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 11, at noon, and again on Wednesday, Jan. 6, at 8 p.m.

TV producer and director needed

Mentioned recently in this column is the need for a TV producer and/or director with experience and skills in program production and directing to serve on the Jenks Center's TV Committee. Those seniors now serving on the committee, which is chaired by Mert Ober, have been trained in the technical aspects of TV production and have assisted Channel 19 with operation of cameras at town meetings and other civic events. The committee has obtained appropriate technical equipment to proceed now with production of programs that will spotlight events at the Jenks Senior Center and profiles of various Winchester seniors.

If any senior in town with experience and skills in program production and directing is interested in joining the committee, call Ober, 729-0114, or Barbara Ciampa, 721-7136. This committee's future plans include taping events to be shown on Channel 19 on a regularly scheduled basis.

Phyllis Hollinshead, COA member and chairman of the program, is shown above with Attorney Harold E. Dreyer at the Senior Issues Forum held recently at the Jenks Senior Center. Dreyer discussed new estate tax changes in Massachusetts. Channel 19 will show a tape of the program on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 11, at noon, and Wednesday, Jan. 6, at 8 p.m.

Special prime rib dinner Dec. 11

A special event for those who come regularly to Eating Together at the Jenks Center is planned for Friday, Dec. 4. A prime rib dinner, sliced at the site, with baked potato, glazed carrots, twisted roll, butter, sour cream, egg nog, milk and holiday cookies, make up this special menu for which the cost will be $3.50.

Those who will attend must make reservations with Cay Fleming, ET site manager, no later than Friday, Dec. 4. A limited number of reservations will be accepted so sign up early. Come down to the center and see Fleming in person or call her on Monday, Wednesday or Friday morning.

To add to the festivities the McCall Middle School Orchestra will entertain starting at 11:30 a.m.

Christmas party

The annual WSA Christmas Party will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 9, in the center's Pond Room, at 1:30 p.m. Entertainment will be furnished by Elizabeth Pucciarella, a lyric soprano. Refreshments will be served and Santa Claus will distribute gifts to those attending. Advance reservations are required for the Christmas party. There will be a charge of $3 per person. Remember, too, that the "Scrapaholic" quilt will be raffled off at the Christmas Party.

Tax season is just ahead

Mert Ober, chairman of the Tax Assistance Committee, will be meeting with the Tax Assistance volunteers who will start training in early January. He is now looking for new recruits to take part in this training by the Internal Revenue Service and commit themselves to volunteering half a day once or twice a month from February to April. Any new senior volunteers who wish to join this Tax Assistance Committee should call Ober at 729-0114.

Flu clinic draws many seniors

Thanks to Health Department and senior volunteers, a successful flu vaccine clinic was completed in October. Thanks and appreciation go to Joe Tabbi and Joan York of the Health Department, the staff of Visiting Nurse and Health Care Agency for their assistance, to doctors Barone, McLean and Smith for standing by, and for the much appreciated services of senior volunteers Mary Baum, Bea Costa, Mary Kelly and Mary King for their assistance in registration and in facilitating the smooth flow of the crowd. Over the two day period 918 persons received flu shots.

Medicare or Medicaid?

Joan Butler-West, executive director of Minuteman Home Care, in a monthly question and answer column poses the following question of interest to seniors:

Q. Can you please explain the difference between Medicare and Medicaid?

A. These programs are frequently confused. Medicare is a federal health insurance program for people 65 years of age and over, and for disabled people of any age. Medicare has two parts: Part A, hospital insurance, helps pay for inpatient care at a hospital, limited nursing home care, home health services and hospice care. Part B, medical insurance, helps pay for doctor's services and other outpatient services. Medicare benefits are primarily financed through Social Security payroll taxes. There are no income or asset eligibility tests for Medicare.

Medi-caid is a federal-state health insurance program which pays for medical costs only for low-income elderly, blind or disabled Americans. To be eligible for Medicaid, members must meet income and asset limits which vary from state to state. Medicaid pays for much broader long term care services, including nursing home care, home health care and other community services, such as medical equipment. Medicaid is the major government program that pays for nursing home care, not Medicare. Yet most elders who qualify for Medicaid are not enrolled in the program.

Home care corporations and area agencies on aging have more information about Medicare and Medicaid. For a list of these agencies in Massachusetts, or anywhere in the country, call the ElderLine at 1-800-AGE-INFO.

Notice of vacancies on Housing Partnership Board

The Housing Partnership Board has vacancies for two registered voters who hold no other town office, for three-year terms.

The Housing Partnership Board was established by vote of Town Meeting in 1987. The Board consists of 13 voters, seven of whom are appointed by the town moderator. Other members are from the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Housing Authority, Council on Aging, Conservation Commission and School Committee.

The Board makes recommendations to the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Housing Authority and Town Meeting on various matters having to do with affordable housing in Winchester.

Send letter of interest to: Town Moderator John J. Sullivan, c/o Town Clerk Town Hall, Winchester, MA 01890.

Focus on Winchester will discuss recyling legislation status

The Focus on Winchester cable broadcast on Channel 19 will air a segment on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m., on the current status of the Mozzicato recycling legislation.

The petition has been signed by more than 21,000 concerned citizens regarding the upcoming Massachusetts Legislation attempt by Mozzicato regarding reform of the bottle bill.

Also, over 200 letters have been mailed to Rep. Markey's office urging the congressman to consider this plan on a national level, which would in effect establish a national bottle bill allowing consumers a choice of an environmental lottery ticket or their deposit money back in an attempt to stimulate the public into returning some of the 35 plus billion containers not recycled annually in the United States each year, causing an estimated loss of billions of dollars in hauling and dumping fees, severe harm to the environment, and contributing to the closing of many landfills each year. Mozzicato believes his plan implemented on state and national level will go a long way to solving some of the above mentioned environmental issues.

Winchester Hospital offers free medicine checkups for the elderly

On Friday, Nov. 20, from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Winchester Hospital will provide older residents with a free personalized checkup of their medicines. Known as a "Brown Bag" medicine review, this service will be held at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center at 500 Salem St. in Wilmington.

"Older people are at greater risk for hospitalization from improper medicine use," says Gary Abrams, director of pharmacy at Winchester Hospital. "Regular medicine checkups can help older people stay independent and avoid mishaps."

During the medicine checkups, hospital pharmacists and physicians will review each medicine and discuss the older person's medicine-taking routine. The conversation is private and confidential; the pharmacist or physicians conducting the review may follow up with the patient's own doctor about serious concerns.

"We look for problems that are easy to solve, but which can lead to severe consequences for a patient's health," notes Abrams. "For example, some medicines should not be taken together, but patients may receive prescriptions from different doctors — who may be unaware of a patients other medicines. About half of all medicines prescribed are taken incorrectly, sometimes because patients don't have complete instructions or don't understand why it is important to follow them exactly."

Many older people and their families also appreciated the chance to get about 20 minutes of a health professional's undivided attention — free of charge. Participants can ask questions and get personalized tips on remembering their medicines, reducing or avoiding medicine side effects, and safe medicine storage.

Interested older citizens and/or those who care for them should contact Winchester Hospital at 756-2111 to make an appointment for the medicine review. Caregivers may come with the older patient. Participants should bring all medicines in the original containers to the checkup.

MULTICULTURAL NETWORK

Forum on racism to be held Nov. 30

In response to incidents of anti-semitism and racism in town, members of the Multicultural Network are sponsoring an open forum on Monday, Nov. 30, at Winchester High School from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The title of the forum is, "Issues of Diversity for Winchester — Racism and Anti-semitism."

People in the community who have been targets, or whose children have been targets, of discrimination of any kind are invited to come and share their experiences in a comfortable, constructive setting. Leading the discussion will be an experienced facilitator, Julian Sonn, who works with VISIONS Inc., an organization that specializes in multicultural work of all kinds. Sonn, who is a native of South Africa, has led discussions of this kind in community, educational, and corporate settings all over the country.

While Winchester may appear to be a somewhat homogeneous community, there is considerable diversity. Just talk to your neighbors about where they are from, their ancestry, etc. and you'll see that there are many differences — in background, in age, and in religion to name a few.

"Every day presents opportunities to observe and respect differences," says Network member Kaye Nash. "Every time we choose to notice a difference we can also choose to go a step further, to understand ... As a result of recognizing and valuing our diversity, we also better understand what we have in common." In writing a recent article, Nash adapted words from an address given at the Harvard Business School in 1988 by D. Wayne Calloway, then CEO of Pepsico Inc. He said, "People in a "town" ... are like blades of a pair of shears, joined together so they cannot be separated. Often moving in opposite directions; just as often coming together. And when they do come together, they're stronger than they ever were apart. They cut through everything that comes between them. Just like a pair of shears, it's when people in a "town" come together ... when they work well together ... that the "town" becomes the strongest."

Townspeople are encouraged to come together, to listen to one another, and to make plans to ensure that those who have been targets of discrimination in the past do not have that experience again. By coming together, we can all become stronger, and we can help our community to be a happy place for all its residents.

Educator to present communication workshop for parents at library

by Richard Welton
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Do children and adults really understand each other, or do they only pretend? Merryl Goldberg, instructor at Wheelock College and the Harvard Graduate School of Education, will explore this question in "Children And Parents: Do We Speak The Same Language?" a workshop for parents and teachers that will be held on Monday, Nov. 30, at 7 p.m. in the Meeting Room at the Winchester Public Library. The program will guide parents and teachers in exploring ways to interpret and nurture children's forms of expression, in play, speech, writing, art and movement. The workshop will focus on children ages 3 to 11 so that adults can think not only about their children's present modes of expression, but on changes in years to come.

In addition to her teaching duties, Goldberg is the author of numerous educational articles and a recently published book, "Arts As Education." She is also a professional saxophonist with the Klezmer Conservatory Band.

This free program is sponsored by the Friends of the Winchester Public Library. For information about this program, or any of the Library's services for children, please call 721-7140.

Tatting on display in glass case

Tatting is the art of forming lacy patterns in fabric by transferring a series of knots from a shuttle thread to a base thread, making rings, which are then connected into patterns. Examples of the tatting art from the collection of Darlene Wigton of Winchester are now on display in the Library's glass case. The display includes both antique tatting and Wigton's own work. Aprons, handkerchiefs, jewelry, doll clothes, and many other items are included. The tatting display will remain in the glass case until the end of November.

If you have a question or comment about anything mentioned in this column, please call the community services librarian at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171.

'Book some time with your kids' the December theme for Children's Room

"Book Some Time With Your Kids" will be the Winchester Public Library Children's Room's theme for December. With the hectic pace of the holiday season, the library would like to encourage a family tradition of reading aloud. What better way is there to end the year and start a new one then to give your children the precious gift of your shared time? To be a part of this gift, families will sign a pledge with one of the children's librarians, indicating the number of hours that they plan to read together during the month. Certificates will be awarded to families who fulfill their pledge, as well as a special "program treat" in January.

There will be a "Read-Aloud" log, where families can record their favorite book or books and the ages of their children, and indicate their enjoyment of each book by placing one, two or three stars. This log will be helpful to other families and serve as Winchester's version of the Read-Aloud Handbook.

There will be ongoing displays highlighting suggested "Read-Alouds" during December. Get ready to join up, and plan to "Book Some Time With Your Kids"!

SCHOOL NEWS

Ninety-one students at Ambrose school were recently awarded certificates for participating in the Winchester summer reading program. The district-wide program was designed by the reading specialists and elementary librarians. It encourages students, kindergarten through grade 5 to continue their reading throughout the summer. Pictured here are some first graders who successfully completed the programs. From left to right: Will Butler, Stacy Kuy, Hilary Hughes and Jessica Davies.

After school program saves Humpty Dumpty (the Egg)

Monday afternoon, Nov. 2, was not the usual "drop off" at the Winchester After School Program. On this day, the children in the second and third grades were trying to save an egg from breaking when dropped from successive heights of 2, 6, 10, and 40 feet.

All week before the egg drop event, teams of four to six second and third graders planned, designed and built their egg drop devices. Supplied with a packet of supplies consisting of such diverse materials as 50 plastic drinking straws, a roll of masking tape, and a checker, the seven teams built protective devices designed to cradle an egg in its fall. Project organizers included teachers Adam Felber, Kristin Hall, Ann Demuth, and Glenn Kelly. An interactive review and discussion session helped the teams firm up their designs, and then go on to build their devices and test them with plastic and hard-boiled eggs.

Then the real test began. Uncooked eggs, cradled in their protective gear, were dropped from as high as 40 feet by Adam Felber while an intent group of children and teachers watched from below. Two eggs made the trip without breaking: the first in a device designed by third graders Andrea Ellwood, Rebeca Howard, Erica Lee, and Leeron Avneery; and the second designed by teachers Felber, Hall, Demuth, and Kelly.

The Winchester After School Program provides children an opportunity for all kinds of creative fun and learning. Rumor has it that the next project involves constructing London Bridge out of straws and tape.

Multicultural books appeal to children of all colors

Eleven years ago when Gail Willett went to look for books written about children of color for her young sons, she found none.

"It made me feel invisible," says Willett, speaking to parents at the Lynch School Library on Nov. 4. "A few had been published, but they were hard to find."

Willett realized that she was looking not just for her children but for herself. She longed for books that projected a positive image about her African-American identity, heritage, and culture. She wanted her sons to find positive role models in books that celebrated their black heritage.

Willett also realized that not having access to multicultural books had negative consequences not just for children of color but for white children as well. "It gives the message that other people's stories don't count," she explained.

Dismayed and frustrated, Willett took action. She began by starting a mail-order business out of her home, marketing books written by and about people of color. Then three years go, she opened Savanna Books at 858 Mass. Ave. in Central Square, Cambridge. The store, open from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday; and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., on Thursday, now carries more than 2,500 titles.

From time to time, Willett also does special programs to introduce multicultural literature to school children. She describes her initial fears about a two-week program she conducted in South Boston. Her anxiety proved unfounded. To her surprise and delight, the children listened raptly to the stories. Said one, "I'm meeting kids in these books I don't meet in my everyday life."

When selecting books for her store, Willett looks for books with positive images and role models. For example, it's important, she says, that books portray people caring for and supporting each other, solving problems and making decisions together, protecting each other, and enjoying their families and communities.

McCall Library holds annual book fair

McCall Middle School's annual book fair to benefit its library will take place Monday, Nov. 16 through Friday, Nov. 20. The public is welcome. Books will be provided by Beverly Bittarelli, a McCall parent and owner of the Darrow Bookstore in Lexington. The fair will feature a wide variety of paperbacks for grades six through eight children's and adult books and calendars and novelty items suitable for giftgiving. Get a good start on your holiday shopping. All proceeds will benefit the McCall Library.

Book fair hours are Monday through Thursday, 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; Friday 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; evening hours are Tuesday, Nov. 17, 6 to 9 p.m. Visa, Mastercard and checks are accepted.

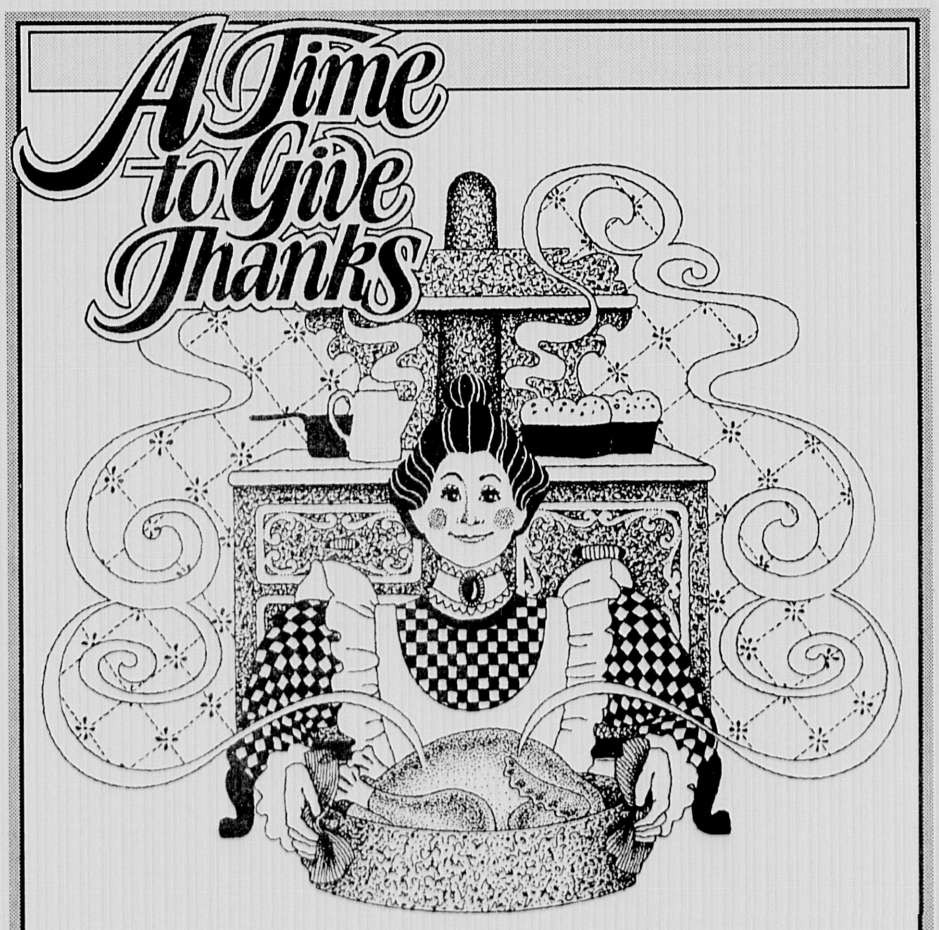

A special feature this year will be our guest speaker, Dr. John Duff, who is the author of "Youth Sports Injuries," a medical handbook for parents and coaches. Dr. Duff is an authority on prevention and treatment of sports injuries, is a practicing orthopedic surgeon and is the founder and director of the North Shore Medical Center in Danvers. He will speak on Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the McCall Library and his book will be available for sale.

WINCHESTER KERNELS

Colonel William P. Winchester

A New Beginning

By Dan Chane
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

It may be said that Winchester entered one of its greatest periods of prosperity following the Armistice of 1918.

Subsequent to solemn homage to its 18 war dead and the erection of an honor roll, surmounted by an impressive golden eagle, Winchester's surviving "doughboys" returned home.

In early 1919 a massive portal was built at the north end of The Common- "Winchester Welcomes Her Boys" emblazoned around its arch, and on an unbearably hot July fourth, Winchester pulled out all stops as surviving Civil War veterans presented engraved bronze medals, given by citizens of Winchester, to each man and woman who served his and her country.

Later as the Athenaeum Press Band mingled war songs with the popular One Steps and Fox Trots of the day, the cruel strictures of war which had long bound Winchester began to loosen.

As if to signify the new prosperity, a building boom of sorts took place, and although new residences for 1919 totalled only 16 units, Building Inspector Maurice Dineen toted up 68 permits for garages.

The loose-jointed flivvers and regal Packards increasingly raising the dust in Winchester streets became a financial bellwether of better times.

By December, the Board of Selectmen, perplexed at the increasing rate of traffic mishaps, approved a four page set of traffic regulations for the town.

Over at the police and fire stations, salaries were increased and the hours were reduced in a magnanimous gesture of the town- obviously not to be repeated in the near future!

The old 1873 Hunneman Steam Pumper, affectionately known as "Mary Ann", kept in reverse since 1914, was sold for $200 to James Filluel and Son of Manchester, N.H.- closing out the history of horse drawn equipment at Winchester Fire Department.

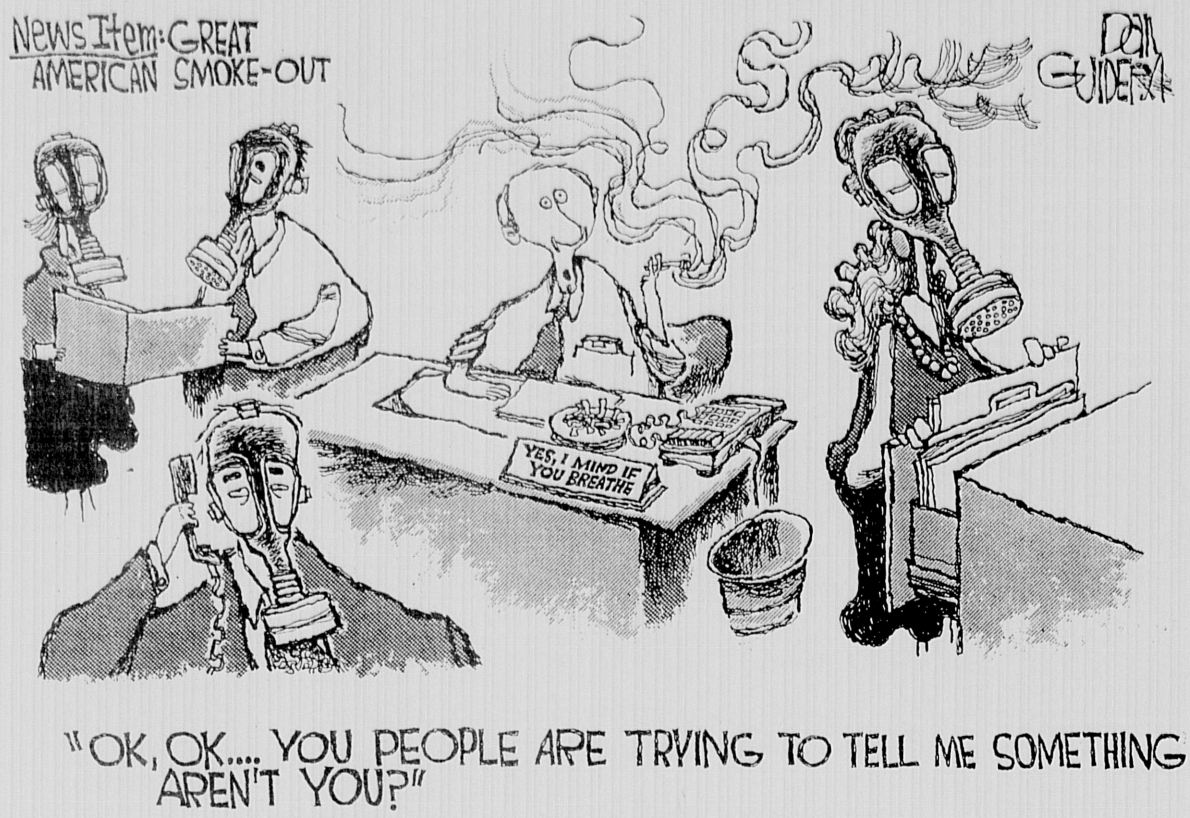

As "Mary Ann" faded into history, concerned Winchester housewives checked the pages of The Star for results of monthly testing of local milk samples wherein bacterial level, fat content and solids were revealed. In 1919 there were still eight dairy farms producing milk of excellent quality in Winchester.

Maurice Dineen- who was also Milk Inspector- trumpeted: "Dr. McCollum says that every adult should use not less than one quart of milk per day because of the food value and vitamins therein."

Memories of the late war were still vivid as a committee of 15 was appointed to investigate the advisability of a War Memorial.

Recommendations of an athletic/recreational facility at the north end of Manchester Field came to naught, and despite the intense patriotism then motivating Winchester, it wasn't until 1926 that a war memorial was realized- and at that, a substantial contribution from Lewis Parkhurst added to citizen gifts was needed to finish the job.

The elegant memorial "Peace" and "Justice", designed by Herbert Adams, was dedicated with great panache on Oct. 8, 1926 with confidence that the "Great War" had assured peace for generations to come.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 19 — Report No. 46
Massachusetts House and Senate
Nov. 13, 1992

THE HOUSE AND SENATE. There were no roll calls in the House and Senate last week. Formal sessions and roll call votes are scheduled to resume Nov. 16.

Among the major pieces of legislation likely to be considered before the conclusion of the current legislative session in January is Governor Weld's economic development package. Weld unveiled the package in an address to the legislature shortly after the September primaries. The governor believes the plan will trigger some $1 billion in new investment in Massachusetts.

Key provisions of the Weld package include a phase out of the capital gains tax; an increase in the investment tax credit from 1 percent to 3 percent; establishment of "enterprise zones" in poor urban areas to offer economic incentives to businesses investing in the area; creation of revolving funds to help businesses build manufacturing plants in the state and to help small businesses expand their operations; and spending $100 million in each of the next five years for roads, bridges and other projects.

The Democratic leadership has recently indicated it supports the concept of some of these initiatives and will likely propose its own version of some of them while rejecting others.

During the 1992 session, several amendments dealing with similar or related economic proposals were considered by the House. This week, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" reviews local representatives' votes on these roll calls. All the proposals were in the form of amendments to budgets.

CAPITAL GAINS (H 5317 and H 5600) — House 113-39 and 105-46 rejected amendments reducing the capital gains tax. The amendments

A grain of salt, no sugarcoating

By Terry Marotta

GUEST COLUMNIST

So many of life's lessons come to us in long complicated paragraphs of living. In wrong turns. In lengthy demonstrations by Fate of the whimsical or the downright bizarre. How often we wish we could take these lessons in concentrated doses, all at once in capsule form, almost, the way we take our vitamins.

We got thinking this as we did the research for a recent piece on Chinese restaurants; or, to be more specific, as we devoured all the fortune cookies that came at the end of those meals.

The fortune cookie, it seemed to us as we munched, should contains bits of wisdom in just such encapsulated form. Inside this sweet folded clamshell of cookie dough should lie Truth with a capital T.

So besides eating four meals in Chinese restaurants in a week for the cookies, we also bought boxes of the things from off our grocer's shelves; and record here bits of wisdom culled from roughly 100 examples of the sweet and edible Origami:

Some were descriptive: ("You have great physical powers and an iron constitution"; "You are very expressive and positive in words, acts and feeling".) Some were predictive: ("You will travel far and wide, both pleasure and business".) Some offered pure takes on human nature ("Our first and last love is self love.") Some were cribbed straight from more enduring kinds of wisdom literature ("A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance" (Proverbs 15:13, but without the credit); and some, ("Nature, time and patience are the three great physicians,") sounded as if they were lifted direct from Ben Franklin's book of Do's and Dont's, the famous Poor Richard's Almanack.

Thus reminded, we then looked to Poor Richard himself for more nuggets. Ben Franklin wrote this almanac over a period of 30 years, continually adding and revising as he grew in wisdom and experience. His views of life are salty, to be sure; but just as fresh and modern today as when they were penned more than 200 years ago. In him we find a commentator on human nature somewhat more cynical than the anonymous philosopher held captive in the fortune cookie factory.

"A good Lawyer, a bad Neighbor", he states, with dark implication toward the attorney's love of combat.

"He's a fool that makes his Doctor his Heir," he also avers, with even darker implication about the motives of the Sawbones.

"Three may keep a Secret if two of them are dead," he observes tartly; and, "Onions can make even Heirs and Widows weep," implying that minus potent veggies, widows and heirs are by nature a merry bunch indeed.

He also displays a touch of the prim and humble: ("Search others for their virtues, thyself for thy vices", and "He that's content hath enough; He that complains, too much.") But in general, we have in his writing a distillation of lessons learned the hard way, through years of living. He knows human weakness. He knows that to everything there is a season ("When you're an Anvil, hold you still; When you're a hammer, strike your fill")

"Lie down with Dogs, rise up with Fleas" is a symbolic truth we can all understand. Likewise "He that falls in love with himself will have no Rivals." In his "Late Children, early Orphans," there is perhaps a message for aging careerists bent on starting families in their mid-40s. And "Men and Melons are hard to know," gets exactly at the truth that, study human nature as we might, there are always surprises in store for us.

In 1780, toward the end of his long life, Franklin wrote a fanciful dialogue between himself and a bad case of gout, thought to result from too richly dining and drinking, in which Gout seems to win all the arguments. "You philosophers are sages in your maxims and fools in your conduct," the disease concludes about Franklin; in other words excellent hands at laying out advice for others, but less good at actually following any of it themselves.

And surely if this is true for Franklin, it's true for us all. The fortunes we read in the cookies last week all concluded with an odd symbol, a little printed Happy Face at the end of each message, meant to convey — what? That we should Have a Nice Day? Or that this was all in fun and should be taken with a grain of salt?

Back in the 1740s, Franklin offered no such mincing wink with his observations, and so in the end his still make the better medicine. Lie down with dogs, rise up with fleas, the honest philosopher says. You want dessert, try ordering the mousse; but don't expect your truth to come sugarcoated.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Search committee thanks community for its input

To the editor:

As co-chairpersons of the superintendent search committee, we want to publicly thank all those individuals who participated in our two focus meetings. Your input on the type of superintendent you would like to have for our schools has been very helpful to our committee.

We invite any citizen of Winchester who was unable to attend these meetings to express their opinions by writing to us at Suite 135, The Mail Box, 6 Mount Vernon St., Winchester, MA 01890.

A superintendent serves the entire community. If you have definite views on this important matter, please let us hear from you.

Shannon thanks supporters for vote of confidence

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the thousands of people in Winchester who came out and gave me a vote of confidence on Tuesday, Nov. 3.

I want all the people of Winchester to know that I am grateful for their support and I shall continue to speak out on their behalf. I am honored to be the State Senator representing Winchester and I shall continue to dedicate all my energy towards improving the quality of life for all my constituents.

Once again, thank you for your support.

ABC committee thanks supporters for help

To the editor:

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the members of the ABC Fall Benefit Dance Committee (Debbie Dimes, Joanna Pywell) who gave of their time and energy to help make the tenth annual fall dance on Friday, Nov. 6 a great success. I would also like to thank the community members who attended the dance and who participated in the silent auction for their support of Winchester ABC. This was the best fall fundraiser yet.

Thanks to the generosity of Nicholas Delpeschio, the ABC Dance raffled off two tickets to anywhere in the continental USA on American Airlines, which also benefited the ABC program. I thank Brian Milauskas for the artwork appearing on the poster and the tickets: and Al Sablone for his great D.J.'ing. Thanks also to the Knights of Columbus for the use of the hall. Also, thank you Debbie Trask for the assistance in promoting this worthwhile event.

Thanks to the many shops who displayed our posters. Also, many thanks to those who helped decorate (Leigh Ann Schlorf, Judy Huston and Lauren Huston, LuAnn Clavette and Debbie Dimes). THe place really looked great. Last I would like to thank the following individuals and businesses who generously contributed items for the silent auction:

Karin and David Brown, Linda and Ken Vacovec, Sandy and Lew Thompson, Peggy and Jacob Roll, Bruce and Ellen Fador, Leta and Bob Kniffin and Fran and Jeff McClintock.

Anna and Philipe Frattarolli (Ristorante Lucia), Benny and Gail Maganzini (Pearl Street Cafe in Malden), Frans and Mita Berchout (Cafe

ON THE RECORD

An application for a license to sell liquor on Sundays raised some eyebrows at the Board of Selectmen's meeting recently. Winchester Wine and Spirits applied for a license to open between 12 and 6 p.m. during the holiday season. Apparently the decision was not one that several of the board members were comfortable making without public input. Selectman Gerard Polcari asked for a public hearing on the matter, since it did involve a change in policy. "Are we aware of our what other communities are doing on the same issue?" queried Selectman Stephen Powers. Both Powers and Selectman William O'Leary noted they would probably support the petition regardless of the outcome of the hearing. O'Leary said turning the petition down would drive the business over the border to New Hampshire.

Vinson Owen, under the guidance of Principal Guido Sabelli, has just completed a year-long pilot program for the integrated learning computer system. The equipment had been donated by computer companies and students were able to transmit data by cable wires with the help of Continental Cable. The full potential of the integrated computer system will be realized when all five schools have the system and are able to transmit data from one school to another. That process will not happen in the near future, but since a presentation at the Vinson Owen school earlier this fall, the School Committee has been determined to make this a part of the School Department's future. The committee is considering hiring a technical coordinator to assist in implementing the system. In the meantime, the School Department is looking to the Capital Planning Committee for a workstation for each elementary school that can be used with the cable loop.

The next battle over the school budget will likely be the cost for hiring a new superintendent. School Committee member Jerilyn Heinold has consistently questioned the school administration as to when they are going to figure that cost into their budget. The Search Committee will find things are tight in the school budget. It was reported at the Nov. 17 School Committee meeting that the Search Committee was going to ask for between $8,000 to $12,000. "I couldn't imagine what they would want to spend that much money on," said committee member Constance Makhoul.

LSPA thanks community for support at election day bake sale

To the editor:

On Election Day, the Lincoln School Parents Association hosted a bake and food sale during polling hours for voters in precincts 3 and 4. We raised more than $1,300 and are very grateful to the families and voters who both contributed to and made purchased during our sale.

We would like to express special appreciation to Lincoln School Custodian Joe Saad for his tireless efforts on our behalf and to the local business people who generously donated food and paper goods to our cause. We were touched by their commitment and feel it is important that they be recognized for their community spirited efforts. Many thanks to Arrow Paper, Ernie Battinelli, Boston Chicken, Dominoes Pizza, Dunkin' Donuts, La Patisserie, Papa Gino's, Signature Rolls and White Hen Pantry.

Used eyeglasses to be collected

To the editor:

Used eyeglasses will again be collected at many of the Winchester churches, the Winchester Public Library and the Jenks Center.

Won't you look for any eyeglasses you can spare and donate them so that someone can enjoy better sight?

This drive starts just before Thanksgiving and ends Jan. 1, 1993. Give the gift of seeing!

NEWS NOTES

Shannon supports funds for skating rink

Sen. Charles Shannon (Medford/Somerville/Winchester) has joined with other legislators in the metropolitan district area in sponsoring vital legislation that would allow the MDC to retain the revenues that would be derived from ice skating rink rentals.

Sen. Shannon said, "This legislation specifically states: the Metropolitan District Commission shall retain and may expand revenues collected during its extended skating season, so called, an amount not to exceed five hundred thousand dollars accrued from the rental of ice time and from public skating fees charged at skating rinks operated by said commission for the purpose of the general operation and maintenance of the rinks for this skating season, including the costs of personnel."

Sen. Shannon said, "The MDC skating rinks play an invaluable role in the lives and recreational development of our youth. For many youngsters, the ability to be able to participate in scholastic sports is solely dependent upon the availability of our ice rinks. Our youngsters look forward to the opening of the ice rinks in October. We must provide the MDC with adequate funding in order for those rinks to become fully operational."

Sen. Shannon continued, "Once in a great while the political rhetoric is put aside and legislators come together to act in the best interests of all concerned.

"This legislation is an expample of House and Senate cooperation at its very best. Our young people deserve to have their skating rinks available for them at the earliest possible date.

"For many youngsters, the MDC skating rinks and other recreational facilities represent the only alternative to street gangs and associated gang violence.

"I believe that we must provide our young people with recreational facilities that are properly maintained and readily operational. Anything less is simply unacceptable."

Volunteers sought for district office

Due to an overwhelming response to the opening of the district office in Winchester for State Rep. Paul C. Casey, the office will continue to stay open throughout the year.

The office will act as a field location for residents of Winchester and Stoneham to have convenient contact with the representative and his staff. There is a great need for volunteers to staff the district office. Those who volunteer will be asked to answer phones, handle constituent problems, assist in legislative research, and help out with general office work. Young and old are encouraged to contact the office, even if they only have a few hours a week to contribute. Students can donate a few hours after school, and retirees can spend their mornings with the representative's office.

Anyone interested in volunteering time for their state representative, may call Thomas Camerlinck, at 721-7285 or 722-2692. Any time given to help Rep. Casey make this community and state a better place in which to live will be greatly appreciated.

Casey will hold office hours in the town hall from 9-11 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 20 in the Winchester room.

link the tax rate to how long an asset is held before it is sold and establishes a range from 12 percent for an asset held for less than a year to no tax for one held for more than six years. Amendment supporters said this reduction will stimulate the economy, encourage individuals to invest in businesses and finally help the state shed its old anti-business and anti-job growth label. Some opponents said the cut will cost $138 million over the long run and will benefit only a handful of people. Others said this is a graduated tax which is unconstitutional. (Both roll calls are listed. A "Yes" vote is for the capital gains tax reduction. A "No" vote is against it).

1st Vote:
Rep. Paul Casey voted no.
2nd Vote:
Casey voted no.

INVESTMENT CREDIT (H 5317) — House 109-42, rejected an amendment providing for an additional 20 percent tax credit for businesses. Amendment supporters said this will stimulate the economy by offering an incentive for companies to buy new buildings, machinery and other equipment. Some opponents argued the amendment is complicated and should be the subject of a public hearing. Others said there are better versions of the same bill which will be considered in the near future. (A "Yes" vote is for the 20 percent credit. A "No" vote is against it).

Casey voted no.

ENTERPRISE ZONES (H 5600) — House 109-40, rejected an amendment allowing for the creation and implementation of "enterprise zones." Amendment supporters said this will create jobs in depressed urban areas by offering various tax incentives to attract private investment. Opponents said this major program should be the subject of public hearings and noted the legislature is working on a better version of the legislation. (A "Yes" vote is for the "enterprise zone" amendment. A "No" vote is against it).

Casey voted no.

TAX INCENTIVE (H 5317) — House 105-44, rejected an amendment giving a tax credit to corporations which increase their payroll costs. The credits range from 5 percent for a payroll increase between 15 and 30 percent to 90 percent for an increase of 100 percent or more. Amendment supporters said this will stimulate the economy and create jobs by reducing the cost of hiring new workers without lowering wages. Some opponents said the amendment contains too many loopholes and will do little for the economy. Others said the amendment should not be rushed through without a public hearing. (A "Yes" vote is for the tax credit. A "No" vote is against it).

Casey voted no.

Olga Lawson celebrates 100th birthday

Olga M. Lawson was honored in her home in celebration of her 100th birthday. Her family joined in celebrating her special day on Sunday, Nov. 1, her actual birthday.

Lawson was born on Nov. 1, 1892, in Sweden. She moved to the United States at the age of 16. She married Erland F. Lawson and in 1919 they moved to Winchester. She has resided on Dunster Lane for 73 years.

She has seven children: Mildred O. Clare, Edith G. Oleson, Violet V. McLeman and Robert E.F. Lawson, all of Winchester; Doris H. Wade of Holden; Ruth E. Heptig and Roy H. Lawson of Arlington. She also has 18 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

She is a remarkable woman and received congratulations and best wishes from the Town of Winchester, President Bush, Governor Weld, Senator Kennedy and Senator Kerry. She also enjoyed birthday wishes from her family in Sweden and many friends.

Swap to speak at Lesley College

Susan Swap of Winchester will be a speaker at Lesley College's 31st New England Kindergarten Conference, one of the nation's oldest annual meetings of early childhood professionals. More than 100 national and international early childhood experts will speak at the conference, Nov. 19 and 20, in Randolph, which will be attended by 3,000 kindergarten teachers, day-care professionals, early childhood specialists, administrators and parents.

Swap will speak on Friday afternoon, Nov. 20. Her talk, "Preparing Tomorrow's Teachers: The Role of the Professional Development Schools," will describe new collaborations in which schools and teachers' colleges work together to improve education for children and families.

Lesley College plans to offer master's degree courses in education in the Winchester area. For information, contact Jan Saks, at Lesley Graduate School Admissions Office, 1-800-999-1959.

For further information about the New England Kindergarten Conference, call Dr. Mary Mindess, founder and director of the conference, at Lesley College, 1-800-999-1959.

Resident participates in math meet

Priya Bhargava, a junior at Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, recently placed first for her team at a math meet at Worcester Polytechnic Institute. More than 75 New England schools were represented at the competition, where the top finishers received a $750 scholarship to be used at WPI.

Bhargava is the daughter of Ashok and Sushma Bhargava and lives in Winchester.

Winchester student studies abroad

David McIndoe, a Dartmouth College junior from Winchester, is studying philosophy in Edinburgh, Scotland, this fall as part of the college's foreign study program there.

McIndoe is the son of Margaret and Robert McIndoe of Winchester.

Two local students join work study

Two Winchester students are participating in the Cooperative Education program at Merrimack College. Mark Russo, a senior majoring in accounting, is spending his work semester at Mitre Corporation in Bedford and William Graves, a finance major, is employed at Putnam Investments in Boston.

The five-year Cooperative Education program at Merrimack College permits students to alternate academic semesters with full-time work in their fields of study. It allows students to gain valuable and practical experience and to also earn money for tuition costs.

Mona Johnian

Resident publishes travel book

Mona Johnian of Winchester, author, and conference speaker has recently published her new book, "Life in the Millennium" with the international Bridge Publishers Inc. In the past 15 years Johnian has traveled with her husband, Paul, speaking in more than 25 countries on four continents. Several of her books are translated into foreign languages and by year's end literature for Russia will be available, where she has already visited along with several other nations in the former Eastern Bloc.

"Millennium" has become a catch word in the secular as well as the religious community and is of worldwide interest," says the author. "Both excitement and concern are on the minds of people — we all want a handle on the future."

"Life in the Millennium" is available at Book Ends in Winchester center.

Resident receives high honors at Pine Manor College

Debra Stone, a junior at Pine Manor College, a four-year liberal arts college for women in Chestnut Hill, has been named to the college's high honor roll. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Stone of Winchester.

Residents matriculate at Dartmouth College

Several Winchester residents have enrolled as members of the class of 1996 at Dartmouth College, including Jessica Power, the daughter of Stephen H. and Elizabeth G. Power; and Robert Bourque, the son of Robert and Lucille Bourque.

Trash costs debated

ing to Polcari. With a combined total of approximately $1,900 in receipts from the program, the costs of recycling are easy to trace. According to Polcari, the town will have to institute recycling programs for lead batteries, tires, white goods, and yard wastes as these items come under statewide restriction in April 1993. Leaves are already composted at the station, however, the town must strictly enforce the recycling mandate on leaves or risk having entire loads rejected. Transfer station employees are reminding residents by leafletting during normal business hours.

Winchester recently had one load of trash refused at the incinerator by NESWC when one bag of leaves made its way into the trash. As the incinerator begins to enforce other restrictions more trash could be turned away at the door.

The town will have to work to bring itself in line with the new guidelines and still be run a cost-effective program, said Polcari.

"We're $107,000 short in running the transfer station now," said Polcari. He requested a review of commercial rates, which he felt were too high.

Selectman William O'Leary argued that some of the dropoff from commercial haulers could be directly traced to the general economy. "There has been a depression in construction since 1989, " added O'Leary.

Some of the debate among members centered on whether the town should sell available tonnage to other communities, and who would bear the ultimate responsibility if it were contaminated. "The challenge for the town will to match public policy while maintaining fiscal solvency of the transfer station itself," said Polcari.

Present at the meeting, Sharon Mastenbrook, chairman of the Waste Study Committee, said she believed it would be possible to sell tonnage to other communities who would then deliver it directly to NESWC.

Recommendations from the HPB are that the subcommittee be comprised of one member from the Housing Authority, Seniors Association, Council on Aging, a neighborhood representative, an architect. During the meeting, the selectmen agreed there should be a timeline for completion of that study. A vote on the study committee was delayed until the School Committee could be contacted and asked if they would want representation on the committee.

Selectman William O'Leary argued against the use of another committee to study Mystic school. "You want a volunteer committee to develop a plan? Why are we not going ahead and hiring a professional to develop the plan ... it's not a deeply guarded secret what the plan on this is," argued O'Leary.

Van Aken said the committee would only ballpark the plan, develop some specifics and then turn it over to professionals.

"I think the seniors association, the COA and the neighborhoods thoughts on this should be right up front," said Van Aken.

"Let's get on with the show ... We don't need a committee to throw darts at the wall ... Let's at least give them a deadline," said O'Leary.

Polcari responded that the building did not officially come out from under a lease until July, but agreed a definite timeline should be set.

Special ed takes role

tunity the child has to compete in second and third grades," said Frank Bianco, who has been director of special education and pupil services for 17 years in the Winchester school system.

Although there has been much discussion by the school community of the unwillingness of the state to step up to the plate, the early education program in Winchester is largely funded by state grants, according to Papoulias. She described it as: "A creative combination of funding sources, predominately state and federal monies with in-kind contributions from the school system."

Bianco said that the state funding is not eagerly distributed, and it is only retrieved after aggressive pursuit.

"It is a model for other communities," said Frank of Winchester's early education program. "We put a great deal of emphasis on early education. It is the program we're most proud of."

Almost every aspect of this program, like the entire special education program, is state or federally mandated. The criteria for deciding who will be in early education is another complex, regulated process. "Some people think it's arbitrary selection, but it is a detailed, federally mandated, state-mandated program, said Papoulias.

The children are first tested through an outreach program by the schools for three- and four-year-olds. It is the first step of many in a lengthy process for the children. If a child is identified as possibly needing special education, he is then evaluated by the Chapter 766 (the state law on special education) evaluation team.

One example of the numerous therapies offered in the special education program is sensory integration therapy. The program works on the part of the child's brain that controls motor skills — walking, talking, throwing. The mechanism, at first, looks like a playground with swings and ramps, but its goal is not to exercise the body but a portion of the mind that is underdeveloped. "My first impression was 'What the hell is this,'" said Susan Fennelly, who has a son involved in the therapy.

Fennelly says she has seen marked results from the program. "He is progressing significantly. We attribute it to sensory integration," said Fennelly.

Fennelly says she believes that the citizens and even many school staff are not aware of programs like this. "The community is unaware of this. It's right under their noses."

According to Fennelly the program is very rare. "We were shocked to find it in the school system here. It is a hidden gem at Lynch," said Fennelly.

ing more money in the long run (if we appeal)," Lombardi conceded. The committee has until Nov. 20 to appeal.

The Finance Committee, which had to bail out the School Committee last year, is reluctant to make a commitment to tapping its reserve fund this year for the School Committee. When asked by Lombardi for his advice, Vice-Chairman of the Finance Committee Robert Beattie, who was in attendance at the meeting, said other departments may draw heavily from the reserve fund, and he added, "I wouldn't presume to decide what you should do."

Lombardi responded that the School Committee was criticized by the Finance Committee and Board of Selectmen last year for the settlement of a sex discrimination suit, and he wanted to seek advice this time before the case was settled. "We've tried to communicate with the Finance Committee. We tried to get a meeting, and there's no one at the other end of the phone ... I just hope when it's three or four months down the road, and we trv to educate people as to what process we went through ... the Finance Committee isn't jumping all over us again, saying You shouldn't have made that settlement," said Lombardi.

School Committee members Jerilyn Heinold and James Evans said hat the $45,000 settlement was just he beginning of the School Department's fiscal woes for this year's budget. Evans said the shortfall is "$80,000 easily."

Evans said that the committee should begin "surgery on our expenditures" and added, "If we have to make some tough decisions, so be it." Evans said he went against the hiring of an aide at Lincoln school recently and that he "took a tremendous amount of heat in the community."

Evans also opposed the hotly debated before-school monitors for the elementary schools and three assistant coaches at the meeting. The committee had earlier in the year rejected the positions but were persuaded to reconsider them when several parents questioned the decision. The motion to hire four monitors at a cost of $2,000 was rejected after a 2-2 vote. Evans and Constance Makhoul opposed the motion; Lombardi and Heinold supported it. Edward O'Connell was not at the meeting.

Funding for assistant coaches for the wrestling team, the basketball team, and the hockey team were approved by 3-1 votes. Anthony Fortunati will coach wrestling, Herbert Lyon will coach basketball, and Gregory Winn will coach hockey. Funding for the positions are $5,782.

The School Committee declined to make a decision in open session on whether to accept the settlement in the litigation case and pay the $45,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker

Mr. and Mrs. Baker celebrate 60 years of marriage in Oct.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Baker celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Thursday, Oct. 29, at their home on Harvard Street.

The couple were married in the family homestead in Winchester and returned there more than 36 years ago to raise their family.

In their retirement years, they both remain very active in numerous community programs.

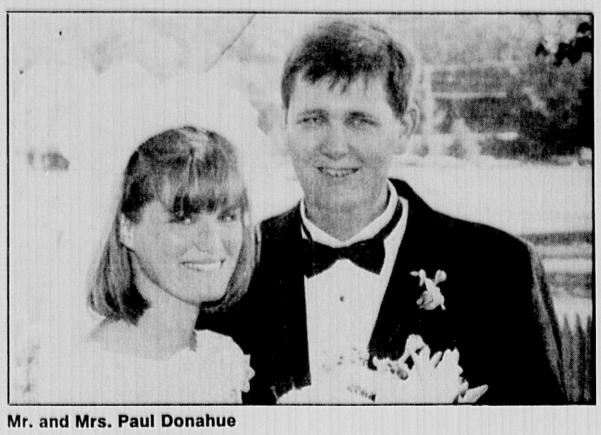

Alice, daughter of the late Reverend William H. Smith, who was pastor of the former New Hope Baptist Church, Winchester, was the church organist. Currently, she is noted for her volunteerism in the Winchester Hospital and the Jenks Center where she is also an avid Bridge player.

Harry met Alice as a young man when he moved from his birthplace, Louisville, Ky. to Malden. He is a graduate of Hampton University, Va. With Alice as an associate member, they are active participants of the Hampton Alumni-Association. They have encouraged many young people to attend this outstanding black college.

As a member of Shiloh Baptist Church, Medford, Harry is particularly known for his visits to the sick and shut-ins. He also is active in the Men's Fellowship of the church and is appreciated by the community for using his professional skills as an interior decorator in nonprofit environments in the greater Medford area.

The couple are parents of LaVerne Baker Layne of New York; Mary Winston Morris of Silver Springs, Maryland; Lynda Berry of Houston, Texas; and Laura-Leigh Guiles of Winchester. They have 12 grandchildren, two great grandchildren and one great, great, nephew.

The couple who always appear to "accent the positive" are quoted as saying "perseverance and humility are special ingredients for a lasting marriage."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Donahue

Christine McGowan is bride Paul Donahue

Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. McGowan of Westford and Quissett announce the marriage of their daughter, Christine Ella, to Paul Martin Donahue, son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Donahue of Winchester and West Falmouth.

The marriage took place on Sept. 12, at St. Joseph's Church, Woods Hole. Rev. William Nortan officiated. It was followed by a reception at the Quissett Harbor House.

Margaret Mahan of Lawrence was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Katherine and Paul McGowan, also sisters, and the groom's sister Anna Donahue Newman of Pasadena, Calif.

Best man was David W. Donahue Jr., brother of the groom. Ushers were Thomas D. Donahue, brother; Jeffrey C. Newman, brother-in-law; and Charles McGowan Jr. of Scituate, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Chelmsford High School and the University of Maine, Orono. She is employed by State Street Bank. The groom is a graduate of Winchester High School and Hobart College. He is employed by John Hancock.

The couple resides in Arlington.

Valerie Kolligan to wed Harvey H. Thayer Jr.

Dr. and Mrs. Michael Kolligian Jr. of Winchester and Longboat Key, Fla. announce the engagement of their daughter, Valerie, to Harvey H. Thayer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Thayer of Dover and Little Compton, R.I.

The future bride is a graduate of Bowdoin College and is an assistant vice president in the middle market lending division at Bank of Boston.

Her fiance is a graduate of Harvard University and is a vice president in the large corporate New England lending division at Bank of Boston.

A May wedding is planned.

BUSINESS NEWS

Carlson celebrates anniversary

Despite opening their doors at the beginning of a recession in 1987, Carlson Real Estate in Winchester has not only survived, but thrived in the real estate market over the last five years. The company was started by Winchester resident Helen Babcock at the request of Dick Carlson. Babcock started with three real estate brokers and has since expanded to 27 brokers.

Sales Associate Dorothy Volpe-O'Malley said the much-discussed housing slump has not affected the sales at all. "Right now is a fabulous time for people to buy houses," said Volpe-O'Malley, because of low interest rates and stabilized prices. She cited Babcock's leadership, a team spirit at the company, and its location as the prime reasons for the company's success in the face of the recession.

The company has been doing business in the center of town on Main Street for all but its first six months. While the downtown area has seen several shops close down this year, Volpe-O'Malley says, "We get a lot of business from walk-by traffic because of our ideal location."

Babcock was named Broker of the Year by the Greater Boston Real Estate Board earlier this year. "Helen is a great motivator," said Volpe-O'Malley. "It's a group spirit, like a political campaign. The goal is to be number one, like trying to get a candidate elected."

Cathy Jackson, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Helen Babcock, vice president of Carlson Real Estate enjoy Carlson's fifth year anniversary celebration.

Linemen for the bounty

Arsenault, Bernazzani after one thing: victory

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

Their names aren't usually found in the headlines, and that's fine with them.

For Winchester High School linemen Jon Arsenault and Brian Bernazzani, all that matters is the success of the team.

Arsenault and Bernazzani are seniors on Winchester's 6-3 football squad. When the team, a perennial contender for the Middlesex League championship, got off to a 2-3 start in the 1992 campaign, Arsenault and Bernazzani were two of the team members most responsible for righting the Sachems' listing ship.

Since dropping its third straight game, a 28-14 loss at Lexington on Oct. 17, Winchester has ripped off four straight wins.

Although their names rarely appear in the game stories, the two linemen have been keys to the Winchester turnaround.

Arsenault, a 5-foot-11-inch, 220-pounder, is the left defensive tackle in coach John Donohue's defensive alignment. As a first-year starter, Arsenault has led a defense which has limited its opponents to just 43 points during the four-game win streak, after having yielded 104 over the first five. His position is one of the most important to the success of the Sachem D.

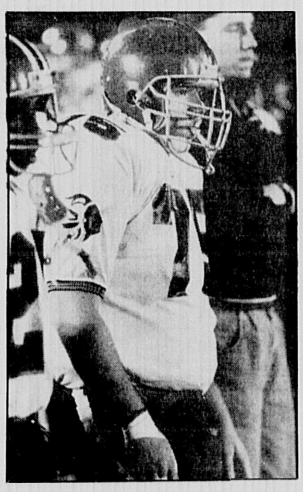

"For our defense to work," said Donohue, "our linebackers have to be able to move freely." Much of the run defense, therefore, falls on the broad shoulders of the Sachems' emotional leader.

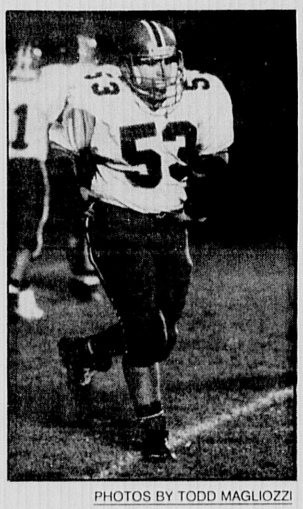

"After our slump, he was one of the seniors who took charge and picked up the team in practice every day," Donohue said. "He's always the one saying 'come on seniors, come on defense, keep working.' "

In Winchester's wishbone offense, most of the headlines go to the quarterbacks and running backs, who roll up impressive yardage. As offensive center, the 5-9, 187-pound Bernazzani often gives up weight to defensive linemen. But according to Donohue, Bernazzani makes up for his lack of size with speed and brains.

"He's got quick feet and sees defenses very well," Donohue said. "He comes off the field and tells the coaches what's happening out there. It's like having an extra coach out there."

Sachems go Carroll-ing to Watertown

Stumbling Raiders in giving spirit, Winchester takes advantage

By Jerry Spar
SPORTS EDITOR

There is a tradition that dictates the senior class leaves the school with a gift when it departs.

Winchester High School FOOTBALL

On the Winchester High School football team, the seniors have already made their offering.

A mere month ago, the Sachems were struggling, having lost three straight and sporting a losing record at the midpoint of their 10-game season.

Four impressive showings later, including Friday night's 28-7 road victory over Watertown, the Win has been restored to Winchester.

"After the third loss, all the varsity and seniors just got together and talked about what we wanted to do differently in the second half of the season," Winchester coach John Donohue explained. "The seniors started to give their gift to the juniors by showing them how to play well and turn things around. We talked about the fact that this type of attitude can spread and everybody can pick up on it. Now we're not taking any opponent lightly, regardless of their record, and we saw that Friday night."

After disposing of winless Watertown, the Sachems improved to 6-3 and can cap their season with five straight victories as they look toward a Thanksgiving Day showdown with Woburn.

"They have a nice ballclub," Watertown coach John Barbati said of Winchester. "They're not a powerhouse, but they're strong, as they've proven."

Seniors Josh Carroll and John Rauseo led the Winchester effort Friday, keying three first-quarter touchdowns as Winchester put the game away early.

Carroll, a halfback, finished with six carries for 38 yards and three touchdowns. He also ran for a two-point conversion.

Rauseo, Winchester's reliable quarterback, continued to run the option to perfection, collecting 32 yards and a touchdown on nine attempts. He threw just two passes and completed them both, for 36 yards.

Winchester also benefited from the big plays, scoring its first TD on a fourth-and-3 (a Rauseo 3-yard run), recovering a fumble on the ensuing kickoff to set up the second score (a Carroll 2-yard run), and getting an interception and 47-yard return by junior defensive back Greg Carroll (Josh's brother) to create the third TD (a Josh Carroll 6-yard run).

"We've got a lucky rabbit's foot or something," Donohue said. "The breaks have been coming our way."

Not all the breaks were good, however. Senior tri-captain Mike Szczepanski, the Sachems' workhorse fullback, suffered a ruptured patella tendon and fractured his kneecap early in the game.

"It's too bad about Mike," Donohue said. "We're going to miss him for a lot of reasons — not just football, but he's a great person as well. Now the other guys, especially (senior Rob) Celiberti and (junior Andy) Perenick, will have to step it up."

Before he left, Szczepanski managed to accumulate enough yards (50) to finish as the game's leading rusher.

After Carroll and Rauseo, Perenick was next on the statistical list with three carries for 22 yards. Celiberti added two carries for 7 yards.

Junior Vache Tutunjian led the Raiders with seven carries for 44 yards and senior flanker Sean Fitzgerald picked up 36 yards on three attempts.

SACHEMS, See page 3B

Sachems lose Szczepanski

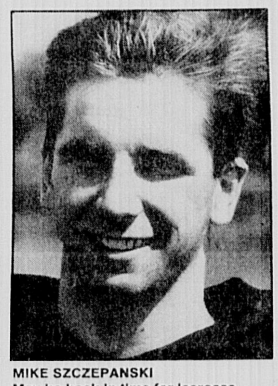

Winchester suffered a big loss in the midst of its victory Friday night in Watertown when senior tri-captain Mike Szczepanski, the team's starting fullback, suffered a ruptured patella tendon and fractured his kneecap early in the game.

Szczepanski carried the ball on the first three plays from scrimmage. On the third play, he broke free for 44 yards to the Watertown 10. But when he was tackled at the end of the run he went down in a heap and remained on the field until an ambulance took him away.

The loss of their quiet leader took something away from the Sachems' triumph.

"The kids were down about it Friday night," Winchester coach John Donohue said. "It bothered them that he was taken away in an ambulance. But it happens from time to time. And he's an exceptional kid. He'll rebound."

Szczepanski underwent surgery Saturday at Winchester Hospital and was expected to be released Monday. Doctors were encouraged that there was no ligament damage, although it will still take several months for the bone to heal.

MIKE SZCZEPANSKI
May be back in time for lacrosse

One early prognosis was that Szczepanski might be able to recover in time for lacrosse in the spring. He is also a captain of that squad.

Donohue is confident that Szczepanski will eventually return to the athletic field triumphantly.

Said the coach, "If there's any kid who can do it, it's Mike."

Doherty sweeps accolades from WHS teammates

Sachemette tri-captain reflects on stellar 3-year career as anchor of Winchester's stingy defense

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

Poise. Composure. Consistency. Leadership. Confidence.

Winchester High School SOCCER

Those are just a few of the words used to desribe Winchester High School senior Catherine Doherty, who wrapped up a tremendous three-year varsity soccer career when the Sachemettes were knocked out of the state soccer tournament with a shootout loss to North Andover on Sunday, Nov. 8.

Doherty, a tri-captain, was also a member of Winchester's 1990 state and national champion team. A backup defender in that glorious season, Doherty went on to become one of Winchester's best players the last two seasons.

"Over the past three years, Catherine has been one of the most consistent players I've coached," said Winchester coach Chris Scanlon, "And consistency is the most valuable asset you can get from a player."

As a sweeper, Doherty rarely gets credit in the box score for the team's goals, and she doesn't get much recognition when the team posts a shutout. But consider this: After Doherty moved into the lineup on a full-time basis as left fullback last season and as sweeper this season, Winchester held opponents scoreless in 30 of its 42 games, including 12 this season and a string of 15 straight in 1991.

Senior tri-captain and goalie Jenn Russo, who was credited with the official shutouts, is the first one to admit that Doherty and the entire defensive unit play a big role.

"I definitely have confidence in the defense," said Russo "I always know Catherine will be there if I get out of position."

Scanlon had enough confidence in Doherty to insert her as a backup fullback during Winchester's state championship season, a decision he didn't take lightly.

"At that stage of the tournament you don't risk taking out a back," Scanlon explained, "but I felt comfortable enough to do that."

Doherty said she'll never forget the feeling of playing for the state championship and the exposure the team received when it was voted the top team in the nation.

"It was amazing," she said. "We didn't know how good we were at first, but everything just clicked. All of a sudden we were number one. It was an incredible feeling."

Doherty said that this year's team might not have been as physical as the others she played on, but said the club had a knack for being up for big games. She said she was shocked to lose in the quarterfinals.

"This particular team worked so hard in the summer," she said. "Every one of us knew it would be tougher than last year, but in the end, it was stunning, because we had dominated the game."

In addition to her outstanding soccer skills, Doherty is an exceptional tennis player. After making the Middlesex League All-Star team as a sophomore, playing doubles, she moved up to the No. 3 singles slot last season. She is projected as the No. 1 player this spring.

"Catherine is the most coachable person," WHS tennis coach Mary Whelan said. "She works hard at her game, and it shows on the court. But also, she's a good person."

Doherty, a two-time All-Middlesex League soccer player, is the youngest daughter of John and Cornelia Doherty. She has two brothers and three sisters, each of whom has carved considerable space for their awards in the Doherty trophy room. Doherty says she was always interested in sports, from her summers growing up on the beaches of Cape Cod to her school years on the playgrounds of Winchester.

"At recess I used to always play," she remembers. "Most of the girls used to watch the boys play. I played."

Doherty, an excellent student ranked near the top of her class, is currently being recruited by Brown University, her top college choice. She wants to continue playing soccer, and according to

Mandracchia leads UMD into semis

One of many WHS grads starring in college soccer

By Jim McKenzie
HARTE-HANKS STAFF

While tournament soccer ended a little earlier than was hoped in Winchester, several former WHS stars were on college teams which went as far as national finals.

COLLEGE NOTEBOOK

Heading the list is 1992 grad Melissa Mandracchia, a freshman at UMass-Dartmouth. Mandracchia was a star player for coach Ray Cabral's Corsairs, who captured the NCAA Division III New England championship and advanced all the way to the NCAA Division III championship game before falling to perennial power Cortland (N.Y.) State, 1-0.

Mandracchia had the game-winning assist in three straight 1-0 wins tha sent UMD to the final. She connected with linemate Leanne Morris on all three. The first was a first-half goal that knocked off Kean (N.J.) State in the New England regional semifinal. The second came in overtime against longtime New England power Plymouth (N.H.) State in the regional championship game.

The win over Plymouth State qualified UMD for the national semifinals. The Corsairs met host Mary Washington College of Virginia in the semis, and posted a 1-0 decision. Mandracchia hit Morris with a perfect cross and Morris headed it home late in overtime.

Waiting for UMD in the final was Cortland State, which put an end to the Corsairs' incredible run with a 1-0 win.

UMD, which finished 17-3-2, raised a lot of eyebrows with its outstanding play in the second half of the season and the playoffs (11 straight wins). Mandracchia and her teammates were less than thrilled to see that they were considered the "Cinderella team" of the 1992 final four.

"No one expected us to be a top team," said Mandracchia, "but we felt we belonged. We weren't just lucky to make it so far, we played some excellent soccer. It was such an honor to make it to the final four. No one dreamed of us going that far."

While many freshmen are prone to breaking under the pressure of such important games, Mandracchia said she thinks her experience playing for Winchester helped her stay focused.

"I'm used to victory from back home," said Mandracchia, who was a member of the Sachemettes' 1990 national champion team. "We dealt with a lot of media in 1990, so it didn't affect me that much this time."

That much was obvious to Cabral, who said that Mandracchia was just her normal laid-back self throughout the tournament.

"She was the least affected of the freshmen by the whole pressure thing," said Cabral. "She just went out there and played her game. She actually set a Division III record for most assists in the tournament (4), so she must not have been affected."

Perkins, Maconochie reign in Maine

Courtney Perkins, a 1990 WHS graduate, is a sophomore at Bowdoin College in Maine. Bowdoin captured the ECAC Division III championship with a 1-0 win over Williams on Nov. 1.

A fullback at Winchester, Perkins moved to the midfield and scored seven points for the Polar Bears this season.

Head coach John Mullen credits Perkins with giving the team an emotional kick start with her play in the first game of the season.

"Her goal against (Division II) Merrimack set the tone for a great season in the first game," said Mullen. "She's a great player from a great program." ...

Jenna Maconochie, a 1989 grad, is a junior forward at Bates and a member of the Division III All-New England team. She was the Bobcats second leading scorer as a sophomore, and took over the team lead this year, finishing with 12 goals and five assists for 29 points in just 15 games.

Bates, 10-5, qualified for the ECAC tournament, but lost to Amherst in the quarterfinals. ...

At the University of Virginia, two-time Massachusetts state Player of the Year Jen Gilpatric recently completed her first season as a member of the Cavaliers. UVA was ranked second nationally this season, but fell to fifth after being upset in the quarterfinal round of the NCAA Division 1 tournament by Duke.

Gilpatric played in all 20 games for coach Lauren Gregg, starting 13. She had four assists from her wing-midfield position. Gilpatric hardly gets a breather before heading to Florida for the final round of national team tryouts over the Thanksgiving holiday break.

Doherty bound for next level

Jim Noonan, the Winchester Youth Soccer girls' coordinator and a longtime coach of Doherty, she should have no trouble adjusting to college-level soccer.

"Catherine has a bright future ahead of her in college," said Noonan. "She has a very strong leg, she hits the ball well, and she has great composure on the field. She should have no problem at the Division I level."

Learn to Skate on Nov. 20

The 1992 Winchester Youth Hockey Learn to Skate program has been scheduled for Friday Nov. 20, from 5-7 p.m. at Medford's Flynn Rink.

The program teaches basic skating skills to children ages 3 and older. Among the skills which will be taught are skating forwards and backwards, hockey stops, snow-plow stops, puck control and directional control.

Skaters are divided into groups according to their ability. Older, more experienced skaters will be eligible to play clinic hockey games as their skills improve.

For more information, including an application, contact Winchester Youth Hockey, P.O. Box 145, Winchester, 01890, or call Ron Martignetti at 720-1313.

Winchester Badminton begins 60th season

The Winchester Badminton Club, one of Winchester's oldest continuing organizations, has started its 60th season.

The club is a recreational organization open to all adults and meets twice weekly, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings (7:30-9:30), at the McCall Junior High School on Main Street in Winchester.

All levels of racquet sport skills are represented by the club members and players, whether experienced or not, are invited to attend any or all sessions, which will continue through March, 1993. Play consists primarily of doubles. Dress is athletic/casual.

Now an olympic sport, badminton played on a hard surface indoors is very unlike the game people play in their backyards. Badminton played in clubs such as Winchester places no premium on age, size, strength or gender, but emphasizes finesse, reflexes and thinking; all due to the relatively small court area and the speed of the shuttlecock of over 100-plus miles per hour to a tantalizing crawl.

If interested, players may attend any session, or for more information contact Ray Jenkins of the Winchester Badminton Club at 729-0807.

Winchester Soccer recruiting players

The Winchester Soccer Club is planning to field boys' soccer teams in the Middlesex League next spring in the under-16 and older age divisions.

Since boys in these age groups do not participate in the fall developmental program, separate registration is necessary to determine the level of interest.

If interested in playing in the under-16, under-17 or under-19 divisions, boys born between Aug. 1, 1973 and July 31, 1978 should call the appropriate coordinator no later than Nov. 12 for more information.

For boys born Aug. 1, 1976 through July 31, 1978, call Don Wright at 729-6817 or 494-2751. For boys born Aug. 1, 1973 through July 31, 1976, call Don Sutton at 721-2228.

Hockey camp in Saugus Nov. 23-28

The Northeast preseason Hockey Conditioning Camp, for boys in grades 9-12, will be held Nov. 23-28 at Kasabuski Arena in Saugus.

The program features on-ice skating drills, which include puck-handling and passing, cardiovascular conditioning a week prior to the start of the season, and emphasis on skate training, power, stride, agility, quickness and speed.

The objectives of the camp are to increase cardiovascular efficiency, to condition and develop the skating muscle groups, to reduce in-season injury, and to prepare players mentally for the high school hockey season.

The director of the clinic is veteran coach Frank Muse. Muse guided Northeast Regional to Division 3 state championships in 1987, '88 and '89 and garnered Coach of the Year honors from the Boston Globe for those years. He was also named Coach of the Year by the Malden Evening News in 1988 and '89.

The assistant director is Dave McCarthy, head hockey coach at Wakefield High School, who says, "Successful conditioning is a condition for success."

The camp administrator is Ed White, who is the Director of Physical Education and Athletics at Northeast Regional.

The program will be held Nov. 23 and 24 from 4:10 p.m.-5:50 p.m., Nov. 25 and 27 from 2:30 p.m.-4:10 p.m., and Nov. 28 from 2 p.m.-4:10 p.m.

Tuition for the program is $95. Participants must wear full hockey equipment. Helmets and mouthpieces are mandatory.

For more information, contact Muse at 662-2551, McCarthy at 665-3563 or White at 246-0227.

High Intensity Basketball Camp

The men's basketball coaching staff of Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill will be conducting its High Intensity Training Basketball Camp on Nov. 27-29 at the NECC gym.

The camp is open to freshman through senior high players and is designed to prepare players for the first day of practice. The camp will stress conditioning, agility and shooting skills, designed to be especially helpful for athletes who have participated in fall sports.

The boys' session will be daily, 9 a.m.-noon, and the girls will go from 1-4 p.m. The cost of the camp is $50 for the three sessions. Any school that has five or more players in a session will receive a 20 percent discount on all fees.

Space is limited, so early registration is advised. For more information or a registration form, contact coach Mike Rowinski at (508) 373-0810 (home) or (508) 374-3822 (school).

Maccabiah seeks swimmers over 35

The United States Maccabiah Team is seeking swimmers age 35 and over to compete in the Masters Division of the 14th World Maccabiah Games, to be held July 5-15, 1993, in Israel.

There are six age classifications: over 35, over 40, over 45, over 50, over 55, and over 60. Ages must be as of Jan. 1, 1993.

Competition will be held for men and women in the following 17 events: freestyle (50 meters, 100m, 200m, 400m, 800m, 1500m, 4x100m, 4x200m); butterfly (100m, 200m); backstroke (100m, 200m); breaststroke (100m, 200m); intermediate medley (200m, 400m); medley relay (4x100m).

Interested swimmers should send times in L.C. meters or S.C. yards, along with name, address, phone number and age (as of Jan. 1, 1993) to: Jimmy Goldman, U.S. Masters Maccabiah Swimming Chairman, 5281 Forbes Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa. 15217.

For more information, write or call the U.S. Committee Sports for Israel at 1926 Arch St., 3rd Floor, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103, or call (215) 561-6900.

Easter Seals, Celts sponsor Shoot-Out

Hundreds of area youngsters have received invitations from Boston Celtics star Kevin McHale to participate in the 1992 Easter Seal/Boston Celtics Basketball Shoot-Out. Local schools and youth organizations have also been invited to participate.

"We know kids like to shoot baskets in their yards, their neighborhoods and churches," said McHale, the Shoot-Out chairman. "Kids can take part in the Easter Seal Shoot-Out on their own or at their schools."

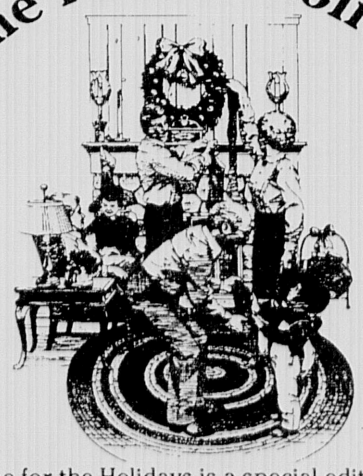

Youngsters participating in the Shoot-Out collect pledges from family and friends for each basket shot during a three-minute period. A parent, teacher or coach signs off on the number of baskets completed. The shooter collects his or her pledges and sends the money to Easter Seals to fund services for people with disabilities.

Last year, nearly 5,000 youngsters raised $150,000 in Basketball Shoot-Outs all over Massachusetts. The top 100 fund raisers joined McHale and Dee Brown in the Boston Garden for a special basketball clinic.

This season, 100 winners will attend the clinic at Boston Garden on March 26, 1993.

For more information, call David Lamacchia at 1-800-922-8290.

WHS harriers run strong campaign

By Jim McKenzie
HARTE-HANKS STAFF

The Winchester High School cross country team wasn't a favorite to win this year's state class meet, held last Saturday at Franklin Park.

Winchester High School
ROUNDUP

And when Winchester's two top runners were unable to contribute to the team score, the best head coach Joe Cantillon could hope for was a solid showing which would give the team experience to help for next year.

With junior Sarah Bonnell out sick and senior Ray Regan unable to run the 3.1-mile course due to an injury, both the girls' and boys' teams were without their stars. But Cantillon was happy with the performances of several runners.

Junior Alain Toussaint had another good day, just missing a personal best on the course with a 17:06. The rest of the Sachem pack included Andy Ratner (17:39), Carter Browning (17:55), Brandon Smith (18:08), Mike Kenney (18:23) and Andy Aldrich (18:45).

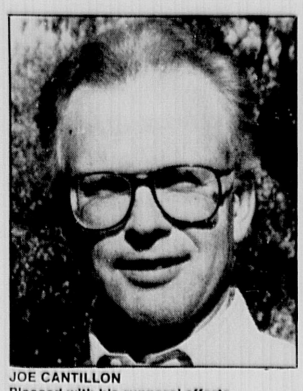

Cantillon was particularly impressed with the performance of Smith, just a sophomore, and Toussaint.

For the girls, Elodie Kayulu was the top finisher, at 23:11. Katie Daley (24:00) finished next, followed by Alicia Franke (24:50) and Emily Kilker (25:09).

"It was a typical type of performance for us," said Cantillon. "Some of the kids ran pretty well, and some not as well as we would have liked. It would have been nice to go out with a real bang, but what can you do."

Cantillon will lose the services of Regan, Browning and Kenny from the boys' team, while the entire girls' team will return.

"With another year, more experience and more size and strength, they could be very good runners," he said. "We may not have any real stars, but we'll have a team which runs really well together."

JOE CANTILLON
Pleased with his runners' efforts

Swimmers 18th

Winchester High placed 18th at last weekend's North sectional swimming and diving championships, held at Regis College in Weston.

With both relay teams disqualified for starting violations, senior quadcaptain Julie Buchanan was the lone Sachemette to score, taking an 11th-place finish in the 100-yard butterfly.

Buchanan's time of 1:07.40 qualified her as the lone Winchester swimmer to advance to Saturday's state meet at Northeastern University.

Christmas returns to Winchester

Local product enjoying early success in minor league baseball

Winchester native Maurice Christmas was an interested observer at last Friday's Winchester-Watertown football game at Watertown's Victory Field.

Christmas, a 1992 graduate of Lexington Christian Academy, was drafted by the Atlanta Braves in last spring's amateur draft.

The 6-foot-2-inch right-hander recently returned home for the winter from the Instructional League. He reports that he fashioned an earned run average under 2.00.

Christmas pitched for the West Palm Beach (Fla.) Braves over the summer, compiling a record of 3-4 (7 no-decisions) with a 2.31 ERA for the Braves' last-place Rookie League entrant. He reports that his fastball was clocked at a consistent 92 mph in the Insructional League, to which each organization's top prospects are invited.

Christmas says the Braves organization taught him quite a bit about the game of baseball, especially during the team's near-miss in its attempt to win the World Series.

"I learned so much playing for the Braves," said Christmas. "They've started me working on my curve and changeup. But the biggest thing we learned was to never quit — ever."

Sachems' seniors key resurgence

Watertown, which upset Winchester a year ago, had little luck this time. The Raiders were held to three first downs and 79 yards of offense in the first half.

"We've had great luck against Winchester the past few years," said Barbati, who is retiring after this season. "We didn't seem to be able to get it done this time."

Watertown played the role of generous host, turning the ball over twice in the first half (a fumble and an interception) and twice more in the second half (one of each again).

In addition, the Raiders put Winchester on the doorstep for the visitors' final score. Late in the second quarter, the Raiders were set up to punt from their 25 when the snap sailed over punter Richard Bertrand's head and to the goal line.

> "Now we're not taking any opponent lightly, regardless of their record, and we saw that Friday night."
> John Donohue
> WHS football coach

Bertrand picked up the ball and tried to kick it as a swarm of Winchester players charged him. The punt landed at the Watertown 13.

Winchester needed one play to capitalize. Rauseo ran the option and picked the ideal time to pitch the ball to Carroll, who raced down the left side and into the end zone. Mike Wallwork drilled the PAT kick (his second) and Winchester had its 28 points.

Watertown scored its touchdown on its final possession. With sophomore Joe' O'Grady in relief of senior Danny Hannon at quarterback, the Raiders drove 63 yards for the score. O'Grady capped the drive with a 21-yard pass to junior Jeff Miler in the right corner of the end zone. Freshman Tom Dicker kicked the extra point.

Winchester linemen

Senior QB John Rauseo has probably been the chief beneficiary of Bernazzani's play at center. While the guards, tackles and running backs are responsible for leading the wide sweeps and for blowing out holes in the line on short-yardage situations, Bernazzani is responsible for blocking the middle linebacker on run plays and picking up the rush on pass plays.

"Brian always seems to see it coming and picks up the blind side," said Rauseo. "He's done a great job on those."

Added Donohue, "His specialty is knocking out the blind-side rush. He's done a real nice job of picking up the back-side rusher all season long."

The Sachems, now back to their customary slot near the top of the Middlesex League standings, have just the traditional Thanksgiving Day matchup with rival Woburn remaining on the schedule. A win would give the team a 7-3 record; not bad for a club many figured to finish fifth or sixth in a very talented league.

"We know that besides Reading, we could have and should have won all our games," said Arsenault, referring to the Sachems' 14-8 loss to Stoneham and the Lexington loss.

But instead of folding when the team was in the midst of its slump, Bernazzani said the senior players got together and decided to reevaluate the season. The result of the team meeting was a commitment from the players and coaches to try as hard as possible to go 5-0 to close the season.

"The key," said Bernazzani, "is that this team has a lot of togetherness. Everyone on this team is friends and we all do it for each other. We realized that if we all did our job, little by little we'd get the job done."

Arsenault and Bernazzani, close friends who play the attack position for the WHS lacrosse team, are intent on going out with gusto against Woburn, in what could be their last football game.

"(The Game) is probably half the reason I started playing football," said Arsenault, who will pursue lacrosse and maybe football in college. "You see all those people when you're growing up and wish you could be out there. This is our chance. It's going to be a great game. We're evenly matched. I just want to have no regrets, because it may be the last game I ever play."

Bernazzani, who said the team will be dedicating the game to Winchester's injured fullback, captain Mike Szczepanski, agreed with Arsenault.

"It's great to be a part of such a rivalry," said Bernazzani, who also intends to attempt collegiate lacrosse while leaving his shoulder pads behind. "There's a lot of pride on both sides of the ball. It's going to be a really good game. I just want to play as hard as I can on every play."

COMING EVENTS

WHAT'S GOING ON IN YOUR AREA IN THE COMING WEEKS

Local breastfeeding support group

La Leche League of Winchester, a support group for breast-feeding mothers, holds meetings on the third Tuesday of each month in the Michelson Room of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Nursing mothers are welcome to attend with their babies. Pregnant women considering breastfeeding are also encouraged to attend.

The Winchester meeting is open to mothers from any community. Local group leaders are available to answer questions and provide information both at the monthly meetings and by telephone.

La Leche League is an international nonprofit organization whose purpose is to offer help and mother-to-mother support to women wanting to breastfeed their babies. The local group meetings provide an opportunity for nursing mothers to meet informally and share their experiences.

A lending library of books on childbirth, breastfeeding and child care is also available to members. For further information, call Nancy, at 729-1163, or Sophia, at 396-7329.

Chocoholics announce "A Chocolate Sunday"

Members finalized plans for 'A Chocolate Sunday' to be held Sunday, Nov. 22, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mahoney's Garden Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Recreation, the event will provide delicious confections from top chocolatiers and bakeries for only $10 for adults and $5 for children under twelve. Held in the conservatory at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, guests will be able to mingle through the "enchanted forest" of Christmas trees while sampling some of the finest sweets. Since the event is being held the week prior to Thanksgiving, guests will be able to purchase their favorite delights to share with family and friends.

The Friends of Winchester Recreation provide a variety of services and programs for adults and youth. What a great way to spend a Sunday afternoon — supporting a worthwhile cause and satisfying your sweet tooth!

Tickets can be purchased at various Winchester businesses including Craddock Apothecary, 22 Church Street and Carlson Real Estate, 552 Main Street. For more information feel free to call Freya Surabian, chairwoman of the event, at 729-4911 or Dotty Volpe-O'Malley at 729-0058.

For further details and confirmation of plans to attend, please call either Jane or Alan MacDonald at 729-0027.

Audition Notice

The Winchester Players 1992-93 Season's midwinter production

"The Real Inspector Hound" by Tom Stoppard

Directed by Robert M. Hallisey Jr.

Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18 and 19, at 7:30 p.m., in Metcalf Hall of The Winchester Unitarian Church, 478 Main St., Winchester.

Mel Gussow of The New York Times says "..."The Real Inspector Hound' is an exceedingly clever lampoon, sharply in focus and at least double-barreled in its own critical assault." The play takes aim at Stoppard's former colleagues, theater critics.

The play starts as two very different British theater critics take their seats to review a new murder-mystery. Neither critic notices how trite the production actually is; Birdboot is too taken with the actress portraying Felicity, while second-string critic Moon is preoccupied with playing second fiddle to senior critic Higgs. The play-within-a-play concerns a mysterious madman believed to be on the loose near Muldoon Manor. Fear and suspicion cast their pall on the residents and guests, as a fog rising from the marshes cuts them off from the rest of humanity. Inspector Hound comes to save the day and crack the case, but the resolution is absolutely not typical fare.

The cast of characters:

Birdboot- a middle-aged, plumpish theater critic who's had an entire review reproduced in neon at the Theatre Royal. He enjoys keeping "au fait" with the world of the footlights by giving promising young actresses a leg up.

Moon- a perpetual second-stringer, Moon's curse and epitaph is "Where's Higgs?" Moon is younger, taller, and thinner than Birdboot and earnest in his critiquing.

Mrs. Drudge- a middle-aged or older charwoman, who pops in on her bicycle to help in the running of charming Muldoon Manor. She's all ears and has uncanny timing.

Simon Gascoyne- a 20-30ish, handsome cad of medium height and build, Simon is a mystery man who's used to getting his way with girls or ladies.

Felicity Cunningham- a beautiful, sometimes innocent young girl, who falls completely for Simon's line and will fight to make sure no one else gets the bait.

Lady Muldoon- a knockout in her 30s or 40s with class, sophistication, and a large estate, Cynthia still pines for her husband Albert, who 10 years ago walked out onto the moors in a fog and has not been heard from again.

Major Magnus- the half-brother of Albert Muldoon, the crusty wheelchair bound Major turned up out of the blue from Canada "just the other day."

Inspector Hound- a renowned crime fighter, in his 30s or 40s, Hound is prepared to figure out whodunit... when he figures out what's been done.

Auditions will be cold readings of selected scenes from the script. First rehearsal is on Tuesday, Dec. 1. Rehearsals will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 7:30 p.m., and Sundays, at 7:00 p.m. Performance dates are Feb. 5, 6 and 7. For further information, call Robert Hallisey, at 547-1557, evenings.

Winchester Players Special Membership Meeting

Metcalf Hall, Winchester Unitarian Church, 478 Main St., Winchester

The Winchester Players will hold a short business meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of this meeting, which was called for by the Annual Meeting held on May 28, is to hold elections for the 1992-93 Board of Directors. The Nominating Committee has submitted the following slate of candidates for this election:

President - Ken Harvey

Vice President - Elaine Chipman

Recording Secretary - David Goldstein

Directors-at-Large

Phyllis Beedle, Alice Connolly, Carolynn Frueh

Nominating Committee

Jim Miller, Craig Nickerson, Lydia Bielski

Members are urged to attend, if at all possible, this brief but important meeting.

League of Women Voters announces fundraiser

The League of Women Voters of Winchester invites all members and friends to participate in a fundraising event that will not only benefit the League but will help with holiday shopping. The Learning Express, an award-winning toy store for children through age 10 will donate 20 percent of sales to the Winchester League on Tuesday, Nov. 24. All you have to do to help the League is to do your shopping at the Learning Express that day and identify yourself as a member or friend of the Winchester League of Women Voters. The Learning Express is located at the Middlesex Mall in Burlington at the intersection of Lowell Street and Middlesex Turnpike. To further enhance your holiday spirit, the League will be serving refreshments from 7 to 9 p.m. The store is open from 9 a.m to 9 p.m.

UNICEF cards to go on sale

UNICEF greeting cards and gift items will be on sale at two Winchester locations this Christmas season. They will available at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Nov. 21 through Dec. 13. Opening time will be at noon on Sundays.

UNICEF items will also be available at the Jenks Senior Center Mondays through Fridays, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. from Nov. 30 through Dec. 11.

Sending UNICEF Christmas greetings has become a tradition for people the world over who want to celebrate the spirit of the season by helping children most in need. Through the sponsorship of Church Women United, volunteers from eight Winchester churches will staff the display tables at the Jenks Center and at Mahoney's.

Drop in afternoon step aerobics

Feeling tired at the end of the day? Revitalize yourself by exercising with us on Wednesday afternoons. This class consists of a warm-up, strength and flexibility exercises, an aerobic component utilizing the Reebok Step, and a relaxing cool down. Participants are encouraged to work at their own pace and are always welcome to walk around the room during the aerobic component. Class is held at Lynch School on Wednesdays from 3:14 to 4:15 p.m. for the next six weeks. The fee is $4.50 per visit.

Co-ed volleyball

Come enjoy a great game of volleyball! Teams will be formed by the participants to maximize the fun. Volleyball is held every Wednesday, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Lynch School. Groups meet only when school is in session. The fee is $2 per week.

Tulle Christmas tree

Create a lovely table top decoration to keep or give as a holiday gift. Make this elegant tree to suit your own decorating style. The room decoration is well suited to all styles of homes — from country to contemporary. Please bring scissors and a yard stick to the class. A $10 materials fee is payable to instructor. Class will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 1, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the high school. The fee is $18.

Additional date for Victorian tree

Because our first class filled up so quickly, we have added an additional date for this popular class. Decorate a beautiful, miniature, 15-inch Christmas tree with roses, baby's breath, berries, dried flowers, ribbons, and pearls. To enhance your holiday experience, you may scent your finished design with balsam fragrance. Please bring a glue gun, scissors and wire clippers. A $30 materials fee is payable to the instructor. This workshop takes place on Monday, Nov. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. The fee is $18.

Outdoor wreath

In this one-night class, you will make a special holiday wreath filled with a bounty of beautiful Christmas delights for your front door. This wreath will grace your door at the holidays for years to come! Please bring a glue gun, scissors, and wire clippers. A $55 materials fee is payable to the instructor. Course will be held on Monday, Nov. 23, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the high school. The fee is $18.

Buche de Noel

You have heard about Buche de Noel. Now you will learn how to make this fabulous Yule Log from scratch using a classic French recipe including butter cream filling and traditional decorations. A $10 food fee is payable to the instructor. Class will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the high school. The fee is $16.

Adult escapes

New York in a day

Just in time for holiday shopping! Spend an entire day, Wednesday, Dec. 9, shopping on Fifth Avenue, go to Germantown, the Village, Zabar's, SoHo. Use the time to visit the garment district, buy antiques or take in a matinee. The time is yours to use as you wish. The motorcoach will leave from McCall Middle School at 6 a.m. arriving in New York City at approximately 10:30 a.m. We will leave New York at approximately 6 p.m. and return to Winchester by 11 p.m. Come see the Big Apple brightly polished for the holidays. Joins us as we travel to New York for a wonderful day. The fee is $44.

Christmas Pops trip (open to non-residents) beginning Nov. 20

If you see several buses filled with festive people going through Winchester Center on Friday evening, Dec. 18, it will be the Recreation Department heading to see this annual holiday event. If you want to be a part of the festivities and not left out in the cold waving, you must order your tickets today! First balcony seats are guaranteed. These hard to come by tickets are $39 per person and include transportation. Buses will leave from the Winchester High School at 6 p.m. for the 7:30 p.m. performance on Friday, Dec. 18. Maximum four tickets per registration. Winchester residents receive priority through Nov. 20. To order by VISA or MasterCard, call 721-7126 24-hours a day.

Programs for children

'My Time' a time for everyone

"My Time" is a new program designed for children walking to 5 years of age. "My Time" is a time for children to meet other children, do arts and crafts, learn new stories and songs and have an enjoyable morning or afternoon. "My Time" is also a time for the parent to go shopping, visit a friend, have time to yourself while knowing that your child is having a fun day in a safe, friendly environment. The instructor, Annette Kennedy is well known in town for her work with preschool children. "My Time" will be run on Tuesdays, Dec. 1, 8, 15 and 22 at the Library Meeting Room. Parents may pick either the morning session, 9:30 a.m. to noon or the afternoon session, 12:30 to 3 p.m. Children may come for one, two or three days, morning or afternoon session at a cost of $12 a day/session or save more than 10 percent by enrolling in all four days at a total cost of $43. There is a discount for the second child when enrolling siblings. The recreation department is very excited about this program. Call 721-7125 for more information.

Santa is coming to town

Don't miss this opportunity to have your child or yourself photographed with Santa Claus. He will be visiting the Topsy Turvy Store at 528 Main St. just before the annual Tree Lighting Ceremony on Thursday, Dec. 3, between 3 and 6 p.m. Money collected will go towards the Recreation Department's Program Scholarship Fund. The fee is $5. Children may visit with Santa at no charge.

Christmas trees for children

Join Madeline DiCiccio as you will decorate two special Christmas trees — one for your own room and one to give away. They will be filled with flowers, ribbons, and other festive decorations. This class is for children in grades 3 to 5 and will take place at the Vinson-Owen School on Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. An $11 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the first class. This one session class has a course number of 925-ES-03A and requires a $9 registration fee.

Students in grades 3 to 5 can ski Nashoba Valley

Come with the Recreation Department to the Nashoba Valley Ski area and learn to ski or perfect your skills. This 6-week program includes four weeks, Jan. 1, 21, 28 and Feb. 11 when we leave Winchester at 3:15 p.m. and two Thursdays, Jan. 14 and Feb. 4, release days, when we leave at 1 p.m. We return by 6:30 p.m. each day. The $129 fee includes lift ticket, Winchester ski headband, a one-hour lesson each day, and transportation. The $35 transportation fee is non-refundable after Dec. 24. Rentals are available for $40 if ordered at the pre-fit session, Tuesday, Dec. 8, from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Winchester High School Staff Room. After that time, rentals will be available at an additional $5 charge at Nashoba Valley only. Rental fees are paid directly to Nashoba at the time of prefit. Participants are expected to behave properly while attending this program. There will be no refunds to those asked to drop the program because of inappropriate behavior. This program begins on Jan. 7 and runs through Feb. 11. Course number for Nashoba Ski Program is 931-ES-02A and has a fee of $129.

Middle school programs

Wachusett Saturday night skiing for grades 6 to 12

Ready for some great skiing? The Recreation Department is pleased to offer a Saturday night ski program from Jan. 9 through Feb. 13. Enjoy the excitement and trails at the beautiful Mt. Wachusetts ski area. A bus will leave at 4 p.m. and return by 11 p.m. The $146 fee includes lift ticket, Winchester ski headband and transportation. The $47 transportation fee is non-refundable after Dec. 24. Participants must fill out both a Winchester Recreation Department release form and a Wachusett Mountain release form. If registering by phone, please ask for these forms to be mailed to you. Registrations received after Dec. 30 will be charged an additional $10. Rentals are available for $55. Level "A" (beginner) and "B" (novice — can make snowplow/wedge turns left and right and ride the beginner chair lift) level skiers must take lessons. The cost is $28 for six one-hour lessons. "C" level skiers or more advanced skiers are not required to take lessons. Participants are expected to behave properly while attending this program. There will be no refunds to those asked to drop the program because of inappropriate behavior. Course numbers and prices are as follows. 931-JS-02A, including lift and transportation, has a fee of $146. 931-JS-02B, for students interested in renting equipment has a fee of $55. 931-JS-02C, for students interested in receiving six one-hour ski lessons, has a fee of $28. Please call the Recreation Department at 721-7125 for more information.

What's up at the Youth Center

Youth Center open on sixth grade release days

On Thursday, Nov. 19, Monday, Nov. 23, and Tuesday, Nov. 24, the Youth Center at McCall Middle School will be open at 11 a.m. As a result, sixth graders will have a place to meet their friends and have food and fun.

Homework with Margie

Margie Paulson, who holds a master's degree in education and is currently teaching in McCall's Learning Center, has joined the Youth Center staff. She is available for help with homework on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoons in one corner of the center.

Newcomers donate equipment

Thanks to Winchester's Newcomers Club, the Youth Center now has some new game equipment. Given the amount of use the old equipment has seen, the donation came at the right time.

ARTS UMBRELLA

This new section of the Star will include news and features on the arts and cultural life of Winchester.

Gala concert to benefit student trip to Russia

Attention, music lovers and those interested in Russian/American relations. You and your friends and family have a golden opportunity to further those interests when, on Sunday, Nov. 22, at 3 p.m., the Winchester High School Select Octets and Chorus will perform in concert to benefit the February 1993 high school trip to St. Petersburg Russia. Joining the students in concert will be our Russian student guests who will be visiting Winchester from school 213 in St. Petersburg. In addition to the chorus and octets, clarinetist Richard Stoltzman and his son Peter, a member of the chorus and boys' octet, will perform a clarinet and piano duet.

The Octets' portion of the concert will feature a variety of music including a host of new tunes currently in rehearsal. Among those are "Sixteen Tons," "Sherry," "You've Lost that Loving Feeling," "Blue Moon," "It's My Party," "One Fine Day" and "Time in a Bottle." The 70-member Winchester High School Chorus will sing the Russian songs "The Trioka," "Vniz Po Matushka Po Volga," and "Mno Gaja Leta." In a special tribute to President John F. Kennedy, the group will sing "Abraham, Martin and John."

Tickets for the Gala Concert may be purchased from any octet or chorus member or at Book Ends, Carlson Real Estate, the Winchester High School Music Department, or at the door. General tickets are $10, students $3, seniors $5, and family $25. If you need more ticket information please call 729-5600.

As a special added attraction, there is a Silent Auction. Bids may be made at the concert, or any time at Book Ends, or by calling 729-6821. The Silent Auction items are: performances by the Octets for your gathering, an Arthur Griffin print, a large and small set of Matryoshka dolls, a gift certificate to Le Bellecour in Lexington, three sets of Boston Celtics tickets, a Jordan Marsh gift certificate, a dozen Dunkin Donuts every Saturday morning for one year, a Staples gift certificate, fan and vase print by Fox, a subscription to National Geographic, two gift Certificates to MVP Sports, a gift certificate to the 99 Restaurant, two gift certificates to Lucia's Restaurant, a subscription to "Education Today," three Holiday Fruit Baskets, and two Cross Pen/Pencil sets. In addition to auction items, a special holiday CD entitled "Hark!," by Richard Stoltzman and Friends, is available at Book Ends and also at the concert.

Please come on Sunday, Nov. 22 and enjoy a gala afternoon of youthful voices and youthful enthusiasm for music. Special donations to help fund the Russia trip are welcome and may be sent to Music Trip Fund, WHS, c/o Lynne Rahmeier.

A Floral Concert

An exhibit of flower paintings by artist Aileen Weissblum will open Nov. 21 at the Spring Bull Studio, Newport, R.I.

Weissblum, a resident of Winchester, states that her "love affair with flowers began when she was three." She enjoyed "prettying her mother's house."

"Flowers tell stories," said Weissblum who has a master's degree from the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. She is presently attending the Saturday Painting Studio at Massachusetts College, this class directed by artist Tom Dempsey.

Weissblum has taught art at public schools in Exeter, N.H., Winchester, and Cambridge. She has been a volunteer instructor at the Mass. Correctional Institute, Concord.

Weissblum says that many of her flower portraits are painted in her own garden. "Flowers are a gift," she says. Certainly, Weissblum's concert of colors is a gift to all those who love the splendor of gardens.

The Spring Bull Studio, corner of Spring and Bull streets, Newport, R.I., will host an opening for Weissblum, Nov. 21 from 2 to 5 p.m. The exhibit will run until Nov. 26. Gallery hours are Wednesday through Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.

Art Association photographers to exhibit at library in November

The Winchester Art Association photographers will be showing in the gallery at the Winchester Library for the month of November. Ten different styles of photographic work are combined to reflect a multitude of personalities behind the camera.

Jeff Trubisz, the award winning pastoral photo specialist, chose a stunning piece of the presidential range in New Hampshire. Richard Mack's reflective piece chose a sailing shot. Whitney Gay's Pennsylvania pastoral in soft tones, captures the grey hills of winter. Diane Brown's sensitive portraiture of women touches the heart with her soft feminine aura. Our newest member Lloyd Aadland reflects the hi-tech Madison Ave. style with his "light painting" of simple subjects. Faith Waltman's colorful abstracts are always expressive in their use of color. Carolyn Krantz, whose international subject matter gains the viewer's attention through the subtle use of light. Martha LaRue identifies simple subjects and romanticizes their simple style of focusing on such objects as a sea gull. Aileen Weissblum captures a colorful native in his regal attire. And Richard Ploss captures a sea tern against a magnificent cliff to offset the white bird in flight.

The gallery is open during normal library hours.

North Surburban art exhibit

Lee Ferrara of Winchester has donated one of her watercolors, "Fish Pier" for the raffle at the North Suburban Art Exhibit and Sale. This annual show, which offers the public an opportunity to view and purchase some of the vast array of talent that is available on the North Shore, is scheduled for:

Friday, Nov. 6, 8 to 10 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 7, noon to 5 p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 8, 1 to 5 p.m.

Location: Boston Technology Building on Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield (Exit 39 from Route 128).

Ferrara received her B.S.A. from Massachusetts's College of Art and her Master's degree from Syracuse University. She worked for many years as a graphic designer in New York and Chicago.

Presently, she is a member of Reading Art Association, Lexington Arts and Crafts and the Copley Society. Last year she was invited by the Copley Society to paint and exhibit in their outdoor show on Newbury Street in Boston. She is also the recipient of the Rogowitz Award from the Lexington Arts and Crafts Society as well as their award for "Most Creative Work in any Media", which she won for two consecutive years. The artist also has won first prize at the Plymouth Art Festival and several awards from the Cambridge Art Association as well as the Reading Art Association.

An exhibit of her works was displayed this summer at the Winchester Library and Dr. Stackhouse's office in Reading.

OBITUARIES

Tribute to Wilma Stevens

Wilma Stevens, who departed this world on Nov. 10 for a better one, left behind a void that will not be easy to fill.

This quiet and unassuming woman was always busy with projects to bring pleasure to others. Her clever, attractive and sometimes amusing holiday favors for the trays of Athol and Winchester Hospital patients were much appreciated as were her handmade contributions to the hospital gift shops. She also made and donated favors for luncheons at the Jenks Center as well as items for sale there.

Wilma was a charter member of the Westley Tenants' Association and a staunch supporter thereafter. Her festive table decorations and mementos added much to the parties here. Our successful MiniFair was her idea. The food sales to fund our treasury were considerably enhanced because of the 35 to 40 delicious homebaked items, the preparation of which kept her busy for days.

Although we miss her, there is no question that wherever Wilma may be she is lending a helping hand because that is what would make her happy.

Margaret Withington

Margaret Adriance Withington, 94, died Nov. 4 at the Fairlawn Nursing Home in Lexington. Mrs. Withington, formerly Margaret Winchester Adriance, was born July 6, 1898, in Winchester, the daughter of Rev. Samuel Winchester Adriance and Lizzie Whitcomb Adriance.

Mrs. Withington was a 1920 graduate of Mount Holyoke College, and married the Rev. Frederic Burnham Withington on June 17, 1921. She lived for many years in the Hawaiian Islands until her husband died on July 4, 1943. At that time Rev. Withington was pastor of the Lihue Union Church of Kauaii and also general Secretary for Kauaii for the Hawaiian Board of Missions. Mrs. Withington returned to Winchester where she was a pre-kindergarten teacher and then worked for many years in the Winchester Public Elementary Schools.

She was a Director at the Feur de Leis summer camp of NH for a number of years. Later she worked in the philosophy department at Tufts University until she retired to the Winchester Mount Vernon House.

She was a member of the 1st Congregational Church. Mrs. Withington is survived by three sons and their wives, Frederic Burnham (Jr.) and JoAnn of Brunswick Maine, Prof. Emeritus William Adriance and Anne of Lexington KY and Arthur and Annette of Clinton NY. She also leaves three grandsons, Robert, Scott and Allen; four granddaughters, Sue, Sarah, Ann, Sally and Cynthia; and four great grandchildren. A memorial service was held on Saturday Nov. 14 at the 2nd Congregational Church, Winchester. Interment was at the Oak Hill Cemetery in Newburyport beside her husband. The Withington family wishes to express their sincere gratitude to the staff of the Fairlawn Nursing Home for their care of their mother who was a resident for many years. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Plymouth Bethesda United Church of Christ, 500 Plant Street, Utica, NY 13502, and designated to the Hawaiian Hurricane Relief Fund.

The former church of Rev. and Mrs. Withington was badly damaged and many of the other churches on Kauaii were destroyed by Hurricane Iniki.

Arrangements were made by the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home of Winchester.

Anne L. Connor

LOCAL NURSE
FOR 10 YEARS

Anne L. (Maxwell) Connor, formerly of Newton, registered nurse employed for the past 10 years at Winchester Hospital, died Tuesday, Nov. 10, in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton.

Born in Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, Canada, Connor resided in Stoneham for many years before moving to Newton, where she lived for 10 years.

Wife of the late John Connor, she leaves her sister, Sarah Gouthro; her brother, David Maxwell of Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, Canada; and several nieces and nephews.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Friday, Nov. 13, in Our Lady Help of Christians Church, Newton.

Burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stoneham.

Arrangements were made by the Andrew J. Magni Funeral Home, Newton.

Eleanor Cunningham

SISTER OF LOCAL RESIDENT

Eleanor M. Cunningham died Wednesday, Nov. 11, in Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford. She was 77.

A resident of Belmont for the past 37 years, Cunningham had been a member of the Belmont Community Chorus and the Our Lady of Merch Church. She recently had moved to the Courtyard Nursing Care Center.

She leaves her sister, Martha C. Grenzeback of Winchester.

She was the daughter of the late John E. Cunningham and Mary E. Cunningham.

A private funeral service was held.

Arrangements were made by the Short, Williamson & Diamond Funeral Home, Belmont.

ASK MICHAEL RECYCLES

Ask Michael Recycles

QUESTION: In your last column you said something about paying for the actual cost of recycling. Isn't recycling free?

ANSWER: Unfortunately, some of the best things in life, such as recycling, are not free. Time is money and recycling takes time; that extra step in the kitchen to separate trash from recyclables, extra storage containers and space; an extra stop at the transfer station; labor to police and separate contamination from the recyclables; and a special trip that the town makes with full loads of recyclables to market and back.

Recycling is a service in Winchester that depends on both the town and its citizens. We have what is known as a "drop-off" system of recycling. The true costs of the system depend very much on how well we all do our jobs. If we smartly organize our recycling operations from kitchen and pantry all the way up to the layout of the transfer station we can minimize our labor. A sloppy or misinformed recycler can ruin an entire load of materials. The rejected load becomes trash not cash.

According to Franklin Associates (June, 1990), the value of one household's recyclables (333 lb. newspaper, 23 lb. aluminum, 368 lb. glass, 93 lb. steel cans, and 29 lb. plastic bottles for four persons generating 4 lbs. total waste per person per day) amounts to $11.80 per year. Our latest census shows about 21,000 persons in Winchester.

Compare this to the cost of roll-off containers (6 cubic yard) of $3,000 to $4,000 each and roll-off trucks at $50,000 to $65,000 each which the town must provide for the drop-off facility. Storage trailers on site can run $4,000 to $6,000 per used 45 ft. lengths on $10,15,000 for anew 48-foot length trailer. A shell building with concrete slab would run $15 to $20 per square foot. Precast modular containment bids run $200 to $300 per section. A heavy duty baler for paper or plastics could run $150,000 to $200,000 while a tub grinder for compost may cost $100,000. A small forklift to lift the bales would cost $15,000 to $25,000.

Add to this the cost of maintenance, labor and fuel for transporting the recyclables to market, that is if there is one. As you can see, recycling is subsidized by the town and is definitely not free.

"Swap Shop" begins at transfer station

As you may have noticed, the Waste Study Committee, in cooperation with the Department of Public Works, has instituted a new recycling facility at the transfer station. We tentatively call it the "Swap Shop" and hope that the lateral recycling function which was discussed in my last column is now fulfilled. The "Swap Shop" is a free put-and-take recycling area where users of the transfer station may drop off useable items which they no longer have a need for. We will pull out items which appear to have no demand after several months, but will make an effort to have service organizations distribute what has been collected. Any transfer station user/operator is entitled to take any item from the swap shop at any time regardless of whether or not a donation has been made.

We anticipate that a lot of bicycles and children's equipment or toys which still have some useful life will be collected. Transfer station users who have traditionally put such items on the scrap metal pile are encouraged to drop off at the swap shop which is located on the right hand side at the old Continental Cable building just before arriving at the belt. The Salvation Army boxes will also be moved over to this area and the Waste Study Committee will transfer second hand child care equipment to the boxes. We will also be contacting a charity organization in Concord which ships used bicycles to South America. In the spring and in the fall we will be donating the swap shop collection to the local rummage sales. Books will be given to the Friends of the Winchester Library when a sufficient number have been collected.

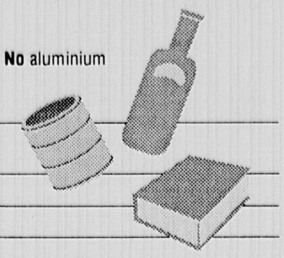

We ask that textiles, i.e. clothing, shoes, bedding, and stuffed furniture be donated directly to charities such as the Goodwill Industries, Salvation Army, or your local religious group rummage sale. This is to prevent mildew and odors from developing in the swap shop.

Weatherable items such as lawn furniture and bicycles may be dropped off in the fenced in yard area at any time during the week. If transfer station users are considering the donation of an item which needs protection from the weather, such as sports equipment, health care, kitchen ware, electronics, tools, books, magazines, etc., the item should be dropped off on Saturday when the swap shop will be open.

The swap shop will also serve as a "Recycling Education Facility (REF)" with much of the wall space inside the concrete building devoted to the posting of recycling news and business cards. We are grateful to the Winchester Department of Public Works for upgrading this space and providing lighting so that even on a dark and rainy day the treasure hunters in this town can check out the goods which up until now may have wound up as part of our solid waste problem.

RELIGIOUS NEWS

Sr. Ann D'Arcy to speak at St. Eulalia's

Sr. Ann D'Arcy, a noted member of the Boston Archdiocese's Office of Spiritual Development, will speak on personal prayer and family prayer at the Church of St. Eulalia in Winchester on Sunday, Nov. 22. Sr. D'Arcy is well-known in the area as a charismatic and dynamic speaker on a variety of spiritual topics.

The talk, which is sponsored by the adult education commission at St. Eulalia's, takes place at 7:30 p.m. in Manion Hall at St. Eulalia's, 50 Ridge St. Call 729-8220 for information. All are welcome and refreshments will be served.

Blood drive to be held at Eulalia's

On Monday, Nov. 23, from 3 to 8 p.m., a Red Cross Bloodmobile will take place at St. Eulalia's Parish Hall. Any person, 18 years or older, weighing at least 110 lbs. and in general good health may donate. The whole process takes about one hour, including pre-tests, donation time and a relaxation period of 15 minutes after donating. Appointments are preferred, but not required. The Second Congregation Church to hold special services for the holidays

The Second Congregational will hold a series of noon time services on Wednesdays during Advent. The series of special worship services will feature instrumental music, brief talks by the pastor, the Reverend Susan Cartmell, time for prayer and meditation.

The church sponsors this series each Wednesday in December as a way to open its doors to the community in one of the busiest seasons of the year. It is hoped that these services will provide the worshippers with a time of quiet in the midst of bustling days and busy agendas. These services will begin at noon and will last fo one half-hour. The church will remain open for those who wish to stay to meditate in silence.

The services have been designed to provide a mid-week time of rest, when people can connect with their spiritual center. They are not intended to be one more thing in a long check list of activities, but the services are designed as a resource to give perspective to all the other busy-ness. These services are planned to help worshippers find focus and purpose for the season.

This series of services will be held on Wednesdays, Dec. 2, 9, 16 and 23 at 12 noon.

The Second Congregation Church is located at 485 Washington Street in Winchester, at the corner of Washington Street and Cross Street.

All members of the community are invited!

First Congregational Church school spearheads 'Children-to-Children Mission Project'

"How many bags of groceries do you buy in a month? Would you be willing to donate one of those bags to help a child become well nourished and healthy?" That is the challenge being presented to the members of the First Congregational Church of Winchester by their 150 Church School students from age 3 through 6th grade.

On Sunday, Nov. 15, church school classes distributed specially decorated grocery bags to the congregation. The bags were donated by the Purity Supreme Supermarket in Winchester. Everyone was asked to fill their bags with items from a list of nutritious foods and return it on Celebration Sunday, Nov. 22, during a special Intergenerational Thanksgiving Worship Service. The food items collected will help to restock the Food Pantry at the Failure to Thrive Clinic at Boston City Hospital.

Taylor's climb up Kilimanjaro

Return to Kilimanjaro

In a recent assembly, McCall seventh and eighth graders were enthralled by Rob Taylor's account of his repeat climb up the steep side of Kilimanjaro in Tanganyika. His passion for this mountain spurred him to return despite a previous near-fatal fall. Student Fritz Von Mering was astounded that he was able to take on the task again while Brad Thompson commented on the amazing animal life which Taylor highlighted in his hour-long slide show. Michelle Frisoli and Jennie Bourget found the program far from boring as Rob described a dying killer bee who can summon as many as 300,000 to 400,000 bees from up to one mile away and an innocent looking vine which can wrap itself tightly around the human body. Taylor's accounts drew student attention to the importance of friendship, commitment, responsibility and respect for humans and nature.

This enrichment program was sponsored by the McCall Enrichment Committee with funds from the McCall PTO.

Sixth grade dance fever

A new five-week session of sixth grade dance classes is being held from 2:45 to 4:35 p.m., at the McCall Junior High Cafeteria.

Sixth graders who missed the first session will have a chance to join friends and dance to the sounds of Tiffany, Michael Jackson and Hammer. Traditional dances like the Jitterbug, Waltz, Foxtrot will be featured along with the popular Chicken Dance, Electric Slide and Hip Hop. Special dance games, Limbo and Hoola Hoop contests, and new moves for returning students have been added.

Instructor Susan Ehrreich is back by popular demand for the second session. Ehrreich is a certified ballroom dance instructor and faculty member of the Dance Teachers' Club of Boston. With more than 20 years of teaching experience, she not only directs those feet, she boosts students' self-esteem. Chaperones have been spotted doing a little two-step in the corner!

It's not too late to register. Call Dot Butler at 729-8436.

Muraco students to see poetry in motion

Students at the Muraco School will participate in a unique educational performing arts program with David Zucker, presented by Young Audiences of Massachusetts on Tuesday, Dec. 8. Young Audiences is a nonprofit organization which brings live professional dance, theater and music education programs to schools.

The Muraco School program is entitled Poetry in Motion. In Poetry in Motion, David Zucker brings to vivid life the best of poetic literature. This participatory program recreates the fine tradition of spoken verse with the poems of such authors as A.A. Milne, Lewis Carroll, Shel Silverstein, Langston Hughes, James Whitcomb Riley, and many more. David Zucker is known throughout Massachusetts as the creator of "Mime Magic." His own talents of acting and mime, aided by various props, costume pieces, masks and puppets, is a special attraction in this popular and effective program.

Programs are funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency. Interested parents, educators and arts program sponsors are invited to call Young Audiences at 577-0570 for information about this and other programs.

High school seniors thrive on AP exams

Seventeen students at Winchester High School have been named AP scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level advanced placement (AP) examinations. Only about 11 percent of the 388,000 students who took AP examinations in May 1992 performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

The College Board recognizes three levels of achievement — the AP scholar with distinction, the AP scholar with honor, and the AP scholar.

Two students qualified for the AP scholar with distinction by earning grades of 3 or above on five or more AP exams with an average exam grade of at least 3.50. These students are Peter Jones and Matthew Krumme.

Three students qualified for the AP scholar with honor award by earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP examinations, with an average exam grade of at least 3.25. These students are Elizabeth Armstrong, Jeffrey Do, and Martin Wierzbicki.

Twelve students qualified for the AP scholar award by completing three or more AP examinations with grades of 3 or higher. The AP scholars are Jennifer Copas, Michael Cramer, Jennifer Esposito, James Falcione, Heather Hughes, Martine Kaiser, Frank Lasley, Sean Lee, Ovidiu Marina, Rebecca Mawn, David Murphy, and Elias Tiliakos.

McCall math team wins

The Intermediate Math League of Eastern Massachusetts opened the 1992-93 season on Thursday, Oct. 22, at McCall Middle School. The seven middle schools that competed included McCall, Andover-West, Andover-Doherty, Reading-Coolidge, Reading-Parker, Stoneham and Lynnfield. By the end of the event, McCall's team had scored a major victory with three of its members having perfect scores.

Math League competitions are held monthly at five different schools around the Boston area with a total of 32 teams involved. Meets are arranged geographically so that McCall competes with those six other teams in its Division but their final scores are compared with other schools in its Cluster. Clusters are determined by past performance records. McCall is in a Cluster with Reading-Parker, Masconomet, Newton-Day and Andover-West.

The first meet results showed McCall on top of its Division and Cluster with a total score of 185 points out of a possible 216 points. This was second in the entire league.

Competing for McCall were:

Grade 8: Franklin Baldwin, Alex Beckman, Liz Breuer, Mark Campbell (perfect score), Jason DerAnanian, Ryan Keenan, Aaron Quaday, Adam Storeygard (perfect score) and Masahiro Ueno.

Grade 7: Eric Carty-Fickes, Richard Donohue, David Myers, Sam Richardson (perfect score) and Richard Sullivan.

Grade 6: Afsoon Afshar, Jared Ahern, Nick Beckman, David Lerman, Nate Lynch and Eric Schrock.

All McCall students are welcome to join the math team provided they bring an interest and motivation to explore math beyond the classroom. Practices are held weekly. Math team coaches are Jack Squeglia and Jane Sughrue.

Prayer to the blessed Virgin; Never known to fail. O' most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of heaven Blessed Mother of Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in the necessity. O' star of the Sea, help me & show me here. You are my mother. O' Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven & Earth, I humbly beseech you, from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity. There are non who can withstand your power. O' Mary conceived with sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee (3x), O' Holy Mary I place this cause in your hand (3x). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. Then you must publish and it will be granted to you. J.J.B.

Thank You St. Jude for prayers answered. A.J.K.

Rental & Apartment Living Q&A

by NATOLI REAL ESTATE

Q. What are some important helpful hints to get my apartment rented?

A. We have come to realize just how important small details make. With a great number of apartments empty and the closeness of the winter months presenting itself, we thought it would be of great help to point out some important helpful hints.

- Be realistic with your pricing. What you got in rents last year, may and in some cases have changed. Rentors, are negotiating like never before, so be ready.
- First appearances pull people in. Take care of the front area around the home. Landscape, rake, etc.
- Floors and walls should be in top shape. Fix cracks & holes.
- Sweep any and all grounds, remove any trash.
- Check for odors, first impressions are so important
- Above all, all rooms and halls must have good lighting. Many people are looking in the evening, and darkness can prove to be dangerous.

If you have done all the following and feel frustrated, please call us. We are prepared to run the weekly ads, bring by only the most qualified of potential tenants and perform a thorough credit check, and set up the lease agreement of your choice.

Buick Regal

Limited Sedan offers more responsive performance

Some of the most significant changes in Buick's 1993 model lineup are in the mid-size Regal.

All Regals have an improved powertrain. The 3800 V-6 engine with tuned port injection, standard on Gran Sport coupe and sedan and optional on all other Regals, has been enhanced for quieter, more responsive performance and provides a one-mile-per-gallon improvement in projected EPA city fuel-economy ratings.

In addition, all Regals — those with the standard 3.1-liter V-6 and 3800 — are newly equipped with the Hydra-matic 4T60-E electronically controlled automatic transmission. This is the same transmission that has won highly favorable reviews for smoothness and responsiveness on Buick luxury models.

Regal sedans have a more sculptured front appearance with the hood integrated with the new grille and headlamps.

Regal sedans have a more sculptured front appearance with the hood integrated with the new grille and headlamps. The taillamps and bumpers also have subtle changes to provide more of a family resemblance to the larger LeSabre and Park Avenue.

All Regals coupes and sedans are equipped with new front seats - the first of Buick's next generation of seating - BUICK REGAL, Page 3

Car conveniences reflected in rearview mirror technology

Rearview mirrors that automatically dim are changing from mere convenience gimmicks to important comfort and safety devices.

Motorized rearview mirrors have been around since Gentex Corp. introduced them in 1983. They automatically flip down a darkened mirror when struck by headlights from a following vehicle.

Now the breakthrough is an exterior mirror — the driver's side outside passing mirror.

Those mirrors were noisy and hard to set precisely. "But they taught us it would be neat to get a mirror that would adjust more completely," says Kenneth LaGrand, executive vice president of Gentex, based in Michigan.

Using light sensors, electrical current and chemical reactions, a Gentex mirror operates with a "reflectivity" or darkness setting ranging from bouncing back only 6 percent of the light hitting for nighttime headlights to 75 percent for regular day use.

"We feel it's really a safety feature," LaGrand says. "If we can protect the driver from glare, it removes distractions. As we age, our eyes change dramatically An older person's eyes make them more susceptible to glare. Pupils are slower to close and people are blinded for longer periods of time," he says.

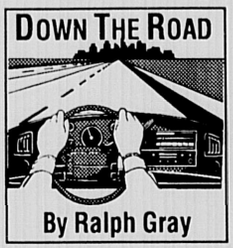

As new technology, the mirrors fit right in with luxury cars whose owners skew older and more light sensitive. So the first mirrors went on 1988 Lincoln Continentals. People liked them. Cadillac started using the mirrors a year later.

Now the breakthrough is an exterior mirror — the driver's side outside passing mirror. The Lincoln Continental will get both inside and outside mirrors, and the Lincoln Town car, Lincoln Mark VII, Mercury Cougar and Ford Thunderbird will have the Night Vision Safety mirrors only in the interior.

At General Motors Corp. the inside-outside systems go on the Cadillac Fleetwood and DeVille, the Oldsmobile 98 Touring Sedan and Regency, and the Buick Park Avenue. The Cadillac Brougham, Seville and Eldorado, Oldsmobile Toronado and 88 and the Buick Riviera will feature them only on the inside.

Chrysler Corp. uses the interior only on the Chrysler Imperial, Fifth Avenue and Dodge Dynasty.

The interior system goes on BMW 735, 750, 850 and 5-Series, as well as Mercedes-Benz S class and 300 series.

For the first time, the interior mirrors will be on a truck, albeit the Ford Aerostar minivan is technically considered a truck.

LaGrand would like to see his mirror technology transferred to items like sunroofs and other windows, but the technology isn't there yet. He'd also like to see the mirrors offered as regular after-market kits sold through neighborhood store. But for now, the mirrors are available only on new cars or from car dealers who install them on an after-market basis.

LaGrand believes sunroofs may come a little faster than getting dimming exterior mirrors. He says, "I've been trying to do those exterior mirrors for 25 years. There always was the manual day/night mirror for the inside, but nothing for the outside — it had a fixed reflectivity setting of 55 percent. That wasn't bright enough on a dark day and it wasn't dark enough for bright halogen headlights at night."

The side mirror works as a slave unit from the main rearview mirror which has two sensors. One looks rearward with a fast trigger for changes. It's tilted a little to, in effect, look over the driver's shoulder. The sensor has a time delay so it isn't fooled by a car's headlights passing through the "blind" rear vision spot.

A second sensor looks forward to read average light levels of the car. During daylight it tells the other, quicker sensor to turn off. It wakes up the rear sensor at dusk.

The rear sensor is also told to operate more slowly on brightly lit city streets and more quickly on dark county roads.

"We try to make the sensors correspond to the way the eye sees light," says LaGrand.

The sensors take the light and electronically gauge the glare. Another circuit shoots electric current through the electrochromic mirror itself. The mirror cell consists of two layers of glass with a mirror coating on one. In between is a thin layer of gel. When electricity goes through the gel, it changes from being fully transparent to fully opaque. The amount of electricity passed through determines the transparency and the darkness.

"It's a little like photochromatic sunglasses that darken when exposed to sunlight. We get a bigger range and do it much faster. We can go fully dark in two seconds and fully light in six seconds," LaGrand says.

Unlike the sunglasses, the mirror materials don't work well in daylight. But for sunroofs and windows, daylight operation is normal and there's the problem, the executive says. "We need material with better ultra violet light stability. The ultra violet light destroys the electrochromic effect over time in sunroofs. It becomes discolored and then won't darken. But Gentex is making good progress.

that are orthopedically contoured to provide comfort and support for almost any driver. The new seats, designed with the aid of computers, have been contoured to be comfortable for a wide range of drivers, short or tall, male or female.

The nose of the seat cushion has been rounded to relieve pressure on the backs of the legs of shorter drivers, while the backrest has been reshaped to provide better support for the lower back without throwing the shoulders forward.

A new four-way manual seat adjuster is standard in Limited and Gran Sport models.

Seat fabrics for Custom and Limited have also been upgraded, giving each a more luxurious feel.

Analog gauges are now standard on all Regals. A convenience net, which helps secure grocery bags and small packages in the trunk, is available.

Regals now have standard 15-inch wheels, up from 14 inches last year, improving the stance of the car and providing a smoother ride.

For the enhanced 3800 V-6, torque is increased by 5 lb-ft to 225 at 3200 rpm while horsepower remains 170 at 4800 rpm. Projected EPA fuel economy is 19 miles per gallon in the city (a one-mile-per-gallon improvement) and 28 on the highway. For the 3.1 V-6, projected fuel economy is 19 city and 29 highway.

Significant improvements on the enhanced 3800 V-6 include a new intake manifold of recyclable composite material, a higher compression ratio for improved torque, and roller rocker arm pivots for reduced friction.

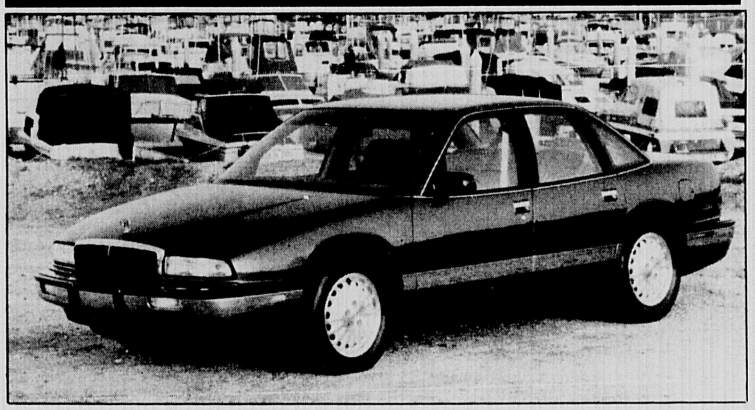

Most noticeable from the outside are new intake and exhaust manifolds. The intake manifold, injection molded from Du Pont Xytel glass-reinforced nylon, is lighter than the aluminum part it replaces, and helps isolate the fuel system from engine compartment heat. Like aluminum, the reinforced nylon can be easily recycled.

Exhaust manifolds are now a two-piece clamshell design, which offers an improved exhaust gas flow for better performance.

The new seats, designed with the aid of computers, have been contoured to be comfortable for a wide range of drivers, short or tall, male or female.

Volvo 850 GLT

Sporty sedan merges safety and excitement for today's driving enthusiast

Exciting is not a word people normally associate with Volvo, a car company best known for safety, durability and longevity. But, the new Volvo 850 GLT, a front-wheel-drive, mid-size sedan designed with the driving enthusiast in mind, will likely change all that.

Joseph L. Nicolato, President and CEO of Volvo Cars of North America Inc., stated that the newest member of the Volvo product line "will appeal to a group of people who would never have considered a Volvo previously."

The unique drivetrain of the 850 GLT was developed to satisfy performance and safety objectives. To achieve the best interior space utilization while reducing exterior dimensions, front-wheel drive was chosen. Mounting the alloy engine transversely produced a desirable 60/40 weight distribution, and allowed the engine to help distribute the energy from an offset frontal crash across the entire width of the firewall.

To achieve the desired level of performance, Volvo developed a 5-cylinder, 20-valve engine as a part of a modular light alloy engine family which included inline 4, 5, and 6-cylinder variants. The compact 5-cylinder powerplant produces 168 hp \ 6200 rpm. With the help of a variable inlet manifold, the engine has 90 percent of its maximum torque available from 2000 to 6000 rpm.

The transverse mounting of the engine posed other engineering challenges. The combination of the inline 5-cylinder engine and Volvo's demand for a short turning circle left little room for a transmission. So, the engineers set out to develop an ultra-short 5-speed manual and a similarly short 4-speed automatic transmission.The manual transmission uses three main shafts instead of the traditional two.

The 850 GLT's rear wheels are mounted on the ends of two long trailing arms which are joined at their forward end by two parallel transverse arms. Over bumps, the wheels can work independently with virtually no changes in camber. The anchorages for the trailing arms are two large rubber bushings which allow controlled movement of the axle in response to cornering forces. This gives a very responsive driving feel and excellent stability under hard driving conditions. In medium and high-speed cornering, the effect is similar to four-wheel steering without the complexity.

The 850 GLT has been designed from its inception to incorporate Volvo's patented Side Impact Protection System. This advanced design utilizes reinforced B-pillars, reinforced roof rails and doorsills, and tubes running through the front seat cushions to resist side impacts. When a side impact does occur, the crash forces are spread throughout the vehicle structure and passenger compartment intrusion is minimized.

"The most distinctive aspect of the new 850 GLT is the most difficult to describe on paper," according to Nicolato. "It's the way the car drives! You don't need to drive it very far to realize this is a truly exciting automobile. I believe it will appeal to many people who previously would never have considered a Volvo."

Pontiac Grand Prix

LE sedan is true to Pontiac signature with 'thoughtful' features

Pontiac designers are a breed apart. Although each model is different, every car is distinctly a Pontiac. The 1993 Grand Prix LE sedan is no exception .

KEANE ON WHEELS
By Tom Keane

I'm unable to decipher the Pontiac signature or explain what it is. It may be the grooved cladding running down the side rocker panels, or the low front end, or the design of the headlamps, or the overall profile. Whatever, a Pontiac is easy to recognize.

Although the Grand Prix has a few new features for 1993, this model has been around a few years and the Pontiac people are quick to brag of its past performance. Last year, for example, it had the highest rating in J.D. Power and Associates Initial Quality Survey. That means Grand Prix buyers had fewer problems compared to those buying other cars.

Pontiac people tout the Grand Prix LE sedan for its competitive price advantage. The car I drove cost $17,943, including $3,000 in options. They also boast that the Grand Prix did not increase its price this year.

The options include anti-lock brakes for an extra $450 — a worthwhile investment. On the other hand, I question the need to pay an extra $200 for a four-speed transmission. Most cars today include a four-speed transmission as standard equipment.

Another feature on some other cars in this price category is an airbag, which allows use of a more sensible seat belt. Fortunately, the Grand Prix has a passive three-point belt restraint that is fastened to the door, which is better than a motorized belt. Unfortunately, the strap rubbed my neck.

The doors on the Grand Prix lock when the transmission is engaged — a thoughtful safety feature. However, instead of the doors unlocking when the transmission is disengaged, it requires using the power switch to unlock the door before touching the door handle. When I forgot, an attempted to open the door before unlocking it, frequently required unlocking, locking and unlocking before the door would open.

Pontiac Grand Prix

End of barbs; let's sing its praise. The engine is wonderful. It has a 3.1-liter V-6 engine that makes driving both enjoyable and exciting. The response to a heavy foot is quick; I felt like I was driving a sports car, and the leather-wrapped steering wheel adds to that illusion. In spite of the powerful engine, it produces good highway gas mileage: rated 19 city and 30 highway .

Included in an option package are 16-inch aluminum wheels with an attractive five-blade design. The wheels have touring tires supporting a permanently lubricated suspension system. When driving over twisting roads at sport-car speeds, the Grand Prix LE handles like a dream.

The response to a heavy foot is quick; I felt like I was driving a sports car, and the leather-wrapped steering wheel adds to that illusion. In spite of the powerful engine, it produces good highway gas mileage: rated 19 city and 30 highway.

The suspension system is firm, but not harsh. I drove a few hundred miles on the highway and was quite comfortable in this five-passenger sedan. It is reasonably roomy, and the four doors make it easy getting in and out — both front and back. The trunk has more than adequate storage space. Another advantage to this mid-size sedan is that it is easy to handle and park.

I appreciate a device connected with the turn signals. When playing the radio loud, I've been guilty of not shutting the turn signals off many miles after making a turn. In the Grand Prix, after a mile and a half of turn-signal blinking, the car recognizes that driver has fallen asleep and sets off a chime as a wake-up call. A very thoughtful feature.

The Grand Prix has many thoughtful features. It has a tilt steering wheel, cruise control, rally gauges, door courtesy lights, reading lamps; the list goes on. Come to think of it, maybe the Pontiac's signature has something to do with making thoughtful cars.

SPARE PARTS

Wild Mustangs: A car that is expected to give the Chevrolet Corvette a run for the money is the 1994 Ford Mustang.

The tame model of this rear-wheel drive sport coupe will have a 3.5-liter V-6 engine.

A faster version will have a 5-liter V-8 engine. The wild one has a V-8 engine that is said to develop 330 horsepower.

Something Special: Infiniti now has a Geoff Brabham Special Edition Q45, which was created by Brabham and fellow race driver Steve Millen.

It is a blend of two cars, the full-active Q45 and a traction control model for more comfort and better driver control. The car also has larger brakes, and tire and wheel upgrades.

Take A Deep Breath: Most car manufacturers have modified their painting methods to reduce the number of coats required. This results in less volatile organic compounds being emitted into the atmosphere.

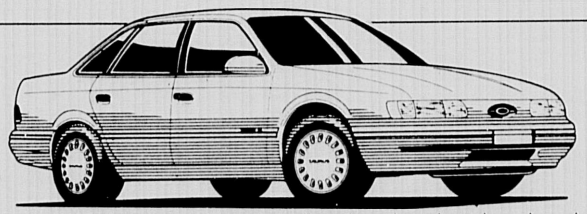

Now Exhale: The American Lung Association is fighting air pollution caused by exhaust from poorly maintained cars and trucks.

They are offering two brochures — Car Care and Clean Air and Get a Checkup for Your Car — to those who write: American Lung Association, GPO Box 596, New York, N.Y. 10116-0596.

Lights on, slow down at dusk

There's no question about increased dangers of driving after dark: nearly 40 percent of fatal accidents last year occurred between the hours of 9 p.m. and 6 a.m., according to a U.S. Department of Transportation report.

Care Care Council reminds drivers to check all vehicle lights and slow down at dusk.

BRAKE FAILURE SYMPTOMS

NOISES: YOUR BRAKE SYSTEM MAY BE CRYING FOR HELP IF YOU'RE HEARING STRANGE NOISES WHEN YOU DEPRESS THE BRAKE. TWO OF THE MOST COMMON ARE SQUEAKS AND GRINDING.

SQUEAKS FRICTION FROM THE BRAKE LINING CAUSES HEAT. UNDER EXTREME CONDITIONS THIS CAN DAMAGE THE PADS AND/OR LINING, BRAKE DRUMS AND ROTORS.

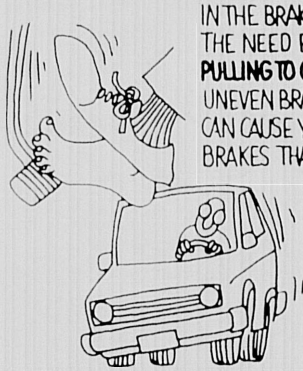

GRINDING A METALLIC GRINDING SOUND INDICATES YOUR BRAKE PADS ARE WORN THROUGH. METAL-TO-METAL CONTACT WILL DAMAGE DRUMS OR ROTORS.

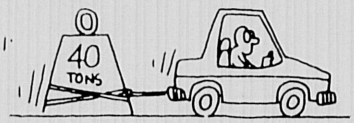

LOW OR FADING BRAKE PEDAL

DO YOUR BRAKES REQUIRE PUMPING TO STOP THE CAR? DOES THE PEDAL SINK TO THE FLOOR BOARD WHEN YOU'RE STOPPED AT A LIGHT? THERE MAY BE A LEAK IN THE BRAKE SYSTEM, AIR IN THE BRAKE LINES, OR THE NEED FOR A BRAKE ADJUSTMENT.

PULLING TO ONE SIDE OR BRAKE DRAG WORN OR UNEVEN BRAKE LININGS OR A DAMAGED BRAKE LINE CAN CAUSE YOUR VEHICLE TO PULL TO ONE SIDE. BRAKES THAT ARE OUT OF ADJUSTMENT OR HAVE CONTAMINATED FLUID CAN CAUSE BRAKES TO DRAG.

Russian visitors Natasha Akulina, Ira Fedotova and Janet Zolotukhina show off their folk costumes and perform during the Gala Concert at the Winchester High School on Nov. 22.

From Russia, with love

By Deborah Trask
EDITOR

The town of Winchester feels several steps closer to Russia these days, thanks to nine Russian students and their two teachers.

The students were center stage during a concert held at the high school Nov. 22 and struck a chord in the hearts of a packed auditorium of Winchester residents. With more than 375 people in attendance, the Gala concert benefitted the Winchester High School Octets who will use the proceeds to finance a trip to Russia in February. According to Lynn Rahmeier, Winchester's director of music, the students raised $3,000 from ticket sales alone.

Joining the Russian students in their performance were the Girls and Boys Octets and the Winchester High School Chorus. The Russian students are from St. Petersburg School No. 213 and are staying with host families in Winchester. They have been touring Winchester and the Boston area for two weeks and delighted the audience with folk dances in their native costumes and a surprise rendition of "Yesterday" in English.

Although the students only had several weeks in which to prepare for the performance they wore their costumes and told Russian folk tales proudly.

As part of a delightful afternoon of musical interludes the WHS chorus performed "Vniz Po Matushka Po Volge", a traditional Russian folk song, and "Mno Gaja Lata" as well as enticed the audience to stand in the end and sing "America the Beautiful".

The concert went off without a hitch, thanks to months of practice on the part of the Winchester students, according to Rahmeier. Rahmeier said she was pleased with the performance of the octets and the chorus, especially in the light of the new members in the groups.

The ice was broken immediately when the Boys Octet took the stage and performed "Sherry". Octet Dennis Phinney and the other performers added just the right amount of theatrics to draw the audience into the music.

Clad in white shirts and bow ties with suspenders the Boys displayed a good range of vocal ability and charisma. After the octets completed "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," the audience was all theirs. The Girls came on in similar style and kept the pace of the evening strong with "The Shoop Shoop Song" and "Time in a Bottle".

A special treat for the evening was added by the performance of world-renowned clarinetist Richard Stoltzman and his son, Peter, who played the piano. The duet drew quiet chuckles as well as appreciation when the elder Stoltzman silently urged his son to pick up his pace. When the younger Stoltzman finished his accompaniment, a roar went up in the audience. After several rounds of applause they returned to the stage for a second bow.

The students will perform the same concert in Russia when 31 Winchester students leave on Feb. 11. Anyone who wishes to make a contribution may still send donations to WHS Music Trip Fund, care of Lynn Rahmeier at 80 Skillings Road.

NESWC deal could bring some financial relief

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

The Board of Selectmen voted to allow a NESWC refinancing, which will result in a new guarantor for the town's waste disposal contract.

The 5-0 vote by the selectmen will result in Allied Signal being substituted by Wheelabrator Technologies, Inc. as guarantor of performance under the NESWC Service Agreement.

Under the NESWC (North East Solid Waste Committee) agreement, the town's disposable waste, along with 23 other area communities is transported to a North Andover waste-to-energy facility. According to Town Counsel Wade Welch, all the other communities have agreed to the refinancing.

Welch said it remains to be seen how the refinancing will affect the town, but he said the result would be positive. The town will look to lower its minimum annual tonnage with the new guarantor. Presently, the annual tonnage is 12,800 per year and the town does not haul that much trash. Welch the town is currently undergoing discussions to attempt to remedy the situation.

The refinancing will mean lower interest payments on the new bonds for Wheelabrator, and the selectmen hope that means some financial relief for the communities. The original NESWC agreement was signed in 1981 when bond rates where significantly higher than the rates are in 1992.

"There's a lot of money to be saved by all the communities," said Welch. "The selectmen are really up on this."

The Refunding Bonds are expected to be issued in early to mid-December by Palmer & Dodge.

The selectmen were required to take two votes on the matter. The first vote substituted Wheelabrator Technologies, Inc. for Allied-Signal, Inc. as the guarantor of the performance of Massachusetts Refusetech, Inc. (MRI) under the Solid Waste Disposal Agreement between the town and MRI.

The second vote allowed the Chairman of the Selectmen to execute and deliver a General Release of Allied-Signal from its obligations.

Coming to grips with the need for special ed

This is the second article in a series on special education in Winchester.

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

As education demands rise faster than available revenue, special needs and regular education will have to come up with creative solutions to keep from being pitted against each other, says special education Director Frank Bianco.

What is drawing the attention of the school community is the increasing size and cost of Winchester's special education program. More than 500 children in the Winchester school system participate in special education. Funding for special education for the 1991-1992 school year was $2,047,489.

Massachusetts has the most liberal special education laws in the country, resulting in a large number of children involved in special education. The number of children in special education in Winchester, 17 percent, is about the state average. The average in the rest of the country is 12 percent.

According to Bianco, who has been the director of special education and pupil services for 17 years in Winchester, the state education law, Chapter 766, has guidelines so vague that almost every child could be considered eligible for special education.

State guidelines define children with special needs as anyone "unable to progress effectively in a school program." Bianco notes that anyone can fit into this category. "Once you

The cast of "My Fair Lady" in full dress rehearsal.

Senior Cooperative Theatre presents 'My Fair Lady'

"With a little bit of luck" , "Why can't a woman be more like a man", and "I'm getting married in the morning", are just a sampling of 14 wonderful musical numbers from the play, "My Fair Lady" that will be performed the weekend of Dec. 4, 5, and 6 by 60 students from McCall Middle School. This story is the latest production of the Senior Cooperative Theatre. If you aren't familiar with the storyline which involves the transformation of a poor uneducated young woman into an elegant person by a professor of English, then you should attend this production.

This play promises to be an early holiday gift to the audience. Everyone's spirit to the audience will be lifted as they listen and watch the cast dance and sing their way through this enchanting tale which takes place in London in 1912.

Tickets are on sale now for the show which will be presented Friday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 5, at 2 p.m. (Higgins Cast); Saturday, Dec. 5, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 6, at 2 p.m. (Doolittle Cast).

Senior Cooperative Theatre's production will feature costumes, dances and musical numbers for both soloists and chorus. Harte-Hanks kicks off Holiday Fund

By Michael Sinert
HARTE-HANKS STAFF

Last year the Halfway Cafe in Dedham raised more than $15,000 for the Harte-Hanks Holiday Fund, an annual fund-raising effort for the Salvation Army. But this year, says Halfway manager John McKeon, the Washington Street sports bar is going to break that record.

"We're really excited," said McKeon. "It's a great opportunity for us to help out the community and to help out the kids."

McKeon said he expects the pub to raise more than $20,000 at an auction and raffle Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. Tickets for the raffle are $5 and are available at the bar. First prize is a 1989 Plymouth Sundance donated by the Clair automotive group on Route 1.

"Clair made a great donation," said McKeon. "WEEI radio donated the second prize — a trip to the Bahamas."

Third prize, he said, is a Halfway Cafe jacket.

As to the pickings at the auction, "It's everything from the sublime to the ridiculous," said McKeon. Items range from a 3-foot Mickey Mouse doll to "packages with limo that takes you out to dinner."

"What we do is raise funds independently and donate those funds to the Salvation Army in the name of Harte Hanks Community Newspapers," McKeon explained. "It makes us feel better about ourselves because we're giving something back to the community that has been good to us."

The money is used to help local families, McKeon said.

"The Halfway Cafe was one of the leading fund-raisers in our efforts last year and we welcome their creativity, their support and their involvement," said Asa Cole, the publisher of the Daily Transcript and of other Harte-Hanks publications.

"We're thrilled to have the Halfway again be part of our Holiday Fund," said Harte-Hanks senior edi-

Tree lighting set for Dec. 3

The holiday season is officially underway in Winchester and several events are planned by the Winchester Chamber of Commerce to help everyone feel more festive.

If you are free on Sunday, Nov. 29, at 10 a.m., the Chamber will be decorating the light poles with garlands and invite everyone to join them. Please meet at the Chamber office.

On Dec. 3, from 3:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. photos will be taken with Santa at Topsy Turvy.

On Dec. 3, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. the First Congregational Church is holding an old-fashioned Bean Supper. A delightful addition to the evening in the downtown area.

On Dec. 3, The Arthur Griffin Center for Photographic Art will be open for visitors from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Cider and cookies will be served.

Thursday evening, December 3, the Chamber invites the entire community to its annual Christmas Lighting Ceremony and Stroll which will be held on the Winchester Common beginning at 7 p.m. The evening's activities will include caroling by the 6th grade chorus, singing by the Octets, Instrumentals by the brass ensemble, special offers in many shops and businesses and perhaps a surprise visit from Santa Claus.

On Saturday, Dec. 12 from 11:00 a.m. till 2:00 p.m., Dugout Sports will host Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. Rumor has it, that Mrs. Claus will even do some face painting - a treat not to be missed.

POLICE LOG

Sunday, Nov. 22

1:40 p.m.

Policed received a report that there had been a motor vehicle accident with property damage on James Street.

Police met with a 27-year-old Wayland male at the scene who had been the operator of the vehicle involved in the accident. He told police that he had lost his brakes while driving down James Street and ran over a lamp post. A check with dispatch showed that the registration and the insurance on the motor vehicle had been revoked.

Officer William O'Neil issued a citation to the man for uninsured and unregistered operation of a motor vehicle. There was no damage to the motor vehicle and the owner of the damaged property was notified.

Saturday, Nov. 21

6:09 p.m.

Police responded to a reported accident with a freight truck at a supermarket on Main Street.

Upon arrival, police were told that a freight truck, operated by a 30-year-old New Hampshire male, was backed up on Main Street and struck a water hydrant. The operator told police that he was being guided by an employee of the supermarket when he backed up and struck the hydrant.

3 p.m.

Officer Kurt Ellis responded to a report of a motor vehicle accident at Highland Avenue and by Forest Street.

The operator of the second vehicle, a 43-year-old Wayland male, was turning left onto Highland from Forest when he collided with the first vehicle, operated by a 33-year-old Bellevue Street male, which was traveling the opposite way on Forest. According to police, the operator of the second vehicle did not yield for the first vehicle when turning left onto Highland.

Friday, Nov. 20

5:56 p.m.

Officer William O'Neil was dispatched to Swanton Street for a report of an assault and battery.

Police spoke with a woman who said that she had been struck in the face by a male. The woman also said that the accused had made threats with a revolver when she went out with a friend the night before, according to police. The man was transported to the station and charged with assault.

1:13 p.m.

Officer Douglas Wilkinson stopped a motor vehicle on Cross Street for speeding and issued the operator, a 28-year-old Billerica female, a citation.

The operator did not have a license on her possession, but police could not check her status because the computer was inaccessible at that time. Later in the day, police were able to access the computer and discovered that the operator's license had been suspended. Police called the female at her home and told her that she would be receiving a citation in the mail for operating a motor vehicle after the suspension of a license.

FIRE LOG

Saturday, Nov. 21

1 p.m.

■ All engines were dispatched to a Squire Road residence for a report of a fire. Upon arrival, firefighters found food burning in an oven. Firefighters used a smoke fan in the residence to clear out the smoke. Engines returned at 1:15 p.m.

4:23 a.m.

■ Engine 1 and the ambulance responded to a Wildwood Street residence for medical aid. The patient was transported to Winchester Hospital by the ambulance. Engine 1 returned to quarters at 4:44 a.m.

Friday, Nov. 20

6:40 a.m.

■ Engine 3 was dispatched to Cross Street near the railroad bridge for a report of an outside fire. Upon arrival, firefighters found nothing. Due to weather, there was a thick haze in the air that may have appeared as smoke from a fire. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 6:57 a.m.

3:36 a.m.

■ Engine 3 and the ambulance responded to a Hemingway Street residence for medical aid. The ambulance transported the patient to Winchester Hospital. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 3:50 a.m.

1:26 a.m.

■ Engine 3 and the ambulance responded to a call for medical aid at a Pierrepont Road residence. The ambulance transported the patient to Winchester Hospital. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 1:38 a.m.

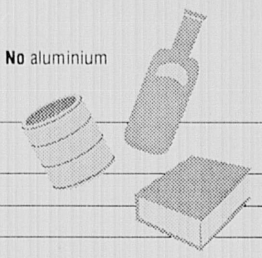

Thursday, Nov. 19

11:27 p.m.

■ Engine 3 and the ambulance were dispatched to a Hollywood Road residence for medical aid. The ambulance transported the patient to Winchester Hospital for medical aid. Engine 3 returned to quarters at 11:57 p.m.

Matt Ducharme plays Sir Robarts in "Witness for the Prosecution".

High school students stage a hit in Witness

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester High School students would have made the queen of intrigue, Agatha Christie, proud with their brilliant performance of her play of betrayal and murder — "Witness for the Prosecution."

The students put on a charming and professional performance of Christie's three-act play at the high school auditorium on Nov. 19 - 21. The acting was impressive, the setting authentic, and the production seamless. Watching the high school students perform Christie's story of an esteemed attorney, in the autumn of his career, attempt to prove the innocence of a young man accused of murdering an elderly benefactor was a weekend night well-spent.

Matt Ducharme, Ben Bloodwell, and Alison Swap deserve special accolades in the lead roles of Sir Wilfred Robarts, Leonard Vole, and his wife, Romaine, respectively.

Ducharme played to perfection the part of the sagacious and peevish lawyer, who the audience senses is a bit bewildered facing the hardest case of his life. Ducharme was the anchor of the action from beginning to end.

Bloodwell was perfectly cast as the seemingly simple yet pernicious husband and murderer. He surely convinced any audience member who had not seen Christie's play before of his innocence.

Swap was superb as Leonard's cool and odd wife, Romaine, who saves the day for Leonard, by testifying for the prosecution. Swap handled well the heavy German accent of Romaine, and she deserves special note for her dual role as the mysterious woman with the cockney accent.

Also deserving of recognition is David Griffin who was marvelous as Mr. Mayhew, the accused's solicitor. He played the part of the able, if sometimes edgy, solicitor. He was excellent in the difficult task of playing second fiddle to Sir Robarts without becoming insignificant.

The cast was a strong backbone to a solid play, from Greta, the typist, to Janet MacKenzie, the victim's housekeeper, to Sergeant Randall. Steve Vavrick, as Mr. Myers, the prosecutor, was a perfect match for Ducharme in the climatic and emotional courtroom scenes where the two attorneys take part in a battle of the wits.

Deserving special attention is Jessica Marder, as Miss Plimsill, who was outstanding as Sir Robarts' ubiquitous and punctilious nurse.

The set consisted of two magnificently constructed rooms: The chamber of Sir Robarts and the Central Criminal Court in London. The English courtroom and office were elaborate.

The acting of the 26 high school students, along with costume, directing, sound, set, and lighting produced an enjoyable play, which remained true to Christie's classic tale of murder and betrayal.

Social Concern lends a hand to families in need

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

In the holiday spirit of giving, the Woburn Council of Social Concern will distribute food baskets to local families who would otherwise not have holiday meals on the table.

For 10 years the Woburn Council of Social Concern has been assisting people in Woburn and Winchester who are struggling to feed themselves and their families. Area residents are assisted all year long by Social Concern's food pantry, but around the holidays Social Concern steps up its charity work with food baskets for the needy for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"We get great cooperation from the community. It couldn't be done without a lot of community support," Social Concern spokesperson Irene Egan told the Star, as the organization was preparing 300 food baskets for local residents so they would have a Thanksgiving meal. Social Concern also assists 200 people a month at their food pantry.

Donations have come in from individuals, civic groups, churches, schools, and businesses. "People of all ages participate in a variety of ways," said Egan.

The baskets include donated canned and other non-perishable foods. Baskets also include a certificate for a turkey at a local store.

"There's an increasing need this year. There are a lot of new families on our list, many of them recently unemployed," said Eagan. There are 60 more requests for food baskets this year than there was last year.

Concern will also be distributing food baskets at Christmas. Anyone who would like to donate time or funds to the Woburn Council for Social Concern can call 935-6495. Canned goods and non-perishable foods can be dropped off Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Clarification

An article on page 12A of the Nov. 19 edition of the Star quoted Finance Committee member Robert Beatti as stating that he wouldn't presume to tell the members of the School Committee how they should handle a shortfall. The article omitted that Beatti later clarified his statement by saying, "There are 15 members of the finance committee and each has a vote."

Notice of vacancies on Housing Partnership Board

The Housing Partnership Board has vacancies for two registered voters who hold no other town office, for three-year terms.

The Housing Partnership Board was established by vote of Town Meeting in 1987. The Board consists of 13 voters, seven of whom are appointed by the town moderator. Other members are from the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Housing Authority, Council on Aging, Conservation Commission and School Committee.

The Board makes recommendations to the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Housing Authority and Town Meeting on various matters having to do with affordable housing in Winchester.

Send letter of interest to: Town Moderator John J. Sullivan, c/o Town Clerk Town Hall, Winchester, MA 01890.

Notice of Vacancies

Six members; one each to be appointed by Board of Selectmen, Board of Health, Finance Committee, Planning Board, Conservation Commission, and the Capital Planning Committee and 4 members to be appointed by the Moderator.

Established by Town Meeting vote on Nov. 5, to:

1. Review and evaluate major additions and alterations to the Town potable water treatment system, especially as it relates to assuring the highest standards of public health, purity and potable water quality.

2. Provide for public input on the design criteria, treatment plant design, water supply options, and final product specifications for water supplied to customers of the Winchester Water Department, (prior to the 1993 Spring Town Meeting).

3. Issue a report and recommendation to the 1993 Spring Town Meeting.

Interested persons should apply in writing by Nov. 30, to: Moderator John J. Sullivan, c/o Town Clerk, Town Hall, 71 Mount Vernon St., Winchester, MA 01890.

Winchester Troop 503 announces wreath sale

The scouts of Troop 503 are now conducting the troop's 31st annual Christmas wreath sale. This sale, the troop's only fund-raising effort, provides money used to support the troop's camping and activities program, the scout's registration fees, and tuition for leadership training courses.

The prices are the same as last year: $7 for the plain and $10 for the decorated wreaths. Wreaths will be ready for delivery on Saturday, Dec. 5. The scouts will make an effort to contact all households during the sale. However, if you would like to place an order (large orders are especially encouraged), please contact either Dick Schrock (721-1229) or Steve Galli (729-5239).

Hospice agency asks for volunteers

MDC and Friends of Middlesex Fells Reservation seek volunteers

The Metropolitan District Commission and the Friends of Middlesex Fells Reservation are in the process of designing a new trail map for the 2,060 acre park. Volunteers are needed to hike the roads and trails in the reservation to determine the accuracy of the current trail map. A training session for volunteers will be held on Saturday, Dec. 5, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the MDC North Region headquarters on One Woodland Road, Stoneham. Participants should pre-register no later than Dec. 4 by calling 662-5230.

Volunteers will be assigned a section of the reservation to hike. Volunteers will work in groups of two or more. Map sections and instructions will be provided at the training. It is anticipated that after the training volunteers will need to spend a total of eight to twelve hours over the next two months to complete their assigned section of the reservation.

The new trail map is currently being redesigned by computer. Trails, roads, contours, wetlands, streams, ponds, wooded and open areas will be included on the new multi colored version. The back of the map will contain trail descriptions and information on the natural and cultural history of the site. Completion is scheduled for June 5, 1993 in celebration of National Trails Day.

Production of the original trail map was funded through an anonymous grant. Sale of the map by the friends of Middlesex Fells Reservation has raised funds which are dedicated to the printing of a new and improved version. If you would like a current trail map to help support the production of the new map, it is available for $2 at the MDC North Region Headquarters, One Woodland Rd., Stoneham, MA, or by mail for $2.50 by writing to that address, or calling 662-5230. Checks must be made payable to CANEPI/Friends of Middlesex Fells.

SENIOR NEWS

FROM THE JENKS CENTER

By Mary Kelly
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

Keeping a suburban hospital alive and well

Under the sponsorship of the Winchester Seniors Association's Health Committee, Eugene E. Loubier, FACHE, president of the Winchester Hospital, will describe the problems of coping with the rocketing expenditures for complex medical equipment, health insurance inadequacy and the tightening economy. While many suburban hospitals in the vicinity have had to shut their doors, the Winchester Hospital has continued to keep abreast of the times and meet the pace set by major teaching hospitals.

Loubier's description of his methods should be worth hearing. This presentation will be held on Friday, Dec. 4, at 10:30 a.m., in the Jenks Center's Pond Room. No prior registration is required, and there is no charge.

AARP health care system

Recently, Steffi Roth, health care advocacy service area coordinator for the AARP (American Association of Retired Persons), presented a plan at the Jenks Senior Center for a health care system that provides health and long-term care coverage for all individuals. The cornerstone of the plan is MEDICARD, a single health insurance access card. The card will assure each user high quality health coverage through strengthened, improved and expanded Medicare program. Long-term care coverage will be available to all individuals.

According to Roth, America's health care system is in deep trouble. National spending on health care continues to soar, and it has become a crisis that can no longer be ignored. The present spending is expected to rise from $800 billion in 1992 to $1 trillion by 1995 according to government projections. Our incomes are rapidly losing ground to our health care bills. Health Care America proposes that the coverage for Nursing Home services will be provided during the entire stay of the individual.

Personal savings will not have to be used up. Room and board will be related to the individual income up to a specified limit. The proposed plan will cover hospital and other inpatient services, x-ray and laboratory services, inpatient and outpatient mental health care, periodic checkups, mammography, pap smears, colorectal tests, prostate cancer screening, prenatal and well-baby care, dental, vision, hearing screening services, and outpatient prescription drugs.

Roth urged seniors to become informed about what is taking place in legislative plans for the future. Learn what legislative representatives and candidates for public office propose. AARP is hopeful that, by providing this proposal, it will move the difficult debate about health care reform closer to resolution.

1992 UNICEF cards on sale Nov. 30

Each year Church Women United of Winchester sponsors the sale of UNICEF greeting cards, seasonal note papers, calendars and other incidental items for the benefit of the United Nations Children's program. This year again these items will be offered for sale at the Jenks Senior Center.

A representative from Church Women United will be at the Center daily from Monday, Nov. 30, through Friday, Dec. 11, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Seniors and the general community are asked to stop by and make purchase for this most worthy cause.

Reminder: Pick up your raffle tickets

Now is the time to purchase raffle tickets for the colorful and beautifully worked quilt which is presently on display in the Jenks Center's lobby. This "Scrapaholic" quilt, designed and put together by so many talented and loving hands, in Jane Norberg's Crafts and Stitchery class, will be raffled off at the center's Christmas party on Wednesday, Dec. 9. Raffle tickets are now being sold at the reception desk at the center, $1 each, six for $5. Buy your tickets early, and often!

'Senior Issues Forum' on Channel 19

Recently, the Council on Aging presented a Senior Issues Forum at which attorney Harold E. Dreyer discussed the new estate tax changes in Massachusetts.

For those who missed the presentation at the Jenks Center, Channel 19 will show the tape of the program Thursday, Dec. 3, at 8 p.m.; Friday Dec. 11, at noon; and Wednesday, Jan. 6, at 8 p.m.

Plan now for your winter holiday trip

The Overnight Travel Committee at the Jenks Center is offering two great winter holiday trips. The first is a three-day trip to Philadelphia to celebrate and welcome in the New Year. Reservations are still available at a cost of $259 per person, double occupancy. This tour is a very exciting and fun packed three-day trip, Dec. 30 to Jan. 1. The trip will include an evening at the fabulous Crystal Palace Dinner Club, a New Year's Eve celebration featuring an hors d'oeuvre hour, prime rib buffet dinner, dancing to the Martin & Daley Band, champagne toast and party favors to welcome in the New Year. Also, for "late nighters," a continental breakfast will be served. On New Year's Day, there will be reserved seats at the Philadelphia "Mummers Parade," and then homeward bound arriving home in the early evening.

Also planned by the Overnight Travel Committee is an eight-day cruise, at a cost of $829 per person, double occupancy, leaving Feb. 22, to escape from the severe winter cold and snow, and returning March 1.

This fun cruise will be aboard the "Amerikanis" and ports of call are San Juan (Puerto Rico), St. Thomas, Guadeloupe, Barbados, St. Lucia, Antigua, and St. Maarten. The trip starts with a jet flight from Logan Airport to San Juan, then board the Fantasy Cruises ss Amerikas, sailing evenings and visiting a different island every day. Deposit of $100 per person is due, as soon as possible, as space is limited and many of the decks are sold out.

Detailed flyers for both of these trips are available in the Jenks Center lobby. For additional information and reservations, call Anne Gallello at 729-0003.

Sign up now for prime rib dinner

On Friday, Dec. 11, a special event is planned for those who come regularly to Eating Together at the Jenks Center. A prime rib dinner, sliced at the site, with baked potato, glazed carrots, twisted roll, butter, sour cream, egg nog, milk and holiday cookies, make up this special menu, for which the cost will be $3.50. You must make reservations directly with Cay Fleming and no later than Friday, Dec. 4.

You may come down to the center and see Cay in person or call her on Monday, Wednesday or Friday morning. Reservations will be limited, so sign up early.

A delicious meal is planned and, to add to the festivities, the McCall Middle School Orchestra will entertain, starting at 11:30 a.m.

Miles for Meals Walkathon

Despite rain and slippery leaves, over 35 walkers participated in the recent annual Miles for Meals Walkathon. Starting at the Jenks Center, participants toured the path along Judkins Pond to Mt. Vernon Street, past the Jenks Center.

Because of the weather others did their walking inside the center. Many of the thrice-weekly exercise class attendees enthusiastically supported the Walkathon and others, who could not walk, made donations in sponsorship of the event.

Representatives from Minuteman Home Care, which agency contracts with the Council on Aging to provide the nutritious Eating Together luncheons on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, were Alice Eichhorn, home care case manager for Winchester Elders; Patricia O'Brien, director of administrative services for that agency; and Cay Fleming, Winchester site manager for the Eating Together program.

Regina Karnilla from the Council on Aging and Ted Robinson from the Winchester Seniors Association were instrumental in obtaining many sponsors for this successful event.

Betty Newell, an enthusiastic supporter of the program, participated in her motorized wheelchair and obtained the greatest number of pledges in support of the event, as she did last year. Regina Karnilla obtained the largest number of sponsors.

The purpose of these annual walkathons is to provide support for the regional Eating Together programs and home delivered meals and to contribute to the Winchester Eating Together Sunshine Fund which supports special events and occasions for the Eating Together programs.

'Read Aloud, Read Together' program for seniors

Seniors are reminded that, starting in January, a new program, sponsored jointly by the Winchester Public Library and the Council on Aging, will get underway at the Jenks Senior Center. "Reading Aloud, Reading Together" will involve a group of seniors who will meet at the Jenks Center and read aloud from a particular book to group members who will follow along. It is expected that such a program will provide pleasure and enjoyment to any senior and, especially, to those seniors who may have vision problems.

There is a sign-up list at the Reception Desk at the center. Dates and times of these gatherings will be arranged when sign-ups are completed. Call Barbara Ciampa of the COA, at the Jenks Center, 721-7136, or Richard Welton, at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171, with any questions about this new program.

AROUND TOWN

PLAY THE GAME OF WINCHESTER

By Alita Neff-Dupuis

Crossword puzzle developed by residents

On Oct. 5 a group of 25 Winchester residents gathered at the Jenks Center for a project covering crossword-puzzle construction and a variety of word games. The attendance has been encouraging as some members have gone on cruises or short vacations and even during their absence they have been working on puzzles and games and returned with new ideas. As different participants complete puzzles they will be submitted to The Star. The puzzles center around the subject of Winchester. Perhaps the readers will accept the challenge and solve the efforts of their neighbors. The answers to the puzzle will be published in next week's Star.

LIBRARY LINES

'Winchester Game' available from Friends; proceeds benefit library

As a special fund raising promotion, the Friends of the Winchester Public Library are now selling the "Winchester Game." Identical to the famous game of "Monopoly," the "Winchester Game" features Winchester businesses on the playing board. This fundraising program is being sponsored by Century 21 of Winchester. The game sells for $15 and is available at the Circulation Desk at the Library. It makes an ideal Christmas gift, especially for former town residents who are eager for familiar sights of Winchester.

Library to collect 'food for fines' during holidays

Bring "Food For Fines" to the Winchester Public Library this holiday season! From Nov. 23 through Dec. 24, the library will accept food donations instead of money as payment for overdue fines. Patrons who return their overdue materials with a donation of nonperishable food will not be charged a cash fine. All food donations will be given to the Woburn Council of Social Concern, which will distribute the food to those in need. Only nonperishable foods will be accepted.

The food items collected should be of comparable value to the fine usually imposed: $5 per day for videos; 5 cents per day for books, periodicals, and all audio visual material other than videos. Current fines on overdue material returned to Winchester and older fines on previously returned material are eligible.

Museum passes, lost books and audio visual equipment are not eligible. "Last year, many of our patrons took advantage of this opportunity to clear up their records and become borrowers in good standing and at the same time help those in need," said the library's Head of Circulation, Mary Rose Quinn.

The library hopes that patrons will also respond to this as an opportunity to help the needy. In last year's "Food For Fines" program, 80 bags of food were collected and distributed.

Workshop for parents at library

Do children and adults really understand each other, or do they only pretend? Merryl Goldberg instructor at Wheelock College and the Harvard Graduate School of Education, will explore this question in "Children And Parents: Do We Speak The Same Language?", a workshop for parents and teachers that will he held on Monday, Nov. 30, at 7 p.m. in the Meeting Room at the Winchester Public Library. The program will guide parents and teachers in exploring ways to interpret and nurture children's forms of expression, in play, speech, writing, art and movement. The workshop will focus on children ages 3 to 11 so that adults can think not only about their children's present modes of expression, but on changes in years to come.

This free program is sponsored by the Friends of the Winchester Public Library. For information about this program, or any of the library's services for children, please call 721-7171.

There will be ongoing displays highlighting suggested "Read-Alouds" during December. Get ready to join up, and plan to "Book Some Time With Your Kids."

If you have a question or comment about anything mentioned in this column, please call the Community Services Librarian at the Winchester Public Library, 721-7171.

ABOUT TOWN

Co-operative Theatre announces auditions for 'Wizard of Oz'

"The Wizard of Oz" is this year's selection for the thirteenth production of the Co-operative Theatre. Children in grades four through six are invited to audition for a place in the cast. This non-profit organization was established to provide children with the opportunity to learn first-hand about the various aspects of theatre. Each child is given instruction in music, dance and acting. Scholarships are available.

Catherine Alexander, director, is pleased to announce that the following people will assist with the production: Alice Gross, producer-stage manager; Carole Davidson, musical director; Pam Jervey, assistant director; Brian Milauskas, set designer; Linda Vacovec, choreographer; and Debbie Dimes and Judi Huston, costume designers.

There will be an informational meeting for all parents and students (if they are able to attend) on Wednesday, Dec. 2 at 3 p.m. in the Lincoln School auditorium. Please bring a recent non-returnable photo of your child and a self-addressed, unsealed, stamped, legal-sized envelope to this meeting. Auditions will take place on Monday, Dec. 7 and Tuesday, Dec. 8. All sixth graders from McCall and fifth graders from only the Lincoln and Muraco schools should audition on Monday, Dec. 7. All fourth graders and fifth graders from only Ambrose, Lynch, Vinson Owen, as well as students in 3rd, 4th or 5th from all other schools should audition on Dec. 8. If you have a serious conflict and cannot audition on the day assigned for you, you may audition on the alternate date. All auditions ill be held in the Lincoln School auditorium from 3 to 5:30 p.m.

If you are unable to make the pre-registration meeting, be sure to send the photo and envelope in with your child to auditions, as well as a short prepared reading. Parents are requested not to stay for auditions, as it is sometimes distracting to the children auditioning. If you have any questions, call Cathy Alexander at 729-0224.

The Energy Connection offers free workshops

The Energy Connection Fitness Programs is offering two free workshops entitled "Healthy Holidays for Body and Spirit." These one-hour workshops will focus on strategies for realistic eating and coping with stress during this busy holiday season. Ann Galvin, nutrition counselor from The Diet Workshop, will be the featured presenter at each session. According to Galvin, "Very often people allow what usually are good eating habits to fall by the wayside during the holidays. They say they will wait until January and then deal with the extra pounds and lack of exercise. Many feel that they are just too busy during the holidays to take care of themselves." By giving support and strategies, these workshops will encourage its participants approach the holidays in a positive manner.

Galvin, will be joined by Marie Dacey and Linda Vacovec of The Energy Connection. Together, they will help everyone avoid the common pitfalls of weight gain this holiday season. Advice will be offered on eating both at home and away, and recipes will be handed out which will lighten up traditional meals and de-fat festive foods. Along with these helpful hints on nutrition, sources of stress during this time of year will be identified, and relaxation techniques will be featured. The workshops promise to be informative, supportive and fun for all.

"Healthy Holidays for Body and Spirit" will be held at the Crawford Church, 34 Dix St. in Winchester, on Dec. 4, at 8:30 a.m., and on Dec. 5, at 9:30 a.m. Both sessions are open to the public at no charge. In conjunction with these workshops, The Energy Connection will continue to offer a full schedule of exercise classes throughout the holidays. For more information, call Linda Vacovec at 729-325, or Marie Dacey at 729-7268.

Badge day held at Winchester Hospital

It was a day of learning, sharing and growing when over 300 Junior Girl Scouts gathered together for "Badge Day" held recently at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center. The program was created to help Junior Girl Scout troops meet the requirements for three badges of their choice.

"The girls were very enthusiastic and genuinely interested in all the workshops," said Denise Linehan, Winchester Hospital health educator who instructed several of the badge workshops. "This was a real 'feel good' event. From learning basic first aid to exploring self-image, every Girl Scout who participated learned something new and had a lot of fun in the process. It was a great experience for everyone involved."

The Girl Scouts were given the opportunity to complete activities and attain badges in first aid, healthy eating, immunization, health and fitness, baby care and self esteem. As Badge Day was a tremendous success, Winchester Hospital is considering offering the event on an annual basis.

Local legislators agree on raises

By Stephen Olivieri
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Winchester's legislators both agree that state workers are due for a raise and that a graduated income tax proposal should be on the ballot.

"It is not, in my opinion, excessive," said Rep. Paul Casey (D-Winchester) of the 13 percent pay raise for 50,000 state workers. "They were negotiated in good faith close to three years ago and signed on by the former governor (Michael Dukakis)," said Casey.

The pay of state employees will go up six percent this year and seven percent in Fiscal Year 1994 if the bill is passed. Casey says that the Ways and Means Committee has estimated that the cost will be close to $208 over the next two years.

Charles Shannon (R-Winchester) said it was an overdue raise for middle income state workers. Shannon said that with inflation and higher health insurance premiums, state workers have "lost a lot of their earnings."

Governor William Weld has been strident in his opposition to the pay raises since he was elected. Weld has threatened to veto the raise and has warned that local aid cuts or massive layoffs will be needed if the raises are passed. "I think right now it's just a threat," said Rep. Casey. Shannon said it should put pressure on the governor to down-size the government, especially middle-management state employees.

Casey said if the raises were not granted state employees would "have a strong court case against the state" because the contract had already been signed.

The raise passed the House by a 90-18 vote and passed the Senate by a 24-2 vote. Shannon paired his vote with a no vote, a parliamentary move that removes his vote from the official tally.

In a Constitutional Convention, Casey and Shannon voted in support of a measure for a state graduated tax income. The measure was put forth by the Tax Equity Alliance of Massachusetts and was passed by the Legislature by a 132-39. If the measure receives 50 votes (1/4) in the Legislature next year, it will be on the November ballot in 1994. A graduated income tax, which requires a change in the state Constitution, has been rejected by state voters four times already.

Casey said he had "certain problems with the tax" but felt the voters should have a chance to accept or reject the measure. "Sure, bring it to the ballot. Let people vote on it," said Casey. Shannon gave similar reasons for supporting the measure.

Casey said that the term limitation initiative, which he opposes, is a different case. "That we already have. You can vote a person out," he said. Shannon said he ran as a proponent of term limitations and would like to see it on the ballot.

"Once again you have a Democratic controlled Con-Con (Constitutional Convention) and that uses maneuvers and deceit," said Shannon.

Good idea, bad timing

The decision to forgo the hiring of before-school monitors by a vote of the School Committee is the epitome of bad timing. It's important, on the one hand, once they've hashed out a budget, that the members stick to it as closely as possible.

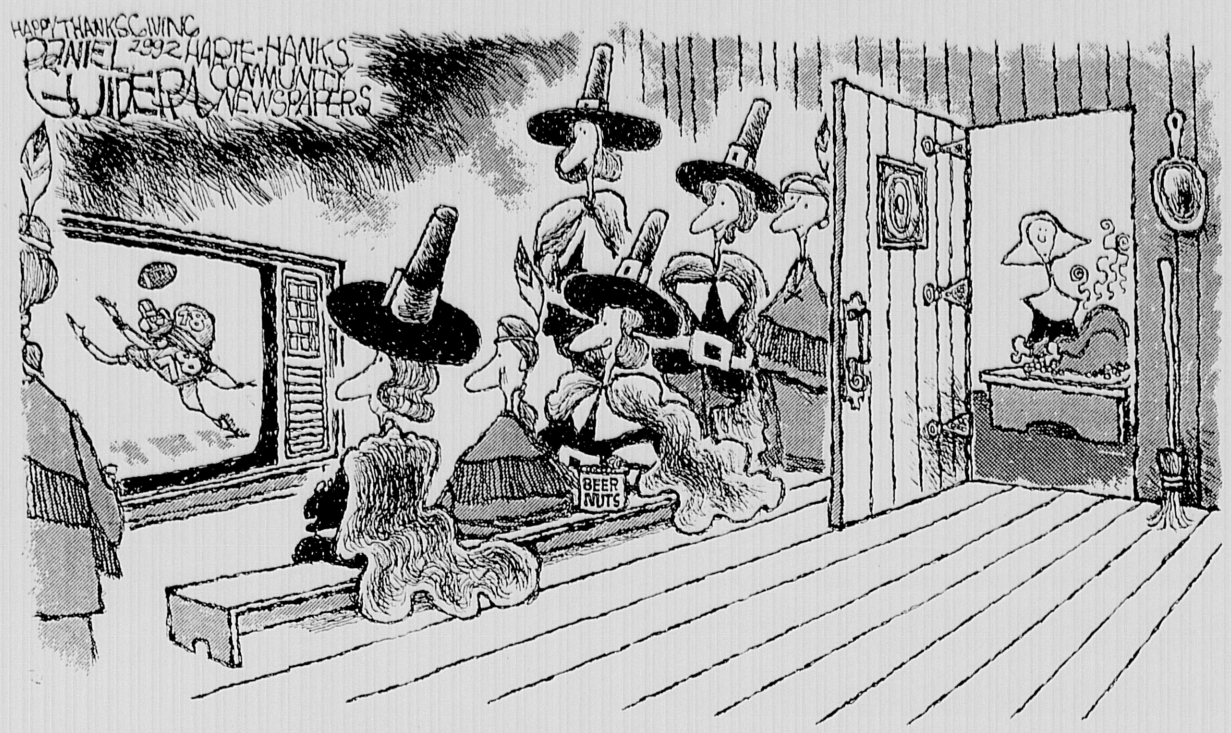

However, placing the safety of children in the hands of chance seems a bad move at best. The vote of 2-2 against funding for the positions prevented the school principals from paying people a token stipend to look after elementary school children while they're waiting on the school grounds. Some of these children are barely five-years-old.

On the other hand, the positions of assistant coaches were filled as was an aide at Lincoln Elementary School and an elementary psychologist.

It's obvious that parents who swarmed a meeting several weeks ago are concerned. So concerned, that many are jumping in and filling the positions as they are able. This haphazard, though well-meaning effort is courting disaster.

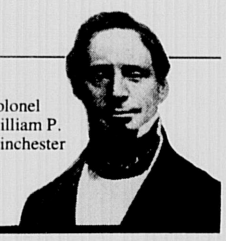

We applaud the members' decision to try and hold the line on spending. But why now we ask? Why place children in the system in needless jeopardy to prove a point.

We say money for before-school monitors has to be money well-spent.

Thanksgiving tradition

By DAN CHANE
SPECIAL TO THE STAR

In the late 1940s as Thanksgiving grew close, the old house on Forest Street was giddy with the aroma of baking pies, bread and rolls in preparation for the crush of family that always filled the house on the holiday.

Ma would banter long and loud, on the telephone, with John Lynch over "just the right turkey" and later would coax the battered 1935 Oldsmobile to life for the chilly drive down Washington Street to Lynch's Market to claim her coveted bird.

Over the years two traditions remained inviolate; all the cousins got together before dinner to make the place cards (which usually poked fun at the adults) and to stuff the celery.

While the cousins gathered in an upstairs room to make the cards, and the men gathered around the radio in the living room, Ma, the aunts and grandma Chane engineered culinary activities in the kitchen. Getting the feast together was hard work and sometimes a few sips from the bottle of cooking sherry on the top shelf kept spirits light.

One year a particularly jovial gathering in the kitchen lost Ma's prize bird as it bounced from the pan and slid regally — still steaming — across the floor towards the dining room.

In those days family entertainment was eagerly looked forward to and while the adults digested their dinner, the cousins pulled the sliding doors in the parlor shut and scavenged in the attic for suitable attire for the annual Thanksgiving "play."

One of the younger cousins was given the important chore of sliding the doors open and shut for each act. Father and Aunt Kiki provided musical interludes on the old piano.

Later, as the men went back eagerly to the radio and the women exchanged family gossip, the laundry chute became the center of attention for the cousins as each took a turn running upstairs, opening the hatch and sliding between floors in total darkness — to emerge triumphantly in the kitchen from a small door halfway up the wall.

It was an exciting holiday sport for years until brother John — then rapidly filling out — became wedged between floors.

With great tugging and pushing by apoplectic family members John finally popped out into the kitchen — a hero of sorts — but he was also the last in the clan to negotiate the laundry chute on Thanksgiving.

Each family in Winchester has similar traditions which will alter over time — but every year as we gather for Thanksgiving the sanctity of those families and the love they generate will remain constant always.

Time to look around some

GUEST COLUMNIST

By Terry Marotta

I have a friend whose cat loves to be held upside down. My friend doesn't get out much, so she and her kitty lie around in each other's arms much of the time.

"She trusts me," she says, bracing her hand beneath the cat's head as you would with a baby; then slowly lowers the cat down headfirst and backwards. Squeak, for her part, seems to not only permit, but positively relish seeing things this new way: her same tame world inverted, food dish and litter box on the ceiling, as it were.

I feel a little like Squeak, come the end of every November. The world looks different to me, too.

From the time I was a child, I've thought of the year as a kind of ball whose surface it was our job to traverse, beginning at the bottom, like Antarcticans, walking around head downward, as I pictured them. Then up we would all climb, come January — past Valentine's Day with its lacy hearts, and St. Patrick's Day with its curly-headed shamrocks; past the lavender and butter-yellow color schemes of Easter; on up to Summer at the ball's top, where we'd all balance awhile, like trained seals. Then, with a decisive dip at Labor Day, we'd make our way down the other side: through September, with the shiny knobs of horse chestnuts inside their spiky asteroid husks; and October, with its wind, and its leaves burning, and its skies as blue as Glory; to this season, finally: the short clean days of late November.

For me back then, these days meant the buildup toward Thanksgiving, and faking sick to stay home and watch the preparations: the polishing of silver, the baking of pies, the getting out of the special old cloth for the table. I have that cloth still, a piece of linen hand-hemmed in the 1880s, freckled with tea-colored stains in its old age, its worn fabric as thin as November sunlight.

It feels harder now to stay with the moment at hand than it did then; hard not to anticipate all that the next season brings, and thus bypass the gentler charms of this one. My little boy notices it too: "Why do they have Christmas stuff up when it's not even Thanksgiving?" he wondered two weeks back. He himself has kept busy on his own project: the embellishment of a kids' tablecloth with literally dozens of potato-nosed Pilgrims rendered in various hues of indelible laundry pen. He worked on this task like Michelangelo at his Sistine Chapel; and, like him, struggled with the thorny knot of perspective, when the turkey he tried to draw on the cloth's center came out a brown blob, like someone's disembodied liver.

So I for one am happy to stay in November. Like any month, its brings its own events:

On its first Tuesday, we had an election. It rained cats and dogs around here; yet the polling places were as crowded as I ever remember seeing them. That felt good to me. The outcome feels good too. A few months back, the young President-Elect said, "This is America. There is no 'Them'; there is only Us." A powerful notion, I thought at the time. Maybe we can all start living as though we believed it, I thought, recalling it on Election night.

Then a week later, something else happened right outside our window: I had always heard that the ginkgo keeps its foliage longer than most of its fellow trees, then loses it all at once; and I had noticed, over the years, that this seemed to be so. Ours even kept its little fan-shaped leaves green, long after all other leaves had darkened to the colors of flame and concord grape and maple syrup.

This one morning, just after dawn, I sat in the upstairs study as sunlight the color of apricot brandy poured through my window, and saw suddenly that its slanting light was being dappled by flickering shadows. I heard a steady pattering sound and looked out. It was the ginkgo tree, seizing the moment. Excitedly, I called to the others in this house. "I know!," my daughter answered. "It woke me when it started, around 2 a.m.".

Two hours later, the tree was bare, its grey limbs seemingly made of bone; of granite, even. When it will swell again with the green buds is hard to imagine. They say we're in for a hard winter, and I believe them.

But for now it may be enough to take a page from Squeak's book and feel ourselves held in larger hands than our own; stretch back our heads and look around some. In amazement. And trust. And delight.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Conte questions lack of action on term limitations

To the editor:

Our heroic state Legislature has shown its true colors once again. After cowardly refusing to take a vote on the Constitutional amendments proposed by initiative petition time after time in the months before the election, they hardly waited for the dust to settle after the election before ramming through totally without debate the graduated income tax amendment which has already been defeated by overwhelming margins the four times it has come before the voters.

However, Senate President Bulger somehow could not seem to find the time to allow a vote on the term limitation amendment after spending a sum total of only 20 minutes on the graduated income tax. In other words the Legislature waited until after the election to attempt to send the manifestly unpopular graduated income tax on its way to the ballot, while at the same time denying a vote on term limitation which is so ardently desired by the people that it was overwhelmingly approved by all 14 states where it appeared on the ballot on Nov. 3.

When there's the possibility of a tax increase, the Legislature will vote as long as they vote after the election so voters won't be able to express their dissatisfaction at the polls. However, when it comes to a real reform like term limitation, the legislative leadership is not willing to take the chance that the people will end the oligarchic stranglehold created by long-term incumbency.

The behavior of the legislative leadership in refusing to even allow a vote on term limitation is a travesty which makes a mockery of their alleged commitment to the democratic process. If they believe in democracy, why will they not allow the people to vote?

Kelly Gay thanks supporters in election

To the editor:

I would like to thank the thousands of voters who ensured my victory in the Sixth District Governor's Council race on Election Day, Nov. 3. I won 18 of the 19 cities and towns in the district with 53 percent of the vote against a wealthy Republican and a feisty Independent.

I am especially grateful to the many volunteers who made telephone calls, distributed campaign literature and stood at subway stations and highway intersections on my behalf. They helped deliver my message of "Honest, Independent Leadership for a Change."

In January, when I take office, I will remember the hundreds of people I met during the nine-month campaign as I undertake my responsibilities as Governor's Councillor. It will be an honor to represent them and their fellow citizens.

Principal offers thanks for Workday

To the editor:

On Saturday, Nov. 7, Lincoln School held a successful Workday in which over 40 parents participated with dedication and enthusiasm. Workday was an outstanding community effort which produced tangible and positive results. Many thanks to all who donated their time and effort to this endeavor and who participated with dedication and enthusiasm.

Workday would not have been possible without the generous contributions and assistance from the following: Peter Wild, a Lincoln parent and owner of Winchester Tree Company; Anne Rebello, owner of AR Home Decorating Center; Mario Covino, owner of Winchester Landscape and Design; Mahoney's Rocky Winchester Wine and Spirits owner and Winchester resident Nicholas Buonopane was given permission to open his liquor store on Sundays between now and the new year by the Board of Selectmen. Buonopane originally requested that he be allowed to open from noon to 6 p.m., but Selectman Stephen Powers asked that it be changed to 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. because church is in session from noon to 1 p.m. The selectmen unanimously accepted the changed hours. The selectmen had put off a vote at a previous meeting until the public hearing on Nov. 23. No one came to the hearing to speak for or against the Sunday openings.

ON THE RECORD

The Board of Selectmen received a letter from Continental Cablevision on the new federal law which regulates cable television. The letter was a summary of the new law and what it means to Winchester. Selectmen Chairman Thomas Schmitt was skeptical of the Continental Cablevision report and asked Town Counsel Wade Welch to do his own study. "Having Continental Cablevision interpret this law is like putting the fox in charge of the chicken coop," said Schmitt.

The Board of Selectmen are writing to Congressman Edward Markey (D—Malden) asking for some financial relief for the extremely expensive (approximately $7 million) federally mandated water system plant. Selectman William O'Leary said that with a Democratic president, who has promised to do some big spending, Markey may be able to get some financial assistance to Winchester.

The MBTA is considering eliminating bus route 350 in Winchester which brings riders to the red line. Although the route services 1,300 riders a day, the MBTA had determined it is one of the top 20 routes with the highest net operating costs. "If the T is trying to have a public policy that encourages public transportation, this is not a very good place to start," said Selectman Peter Van Aken.

The Cemetery Advisory Committee will finally be meeting with the selectmen. The members, one of whom complained at a recent meeting that they haven't gotten a response from the selectmen in over a year, have finally gotten the attention of the selectmen with their talk of implementing a revolving fund, surcharges, and an enterprise system.

Resident congratulates Swartz on bringing water issue forward

To the editor:

At the November Town Meeting, the issue of the safety of the drinking water from North Reservoir was raised in a series of warrants by Dr. Swartz, chairperson of the Winchester Board of Health. He raised the warrants as a private citizen, as the Board of Selectmen have jurisdiction over town water. The following points were made by Dr. Swartz:

•that new regulations for water treatment are being introduced to protect our water supply because testing the drinking water supply is insufficient to guarantee the safety of the water; and

•that the procedure that the town is using to disinfect the water is flawed, leaving the water potentially unsafe to drink.

The protectors of the public water supply are the Board of Selectmen. Neither the selectmen, nor the consultant who acted as their expert spokesperson, nor the town manager, seemed to accept these points.

They appealed to the water test results. The problem with testing coliform bacteria weekly to guarantee water safety is: coliform bacterial counts are insufficient to indicate that an outbreak did occur; to indicate that an outbreak of disease is currently occurring; or to predict that an outbreak is about to occur.

Because of the procedure that the town uses for changing PH, false negatives are possible. Nor is there any epidemiological (public health) data to say no problem did occur or is occurring. Furthermore, the time between tests and the time it takes to get the test results back means that it is too late to do anything about contamination of the water.

For these reasons, the government is requiring that water be treated so thoroughly that it is highly unlikely that any contamination remains in the drinking water delivered. The problem is that the water from North Reservoir is so inadequately treated that it is almost guaranteed that certain contaminants will remain in the water if they find their way into it.

Because of Dr. Swartz's concern, it is now publicly known that the effectiveness of the disinfection of the water at North Reservoir is nonexistent for many of the homes serviced. The length of time that the chlorine is in contact with the water is too short. Industry standard requires holding the water for a minimum of 20 minutes after the chlorine has been added before it is consumed. This allows enough time for the chlorine to kill the bacteria, (salmonella, shigella, cholera) viruses (hepatitis, gastroenteritis) or protozoa (cysts such as giardia). Some of the homes serviced by North Reservoir are delivered water one or two minutes after chlorine is added. This water is potentially poisonous. The bacteria, viruses and protozoa in the water would not have been killed by the chlorine and they live on to infect fellow townspeople or visitors to town.

Although it is accepted in the industry and by governing regulations that 99.9 percent of giardia can be killed by 20 minutes of chlorination (given certain Ph and certain temperatures), the expert from Weston and Sampson said that chlorination does not kill giardia, so that Town Meeting would not support Dr. Swartz's argument for increased chlorine contact time. The selectmen also circulated a letter stating this. It is true that filtration is required to kill the remaining .01 percent. It is also true that the current procedure allows an unnecessary risk of giardia. It is also true that chlorination does kill giardia.

What I cannot understand is why our elected officials and consultants (Weston and Sampson) would want to mislead town meeting on the safety of the water being delivered from North Reservoir. The appeal to test results, when it is known they cannot be appealed to, and the statements that chlorination is not effective as a disinfectant for giardia, and the further general (inconsistent) assertions that the water is safe, even though it is known that it is not properly disinfected, is very disturbing. The issue is particularly pertinent, because we were expected to believe the selectmen's information, and Weston and Sampson, in deciding about building a $7,000,000 treatment facility. Fortunately, the town meeting voted to form a committee to study the construction of the treatment facility despite the recommendation of the selectmen so that Town Meeting will not need to rely on one source of information.

Erikson points to positive news

To The Editor:

There are some good things happening in our town. The Council on Aging would like to share a recent letter received by our administrator, Barbara Ciampa, from the daughter of one of our many elderly who are served by the outreach network at the Jenks Senior Center. As our requirement to maintain confidentiality requires, the identity of the client is omitted.

Dear Barbara:

My mother was a long-time resident of Winchester. Because I live at considerable distance from Winchester, I enlisted the aid of the Council on Aging for any service that could be extended.

June Hall, your geriatric nurse, was so wonderful to both my mother and to me in explaining any avenue that would be helpful to her physical and mental well-being. I will always be grateful to her for help that went beyond the call of duty. She is a valuable employee and friend.

Maria Quigley of the Meals on Wheels Program always let me know how my mom was and if I called her and couldn't reach her, she always called me back. She gave me encouragement on many occasions, when I didn't know what to do.

Now that my mother is dead and her house is sold, I cannot forget to draw attention to your wonderful people. I know that all the Winchester elders are fortunate to have such compassionate women in their town, who need only to know that someone needs them. Thanks again.

We in turn wish to express our thanks to the town for its support of the Council on Aging and the Winchester Seniors Association at the Jenks Senior Center.

EDUCATION

Education Foundation awards 24 mini-grants

The Winchester Foundation for Educational Excellence announced that they have awarded 24 mini-grants, which will fund innovative new programs at all levels of the Winchester Public Schools.

Teachers submitted a total of 47 applications in October, which were then screened by a peer review committee consisting of one teacher from each school. Foundation trustees then reviewed the applications, and their final recommendations were accepted by the Winchester School Committee on Nov. 10.

Judy King, Chairperson of the Foundation, praised the teachers for their enthusiasm and ideas:

"The new programs funded by these first mini-grants are going to have an immediate and exciting impact on students in our elementary, middle and high schools. We were all impressed by the quality of the ideas submitted, and look forward to the response of students and teachers."

The mission of the foundation is to encourage and fund innovative new programs that go beyond the existing curriculum, and would otherwise be unaffordable. Similar foundations exist in hundreds of communities nationwide, including Andover, Lexington and Wellesley.

"The Foundation's Charter Donor Campaign is just getting underway," King explained. "The response has already been wonderful, and we were anxious to make some initial mini-grants in order to have an immediate impact this fall."

The Charter Donor Campaign, which will end Dec. 31 and has a goal of $100,000, will fund additional mini-grants, as well as larger, major projects in the future. Anyone wishing to make a contribution, or get more information, should contact the Winchester Foundation for Educational Excellence, 154 Horn Pond Brook Road, Winchester, MA 01890, or call Judy King at 721-1036.

Mini-grants approved on Oct. 29:

McCall students to hear world-wide music

Students at the McCall Middle School will participate in a unique educational performing arts program, presented by Young Audiences of Massachusetts on Thursday, Dec. 10. Young Audiences is a nonprofit organization which brings live professional dance, theater and music education programs to schools.

The McCall Middle School program is entitled Shirim Klezmer Orchestra. "Klezmer," which means "music" in Yiddish, combines the soulful cry of Middle Eastern music, the exciting dance beats of Rumania, Poland, and Russia, and the good time Dixieland feel of the Roaring Twenties in America. After introducing the individual instruments, the Shirim Klezmer Orchestra takes their audience on a musical journey through Eastern Europe and ends up in America, demonstrating how music evolved in different environments. Shirim performs this unique music on clarinet, tuba, trombone, piano, accordion, and guitar, with songs in Yiddish, Hebrew, and English.

Programs are funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency. Interested parents, educators and arts program sponsors are invited to call Young Audiences at 577-0570 for information about this and other programs.

Coming to grips with the need for special ed

start working with it, you can't find anyone who doesn't fit under special needs. It's a very encompassing law." And the system, according to Bianco, is being abused.

Why would a parent want his child in special education? Bianco says that under Chapter 766, it is mandated that special education receive certain services that are not available for regular education classes. According to Bianco, among the advantages of special education are: a legal, contractual agreement with the School Department to provide certain educational entitlements, more opportunity for input from parents, and some advantages for getting into college, such as no time limit while taking college boards.

It is almost impossible to prevent a child from entering special education if the parent desires, said Bianco. If the school system's evaluation team says that the child does not fit under the special needs category, a parent can take that child to an outside evaluation, at the cost of the School Department. "If you search far enough, you'll find someone who says your child has one of these factors," said Bianco.

Also costly, is fighting it out in the courts. If the School Department is found to be wrong in a special education litigation it must pay the parent's attorney fees. And in case any parent isn't aware of the special education laws, aggressive attorneys mail out this information to parents.

Pat Shea, Chairperson of the Parent Advisory Council (PAC) for special education, said she finds Bianco's theory "insulting". "No parents are going to go through that process unless they believe that their child has a special need," said Shea.

Bianco says he knows of a parent who asked that her child receive special education services after the child flunked a German language class.

PAC, however, points to the fact that, although there is a lot of talk about the cost of special education, Winchester ranks 212 among 351 communities in the state in money spent per pupil in special education.

Bianco says that the per pupil expenditure is low because money for special education is spread too far. Bianco says that if the percentage of special education students goes down closer to the nationwide average of 12 percent, more available money can go to the truly needy — the visually impaired, the hearing impaired, and the multi-handicapped. No one is contending that there is too much fat in the budget.

The special education department in Winchester will be undergoing an outside evaluation some time next year. According to special education advocates, the message the School Committee will receive from the evaluation is that state regulations cannot be budged, and more money, not less, is needed to implement state laws. Bianco and Cynthia Papoulias, coordinator of early education, both said that if the School Committee is looking for places to save money in their evaluation, they will be disappointed. "I think they'll find we get a hell of a bang for our buck," said Bianco.

A lot of anger over special education is directed at the state. After passing encompassing special education laws in 1972, the state said they would help out local communities — to the tune of 110 percent reimbursements. Winchester is now receiving less than 20 percent reimbursement. "The message we were givin was we would be reimbursed 110 percent. It never came to be," said Bianco, who worked for the state Department of Education in the mid-70s.

The out-of-town tuition for special education has been one of the biggest busters of the school budget. While Winchester spends $5,727 on per-student expenditure, out-of-town costs are substantially higher — even in one case as high as $129,000 for one child.

According to state law, if the town cannot adequately provide a special education to a child the town must pay for that student's learning in a private school outside the town, including tuition, transportation, and housing. Lynch Principal Charles McInnis said that the special education department is looking for ways to keep children in town, but he adds that any new program to keep children in town will cost more money before any is saved.

Several state representatives have filed legislation to have the state pay for non-educational aspects of out-of-district placements. At a recent School Committee meeting, residents asked the committee to endorse the legislation. Lombardi said the committee has not formally approved the legislation but it is "something we agree with. It could save us a couple hundred thousand."

The decision on whether the Winchester school can adequately service a special needs child sometimes ends in costly litigation. Last year it was an unexpected out-of-town special education costs decided in court that forced the School Committee to go the reserve fund to balance the budget.

Last year, the School Department budgeted $385,500 for out-of-town special education tuition but ended up spending $427,269. This year the committee has budgeted $385,500 and almost certainly will not be able to stay within that number.

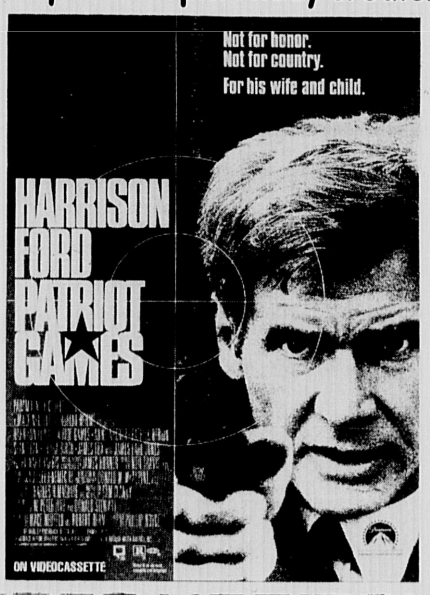

The demand for a slice of the pie has the potential of pitting special needs advocates against parents of regular students. Bianco describes it as "cannibalism."

"It is very controversial. On the one hand, there are special education parents saying, 'We've removed the institutional setting. No more are we going to accept the crumbs left behind. We've got the law on our side.' On the other hand, taxpayers and parents of regular education say, 'That's great but don't cut back on regular ed. The pot should be shared evenly.' It is a real Catch-22," said Bianco.

Bianco says there is a need to say to both sides, "You are both saying the same thing. You should work together to build creative support systems."

This is the eleventh year the Winchester Chamber of Commerce has organized and done the fund-raising for lighting and decorating the downtown for the holiday season. They rely entirely on the generosity of local clubs, residents and business people for contributions. Contributions may be made by sending a donation to the Christmas Lighting Fund, Winchester Chamber of Commerce, 25 Waterfield Road, Winchester.

tor Eric Bauer, who helps organize the fund-raiser. "The need is every bit as great this year and we hope that they can help us again."

McKeon said that while he wants to donate as much as possible to the fund, it's not the amount that is important to him.

"If we raised $50 that would be just as important to us as if we raised $20,000," he said. "But we'll raise a lot. It's very important to us."

"I know that sounds goofy, but it's from the heart," he said.

Illustrator Marcia Sewell.

Sewell speaks at Vinson Owen

Author and illustrator Marcia Sewell entertained the children of the Vinson Owen elementary school with original paintings that became illustrations for her book The Pilgrims of Plimouth, among others. Sewell is the author and/or illustrator of more than 40 children's books.

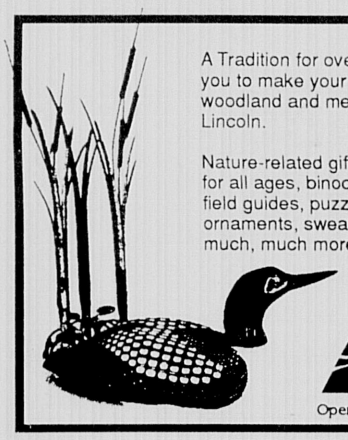

She explained how she established the characters in her books and demonstrated the illustration process including paint and ink and scratchboard. She showed the students the original manuscripts from some of her books.

Sewell was an art teacher at the Winchester High School for 10 years in the late 1960s and early 1970s. Since becoming an author and illustrator she has received numerous awards for her work. Several of her books have been named "Best Illustrated Book of the Year" by the New York Times and two of her works were named "Notable Books" by the American Library Association.

Peter Holmes of Century 21 Winchester Realty is shown presenting Library Director Lynda Wills and Ellen Browning the first check from the proceeds of the Winchester game.

Game receives rave reviews

Peter Holmes of Century 21 Winchester Realty is shown presenting Linda Wills, director of Winchester Public Library and Ellen Browning, chairman of the Board of Library Trustees, the first check of $2,000 from the proceeds of The Game of Winchester sales.

Century 21 Winchester Realty sponsored the fund-raiser, with Holmes coordinating the production and sales.

The Game is a board game very similar to Parker Brothers' board game "Monopoly." Instead of buying and selling Park Place, Atlantic Avenue, or Boardwalk however, the players will buy and sell 40 Winchester businesses — banks, restaurants, gas stations, drug stores, attorney's offices, etc. Familiar sights and sites bring family fun all year and a thoughtful touch of nostalgia for friends or relatives who have moved away.

The Game of Winchester may be purchased for $15, with the proceeds being donated to the Winchester Public Library, at the following locations: Century 21 Winchester Realty, Winchester Public Library, Henderson's, Bookends, Dugout Sports Collectibles, Voice of the Turtle, or Sassy Cissie's.

Giving The Game of Winchester means you will have given two gifts: One to a friend and one to the Winchester Public Library.

Carlson holds luncheon honoring sales associates

Carlson Real Estate recently held a luncheon honoring its 1991 members of the President's Club, an award that recognizes the top 10 associates in the company based on closed transactions for 1991.

The luncheon, given by Richard Carlson, CEO, and Jean Carlson, president, was held at the Harvard Club on Commonwealth Avenue in Boston. Attending the luncheon were Patti White, Johanne Lord and Carole Cressy of the Marblehead office; Claire Dembowski of the Swampscott office; Chris Economo and Anthony Bullock of the Beverly office; Tina Dirks of the Lexington office; and Carole Brousseau of the Winchester office. Heidi Magee of the Marblehead office and Sally Black of the Beverly office, also a members of the President's Club, were unable to attend.

Carlson Real Estate is one of the largest independent residential real estate companies in Massachusetts, with 21 offices and over 500 sales associates throughout greater Boston. In addition to the sales offices, Carlson Real Estate has an Education Division, a Relocation and Corporate Services Division and a Fine Homes Division, which markets luxury and distinctive properties.

Babcock completes final course to receive CRB desognation

Helen Babcock recently completed CRB 451, Decision Making: The Ultimate Challenge, in Woburn.

CRB 451 is the final course of the CRB Management Series. As the capstone course in the certification process for the real estate brokerage manager, CRB 451 synthesizes the essential management techniques to acheive the CRB designation. Awarded by the Real Estate Brokerage Managers Council, the designation is recognized throughout the real estate industry as a higher level of management expertise and proven professional achievement.

Babcock is the vice president of Carlson Real Estate, 552 Main St. She is a member of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and the Eastern Middlesex Board of Realtors.

Realty World broker attends business development conference

Patrick Fortin of Realty World-Winchester Properties in Winchester, recently attended a Realty World Business Development Conference in Sturbridge, on Thursday, Nov. 5 and Friday, Nov. 6, at the Sturbridge Host Hotel and Conference Center.

The Business Development Conference is designed to assist Realty World brokers and managers in developing their marketing and management skills.

During the business conference, attendees were addressed by Rebecca Wood, executive vice president of Realty World Advertising Fund Corporation (RWAFC), Jane Tierney, national director of public relations for RWAFC, and Yvonne Corrigan-Carr, vice president of member services for Realty World Corporation.

Topics covered during the business conference included: "Increasing your image while cutting your advertising budget," "Creating an annual advertising and public relations plan and budget," "Motivating sales associates to implement a self-promotion plan," and "Selecting additional management and support personnel for your company."

Fortin said, "Realty World Corporation provides the best training in the real estate industry and this Business Development Conference attests to that. Rebecca and Jane gave us excellent advertising and public relations information that will help me and my sales associates run a more profitable real estate business."

Winchester High senior co-captains John Rauseo (left) and Mike Szczepanski will play very different roles in this year's Thanksgiving Day game at Woburn. Rauseo, the Sachems' quarterback, will have added responsibilities because Szczepanski will be on the sideline with a knee injury.

Second helping

Winchester, Woburn meet to decide league runnerup

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

The 1992 version of the annual Winchester-Woburn Thanksgiving Day high school showdown will differ only slightly from most of the meetings of the first 100 years.

Instead of playing for the league title, as the teams almost regularly do, this year's contest, the 88th in a series which dates back to 1891, will decide second place in the Middlesex League.

Other than that, it's business as usual.

"It doesn't get any better than Woburn-Winchester high school football," said Woburn coach Rocky Nelson. "It's a great rivalry between two great schools. This year we're playing for bragging rights and second place."

Winchester coach John Donohue agreed. "The tradition of this game is something we talk about day after day," said Donohue. "A lot of kids who play high school football never get the chance to play in such a game."

The teams are very similar. Woburn enters The Game (Thursday, 10:15 a.m., at Woburn's Connolly Stadium) at 6-2-1, half a game ahead of 6-3 Winchester. The teams have nearly identical records and nearly identical results.

Both teams squeaked out season-openers against non-league teams. Woburn beat Medford 14-13 while Winchester edged Franklin 24-19. Both teams lost close games to the league's top preseason pick, Stoneham. Woburn fell on a last-minute field goal, 24-22 in Week 2, while Winchester lost 14-8 in Week 4.

The two were also sacrificial lambs to undefeated Reading, with Winchester getting mauled 36-0 in Week 3 and Woburn being dismissed 25-0 in its most recent outing.

The only other scars on the teams' slates are Woburn's 0-0 tie with Melrose and Winchester's 28-14 loss to Lexington. Before the loss at Reading, Woburn had gone 4-0-1 over a five-game stretch, yielding just seven points and racking up four straight shutouts. Winchester was an uncharacteristic 2-3 after five games, but has since reeled off four straight victories.

If there's any edge in this game, it may to go to Winchester, as the road team has won the last six between the arch-rivals, dating back to 1986.

Nelson, who is known for building up his opposition, had nothing but praise for the Sachems.

> "It's a friendly rivalry between two great teams, but for that 40 minutes on Thanksgiving morning both teams are going to try to kick each other's butt."
> Rocky Nelson
> Woburn head coach

"You've gotta give coach Donohue and his team a lot of credit," said Nelson. "I can't remember them ever losing three in a row before, and for them to come back like they have shows me a lot. They're coming in on a high, and we're coming in on a low."

The Tanners are led by junior running back Mike Wall, who has rolled to a school-record 1,238 yards thus far in '92. Stopping Wall is the absolute priority for Winchester's defense.

"The key is to stop Wall, or at least contain him," said Donohue. "First we need to stop him and get them in a passing situation, then we need to be able to rush the passer."

The passer in question is sophomore Steve Donaghey, the Tanners' quarterback of the future, who won the starting job with a terrific preseason camp. With the pressure of the Stoneham, Melrose and Reading

Winchester's captains courageous

Rauseo, Sachems have to step up to overcome loss of Szczepanski

By Jim McKenzie
SPORTS WRITER

When Winchester and Woburn meet for their traditional Thanksgiving Day clash, it's important to both teams that they have all of their players healthy.

Year after year, the teams are so evenly matched that any disruption to either team's starting lineup can result in an advantage to the other team.

So when Winchester lost starting fullback and starting inside linebacker and senior co-captain Mike Szczepanski due to a knee injury suffered in the Sachems' win over Watertown on Nov. 13, Winchester coach John Donohue was gravely concerned.

"When you lose a two-way starter who's also a co-captain, you lose quite a player," Donahue said. "Next to the quarterback, the wishbone fullback is the most important player out there in our offense."

Although Szczepanski has been Winchester's leading tackler and best fullback, Donohue was more concerned with the loss of his defensive field leader. All season long, Szczepanski has been the Sachem responsible for reading the offense and calling the plays signaled in from the Winchester bench. In addition to his physical and mental prowess, Winchester is also losing a player who personifies leadership on the field.

> "As a leader (Szczepanski's) still with us every day in practice on his crutches. The kids really appreciate the fact that he's there."
> John Donohue
> Winchester head coach

"Mike's always been there to keep everyone up," said junior Sean Furey, who will draw the starting assignment at inside linebacker in Szczepanski's absence. "It'll be my job to keep the enthusiasm up without him."

Brian Johnson, Winchester's big play inside 'backer, will team with Furey in trying to contain Woburn running back Mike Wall, who has rushed for over 1,200 yards already this season. He said the entire team will have to turn its game up without its senior captain.

"Everyone's gotta step up," said Johnson, who will handle the play calling for Winchester, "because it's going to be a great game."

On offense, no Sachem has withstood the pounding as well as Szczepanski. Though co-captain John Rauseo is the team's yardage and scoring leader, Szczepanski was often the one to get the call in important short-yardage situations. Rauseo says the team will most miss his fellow captain's work without the ball.

"His blocking on offense and his fake is the biggest thing we'll miss," said Rauseo, who has been the beneficiary of a bundle of those blocks. "We'll be inexperienced, but the guys will have to step up."

Donohue has selected rugged junior Andy Perenick as Szczepanski's replacement for the Woburn game, and said that although the 5-foot-11-inch, 190-pounder hasn't seen a lot of offense thus far, he has shown grit and determination on defense.

"Andy's done a real nice job so far," said Donohue. "He carried the ball several times in the Watertown game and helped his confidence. If he can concentrate on being the best fullback on the field on Thursday, he'll be fine."

Starting halfback Josh Carroll, a strong runner with good hands, will probably see time as Perenick's backup. He said the Sachems will miss Szczepanski's leadership, and cautioned that the team needed to hold onto the ball.

"He's our quiet leader out there," said Carroll, "and he doesn't turn the ball over. We can't turn the ball over at that spot. If we can be consistent on our reads and our blocks, we'll be all right."

One key factor concerning the Sachems' wishbone offense is that it requires several talented athletes to

Joe Bonasera, star of the 1967 Winchester High Thanksgiving Day victory over Woburn, races for a big gain in action from his senior season of 1968.

In 1967, Joe Bonasera led Winchester to a 14-8 victory over Woburn. Now, 25 years later, he finds he still has

That competitive spirit

Joe Bonasera took the opening kickoff on the 20, sidestepped two defenders, then roared down the sideline for an 80-yard touchdown on the opening play of the annual Winchester-Woburn Thanksgiving Day game in 1967, 25 years ago this week.

Although the play was called back to the Winchester 45, where it was ruled Bonasera had stepped out of bounds, the 5-foot-10-inch, 175-pound Sachem halfback had proved he was ready for this one.

Joe Bonasera was limping around his Winchester home the other day. It seems the former Winchester High and Bowdoin College star football player never got the game out of his blood. Every Sunday at 9 a.m., the 41-year-old Bonasera makes his way to Manchester Field for a spirited game of touch football.

The rest of the week, he limps.

"It's ridiculous," Bonasera's wife of 19 years, Marlene, says with a laugh. "Every Sunday he goes down there, plays his game and comes limping home. All week he limps around, then by Saturday he starts to feel better, and on Sunday he goes and does it all over."

> "Every time I see (former Woburn lineman Rick Crosby) I ask him to get the old Woburn guys together and I'll get the old Winchester guys together and we'll have a game of touch."

Football has been a big part of Joe Bonasera's life since junior high, when he played for future Winchester High School coach Manny Marshall at the McCall Middle School. He went on to star for Marshall at WHS, where, as a junior, he led the Sachems to victory in the Woburn game in 1967.

The game was played at Manchester Field that year, before a rain-soaked crowd of 5,000 loyal fans. Winchester went into the game with a record of 6-1-1 and was attempting to give first-year coach Marshall his first win in the Turkey Day Classic. Woburn, on the other hand, was after one last victory for retiring coach Walter White.

Neither team was able to generate much offense until Woburn fullback George Riley busted a 63-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. It was all Winchester after that.

Senior John Pirani, now a Winchester assistant, pounced on a Woburn fumble on the Tanner 41 late in the second quarter. Halfbacks Pete Knight and Bonasera and fullback Pirani alternated carries as the Sachems dented the Tanner defense. On second-and-7 from the Woburn 24, Marshall called a rare passing work well. While most high school teams are lucky to have one or two solid running backs, Winchester has a veritable stable of capable backs.

With Brian Lindmark, Darin Byrne and Ed Russo also running from the halfback slot, and defensive end Rob Celiberti ready to go if needed at fullback, the Sachems would appear to be ready to take on the Tanner defense.

"I think we're ready to go," said Donohue, "but we'll find out when we get a situation where we say 'oh, I wish Mike were there.' "

Szczepanski is planning to lend his emotional support from the sideline.

He has tried to remain a role model even while hobbled by the broken kneecap that is expected to sideline him from sports until the spring.

"As a leader he's still with us every day in practice on his crutches," Donohue said. "The kids really appreciate the fact that he's there."

One sight that will not be seen on Thanksgiving Day is John Rauseo (11) handing off to Mike Szczepanski. Szczepanski is injured and will be on the Winchester sideline on crutches.

Winchester-Woburn Thanksgiving Day Game

'92 season review

Game by game with Tanners, Sachems

Week One

Woburn 14, Medford 13

Junior running back Mike Wall showed the stuff that would make him the Tanners' single-season rushing leader before the year was out. He covered 179 yards on the ground as Woburn rallied from a 7-6 deficit to win its season opener. Quarterback Steve Donaghey was 8 of 13 for 77 yards and a touchdown in his varsity debut. Lineman Anthony Parziale stuffed Medford's two-point conversion attempt with 46 seconds left to preserve the win.

Winchester 24, Franklin 19

John Rauseo threw for 123 yards and a touchdown and ran for 146 yards and another score as the Sachems won their season opener on the road. Rauseo had two big gainers, a 51-yarder on the first play from scrimmage and a 65-yarder in the second quarter to set up two Sachem TDs.

Week Two

Stoneham 24, Woburn 22

Stoneham used a 34-yard field goal from Ryan Sullivan with 17 seconds left to beat the Tanners in Woburn. The game was tied at 14 at the half. The Tanners got a 24-yard TD run from Wall to go ahead, 22-21 late in the game. Stoneham then chewed up the clock with a long fourth-quarter drive, setting up Sullivan's heroics. Woburn coach Rocky Nelson called it "a classic high school football game."

Winchester 20, Burlington 7

Jumping out to a 20-0 halftime lead, Winchester moved to 2-0 behind a strong defensive effort and Rauseo's 166 yards rushing. Winchester totaled 327 yards of total offense, while Burlington's lone score came late in the fourth quarter of the Sachems' home opener at Knowlton Stadium.

Week Three

Woburn 18, Lexington 7

The Tanners bounced back from the Stoneham game with a solid all-around effort, beating another of the league heavies on the road. Woburn rolled up 212 yards rushing to just 34 for the Minutemen. Lexington scored against Woburn's subs on its last drive of the day.

Reading 36, Winchester 0

Undefeated Reading showed the league that it was for real by rolling over Winchester at Birch Meadow. The Rockets struck just over two minutes into the game en route to a 24-0 halftime bulge. Everything the Rockets tried worked; nothing the Sachems attempted succeeded.

Week Four

Woburn 33, Belmont 0

With Wall suffering from a slight ankle sprain, senior tailback Bill Candelario picked up the slack, rushing for 49 yards on nine carries. Homestanding Woburn benefitted from five Marauder turnovers as the defense began a streak of four straight shutouts.

Stoneham 14, Winchester 8

Trailing 14-0 with under five minutes remaining, Winchester almost stunned the undefeated Spartans, scoring once and driving to the Stoneham 8 before time ran out in the fourth quarter. Winchester had trouble getting the wishbone rolling against the mammoth Spartan defenders, but hung tough and almost pulled it out. Winchester's defense was superb.

Week Five

Woburn 0, Melrose 0

A thick fog blanketed Morelli Field throughout much of the evening's game between the 3-1 Tanners and 4-0 Melrose. Despite Wall's fifth straight game over 100 yards (123), the Tanners were unable to score. Defensive back Frank Hawkes stopped the best Melrose threat with an interception on the Woburn 7 late in the first quarter. The Tanners were driving late in the game but the clock ran out.

Lexington 28, Winchester 14

Winchester was unable to protect a 14-7, third-quarter lead, as Lexington quarterback Rashad Wilson took over and led the Minutemen to victory at Lexington. Winchester fell to 2-3 despite exceptional games from Josh Carroll and Darin Byrne.

Week Six

Woburn 23, Wakefield 0

The Tanner defense recorded its third straight shutout with an easy win at Wakefield. Wakefield outgained the Tanners and generally outplayed the visitors, but was stung by five turnovers. The Tanners raced to a 16-0 halftime lead behind two Donaghey TD passes and a safety. Donaghey finished 6 of 12 for 89 yards and three TDs.

Winchester 35, Belmont 14

After a meeting in which the coaches and players pledged to do everything in their power to go 5-0 down the stretch, senior captain Rauseo had an incredible game. The Sachem QB ran for 173 yards and a pair of scores, threw for two more and picked off two passes as Winchester regained the .500 mark.

Week Seven

Woburn 13, Watertown 0

A 21-yard Hawkes touchdown after he stripped Watertown QB Dan Hannon of the ball late in the first half was all the Tanners needed to defeat the Raiders at Victory Field. Wall rushed for 179 yards on 21 carries and Woburn extended its unscored-upon streak to four games.

Winchester 27, Wakefield 0

Winchester notched its first shutout, allowing just 77 yards of total offense in a home rout over winless Wakefield. Winchester rolled over the Warriors for 254 yards on the ground. Ed Russo's 15-yard TD run and Rauseo's 58-yard interception return were the highlights.

Week Eight

Woburn 19, Burlington 14

The Tanners led 19-0 at the half behind two Donaghey TD tosses and held on to beat stubborn Burlington under the lights at Connolly Stadium. Wall broke the 1000-yard barrier with a 161 yard effort, giving him 1142 yards for the season.

Winchester 28, Melrose 22

Winchester rallied from a 14-0 hole to stun the Red Raiders in the Sachems' last home game of the year. Once again Rauseo led the assault, rushing for 159 yards and two TDs, passing for one score, and breaking up a long pass late in the game to preserve the win.

Week Nine

Reading 25, Woburn 0

With two starting offensive linemen hurt, Woburn was unable to get its offense untracked against the Rockets. Reading took advantage of every mistake in running its record to 9-0.

Winchester 28, Watertown 7

The biggest play in this game occurred in the first series, as Winchester lost fullback Mike Szczepanski for the seaon with a right knee injury. Winchester got three TDs from running back Josh Carroll however, in rolling to an easy win at Watertown.

games already behind him, the 6-foot-4-inch Donaghey shouldn't be overcome by the hype surrounding the game.

Co-captain Luis Fonseca is the Tanner fullback, and will be counted on along with linemen Paul Quattrochi, Frank Hawkes, Brian O'Donnell, Dave Parella and John O'Brien to carve space for Wall. Scott Khourie and Brian Pollard are the Tanner tight ends.

Defensively, Woburn has been outstanding. The Tanners have allowed just 83 points, including the 25 against Reading. Woburn needs to contain Winchester's vaunted wishbone attack. A huge Tanner defensive front is led by the 245-pound O'Brien, 260-pound, two-year starter Anthony Parziale, 250-pound Joe McLaughlin and 240-pound Ray Colon.

The linebackers are Oscar Flores and Fonseca. Hawkes and Quattrochi are the corners, Khourie and O'Donnell the safeties, and Corey Dillon fills in on passing downs.

While Woburn needs a big day from Wall to be successful, Winchester has to run its wishbone to perfection. The loss of co-captain Mike Szczepanski (broken kneecap against Watertown) means QB John Rauseo will need help from some different names. At least seven Sachems are expected to get the call in the backfield.

The starting backfield will feature Rauseo along with halfbacks Josh Carroll and Brian Lindmark. Junior Andy Perenick draws the start at fullback, with Carroll and senior Rob Celiberti ready in relief. Senior Ed Russo and dynamic junior Darin Byrne will see plenty of playing time at halfback.

"We're really going to miss Mike at fullback," Donohue admitted, "but we're fortunate to have so many capable backs."

The offensive line will have its hands full with Woburn's mammoth defenders. The Sachem starters are 190-pound center Brian Bernazzani, guards Todd Miles (207) and Brendon Reardon (185), tackles Justin Simeone (230) and Gerard Fidalgo (250), and tight end Todd Sundstrom. Phil Reuland and Roy MacMillan, two starters who were injured during the season, should also play.

The defensive unit has matured dramatically since the season began, but will be missing the leadership of inside linebacker Szczepanski, the team's leading tackler and defensive play caller. Sean Furey will start in his place, with senior Brian Johnson, the other inside 'backer, making the calls.

The defensive line includes Reuland or sophomore Dan Boffo at nose guard, John Arsenault and Rob Barrile at defensive tackle, and Carroll and Celiberti at defensive end. Bob Donlan and Byrne are the corners, with Greg Carroll at strong safety and Scott Imperatore at free safety. Rauseo will see a lot of time in the defensive backfield as well.

Year after year, this game lives up to its expectations. Though neither team will be heading to the Super Bowl after this one, both coaches expect another classic.

"It's a friendly rivalry between two great teams," said Nelson, "but for that 40 minutes on Thanksgiving morning both teams are going to try to kick each other's butt."

NOTE: The game has been scheduled for Thanksgiving Day since 1928 (but not prior to then).

Winchester High halfback Joe Bonasera (16) follows fullback Peter Knight (15) for a big pickup in action from the 1968 season.

Competitive fire still burns within Bonasera play, and sophomore quarterback Mike Giliberti hit Bonasera all alone for a 24-yard scoring strike and, after the conversion, an 8-8 tie.

On the first Winchester play from scrimmage in the second half, the fiery Bonasera ripped off a 55-yard touchdown run. The defense held the rest of the way and Winchester had a 14-8 victory.

"Joe was a hell of a competitor," Marshall recalled. "I'll never forget him because it was our first Thanksgiving game and it was really a special day. It was great to start out with a win."

Besides Bonasera's obvious athletic skills, it was the drive and leadership he exhibited in his first Thanksgiving Day game that Pirani recalled.

"As a senior, I felt a certain burden of responsibility to be a leader," said Pirani. "But to see Joe and Mike Giliberti step up was really impressive. Joe was an incredibly intense competitor with tons of skill. Skill to burn."

Bonasera graduated near the top of his class in 1969 and moved on to Brunswick, Maine, and Bowdoin College. It didn't take him long to show that he had big-time talent. Starting at halfback as a sophomore in 1970, Bonasera broke Bowdoin's single-season rushing record. Then 5-10 and 185 pounds, the Winchester native carved a niche for himself in the Polar Bear record books by rushing for 874 yards as Bowdoin went 8-1.

"We had a very mature offensive line," he modestly recalled. "They were all seniors and all big. They made it real easy for me."

Regardless of the skill of his linemen, Bonasera was impressive enough in his three years as the Polar Bears' top runner to get invited to the New England Patriots' rookie camp in Tampa, Fla., in 1973.

> "That was rock 'em, sock 'em football. It was real fun."
> Joe Bonasera
> Former Winchester halfback

Though he was put on waivers, Marshall said that if circumstances had been a little different, Bonasera could have caught on with the Pats.

"Sam (Rutigliano, the longtime coach of the NFL's Cleveland Browns who was involved with New England in the early 1970s) told me one time that if the Pats had been stabilized, and hadn't been going through so many changes, they would have stayed with him," said Marshall. "He was that type of athlete and competitor."

Bonasera considered playing professionally in Canada, but he injured his knee in a motorcycle accident in the summer of 1973, ending those thoughts. He married his high school sweetheart, Marlene Fuccillo, and went to work at State Mutual (now All America Financial).

He went back to school soon after, earning his MBA at Northeastern and his masters in science of taxation from Bentley. Today, the Bonaseras have three children, all fine athletes in their own right. Sixteen-year-old Cara, a junior at the high school, 15-year-old Nicole, a sophomore, and 12-year-old Marlene, a seventh-grader at McCall, all excel at soccer in addition to several other sports.

Bonasera would love another shot at Woburn. He says the 20-14 loss to Woburn in 1968, when Winchester came in 9-0 and Woburn was just 3-6, still bothers him. A good friend of Bonasera is Rick Crosby, owner of Rick's cafe in Winchester Center, and a starting Tanner lineman in '68.

"I look back and I wish I could have the Woburn loss back," Bonasera said. "Every time I see Rick I ask him to get the old Woburn guys together and I'll get the old Winchester guys together and we'll have a game of touch."

Despite the loss to Woburn in 1968, his senior year, Bonasera has fond memories of his days at Winchester High.

"Those two years were great teams," said Bonasera. "That was rock 'em, sock 'em football. It was real fun."

Series has produced many memorable games

Woburn won last year, but Winchester holds edge in rivalry that began 101 years ago

This year's meeting between the Woburn Tanners and the Winchester Sachems will be the 88th in a series that began over 100 years ago. The series, which Winchester leads 45-32-10, has featured scores of memorable moments. Here are recaps from just a few of them.

101 years ago: 1891

Winchester 12, Woburn 0

No official records were kept of the first Winchester-Woburn matchup 101 years ago. All that is known is that a group of high school students from Winchester challenged a similar group from Woburn, with Winchester scoring twice while Woburn was unable to get much offense going.

Little did the players of that first game realize that their effort would be the basis for one of the longest-standing rivalries in the United States.

John Donohue and the Winchester Sachems were beaten by Woburn last year in a game attended by nearly 20,000 fans at Knowlton Stadium.

50 years ago: 1942

Winchester 13, Woburn 3

After three days and nights of steady rain, the 15th annual Thanksgiving Day game was played in a veritable mud bowl at Woburn Stadium. Woburn got on the board first when "Butter" Abreau's 40 yard "placement kick" just cleared the left-hand corner of the goal posts.

Down 3-0 at the half, Winchester roared back behind the play of fullback Bill West. West capped a 91-yard Red and Black drive with a 33-yard touchdown run straight up the middle. Bob "Chattanooga Choo Choo" Johnson took a handoff from Fatty Buzzotta and rumbled in from the 10 to put the game away for Winchester late in the fourth.

25 years ago: 1967

Winchester 14, Woburn 8

Coach Manny Marshall, succeeding the legendary Henry Knowlton, capped a successful first season with a 14-8 win over Woburn at Manchester Field. Halfback Joe Bonasera (see accompanying story) scored both Sachem touchdowns, and almost had a third, but his 80-yard return of the opening kickoff was called back to the Winchester 45, where he stepped out of bounds.

While Bonasera got the headlines, current Winchester assistant coach John Pirani also had a tremendous ball game. On numerous short-yardage situations, Pirani bulled his way forward, often carrying numerous Tanner defenders on his back.

Winchester 24, Woburn 14

Wide receiver and defensive back Mike Foley was the standout player in the '72 classic. Foley set up each of the four Sachem TDs with big plays. Backup quarterback Steve Johnson, starting in place of the injured Mike Heffernan, scored twice to lead Winchester to victory at Connolly Stadium.

Johnson hit Foley with a 23-yard pass to set up a 1-yard plunge by the Sachem QB as Winchester took a 6-0 lead to the locker room. Foley raced downfield and recovered a fumbled punt early in the third, setting the stage for another Johnson score. Dorian Wilson's 5-yard run late in the third and Foley's 17-yard, end-around reverse on fourth-and-7 midway through the fourth sealed the win for Winchester.

Woburn 28, Winchester 6

In front of 10,000 fans at Connolly Stadium, Woburn clinched a tie with Melrose for first place in the Middlesex League with a convincing victory over Winchester. Tailback Mike Mistretta was a thorn in the Sachems' side all day, scoring twice and rushing for 132 yards.

Winchester QB Chris Cahill passed for 128 yards, but Woburn's defense stuffed Winchester's ground game and came up with three interceptions. Tanner QB Pete Lennon passed for two TDs, giving him a school record of 12 for the season, while Mistretta went over the 1,000-yard mark rushing.

5 years ago: 1987

Woburn 24, Winchester 0

Undefeated Woburn was leading just 3-0 at the half but came out flying after the break behind the arm of quarterback Andy Gattuso. On third-and-4 from the Tanner 31 early in the third quarter, Gattuso hooked up with wideout Mike Mulrenan for a 69-yard scoring strike and the Tanners were off to the races.

Gattuso, who hit receiver Mike Donaghey with a 28-yard TD pass with four minutes left in the game, completed just five passes, but they were all bombs, going for 163 yards. The 10-0 Tanners advanced to the Super Bowl with the win.

1 year ago: 1991

Woburn 14, Winchester 7

One of the biggest crowds in the history of the game, nearly 20,000 at Knowlton Stadium, turned out to see the undefeated Tanners and the 8-1 Sachems battle for a playoff game berth. The winner would represent the Middlesex League in the Division 2B championship game.

Tanner quarterback Mike O'Reilly passed for two TDs while running back Cory Canada rushed for 119 yards to lead the Tanners to victory. The Sachems outgained Woburn, but three fumbles and two costly penalties ruined several opportunities for Winchester to put points on the board.

Morrison is Keene on scoring points

Ex-WHS hoop star sets school record

Former Winchester High All-Scholastic basketball player Mike Morrison is off to a fabulous start in his sophomore season at Keene (N.H.) State College.

COLLEGE NOTEBOOK

At the Days Inn Granite State Classic, held at New Hampshire College in Manchester last weekend, Morrison was named to the all-tournament team after scoring 69 points in just two games.

The Owl sophomore, who averaged 23 points per game and was named the Middlesex League's Most Valuable Player in 1991, netted 30 and grabbed nine rebounds in a 111-89 loss to St. Anselm last Friday, Nov. 20.

Morrison followed that up with a school record 39 points, including 12 three-pointers, in Keene's 138-108 loss to powerful New Hampshire College on Saturday. He canned 12 of 15 from behind the stripe.

"I like this style of play because it allows me to be more confident," Morrison said of coach Don Kelbick's up-tempo scheme. "It was just rolling off my hand tonight."

Kelbick, the Owls' ninth-year coach, wasn't shocked at Morrison's performance, even though Morrison averaged just 2.6 pointer per game as a freshman.

Said Kelbick, "I'm not at all surprised to see him hit the shots, because he works so hard on his shot in practice."

SPORTS BRIEFS

Learn to Skate rescheduled

The 1992 Winchester Youth Hockey Learn to Skate program has been tentatively rescheduled for Friday, Dec. 18, from 5-7 p.m.

The program teaches basic skating skills to children ages 3 and older. Among the skills which will be taught are skating forwards and backwards, hockey stops, snow-plow stops, puck control and directional control.

Skaters are divided into groups according to their ability. Older, more experienced skaters will be eligible to play clinic hockey games as their skills improve.

For more information, including an application, contact Winchester Youth Hockey, P.O. Box 145, Winchester, 01890, or call Ron Martignetti at 720-1313.

Winchester Badminton begins 60th season

The Winchester Badminton Club, one of Winchester's oldest continuing organizations, has started its 60th season.

The club is a recreational organization open to all adults and meets twice weekly, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings (7:30-9:30), at the McCall Junior High School on Main Street in Winchester.

If interested, players may attend any session, or for more information contact Ray Jenkins of the Winchester Badminton Club at 729-0807.

COMING EVENTS

WHAT'S GOING ON IN YOUR AREA IN THE COMING WEEKS

Local breastfeeding support group

La Leche League of Winchester, a support group for breast-feeding mothers, holds meetings on the third Tuesday of each month in the Michelson Room of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Nursing mothers are welcome to attend with their babies. Pregnant women considering breastfeeding are also encouraged to attend.

The Winchester meeting is open to mothers from any community. Local group leaders are available to answer questions and provide information both at the monthly meetings and by telephone.

La Leche League is an international nonprofit organization whose purpose is to offer help and mother-to-mother support to women wanting to breastfeed their babies. The local group meetings provide an opportunity for nursing mothers to meet informally and share their experiences.

A lending library of books on childbirth, breastfeeding and child care is also available to members. For further information, call Nancy, at 729-1163, or Sophia, at 396-7329.

Free morning and evening beginner step classes

The Energy Connection is offering one-half hour of free beginner step on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. at the Jenks Center and on Fridays at 9 a.m. at Crawford Methodist Church. Come and learn the basics of this great conditioning workout. Steps are provided. The Energy Connection has a full schedule of morning and evening fitness classes. For information call Marie Dacey at 729-7268 or Linda Vacovec at 729-3256.

'Come walk with us!'

That's the message from Sen. Charlie Shannon, Alderman at Large Grace Abruzzio, Somerville News Publisher Bob Publicover, Governor's Councillor elect Dot Gay, homemaker Betty LaValley, Nurse Joan Coakley, Lotus employee Arnold Currier and 10-year-old Samantha Schaejbe.

All of these folks from the Boston area will be taking part in the "Great Walk Down Broadway" on Sunday, Nov. 29. It's a fund-raising pledge walk sponsored by the Committee For A Response To AIDS to raise money to help the committee's many programs that reach out to those with AIDS and HIV infection.

The 'Great Walk' will begin at Broadway, just beyond the Foodmaster store and proceed three miles right down Broadway to the Charlestown line. After the walk coffee and refreshments will be served to all pledged walkers by the folks at the Mt. Vernon Restaurant at 14 Broadway.

Registration for the walk will be at the starting line from non to 1 p.m. with the 'Walk' starting at 1 p.m. All pledge money can be turned in at that time. Any walker who turns in $150 will receive a special "Great Walk Down Broadway" T-shirt. Youth (under 14) who bring in $60 will also receive a T-shirt. Every walker who turns in pledges will receive a unique walk souvenir.

There are prizes too. The individual walker who turns in the highest amount of pledges will receive a round trip airline ticket anywhere in the continental U.S.A. donated by the Somerville News. There are also prizes for the group bringing in the most money as well as for the oldest and youngest walkers.

Don't want to walk? You can run, bike, jog, unicycle, rollerblade. Take your pick, just get out there and collect those pledges in advance. Groups or clubs are welcome to walk together and even carry their group's banner.

Massachusetts Attorney General L. Scott Harshbarger is serving as honorary chairman of the event. Harshbarger noted, "AIDS is a disease that affects each and every one of us. It is our job, our duty to reach out and help in any way that we can. I urge you to take the time to care and walk on Nov. 29."

The Committee For A Response To AIDS sponsors the Thursday Night Dinner Program, the AIDS Food Kart, the PWA Loan and Gift funds and the ICARE Children's Fund among their work.

UNICEF cards to go on sale

UNICEF greeting cards and gift items will be on sale at two Winchester locations this Christmas season. They will available at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Nov. 21 through Dec. 13. Opening time will be at noon on Sundays.

UNICEF items will also be available at the Jenks Senior Center Mondays through Fridays, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. from Nov. 30 through Dec. 11.

Sending UNICEF Christmas greetings has become a tradition for people the world over who want to celebrate the spirit of the season by helping children most in need. Through the sponsorship of Church Women United, volunteers from eight Winchester churches will staff the display tables at the Jenks Center and at Mahoney's.

Kidstock offers winter theater program

Kidstock Youth Theater continues its year-round creative theater opportunities with a full schedule of winter activities slated to begin the first week in January. Classes and productions for students K-12 are available on a first-come registration basis with a maximum class size of 15. This is an ideal chance for young people to participate in a live-theater experience on all levels in a small, hands-on educational atmosphere. Original productions are created by students and staged for the public with sets and costumes of their own design. Kidstock is directed by Brian Milauskas and is located at 750 Main St., above Maria's Antiques, across from White Hen Pantry and next to Ballet Arts Centre. For more information on the unique programs, call Kidstock, at 729-5-KID, or visit the open house on Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 3 to 7 p.m. Registration for all winter sessions begins Dec. 7 by phone or mail.

Sports Foundation to hold annual drive

Save your pennies! The Winchester Sports Foundation is planning another Penny Drives for this fall on Saturday, Dec. 5. The collection will be held at the transfer station from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The pennies (and other coins and bills) collected will be used to help fund the sports programs at Winchester High School. Please be generous and save your change for our young athletes. If you have pennies, other coins and bills you would like picked up by a foundation member, call Pat and Peter Minihane at 729-0672 or Dot Butler at 729-8436.

Mary Arapoff gives free Christmas concert at St. Eulalia's Church

Soprano Mary Arapoff will sing an Advent Christmas concert on Dec. 7, at 8:30 p.m. at St. Eulalia's Church, 50 Ridge St. She will be accompanied by Brian Moll, organist and pianist. This holiday celebration tells the story through Scripture of the world in darkness and the journey into the light found in Bethlehem. The music featured will be carols and solos of Bach, Handel, Cornelius, Reger and others with audience participation throughout.

This concert is free and wheel chair accessible.

Arapoff has recently returned from her third concert tour of Italy. Critics call her performances "dramatically stunning" and describe her voice as "mystical and melodic; song becomes prayer."

This concert will have special appeal for families and all ages. For information call 729-8220.

John and Catherine Reidy

Catherine Skahan is bride of John Reidy

Catherine Victoria Skahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Skahan Jr. of Winchester, became the bride of John Gerald Reidy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Reidy of Kenslington, MD.

Father Gerald Petringa officiated at the ceremony held at St. Eulalia's Church in Winchester on Oct. 3. A reception followed. Deirdre Skahan, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Deborah Skahan, sister of the bride, Rebecca Bach, Cecilia McTigue, and Elizabeth Moshang.

The best man was James Reidy, brother of the groom. Ushers were Thomas Reidy, Daniel Reidy, both brothers of the groom, Eric Hartmann, John Stadtler and Andrew Thompson.

The bride is a 1984 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1988 graduate of the University of Notre Dame. She graduated from Boston College Law School in 1992.

The groom is a 1984 graduate of Winchester High School, a 1988 graduate of Villanova University and received his Masters degree, in environmental engineering in 1992 from Northeastern University.

The couple are living in Arlington.

Maura Cullen is bride of Mark Nolin

Maura Cullen was married to Mark Ronald Nolin on Saturday, September 19, at Saint Joseph's Church in Medford. Father Robert Fountain and Father Norman Boulet performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the Medford Boat Club in Medford.

The bride is the daughter of Mary and Edward Cullen, formerly of Winchester. The groom is the son of Ronald and Anne Nolin of Acuschnet.

Given away by her father, the bride chose her sister Ann Cullen as her matron of honor, and Andrea Kenerson, friend, as maid of honor. Beth Ronan, friend, served as a bridesmaid.

Chris Nolin, brother of the groom, served as best man. Performing usher duties were Matthew Nolin, brother of the groom, and Brian Boyle, friend.

The bride is a graduate of Northeastern University and works in the deaf program at the Hayden School in Dorchester.

The groom is a graduate of Northeastern University and works at Mount Auburn Hospital in Cambridge as a physical therapist.

The couple honeymooned on a Caribbean cruise and will reside in Medford.

Maura and Mark Nolin

Richard and Kathleen Beauchesne

Kathleen Fitzgerald is bride of Richard Beauchesne

Kathleen Ann Fitzgerald, daughter of Robert and Nora Fitzgerald of Winchester, recently exchanged marriage vows with Richard Beauchesne, son of Mrs. David Bergeron and the late Richard Beauchesne of Lewiston, Maine, at St. Mary's Church. Father Paul Kelly performed the double ring ceremony. A reception followed at the Robert Treat Paine Estate.

The bride was given away by her father, and chose Susan Van Note, sister of the bride as her Matron of Honor. Bridesmaids included Michele Engle, Kathleen Scully and Alison Sughrue, friends of the bride.

Robert Beauchesne, brother of the groom, served as best man. Performing ushers duties were Donald Beauchesne, brother of the groom, and David Gregoire and William Engle, friends of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Indiana University. She teaches second grade in Gorham, Maine.

The groom is a graduate of University of Notre Dame and University of Maine School of Law. He is an associate with the law firm of Peters and Randlett of Lewiston, Maine.

Following a trip to the Bahamas, the couple are residing in Portland, Maine.

OBITUARIES

Marjorie E. Nichols

Marjorie E. (Ensminger) Nichols died Friday, Oct. 16, in Ledgewood Nursing Home, Beverly. She was 93.

Born in Harrisburg, Pa., Nichols was raised and educated in Lewisbury, Pa. At the time of her marriage in 1920, she and her husband settled in Boston, moving to Winchester in 1928.

A Winchester resident for more than 50 years, Nichols had been a member of the Florence Crittnon Association, the Winchester Garden Club and the Winton Club, where she had been an office holder.

Wife of the late Loring P. Nichols, she leaves her daughter, Cynthia Mutterperl of Wenham; her son, William S. Nichols of Concord; seven grandchildren; and one great-grandson.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, Nov. 28, at 1 p.m. in the Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church, Winchester.

Donations may be made to the Winton Club Memorial Fund, c/o Alice Perkins, 20 Ware St., Winchester, MA 01890.

Arrangements were made by the Peterson-O'Donnell Funeral Home, Danvers.

Jacqualin C. Heffernan

LOCAL AGENT

Jacqualin C. Heffernan, who worked in sales for five years at Hunneman and Co. of Winchester, died Saturday, Nov. 21, in Winchester Hospital. She was 60.

Born in Evanston, Ill., Heffernan moved to Winchester in 1967. She worked for a time at the First Congregational Church in Winchester, and was a member of Winchester Swim Club, the Winton Club and the Enka Society.

While her children were attending school, Heffernan was involved in the Vinson Owen Elementary School activities, and, more recently, volunteered at the Fernald School. She also had been a member of the Quail Ridge Country Club in Boynton Beach, Fla.

She leaves her husband, John W. Heffernan; her sons, John W. Heffernan Jr. of Westchester, Ohio, Michael B. Heffernan of California and Daniel P. Heffernan of Boston; her daughters, Kathleen H. Fallon of Westbrook, Maine; two nieces; one nephew; and eight grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday, Nov. 25, in St. Eulalia's Church, Winchester.

Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery, Winchester.

Donations may be made to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, MA 02116.

Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Service, Winchester.

First Congregational school spearheads 'Children-to-Children Mission Project'

"How many bags of groceries do you buy in a month? Would you be willing to donate one of those bags to help a child become well nourished and healthy?" That is the challenge being presented to the members of the First Congregational Church of Winchester by their 150 Church School students from age 3 through 6th grade.

On Sunday, Nov. 15, church school classes distributed specially decorated grocery bags to the congregation. The bags were donated by the Purity Supreme Supermarket in Winchester. Everyone was asked to fill their bags with items from a list of nutritious foods and return it on Celebration Sunday, Nov. 22, during a special Intergenerational Thanksgiving Worship Service. The food items collected will help to restock the Food Pantry at the Failure to Thrive Clinic at Boston City Hospital.

"Failure to Thrive" refers to children who do not grow at the rate expected for their age and sex. The most likely cause is malnutrition, leading to increased risk of infection, chronic growth failure, and developmental and behavioral disorders. Most of the children referred to the clinic are under 18 months of age and come from low income neighborhoods. At the clinic they and their families receive a variety of medical, psychological, and social services. Once a child has become malnourished he or she needs to eat 1½ to 2 times as much as a normal child of the same age to regain the growth deficit. To help families meet their nutritional needs, the Failure to Thrive Food Panty distributes government surplus and other nutritious food donated by churches and synagogues.

Because of economic conditions, the Failure to Thrive Clinic's resources are being stretched to their limits. They have had to triage their services — treating some children on the basis of urgency or chance for survival, and placing others on a waiting list. The church school invites the entire community to join with them in reaching out to these children by picking up a grocery bag in the ground floor reception area, filling it generously, and returning it to the church office by Nov. 29.

Community invited to Thanksgiving service

As part of the Thanksgiving service to be held by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester, on Thursday, Nov. 26 at 10:30 a.m., a Bible Lesson will be read by two lay readers which will include the following verse from Colossians: "And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him."

Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, writes in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, "Christ's Christianity is the chain of scientific being reappearing in all ages, maintaining its obvious correspondence with the Scriptures and uniting all periods in the design of God."

In addition to readings from the Bible and Science and Health, time will be given for testimonies of gratitude by Christian Scientists.

Thanksgiving falls during National Bible Week, which runs from Nov. 22 to 29. This celebration reminds us of the Bible's importance to individuals and in the history, life, and culture of America. It also encourages increased reading and study of the Bible.

Local members of the Christian Science Church invite the community to join them in giving thanks to God this Thanksgiving Day at 10:30 a.m., in the church ediface at 114 Church Street. Care will be available for children too young to attend the service, and no collection will be taken.

Second Congregational holds services for meditation

The Second Congregational Church in Winchester will offer a series of times when the community can gather for prayer and quiet meditation. Each Wednesday in December at noon, the church will be open for people who want to gather for reflection, the reading of poetry and scripture. Music will be provided by instrumental musicians, a cello and recorder ensemble. This series will be held Dec. 2, 9, 16, and 23.

It is designed to help people reduce stress in one of the most frantic times of the year. The series is designed to help people find a calm center and a spiritual perspective to the holiday season. The series is open to the community and all are welcome to attend. The Second Congregational Church is located at 485 Washington St., at the corner of Washington and Cross streets in Winchester. For direction please call 729-1688.

RECREATION NEWS

Programs for Children

Students can make wooden wonders

In this class, students in grades 3-5 can chose to make one of two wooden projects with instructor, Linda Cassino. The first is a Keepsake Wooden Box, which is ideal for holding baseball cards or jewelry. The second is a Personalized Door Plaque with your name on it. Students who choose this project will also make a matching light switch. Please specify at time of registration which project you will be working on. A $10 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class.

This class will be offered in two different schools. Muraco School will have a class on Friday, Dec. 11 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The course number for that class is 925-ES-05B and has a registration fee of $9. Ambrose School will have a class on Friday, Dec. 4 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The course number for that class is 925-ES-05A and has a registration fee of $9. Please call the Recreation Department for more information.

"My Time" — a time for everyone

"My Time" is a new program designed for children walking to 5 years of age. "My Time" is a time for children to meet other children, do arts and crafts, learn new stories and songs and have an enjoyable morning or afternoon. "My Time" is also a time for the parent to go shopping, visit a friend, have time to yourself while knowing that your child is having a fun day in a safe, friendly environment.

The instructor, Annette Kennedy is well known in town for her work with pre school children. "My Time" will be run on Tuesdays, Dec. 1, 8, 15 and 22 at the Library Meeting Room. Parents may pick either the morning session, 9:30 a.m. to noon or the afternoon session, 12:30 to 3 p.m. Children may come for one, two or three days, morning or afternoon session at a cost of $12 a day/session or save over 10 percent by enrolling in all four days at a total cost of $43. There is a discount for the second child when enrolling siblings. The Recreation Department is very excited about this program. Please call us at 721-7125 for more information.

Sweet Treats can be made

"The Candyman can ... ," and you can too! Students in grades 3-5 will make one pound of delicious candies to take home in festive holiday shapes. As the candies chill, the instructor, Linda Cassino will help you create a fabric-covered gift box to display your work. A $9 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the class. Choose one of two sessions.

Course number 925-ES-07A will take place on Dec. 3 from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. Course number 925-ES-07B will take place on Dec. 17 from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. Both classes are held on Thursdays at the Lynch School and have a registration fee of $10.

Students in grades 3-5 ski Nashoba Valley

Come with the Recreation Department to the Nashoba Valley Ski area and learn to ski or perfect your skills. This 6-week program includes four weeks, Jan. 7, 21, 28 and Feb. 11 when we leave Winchester at 3:15 p.m. and two Thursdays, Jan. 14 and Feb, 4, release days, when we leave at 1 p.m. We return by 6:30 p.m. each day. The $129 fee includes lift ticket, Winchester ski headband, a 1-hour lesson each day, and transportation.

The $35 transportation fee is non-refundable after Dec. 24. Santa Claus is coming!

Now that Thanksgiving is here our minds naturally turn to the holiday season that is fast approaching. To help us get into the Christmas spirit the Recreation Department is bringing someone very special to Winchester. Don't miss out on the opportunity to have your child or yourself photographed with Santa Claus. He will be visiting the Topsy Turvy Store at 528 Main Street just before the Tree Lighting Ceremony on Thursday, Dec. 3 between 3 and 6 p.m. Money collected will go towards the Recreation Department's Program Scholarship Fund. Fee is $5. Children may visit with Santa at no charge.

Students in Madeline's "Christmas Wreath" class show off their work. Madeline will be teaching "Christmas Tree's" on Dec. 9

Christmas trees for children

Join Madeline DiCiccio as you will decorate two special Christmas trees: one for your own room and one to give away. They will be filled with flowers, ribbons, and other festive decorations. This class is for children in grades 3-5 and will take place at the Vinson Owen School on Wednesday, Dec. 9 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. An $11 materials fee made payable to the instructor will be collected at the first class. This one session class has a course number of 925-ES-03A and requires a $9 registration fee.

Programs for Adults

Drop-in afternoon Step aerobics

Feeling tired at the end of the day? Revitalize yourself by exercising with us on Wednesday afternoons. This class consists of a warm-up, strength and flexibility exercises, an aerobic component utilizing the Reebok Step, and a relaxing cool down. Participants are encouraged to work at their own pace and are always welcome to walk around the room during the aerobic component. Class is held at Lynch School on Wednesday, from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. for the next 6 weeks. Fee is $4.50 per visit.

Co-Ed volleyball

Come enjoy a great game of volleyball! Teams will be formed by the participants to maximize the fun. Volleyball is held every Wednesdays, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Lynch School. Groups meet only when school is in session. Volleyball will not take place on Wednesday, Nov. 25 and will resume the following Wednesday. Fee is $2 per week.

Make a beautiful Victorian tree

Because our first class filled up so quickly, we have added an additional date for this popular class. Decorate a beautiful, miniature, 15-inch Christmas tree with roses, baby's breath, berries, dried flowers, ribbons, and pearls. To enhance your holiday experience, you may scent your finished design with balsam fragrance. Please bring a glue gun, scissors and wire clippers. A $30 materials fee is payable to the instructor. This workshop takes place on Monday, Nov. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the High School cafeteria. The fee is $18.

Make your own door wreath

In this one-night class, you will make a special holiday wreath filled with a bounty of beautiful Christmas delights for your front door. This wreath will grace your door at the holidays for years to come! Please bring a glue gun, scissors, and wire clippers. A $55 materials fee is payable to the instructor. Course will be held on Monday, Nov. 23, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the High School. Fee is $18.

Tulle Christmas tree

Create a lovely table top decoration to keep or give as a holiday gift. Make this elegant tree to suit your own decorating style. The room decoration is well suited to all styles of homes — from country to contemporary. Please bring scissors and a yard stick to the class. A $10 materials fee is payable to instructor. Class will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 1, from 6:30-9:30 p.m. in the High School. Fee is $18.

Buche De Noel

You have heard about Buche de Noel. Now you will learn how to make this fabulous Yule Log from scratch using a classic French recipe including butter cream filling and traditional decorations. A $10 food fee is payable to the instructor. Class will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the High School.

Business Spotlight

American Gutter Cleaning & Installation Co. of Cambridge believes in family values.

As a family-run business, American Gutter Cleaning & Installation Co. knows how strongly its customers feel about family values as well. American Gutter Cleaning & Installation Co. was established five years ago by Joe Rocha at the suggestion of a close family friend, Mike Stevens of Ned Stevens Gutters in New Jersey. Joe runs the business with his wife, Carol, brother Tony (the project manager) and a highly trained and qualified staff. "The Company gives your family the quality and respect you deserve by putting their family's ideas in everything for you." said Joe.

With fall approaching, leaves will soon turn brown and drop into gutters, which means they will have to be cleaned. "As a homeowner, you realize that if gutters aren't cleaned at least once or twice a year, your chances of causing interior water damage to your home are greater," Joe said. "It is very important to have your gutters cleaned and inspected for minor repairs before the New England snow and ice arrive."

American Gutter Cleaning and Installation Co. offers reasonable prices, ranging from $35 to $75 for an average house. Gift certificates are available. Special rates are available for wood gutters. American Gutter Cleaning & Installation Co. also offers gutter screening and chimney caps.

American Gutter and Cleaning & Installation Co. can be reached at: 1-800-322-1920 or 617-354-2231

CROSS STITCH CHRISTMAS BORDERS

Christmas is a special time of the year that inspires many happy embroiderers to take needle in hand and create holiday gifts and decorations with counted cross stitch. Using our new 18-page guidebook with step-by-step instructions, you, too, can create a variety of designs reflecting moods from sweet to sophisticated. Although the designs pictured here are stitched horizontally, many of them can be attractively worked vertically as well.

Arlington • Belmont • Watertown • Winchester

Rental & Apartment Living Q&A

by Robert Bowes, Scanlan & Bowes, Realtors

Q. I anticipate that the rental unit that I own will soon become vacant. My tenant has been there for twelve (12) years and I am very unfamiliar with leases, forms and tenancies.

A. In a few words, I will try to make you as comfortable with your concerns as you have been with your tenant.

There are three (3) general categories of leases: Fixed Term, Self Extending and Tenancy-At-Will. Although all three reflect the amount of rent to be paid, the obligations of Landlord and Tenant, a description of the leased premises and an explanation of how utilities, taxes and other costs are paid, the major difference is how the term of the lease is defined.

FIXED TERM: Has a specific start/end date. In our area, most fixed term leases are for one year. At the end of the lease, the Tenant and Landlord end their relationship, unless a new lease is negotiated. No notice to vacate is required by either party. This form of lease must be in writing.

SELF-EXTENDING: This is the most popular lease used today. Although the lease has a specific beginning and ending date, the lease automatically extends for an additional period. The duration of the extended time is negotiated at the time of the signing of the original lease. Standard leases usually make the extended term for one year. Quite regularly, this is modified from year to year to month to month. The Self-Extending Lease requires that either party give notice to the other, within a specified time frame, if either the lease is not to be renewed or there is a change in terms. This form of lease must be in writing.

TENANCY-AT-WILL: Has a specific start date, but no specific ending date. Either party may give notice to terminate or change terms at any time, usually by giving notice equal to one rental period, typically one month. This form of lease usually provides the least security and comfort for Landlord and Tenant. Although it can be verbal or written, a written lease often times clarifies issues and results in fewer disputes and misunderstandings.

Whichever type of lease/tenancy that you choose, it is important to remember the necessity of including all information in the lease. A properly drafted and well thought out lease can give you a great deal of satisfaction and will likely cause the Landlord and Tenant to have a much healthier and happier relationship.

Lastly your local Realtor, who provides rental services can be very helpful in offering you guidance and information in all aspects of leasing.

DEALER • PROFILE

Bernardi Mitsubishi

Location: 671 Worcester Road, Natick.

History: Bernardi Mitsubishi owned by Jim Carney, is the only Mitsubishi dealership in the area.

The dealership expanded from Bernardi Honda and motorcycle sales, and developed into two separate dealerships. Bernardi Honda moved to 521 Worcester Road, and the motorcycle sales remained at the current location. In the late 1980's Bernardi dropped the motorcycle line due to lack of profitability and in April, 1991, accepted the Mitsubishi franchise.

Now in two different locations Bernardi Honda and Bernardi Mitsubishi fall in line with the other Jim Carney dealerships as the fastest growing dealerships in New England.

Types of Cars Sold: All makes and models of Mitsubishi and used cars.

Mitsubishi Mirage

Coupe LS is stylish blend of fun and affordability

Automobile buyers who have subcompact sedans on their shopping lists generally fall into one of two categories: conservative and budget-conscious consumers who desire an economical choice for family transportation or entry-level drivers who seek style, fun and performance within the affordable range of their pocketbooks. Mitsubishi has an answer for both.

For 1993, Mitsubishi Motors has created the completely redesigned Mirage in two distinct models: a handsome and sophisticated four-door sedan for the first buyer category and a sporty two-door coupe that caters almost exclusively to the second group — youthful car shoppers who want contemporary flair without a 'big ticket sting.'

Mitsubishi Motors has created the completely redesigned Mirage in two distinct models: a handsome and sophisticated four-door sedan and a sporty two-door coupe.

'Cool,' because the Mirage Coupe is a stylish ride that is not motivated by necessity alone. It is a car that lets you be responsible and look good doing it. That is the way Mitsubishi engineers designed this refined new automotive package.

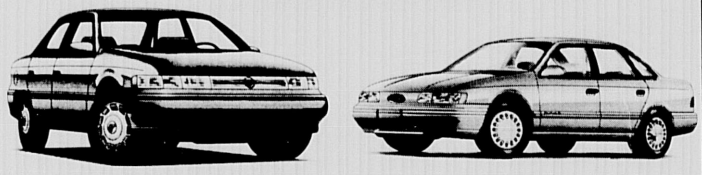

The five-passenger Mirage Coupe is offered in a choice of three trim levels:

entry level subcompact that offers high value, attractive appearance and economical operation, all with a modest price. It offers fun and sportiness in addition to quality and reliability.

Mirage Coupe ES features more exterior appeal with color-key trim and more interior comfort and convenience. This will appeal to young, single, budget-conscious buyers seeking more, but still concerned with obtaining the best buy for their money.

Mirage Coupe LS features a standard rear spoiler, five-spoke alloy wheels and color-key exterior trim to attract young predominantly male professionals who seek an aggressive, sporty, fresh style that is compatible with their limited disposable incomes.

While the previous generation Mirage earned a proud heritage in the subcompact category through its durable, economical and fun-to-drive characteristics, Mirage for 1993 builds on this heritage with a number of engineering advances.

In addition to a ground-up redesign of the chassis, body and interior, improvements have been made in the transmission, brakes, build quality and the integrity of the chassis and body — with extensive use of anti-corrosion steel, as well as incorporation of an innovative new four-wheel independent suspension system that includes a new multi-link rear suspension design to deliver exceptional handling and ride.

Thoughtful applications of environmental automotive engineering, such as use of recyclable components and asbestos-free materials, further contribute to the contemporary design of Mirage.

At the heart of the all-new Mirage Coupe front-wheel drive platform is a transverse-mounted single overhead-cam (SOHC) 1.5-liter four-cylinder engine that produces 92 bhp at 6,000 rpm and 93 lbs.ft. of torque at 3,000 rpm. Responsive performance is enhanced by Mitsubishi's ECI-Multipoint sequential fuel injection system and a precision microprocessor-controlled ignition. An advanced three-valve per cylinder combustion chamber design is also a feature in this powerplant and contributes to an excellent

Marlboro resident is lucky winner in $10,000 giveaway

Auto Weekly, the Marlboro resident simply replied, "I haven't won it - yet."

But when he turned the key in the sleek, black Pontiac Bonneville SSE, provided by RH Long Motors of Framingham, the sound of the finely tuned engine brought a surprised, bright red blush to his cheeks.

As his wife Rose screamed and jumped up and down in delight, Wilson emerged from the car, unable to wipe the ear-to-ear grin from his face.

Wilson joined eight other lucky contestants in the game-show-like event last Friday in the parking lot of the Middlesex News. But he wasn't the only one to leave smiling.

He had admitted the day before his luck came that he would have been sad if he lost, and was hoping the losers would at least receive a consolation prize, a free dinner somewhere "for me and the bride," his wife of 31 years.

The not-so-lucky contestants - Joseph O'Brien of Wellesley, Virginia Boudreau of Natick, Sandra Meiler of Hopkinton, Richard Nicholson of Natick, Marie Aline Murphy of Marlboro, Elizabeth Moon of Wayland, Karen Ward of Framingham and Cheryl Landau of Framingham - did receive gift certificates to area restaurants as consolation prizes.

But they didn't all feel defeated by the loss. O'Brien received a conciliatory hug from his wife, Muffi, but handled the tension-filled loss as a true sportsman.

"It was the best change I had to win something," he said. "I had a one-in-nine chance. And it was fun. It was a wonderful idea."

It was more than idea for Wilson, who had dropped off his entry form at Glick Nissan in Westboro, where he test drove a brand-new Altima, a step up from his 1992 Stanza. But he really had his eye on the Maxima, he said, and took a very close look at the one in the lot at the Middlesex News.

It was difficult for the contestants not to dream about one of the shiny, black vehicles, provided by RH Long, Framingham; Herb Connolly Buick, Framingham; Tucks Truck Sales, Hudson; Framingham Ford, Framingham; Imperial Chevrolet, Milford; Saturn of Natick; Glick Nissan; Toyota of Wellesley; and Bernardi Honda, Audi, VW and Bernardi Mitsubishi of Natick, positioned in a semi-circle waiting for the eager key holders to try their luck.

With the "go" signal, each inserted a key into the vehicle and turned. But only one of the nine keys would find a home. Wilson just happened to be lucky that day.

With the "go" signal, each inserted a key into the vehicle and turned. But only one of the nine keys would find a home. Wilson just happened to be lucky that day.

During the days leading up to the final event, however, the dealerships involved in the give-away all experienced a taste of the excitement.

"This event really increased traffic in the showroom," said Jerry Chase Jr., general manager of Framingham Ford. "A lot of people came in with the clipping, feeling lucky. Everybody believes in the lottery. They believe in their hearts they're a winner. They give it their best shot, and when they're here, they look around.

"They may want to finance a car or pay cash, but if they win, they'll come back with a check from (Harte-Hanks Community Newspapers)," Chase said. "Anything that brings the spirit of people feeling lucky just adds to good feelings and generates consumer confidence."

The contest "definitely brought in more traffic," agreed Kevin Meehan, manager of Imperial Chevrolet Geo. "And whoever wins," he said optimistically, "will go for the Chevy, because dollar for dollar, they're the best buy in the country."

"Anything that increases floor traffic is a plus," said Frank Higgins, used car manager at Glick Nissan.

Don Cregg, general manager at Herb Connolly Buick, was just as positive. "It got (people) in here to allow us to show them the product. Hopefully, we'll capture a couple of them. Anything that brings customers into the showroom is a worthwhile thing," he said.

Mark O'Mara, general sales manager of Toyota of Wellesley agreed. "They took a look. They took some test drives. I think people came in who wouldn't have come in otherwise," he said.

The dealers may not have made any sales on the spot when the contestants dropped off their entry forms, said Bill Leland, general sales manager at RH Long Motors. "But they asked questions. We always look down the road and see that when people come in and get treated nicely, we know we will sell cars in the future. This is something we would absolutely do again," he said.

And it's something Wilson will do again as well. And yes, he has already filled out and mailed his entry to the Publisher's Clearinghouse Sweepstakes. You just never know.

"Anything that brings the spirit of people feeling lucky just adds to good feelings and generates consumer confidence."

How to evaluate an automotive service facility

There are more than 200,000 automotive service facilities in the United States providing mechanical, auto body and transmission repairs.

These businesses often vary greatly in the range of services they offer and the quality of repairs performed. You can, however, take the guesswork out of finding a good automotive service facility to repair your vehicle just by following some basic guidelines.

The Automotive Service Association (ASA), a national non-profit trade organization, recommends using the following guidelines to help choose the right service business.

Ask whether the technicians are ASE-certified or I-CAR trained. If technicians are ASE-certified, it means they have passed a voluntary competency test offered by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE). If a body technician or painter is I-CAR trained, it means they have attended a course or a series ocourses offered by the Inter-Industry Conference on Auto Collision Repair (I-CAR) to help upgrade their repair skills.

Businesses with trained personnel are likely to display these and other certificates or diplomas in their customer waiting areas. If a vehicle's air conditioning system is in for repair, inquire about certification of the personnel who will perform the service.

As of Jan. 1, 1992 federal law requires businesses that performed more than 100 air conditioning repairs in 1990 to have their technicians certified in the proper use of refrigerant recycling equipment.

Ask about the facility's industry and consumer affiliations. For example, a business that is a member of ASA has agreed to uphold the association's Code of Ethics, which sets the standards for professionalism in the automotive service industry.

These members can be identified by the red, white and blue ASA sign. In addition, check with consumer organizations, such as the Better Business Bureau (BBB), to determine the facility's reputation in handling consumer complaints.

Expect the automotive service facility to be neat, clean and well-organized. The flow of existing work should be almost unnoticeable. Under normal circumstances, the business should handle customers and vehicles with little or no delay. Note whether the employees are helpful and courteous. This will give you an idea of how you will be treated throughout the repair of your vehicle.

Ask the business to provide a list of references and be prepared to follow-up with these customers. Stability is also important in any business. Therefore, you should ask questions such as how long the facility has been in business, how long has it been at its current location and does it usually perform the type of repair that the vehicle needs. Remember too, that some businesses specialize in repairs for a certain vehicle make and model.

Gain an understanding of the equipment that will be used to service the vehicle by asking plenty of questions. A business must have the proper equipment to correctly diagnose and perform the needed repairs. Check to see what guarantees the business offers. Most automotive service facilities guarantee their parts and labor, and these guarantees are usually posted.

Make sure a written estimate is provided prior to letting the business begin the repair. Any changes to the estimate that exceed 10 percent should have your approval. After the repair, ask to see the parts that have been replaced.

One final thought, a good service facility can usually be found by asking family, friends, neighbors and co-workers for their recommendations.

Automotive service facilities fully understand that word-of-mouth referrals are their best form of advertising.

The Automotive Service Association is the largest non-profit national trade association of its kind serving more than 11,800 businesses and approximately 50,000 professionals from all segments of the automotive service industry. For more information, contact Monica Buchholz, (817)

Dealer profile

BERNARDI MITSUBISHI,

Hottest Seller: As the winter holiday season approaches, the Diamante Luxury Sedan, the Montero 4x4 and the ever popular Eclipse Sport Coupe are the hottest sellers.

Best Deal on The Lot: The new restyled Mirage. It's reputation for reliability plus low introductory pricing make it an immediate value leader and very affordable.

Specialties: Bernardi Mitsubishi follows the Bernardi tradition of "good service during and after a sale", says General Manager Dan Turner.

Bernardi Mitsubishi offers a full service department servicing all makes and model of Mitsubishi and some Mitsubishi powered Chrysler products.

Service Manager Ray McKale usually knows his customers by first name the second time around.

Incentives: Manufacturer rebates on some makes and models of Mitsubishi are being offered at this time. Special lease rates are also available on Diamantes, Monteros, and GT 3000 VR-4's.

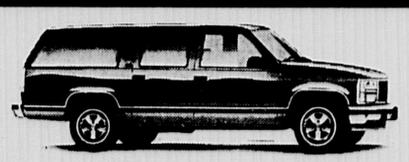

Philosophy: Bernardi 's stresses "Treat service right and sales take care of themselves," says Turner.

BRAKE FAILURE SYMPTOMS

NOISES: YOUR BRAKE SYSTEM MAY BE CRYING FOR HELP IF YOU'RE HEARING STRANGE NOISES WHEN YOU DEPRESS THE BRAKE. TWO OF THE MOST COMMON ARE SQUEAKS AND GRINDING.

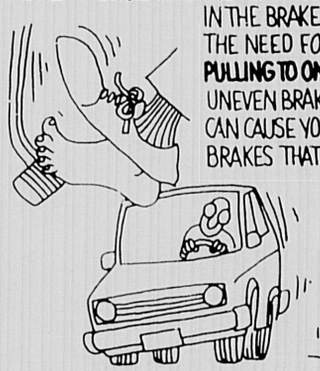

SQUEAKS FRICTION FROM THE BRAKE LINING CAUSES HEAT. UNDER EXTREME CONDITIONS, THIS CAN DAMAGE THE PADS AND/OR LINING, BRAKE DRUMS AND ROTORS.

GRINDING A METALLIC GRINDING SOUND INDICATES YOUR BRAKE PADS ARE WORN THROUGH. METAL-TO-METAL CONTACT WILL DAMAGE DRUMS OR ROTORS.

LOW OR FADING BRAKE PEDAL
DO YOUR BRAKES REQUIRE PUMPING TO STOP THE CAR? DOES THE PEDAL SINK TO THE FLOOR BOARD WHEN YOU'RE STOPPED AT A LIGHT? THERE MAY BE A LEAK IN THE BRAKE SYSTEM, AIR IN THE BRAKE LINES, OR THE NEED FOR A BRAKE ADJUSTMENT.

PULLING TO ONE SIDE OR BRAKE DRAG WORN OR UNEVEN BRAKE LININGS OR A DAMAGED BRAKE LINE CAN CAUSE YOUR VEHICLE TO PULL TO ONE SIDE. BRAKES THAT ARE OUT OF ADJUSTMENT OR HAVE CONTAMINATED FLUID CAN CAUSE BRAKES TO DRAG.

Holiday shopping made easy

Social butterflies would enjoy the "Play It By Ear " compact disc trivia game.

Whether you're shopping for two gifts or 20, there are countless ideas for holiday gifts. Harte-Hanks Community Newspapers brings you a Holiday Gift Guide, chock full of tips for everyone from the electronic wizard to the environmentally-minded person on your gift list.

From high tech to low budget, there are plenty of ideas to launch you into the holiday spirit.

Gift certificates for a professional manicure or a tray filled with scented soap, loofah mitts and bath gel are sure to make a splash with the women on your list.

Babies like mirrors, and mirrors come in styles for cribs, dressers and handbags. White sneakers and waterproof paints will spark creativity in any child, and rock music is a sure hit with teens.

For the cook in your life, a clear kitchen container filled with beans along with a bean soup recipe provide the ingredients for a hearty batch of soup.

Old family photos put on videotapes create a fun family film festival. Calendars marked with family birthdays, anniversaries and other special dates also make great gifts.

Out-of-towners will love boxed stationary with stamped envelopes and your address written on one or two of the envelopes.

New homeowners would welcome a welcome mat, and anyone with a car phone would appreciate a mini Yellow Pages.

For the men in your life, try something that relates to one of their hobbies, such as monogrammed golf balls or a "golf scope" to judge distance.

That elderly relative may love a framed photo of your favorite family picture, or even an invitation to lunch.

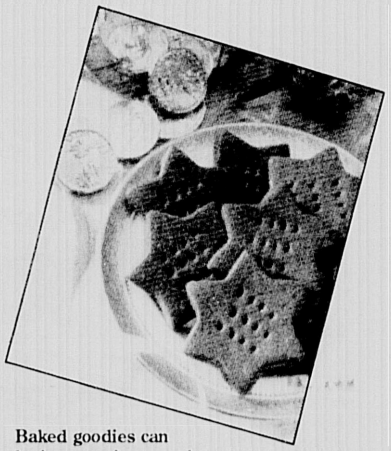

The ideas are endless. With a little creative thinking, you'll find even the hardest person to shop for may be easier than you thought.

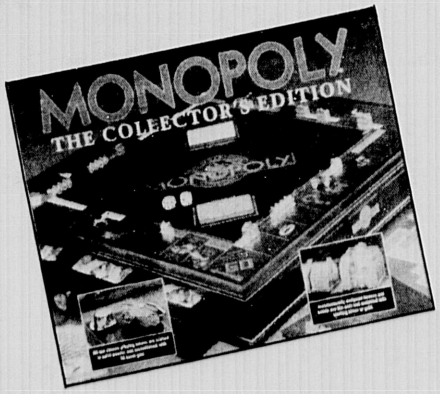

Homemade crafts add a personal touch to the gift-giving season.

Videotapes are a popular gift. A hot seller this year is Walt Disney's "Beauty and the Beast.."

Baked goodies can be inexpensive to make, but put a sure smile on any recipient's face.

The Franklin Mint features a "Collector's Edition" Monopoly game, with a hardwood board, playing pieces embellished with 24-karat gold and architecturally designed houses and hotels in sterling silver or gold for $495. For more information, call 1-800-843-MINT.

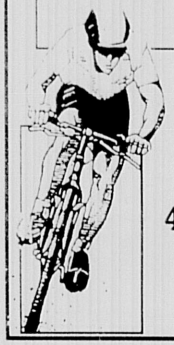

Books make great gifts for kids. They spark imagination, are educational, and can be used over and over again.

The world of bird watching

Easy feeder introduces beginners to bird watching

For an ideal gift that introduces the old and young to the fascinating and pleasurable pastime of bird feeding, and costs less than $5, consider the new Easy Feeder.

Just right for a youngster's initiation to nature's countless wonders, the feeder can also provide a relaxing activity for adults, as well as days of delight for the infirm or aged. Designed to attract a host of smaller, colorful birds, such as the goldfinch, chickadee and cardinal, the new Easy Feeder from Easy Gardener, Inc., has a suggested retail price of $3.99.

"Giving an Easy Feeder as a gift is an excellent way to introduce a loved one to what is arguably the nation's most popular hobby," says Boyd Thomas, marketing director of Easy Gardener. "According to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, more than 82 million Americans have discovered bird watching. And more people are joining in the fun every day."

Unlike more cumbersome or costly feeders, the Easy Feeder is simple to use. It can be hung conveniently outside the kitchen window, on the patio, or wherever you want to attract and feed birds, its makers say.

Easy Feeders are available now at garden supply retailers, hardware stores and chains nationwide. Easy Gardener also manufactures the landscape fabric WeedBlock, the CloudCover line of antitranspirant sprays and the tree protector, BarkGard.

Electronic wizards

Gift ideas for someone who wants to be plugged in

BY CARLENE HEMPEL
HARTE-HANKS STAFF WRITER

Christmas lights and Hanukkah candles aren't the only power sources lighting up this holiday season for electronic wizards.

Store shelves are already chock full of gizmos and gadgets for that friend or family member who insists on having one more adapter to plug in.

New innovations joining this year's selection range from food dehydrators to high-tech computer resource centers that can call up an entire edition of Encyclopedia Britainica with the click of a button.

As the number of new items for this season's gift-buyer extends to the thousands, a few examples of potential pleasers include:

A couch potato's new best friend: Panasonic's New Superflat (television) System with a 30 percent flatter screen, meaning less reflected light, a wider range of vision and no blurring at the image's edges.

This model, at $699.95, leads the field in television innovations with advancements including Artificial Intelligence Circuitry, which enables the set to continually monitor and adjust its own picture quality as well as closed-captioned circuitry, matching spoken word to written word. This installment will work to assist both those with hearing impairments as well as people learning to speak English.

Radio Shack offers a few inexpensive gift options this year with the new Shack 'N Power Security Console with Voice Dialer and the Executive Planner, both priced at $99.95.

The wireless console allows consumers to protect their homes with up to 16 groups of motion sensors and door/window-break detectors by simply plugging the unit into an AC outlet and attaching the supplied phone cord into a jack.

If the unit is activated, an automatic dialer will call up to four phone numbers to notify friends, family or neighbors of the situation. Those receiving the message can then listen over the phone to determine the problem.

The black leather Executive Planner combines a paper calendar/planner with an electronic directory, keyboard and calculator, which stores up to 800 entries including names, addresses and telephone numbers. It also contains an infrared transmitter, allowing the transfer of data to another Executive Planner.

Lechmere's American Harvest Snackmaster Dehydrator will allow holiday gift receivers to make their own beef jerky, apricot, banana, apple and pineapple dried snacks, dried spices, flowers, potpourri and even craft supplies.

With an adjustable thermostat of 95 to 145 degrees, the dehydrator will also fast-dry soups, sauces and fruit roll-ups, while blocking outside light from destroying the foods' natural nutrients and vitamins. A retail price has not yet been announced.

Computer enthusiasts will enjoy gift-receiving if it includes Apple Com-

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

From backpacks to in-line skates, there's a gift for the outdoor buff in your life

BY JOHN SHESLER
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

With Thanksgiving, Hanukkah and Christmas just around the corner, shoppers are turning their attention to the holiday season and gifts for friends and family.

Retail store owners are putting the finishing touches on displays and are ready for the hoards of shoppers poised to descend upon them in search of the best gift at the best price.

"We sell a lot of (in-line) skates to older people ... I have 50-year-old customers coming in to buy these skates, because they are faster than roller skates and because they think the skates just happen to be a whole lot of fun to use."

CHUCK RUSSUM
ST. MORITZ SPORTS, WELLESLEY

What are the "hot" items for all of you outdoor buffs this year? Read on. Some local store managers offer their best suggestions.

"In-line skates will definitely be a popular item this year," said Mike Falco of MVP Sports-Newton. In-line skates are referred to by many as Rollerblades, which is a trademark name.

"We carry a variety of skates for beginning skaters as well as the more advanced skater ($45 to $300)," Falco added. "We also have all the new accessories that go with them."

These accessories include: gloves, helmets, knee pads, shin guards and goggles, to name a few. Falco strongly urges skaters to buy wrist guards ($19), because "skaters have a tendency to fall over backwards."

As he was pointing to the accessories, I was trying to visualize how and why someone would fall backwards, instead of forward. Although I must admit to never having tried a pair of in-line skates (although I plan to) it just seemed more likely that one would be more likely to do a "nose-dive" rather than falling over backwards.

Thanks to Falco's crouching demonstration and assistant manager Michelle Boonstra's supportive commentary, I came to appreciate exactly why someone should use wrist guards. A helmet seems like a good idea, too.

Who are the people buying in-line skates? Perhaps not who you would expect. "We sell a lot of these skates to older people," said Chuck Russum of St. Moritz Sports in Wellesley. "I have 50-year-old customers coming in to buy these skates, because they are faster than roller skates and because they think the skates just happen to be a whole lot of fun to use."

Ed Coughlin of Holovak and Coughlin Sporting Goods in Arlington has seen a marked increase in the sales of in-line skates this year. He attributes much of the increase to the opening of the Minuteman Trail this summer, an 11-mile biking, walking and jogging path, in Arlington and neighboring towns.

"Pro-Team" sports jackets ($70 to $120) are also popular among high school students this year. These jackets are great for cooler weather and come with a variety of team emblems.

"The most popular jackets are the ones with the new professional team emblems," said Falco. These include the Tampa Bay Lightning (hockey), Florida Marlins (baseball), Charlotte Hornets (baseball) and others. Of course, the local teams are popular too.

"Champion hooded sweatshirts ($49) are still popular," says Boonstra. And BUM clothing is popular as well. May I suggest you ask a few of your friends what BUM stands for; chances are they will not know (a salesman, requesting anonymity, informed me it originally stood for "Boys Until Men.")

"Fitted baseball hats ($20) are popular this year," says Falco. Just what is a "fitted" hat? As far as I can determine, it is the kind of hat we used to buy when we were kids. "Fitted" means they no longer have an adjustable strap on the back. They are just one size, such as: 7, 7-1/4 , 7-1/2 and so on. It is good to know those things in the back of your closet will probably be back in style if you wait long enough. Haven't we all heard that before.

Speaking of baseball, Jim Brine of Brine's Sporting Goods, Sudbury, recommends a Rawlings "Heart of the Hide," top-of-the-line baseball glove ($140 to $160).

"It is expensive," said Brine, "but once it is broken in, it lasts a long time and is a great glove. A lot of varsity players and professionals use this glove."

"Reebok 'Pumps' and Nike 'Air Jordan' basketball shoes are popular during the holidays," said Brine. "If high school students couldn't get them before, they might be able to get them for Christmas," he added. I'll bet there are more than a few high schoolers out there hoping he is accurate in that thought.

For all of you cold weather golfers, consider buying some orange golf balls and a 99-cent hand warmer. These small packets warm up when rubbed between your hands and are good for nine holes or more, depending on how cold the temperature is and the level of golfer determination.

"gold mine" of skiing equipment. Manufacturers offer new and more advanced equipment each year. There are also new ski boot designs the shopper should take a look at. And, goggles ($10 to $100), ski bags ($20 to $30), "ski-Totes" ($19) are useful accessories to consider.

I must say, the "Evaporator Ultimate Boot Dryer" ($89.95) really caught my attention. This little black box of drying power comes with either two or four drying hoses, depending on whether or not you want to share the device with your friends or family. It also comes with a handy nylon carrying case and is surely better than using a hair dryer. The device frees up your hands, so you can hang onto that cup of hot chocolate, while your boots are drying, and get back on the slopes more quickly.

"Reebok 'Pumps' and Nike 'Air Jordan' basketball shoes are popular during the holidays. If high school students couldn't get them before, they might be able to get them for Christmas."

Hints for Hanukkah

Gift-giving for eight-day holiday made easy

BY LISA STEIN
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

The first night of Hanukkah is less than a month away, which means there are only 20-odd gift-buying days left before the holiday begins. Figuring out what to get family and friends doesn't need to be difficult, though, even if you plan to give someone one present each of the eight nights.

Most Hanukkah gifts run the gamut of common presents for any occasion — books, tapes or compact discs, clothes, or jewelry. But if you are looking for something a little bit more off beat, several area shops have more unusual merchandise.

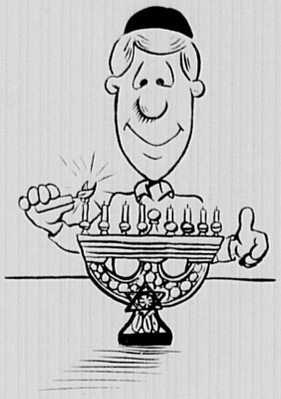

The Moon and Sixpence, on Chestnut Street in Newton, has something to satisfy everybody, according to owner Cynthia Capone, who said many people come to her store for Hanukkah shopping, since they can find eight unique items.

"We tend to specialize in small gifts," she said.

Miniature collectors might enjoy their array of small furniture, food, and animals, made of ceramics or wood and ranging in price from $1.75 to $18.

On the slightly larger side, there are small models of ancient Egyptian icons — pyramids, obelisks, mummy cases and scarabs — made of different metals or stones and ranging from $1.75 for a turquoise-colored scarab to $34 for a painted replica of an Egyptian king.

Someone looking for a hobby might be interested in the $14 juggling set, complete with instructions, or the Paper Anew kit which turns old household paper into original stationery, for $26.

There are many items for children, including the Carnegie Museum of Natural History's miniature collection of prehistoric reptiles and mammals, and early humans. They range in price from $2.25 for the Australopithecus, a predecessor of modern-day humans, to $20 for the Brachiosaurus, the largest known dinosaur.

Figuring out what to get family and friends doesn't need to be difficult, though, even if you plan to give someone one present each of the eight nights.

Older children might enjoy the Pyramid Explorers' Kit for $16.95. Children can learn about the culture of ancient Egypt while building their own model pyramids.

Finally, for people who want something really out-of-the-ordinary, there is the Treasure Candle, a rainbow-colored, pyramid-shaped candle which contains quartz and a combination of other minerals, and costs $17.

Blueberries and Lace on Main Street in Northboro, carries different crafted items, designed in, of course, blueberries and lace. Owner Shirley Clausen recommends her different lines of blueberry-decorated pottery, ranging from mugs to baking dishes. She also carries lace guest towels, pillow shams and cases, and baskets.

In addition, the store has a selection of journals, address books and note paper. Prices range between $5 and $40, according to Clausen.

Country This N' That, on High Plain Street in Walpole, stocks a variety of artistic items, from potpourri tarts — "any season, any scent," said owner Jean Cavallo — to puffed baskets with dried flower arrangements and limited-edition prints by Glynda Gurle. Prices range from 69 cents for the potpourri to $150 for the prints.

If nothing but a Jewish motif will do, the Moon and Sixpence sells a glass "rainbow maker" Star of David for $12, and a larger glass star for $33. They also have dreidels, the toy tops used at Hanukkah, which cost 50 cents to $3.50.

Hints for Hanukkah

Gift-giving for eight-day holiday made easy

HANUKKAH, FROM 8S

For a complete collection of Hanukkah items, there is Sabbath Lights, on Worcester Road in Framingham. The shop sells "all types of dreidels," said Cynthia, a salesperson. Prices range from 15 cents for the small wooden or lucite models to $40 for the artistic ones, which come in crystal, china, or sterling.

In addition, said Cynthia, Sabbath lights carries a wide selection of books, which include children's Hanukkah stories, children's cookbooks, and a selection of adult cookbooks. Book prices range from $1.95 to $20.

Babies can enjoy soft, squeezable menorahs, some of which have velcro candles to with them. These and other toys range from $1 to $20.

If, as Hanukkah draws nearer, you discover you still need a menorah, Sabbath Lights also carries models which work with candles, oil or electricity. They come in all different designs and materials and run from $1.50 to upwards of $100.

Stocking stuffers

Find stocking treasures for under $10

THE SAVVY SHOPPER
JUDY MASSEY

BY JUDY MASSEY
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

More fun than a single present, a Christmas stocking packed with unique goodies says, "I care enough to know what's special to you."

Follow a theme to create a memorable stocking for your golfer, rose-lover, or antiques buff. Fill the stocking with favorite candies or magazines, but be sure to include a real treasure.

Do you want to remember a summer vacation? Or maybe the stocking will announce one. Wrap up the music of your travels. The Irish Cottage at the Dedham Mall carries cassettes of traditional Irish music and pub songs by artists Paddy Noonan, Tony Kenny, Andy Conney, and many others for $4.95.

Mel Simon of West Roxbury will make a custom 60-minute cassette tape of any of the 135,000 radio shows in his collection of broadcast nostalgia for $10. Your gift will help someone remember Suspense, Inner Sanctum, The Shadow, or Fibber McGee. Simon has over 5,000 Lone Ranger programs, and says he can even help you find a specific one. When you call his answering machine (617) 325-7879 to place your order, you'll catch a famous radio moment.

Fill a lace-trimmed stocking with lovely things from the Bittersweet Boutique in Walpole. Vintage hankies with tatted edging (under $3) dress up the breast pocket of a woman's suit. Hand-dipped rose oil incense sticks are the shop's signature product. Teenage girls especially covet the boutique's delicate sterling silver rings with stones of lapis, onyx or mother-of-pearl ($10).

Lyman's Gift Shop in Norwood displays handcrafted pins, earrings and key chains made from maple leaves and preserved pansies. The pressed leaves and flowers are coated to maintain natural colors and strength. Hand-painted pins "by Tina" depict ocean or meadow scapes. No two are alike. All pins are under $8.

Skip the expected candy canes and oranges in a gift stocking in favor of gourmet foods. A shop of handcrafted gifts at the Natick Mall, " ... by August," carries hard-to-find products from the Rothschild Berry Farm, Urbana, Ohio. Choose from raspberry mustard, raspberry salsa, or raspberry syrup for ice cream or pancakes. Try raspberry vinaigrette, peach preserves, or hot pepper raspberry preserves. All of these cost under $7.50.

Cosmetics can be pricey gifts, but sample sizes are perfect for a stocking. Woodbine, also at the Natick Mall, offers a full line of Crabtree & Evelyn mini-sizes for about $2 each: bath gels, powders, lotions and shampoos in avocado or rose scents. Pack a fancy toothbrush or loofah sponge in lavender or pink for practical elegance. There are aftershaves and shampoos in the Crabtree for Men product line.

A man's Christmas stocking does not have to bulge with mundane shaving cream and felt-tip pens. Brenda Cupoli of Consignment Galleries in West Newton suggests choosing from her selection of vintage pocket knives

JUST FOR KIDS

Planning ahead can make shopping for kids easier

BY ELAINE TASSINARI
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

Children prefer toys with "staying power," according to local toy store owners.

And while finding the perfect gift for a child can be a challenge, the job can be made easier by arming yourself with a list of ideas before you head out to shop.

According to some local toy store owners, the most popular gifts this holiday season will be Thomas the Tank engine set, designed for two- to four-year-olds, and "Where in the World is Carmen Sandiego?" for older children. Both games are adapted from popular PBS television programs.

"Children remain interested for a longer time in toys that reflect the child's own interests and stimulate the child ... Nothing that follows a fad will be popular for long."

JOAN DRAGT
D. DUCK & CO., WINCHESTER

"Children remain interested for a longer time in toys that reflect the child's own interests and stimulate the child," said Joan Dragt, owner of D. Duck & Co. of Winchester. For the most part, commercially advertised toys are short-lived with children. It is better to purchase more traditional toys, such as the Brio train set — a toy with staying power, Dragt said.

"Nothing that follows a fad will be popular for long," she added. D. Duck & Co. caters to educational and mentally stimulating toys. Draft carries toys in the sciences and arts, as well as traditional toys such as her "wall of dolls."

Incluced in the wall is one of Dragt's specialties — a German import doll, which Dragt said she is able to offer at a lower price than many competitors because she buys direct from the manufacturer in Germany.

Armed with a master's degree in child development plus five years of experience owning a toy store, Dragt said she has noticed that children are more attracted to toys made of natural materials as compared to plastics and synthetics. This is also a way to keep children connected to the environment, Dragt said.

One toy store in Cambridge which offers a variety of environmentally-related items is Sandy & Son Toystore on Cambridge Street. Owner Sandy Ruben has experience as a former day-care teacher and director. His store sells both retail to customers and supplies to day care, nursery, and grade schools.

Ruben said he tries to emphasize creative play in the products he offers. A big section of his store concentrates on the sciences, with items such as ant farms, butterfly farms, caterpillar gardens, and bird feeders. "The popular toys that last are those which challenge the children in some way," said Ruben.

According to Ruben, the Create-a-Plate toy is popular with children. Create-a-Plate allows a child to draw his or her own design, and then send it away to the company have the design permanently imprinted on the plate. Another popular gift this year is Create-a-Calendar, which comes with blocked-off dates in which the child can write. In addition, Create-a-Calendar allows a child to draw his or her own picture for each month.

"This gives children a sense of time," Ruben said. Although children may not understand how short or long "three weeks away" is, if they can see it on their calendar, it becomes more tangible, he said.

Sandy & Son Toystore also features an arts section, with craft items ranging from paints and construction paper to beads and origami paper. The store also offers a musical section with instruments from around the world, including an ocarina, a South American wooden flute designed to resemble a turtle or a mask.

The doll and puzzle sections are also multicultural, and there is a large book and tape section which offers books in Spanish and French, as well as books and tapes for foreign language instruction.

Learning Express in the Framingham Mall concentrates more heavily on educational toys, owned for the last two years by Harvey and Pepi Chafitz. Harvey Chafitz predicts this year's best sellers will be a stuffed animal called Barney the Dinosaur and the Thomas the Tank engine set, both are the offspring of PBS programs.

The Chafitzs said their specialty lies in being able to offer parents age-appropriate gift suggestions, as well as many toys not available in mass merchandising toy stores. Chafitz said many parents are doing pre-shopping research this year, which allows them to save money and purchase more valuable toys that will hold their children's interest longer.

Stroke of genius

Get creative with gifts for your favorite artist

BY BERYL S. JUPITER
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

If you are wondering what gift would delight your artistic friend or family member, you can choose from a world of art supplies and materials to match any level of experience, creative focus and budget.

For fine artists, Joanne Brown, store manager of Design Supply of Natick, suggests gifts of brush sets, paint sets, calligraphy supplies, sets of pastels and pastel paper, easels or storage bins.

At Green's Stationery of Wellesley, buyer Jeff Crossley also recommends pre-packaged paint sets, such as high quality Windsor-Newton oils, water colors or Liquitex acrylics, but also notes that gift givers can combine individually-selected items to make a personalized gift set.

At Ken-Kaye Krafts Company of Newton, store clerk Brad Pratt, also a teaching assistant in the Boston College art department, offered several gift ideas: give drawing pencils in each selection of lead hardness or a set of pencils in a packaged case; for colored work, select unusual colors of colored pencils, Conte pastel crayons or Aquarelle water color pencils; or, choose sable paint brushes, which are admittedly expensive, but highly valued by any artist.

Similarly recommended as gifts by Charles Cannistraro, owner of Morgan's Art Store in Waltham, are charcoal and drawing supplies, or oil and acrylic painting sets. Morgan's has the distinction of being the oldest shop on Moody Street, having been established more than a century ago as a greeting card and gift shop.

Design Supply, recently relocated to a more visible Main Street address in Natick center, continues to offer supplies for graphic arts and drafting.

ARTISTS, FROM 14S

Some gifts suggested by Brown for the student or professional include portfolio or presentation cases, equipment organizers and drafting tables, chairs and lights.

Instructional videotapes, offered at Design Supply, are a way to inspire enthusiasm in the young or novice artist. Aimed at children or adults, video drawing and painting lessons come in sets complete with necessary art supplies.

Cartooning sets are especially popular for boys, observed Brown, who also said instructional art videos are particularly appealing to parents who are "looking for ways for kids to interact with television, not just sit passively in front of it."

Gifts that won't break the bank

Recession or not, the holidays are just around the corner, and shoppers are looking for ways to make the season happy without totally depleting their purses.

But you don't have to spend a lot of money to make kids smile these days. There are oodles of gifts under $10, guaranteed to make the little ones laugh and keep Mom and Dad in the black. Here are a few:

■ Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles ($3.99 - $8.99*)

These ever-popular creatures are going into their fifth holiday buying season. One would think that they would have gone to turtle heaven by now, but they remain one of the most popular action figures on the market. Their newest twist — Mutations — is currently the top-selling non-electronic toy in America, according to the Toy Retail Sales Tracking Service (TRSTS).

Cute little pet Turtles turn into intriguing Ninja Turtles by twisting and pulling different toy parts. Mutations sales are projected to reach $40-$50 million in 1992, making it the most successful Turtle line extension since the little critters were introduced in 1988.

■ Star Trek: The Next Generation ($3.99 - $5.99*)

The latest action figures from Playmates are the characters from the hit syndicated television show, "Star Trek: The Next Generation," and are selling out in toy stores nationwide — even before national advertising begins. Some of the more popular characters include: Captain Jean-Luc Picard, Commander William Riker, Commander Data, Security Chief Lieutenant Worf, and the aliens — Ferengi, Borg, the Romulans and the Klingons. Each figure is individually numbered for collectability and looks remarkably similar to its namesake.

■ The Addams Family ($3.99 - $5.99*)

This creepy, kooky family of action figures is based on the hit Hanna-Barbera Saturday morning cartoon series. Available family members include Gomez, Morticia, Uncle Fester, Granny, Pugsley and Lurch. Each figure has its own bizarre special action feature — Gomez waves his sword, Lurch growls and Pugsley loves making mischief. As the cartoon series continues to build an audience, the popularity of the action figures is expected to soar.

Other action figures from Playmates Toys include Darkwing Duck, Tale Spin and Garfield.

Ways to save money

The holidays are a time for getting together with family and friends, sharing the festive traditions of the season. If you like to go "all out" during the holidays, but you're watching every dime, here's some good news... It's not necessary to break the bank.

With a little advance planning and ingenuity, you'll enjoy your best holiday season yet while remaining within your budget. The holiday experts at American Greetings offer the following tips:

■ When selecting holiday cards, choose one of the new styles designed specifically for economy-minded shoppers. Postcards are also an excellent option.

■ Hand-deliver your season's greetings to coworkers and close friends. Add a personal touch, like stickers on the envelope or a cellophane-wrapped cookie tucked inside.

■ Save time, money and gasoline by picking up all of your holiday supplies in a single trip to your neighborhood discount store, supermarket or drugstore.

■ For once-a-year use, opt for practical partyware instead of expensive holiday china. You'll find all the latest looks, including Victorian, traditional and solid-color styles. Matching plastic tablecovers can be wiped clean and reused next year.

■ Save on tree decorations by stringing popcorn and cranberries, drape red and gold ribbon garlands among the branches, and let the kids create construction paper "chains."

■ Plan to have a few small gifts on hand "just in case." Votives in decorative glass holders, or holiday mugs filled with candy are economical choices.

puter's PowerBook 145, 160 or 180 notebook take-it-wherever-you-work computers. The unit, starting at $2,249, includes a built-in floppy disk drive, an optional modem to send and receive electronic-mail as well as the capacity to send documents to facsimile machines anywhere.

Last month, WriteMove II was announced at $599, as the only portable printer, designed for the Macintosh PowerBook computers. The printer, which is small enough to fit in a briefcase along with the PowerBook computer, weighs 2.5 pounds and contains 21 printing fonts which will transfer onto plain paper, overhead transparencies and envelopes.

Joe Morabito of Eastman Kodak Company in Wellesley casts his vote for this year's hottest gift with the new Kodak Photo CD System, available at prices ranging from $379 to $599.

Kodak's breakthrough allows picture-takers to store photos on compact discs. The discs are inserted into a CD player which will then show the images on any television screen. "This is an audio CD player that plays music CD's or photo disks on television. And then you can manipulate the image, rotate the image, zoom in on a certain section, enlarge it, crop it ... and you can store 100 photos on each disc," he said.

New innovations joining this year's selection range from food dehydrators to high-tech computer resource centers that can call up an entire edition of Encyclopedia Britainica with the click of a button.

The order of the photos are arranged as songs are on a music CD. Any single photo can be called up, whether it be number 3 or 89. The Kodak Photo CD system is available in both single and five disk units at most local camera sellers including Village Photo in Framingham or Lechmere's photo department.

Jean Gelpey of Computers Etc. in Peabody insists this season's hottest gift items will be computer software. "What's hot this year will be the new CD's made for (Macintosh computers) like 'Just Grandma and Me' and 'Arthur's Teachers Trouble.'" She said the programs, made for those ages three to 10, take the children through stories where they make choices about the characters' decisions.

Ranging in price from $30 to $60, the programs, are available in Spanish as well. Programs include Aesop's Fables, Peter and the Wolf and the U.S. Presidents, where entire histories can be looked up and studied. Adults may also want to join in the fun with programs including The Renaissance Masters and Timetable of History with WGBH Learningsmith also offers a huge array of computer learning programs in its Cambridge store.

"Computers are at the point now that there's so much that can happen at home, almost in a home learning center," said technical buyer Dana Gardiner. "With the addition of sound and full motion, you can investigate, with the click of a button, what Saturn looks like ... or watch a rocket take off."

Kodak's breakthrough allows picture-takers to store photos on compact disks. The disks are inserted into a CD player which will then show the images on any television screen.

Computer enthusiasts will enjoy the Apple Computer's PowerBook 145, 160 or 180 notebook, the take-it-wherever-you-work computers.

Gardiner described the newly released "Zoo Keeper," program, as a way for children to understand the importance of animals' habitat.

Two characters, Brain Drain and Greedy Gertrude, enter a zoo and contaminate the grounds with pollution and litter. It's then up to the game-player to chase the polluters away while trying to restore the grounds by adjusting various elements including temperature and humidity. The software, made by Davidson and available for PC computers and PC windows, sells for $49.98.

"Capitalist Pig," is another new addition to this season's roster which allows the game-player to establish a business with all of the bureaucratic red tape that goes along with it. With $1 million, the player chooses a product, organizes employees, insurance options and advertising campaigns while deciding what time frame and market in which to target.

"It's a really good game for business executives, to work with their kids. It's translating (their job) to their kids," Gardiner said. "It's like, what do you do? Do you take out your Wall Street Journal and start talking stocks? This is an essential part of parenting ... letting your kids know what you do."

Gardiner could hardly contain his excitement when describing programs such as "Sim-Life," "Follow the Reader" and "Spelunx and The Caves of Mr. Seudo," all priced around $40 to $50. "This is a way of uniting kids and parents at home, because most parents don't have a curriculum in their minds, but want to teach their kids at home," Gardiner said.

Get creative with gifts for your favorite artist

ARTISTS, FROM 15S

Instructional booklets are offered at Ken-Kaye Krafts to accompany a variety of craft materials. Presently popular in jewelry making is "Sculpey," a clay which is hardened in a conventional oven, and can be purchased with a creative "how-to" book.

Instructional videotapes, offered at Design Supply, are a way to inspire enthusiasm in the young or novice artist.

Jewelry makers are also enjoying the relatively new "Friendly Plastic" product, according to Ken-Kaye general manager Paul Whitworth. Made in large and small strips in metallic and patterned designs, Friendly Plastic becomes malleable when melted in hot water.

Fabric painting, according to Whitworth, is another popular craft area whose supplies include a large choice of permanent, non-toxic paint colors as well as paint stitching instructional booklets. "Color switch" by Tulip is an intriguing new thermally-responsive fabric paint which changes colors with the temperature.

Beads are often used by crafts-oriented artists in combination with fabric paint. "They're big this year, in all forms," said Whitworth, pointing to Ken-Kaye's extensive selection of beads in a great variety of shapes, sizes and colors.

Said Brown at Design Supply, "We try to make sure there's something for everyone in a wide variety of prices." Art supplies also make great stocking stuffers, Brown said, particularly inexpensive items such as disposable fountain pens or pocket sketchbooks and pencils.

Still in doubt about the gift for your favorite artist? "Gift certificates are always wonderful," said Brown.

More specifically, suggested Morgan's Cannistraro, you can give a custom framing gift certificate for your artist's completed creation.

Take away the blues

The holiday season traditionally brings two thoughts to mind — gift-giving and reaching out to those less fortunate. "Strike A Deep Chord: Blues Guitars For The Homeless" answers both needs.

This recording (from Justice Records, available on CD and cassette) features 10 tracks by an eclectic collection of some of today's greatest blues artists. Twenty-five percent of the album's profits will be donated to the National Coalition for the Homeless. Purchasing this album will not only allow you to give a memorable gift of great music, but it will also help to strike a blow against homelessness in America.

The performers donated their talent and time in order to place some exceptionally powerful music on this 10-track blues album. Artists who gave generously to "Strike A Deep Chord" include Dr. John, Odetta, Ronnie Earl, Tab Benoit, Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown, Johnny "Clyde" Copeland, "Smokin' Joe" Bonamassa and Sue Foley.

Produced by Justice Records' Randall Hage Jamail, the album also provides a number of thoughtful cuts which touch directly on the subject of homelessness. It opens with an exceptionally touching version of the Depression-era classic "Brother, Can You Spare A Dime?" performed as a duet by Dr. John and Odetta.

Many of the other fine blues selections on "Strike A Deep Chord" expand on the theme. Dr. John hits the bull's eye with "Broke, Raggedy and Hungry," and the album closes with Odetta's moving rendition of "America The Beautiful," which was selected by National Public Radio for broadcast nationwide on Election Day.

This recording (from Justice Records, available on CD and cassette) features 10 tracks by an eclectic collection of some of today's greatest blues artists. Twenty-five percent of the album's profits will be donated to the National Coalition for the Homeless.

Several other songs have received early critical notice, including Benoit's "Nice and Warm," with its soulful and heartrending blues, Bonamassa's uptempo "Self Destruction Blues," featuring the artist's trademark romping guitar solo, and Brown's harmonica-driven "The Drifter," recorded live.

"Strike A Deep Chord: Blues Guitars For The Homeless" features not only great blues music for enjoyment at any time of the year, but it also helps a worthy cause.

Make your next holiday party a success

BY BERYL S. JUPITER
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

The key to a successful holiday party is making your guests feel comfortable, local party planners agree.

Entertaining at home during the holidays is ideal for those who enjoy it, says Elen Sulkin of Can Do Inc. of Weston. "But put yourself in your guests' shoes. The details make the difference," Sulkin said.

"The first caveat, if you're doing it yourself, keep it simple," said Barbara Edelstein, sales representative of Priscilla's Gourmet Food and Cstering of Wellesley.

Decorations can spruce up any holiday party. Above, Paula Wolfson displays one of the many holiday items available at Party Architects in Weston.

Echoing Edelstein's sentiment about simplicity, Paula Wolfson of Party Architects of Weston, said party givers should remember that holidays are "very stressful times" to begin with.

As a result, party planners agree, organization is key. To Edelstein, who frequently handles private catering as well as corporate holiday parties, that means, "Walk the party through in your head. Visualize the party and all its component parts to develop a list of all your needs."

Sulkin, who has been in the party management business for 12 years, also advises hosts to have a good concept of the party beforehand, focusing on what's really important to them in entertaining their guests.

Edelstein said the invitation should be clear as to what guests should expect in terms of food service and time frame. Sulkin agreed. "A creative, interesting invitation can set the tone for a party," she said. So, too, can color and decorations.

"Visuals at a party are extremely important," according to Wolfson, who views herself as a full-service party planner with an accent on decor. To Wolfson, decorations make the party festive and say to the guests, "It's special. We're having a party."

Appealing decorations can range from simple pine boughs on a table to ornate centerpieces. In addition, color can diverge from traditional holiday tones, said Wolfson. Her glittery ideas range from spray painting papier-mache reindeer in metallic copper, silver and gold to adorning tables with gift boxes fancifully wrapped in hot-colored foils.

Wolfson offered some quick, do-it-yourself decorating tips. Put leftover Christmas decorations in a big glass bowl for a sparkling centerpiece. Or combine greens clipped from your yard and wide velvet burgundy ribbon along the length of your table; nestle gold-sprayed pine cones into the ribbon curves and add a couple of candles for an easily accomplished, eye-catching effect.

Flowers can be lovely too, says Edelstein, who also suggests adding color by decorating with foreign flags to coordinate with food of an international flavor.

Sulkin suggests party givers consider the following details before the guests arrive:

- Make sure the house is well-lit.
- Remove ice and hazards outside the house.
- Designate a guest coat rack and have enough hangers.
- Put cats and dogs in the basement.
- Stow fragile and irreplaceable objects and heirlooms.

If you're having a large crowd, you may want to hire a police officer to help with parking and security, Sulkin says. Overcrowding should be avoided. "Guests can't enjoy themselves if they can't move or are afraid they might spill food on your carpet," she added.

With large parties, said Wolfson, an open house with guests coming and going at different times may minimize crowding. You may also need to rearrange furniture.

"You don't necessary need a party coordinator for a house party," Wolfson said. "But if it's big, it might be to your advantage to hire one to help with logistics, or just so you can relax." You'll also need to plan ahead to hire the amount of help needed for the size of your guest list.

The size of your party may dictate how much you want to do yourself. "Pick some food dishes that you enjoy making and branch out from there," suggested Edelstein, whose clients at Priscilla's have the option of ordering selected menu items to complement their party or contract for full-service catering.

In either case, if party guests will be "grazing" (meaning eating here and there while standing), Edelstein recommends preparing food in bite-size pieces so only a fork is needed for comfortable eating and easy balancing.

Sulkin also emphasizes making buffet service manageable for guests. Consider the traffic pattern. "Draw guests into a room to mix and mingle," advises Sulkin, "but don't cause bunching up by putting the food table or bar at a dead-end in your home.

Pass around drinks like wine and hot cider to arriving guests, suggests Sulkin. That will also alleviate the crush at the bar. With today's concerns about alcoholic consumption, notes Sulkin, hosts can hospitably minimize the bar offerings to beer,

Gift giving can raise environmental awareness

BY SUSAN LANDON and TAYLOR MCNEIL
HARTE-HANKS STAFF WRITER

Giving a present to raise environmental awareness — especially in a child — would seem a tall order, but some area stores offer a wide selection of gifts that fit the bill.

With gift ideas ranging from stuffed animals of endangered species to test kits for acid rainwater to books on how to save the planet, a number of stores realize that there is a big market for the environmentally correct gift.

Shops that specialize in environmental gifts include the Green Planet in Newton, the Nature Company with stores in Boston, Burlington and Concord, the Children's Museum, the Learningsmith stores in Cambridge and Boston, the Museum of Science and Massachusetts' Audubon Society shops.

Environmental awareness toys include stuffed animals of endangered species which come with tags that teach children about the threat to the animal's survival, and a board game called "Pollution/Solution," which allows players age 10 and up to solve environmental hazards and create the highest environmental quality of life.

For adults, the wide range of ecologically-minded gifts include bird feeders, binoculars for bird watching, telescopes for surveying the heavens, nature videos, walking sticks and naturalist books.

Outstanding selections of nature books for adults and children are available at Massachusetts Audubon Shops and at Nature Company stores. The Audubon shops boast having some 5,000 titles from which to choose.

Other gifts for children include a butterfly growing kit sold by the Nature Company. The kit supplies a tent and a coupon to send away for larvae, which grow into caterpillars. Within two weeks, painted lady butterflies, which are common to the Northeast and can be released in warm weather, hatch from the cocoons.

The Mass. Audubon Shop in Lincoln carries a wide selection of nature study supplies, including kits to study pond and tree life, inexpensive rocks and minerals, bird feeders as well as children's binoculars and compasses.

While books about how to live more environmentally-aware lives have been on the market for adults for several years, there are now editions for youngsters.

"The Earth Book for Kids" by Linda Schwartz describes many projects, including how to create a compost heap and inventory family container use.

The cartoon-illustrated paperback "Going Green — a Kid's Handbook to Saving the Planet" by John Elkington and others, teaches children about conservation, recycling and other ways to help the environment.

Other gift ideas include durable toys like wooden blocks, puzzles or a brightly-colored train set by the Swedish manufacturer Brio.

While books about how to live more environmentally-aware lives have been on the market for adults for several years, there are now editions for youngsters.

"People balk at the price of Brio trains," said Joan Dragt of D. Duck & Co., a toy store in Belmont and Winchester, "but they last longer. I used them daily for five years in a nursery school with 35 kids, and the trains looked as good when I put them away as when I bought them."

Fun with Kitchen Chemistry, a Creativity for Kids "curiosity box" carried by D. Duck, encourages children age nine and up to experiment by providing a few utensils, ingredients and illustrated recipes. Kids can make rock candy, gelatin sculptures, cheese,

Every holiday season brings a "gold mine" of skiing equipment. Manufacturers offer new and more advanced equipment each year. Above, Michelle Boontra and Michael Falco of MVP Sports in Newton display the latest in ski equipment.

mends the "Winter Heat Plus" battery-operated boot heater ($129.95) or the "Hotronic Footwarmer" ($140). These foot warmers have a battery pack mounted on the back of the ski boot (or any other kind of outdoor boot) and an insulated wire strip attached to a metal disk. The disk is placed under a foot-liner inside the boot.

"The rechargeable battery holds a charge for about a day. Boot warmers have been very popular for the past couple of years," said Russum.

For all of you "indoor" outdoor buffs, might I suggest the "Wayne Gretzsky Overtime Hockey" table top game ($70). This game is like the one we had as kids — only better, I am told.

"This game has been a tremendous seller in past years," said Falco. And then, he picked an accessory pack ($22) off the shelf, which included an electronic time clock, player's benches, referees and Plexiglas to enclose the arena —"just like the real thing."

Falco didn't have any model Zamboni's to show me at the time, but he was confident they would be arriving soon. Why would someone buy a model Zamboni? Is there a practical reason, I wondered? I could not think of any, so I asked.

"I suppose there isn't a 'practical' reason," said Falco. "It really doesn't do very much, but it looks good, though, and it is very popular." My advice about the accessory pack and the Zamboni: get them early, they sell out fast.

For all of you cold weather golfers, consider buying some orange golf balls and a 99-cent hand warmer. These small packets warm up when rubbed between your hands and are good for nine holes or more, depending on how cold the temperature is and the level of golfer determination.

Another favorite outdoor item of mine (or perhaps it was just the enthusiastic description) was the "Sno-Tube" ($8). According to Falco, "You inflate it, spray it with WD-40 on the bottom, climb into the fancy inner tube, point it down the slope and then you're gone." And, hopefully, able to regain your composure and complete another run in a few minutes.

Snowboards are popular, these days ($300 to $600). Holiday shoppers might also want to consider purchasing a colorful, great-looking skiing or biking helmet for kids made by Boeri ($69 to $99).

Ice skates continue to be steady sellers, as are cross-country skis and the accompanying accessories. "Step" exercise equipment ($49 to $99) is "in" these days and can be found in many stores.

Hockey sticks come in all kinds of shapes and sizes and are made up of a

The Massachusetts Audubon Society offers a variety of gifts in its gift shop in Lincoln.

Nestled in the natural landscape of the Drumlin Farm Wildlife Sanctuary lies the Massachusetts Audubon Shop, a rewarding surprise to visitors interested in taking home a unique holiday gift or birding supplies.

"Most people want to know if we have any squirrel-proof feeders ... Try your best to place or hand the feeder in a location that the squirrels can't jump to, use a baffle with it, and if you're going to hang it, use very thin wire, the longer the better, so squirrels can't shimmy down."

PAT DEFLORIO
MASSACHUSETTS AUDUBON SOCIETY SHOP

The Audubon Shop, a contributing part of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, opened in the early 1940s to serve the community and the few hundred members of the society at that time. The shop now serves a membership of 52,000 households and reflects the needs of people concerned about the environment and interested in nature.

The shop has a wide array of gifts, books and "green" items for the conservation-minded and education and nature items for all ages and price ranges. Since 100 percent of the shop's profits go directly to the society, purchases lend support to programs across a statewide system of 18 staffed wildlife sanctuaries and more than 20,000 acres of protected land.

"It's been said that the top two American hobbies are bird watching and gardening," said Sumie Murakami, shop manager for the past three years. "That fits very nicely with the tradition of the society and the interests of our members." Staff people are knowledgeable about the merchandise and can help customers sleet from a large assortment of bird feeders, optical equipment, and books on bird feeding and landscaping.

butter, invisible ink and learn about bubbles and acid.

Recyclable lunch bags, lunch boxes, and mugs are other environmentally-conscious items for adults and kids.

"I sell hundreds of lunch bags," said Annabelle Ship, owner of the Green Planet, a small environmental store in Newton Highlands. Ship said she started the trend by selling colorful nylon bags at a discount to local schools for a fund raiser.

"Kids can fold them up after lunch and put them in their pockets, which is cooler than a lunch box, especially for kids over 10," Ship said.

The Green Planet also sells a popular paper-making kit that uses a tin can and old newspapers, magazines and even labels. And there are a few toys made of recycled materials — plastic frisbees and a "Hugg a Planet," a cotton globe stuffed with manufacturers' cotton scraps.

With gift ideas ranging from stuffed animals of endangered species to test kits for acid rain-water to books on how to save the planet, a number of stores realize that there is a big market for the environmentally correct gift.

Personal touch

Whether you make it yourself or support a craftsman, hand-made items make popular gifts

BY LISA STEIN
HARTE-HANKS CORRESPONDENT

Finding an original gift may seem like a difficult task, but the solution could be a hand-crafted items.

Whether you make it yourself or support another local craftsman, hand-made items offer a thoughtful alternative for gift-giving.

Tres Jolies Baskets, on Common Street in Belmont, offers a selection of items featuring arrangements of dried flowers, leaves or fruits. Owner Donna Rupprecht said her wreaths are popular during the holiday season.

"They come in all different sizes," she said. Some wreath possibilities include eucalyptus, vine, stattice, and topiary.

Tres Jolies also features big hats decorated with dried flowers, small baskets with dried flowers in them, or baskets to hold candles. Rupprecht said she also hand-decorates the handles and edges on larger baskets, and uses only dried items, not silk.

Popular items at Tres Jolies include pomander balls, rosebud topiaries, cinnamon bunches and eucalyptus sprays, Rupprecht said. Although she features items decorated with Christmas colors, Rupprecht said she sells more of the everyday colors.

"I find people mostly want things they could use year-round," she said.

Tres Jolies Baskets has about 30 different in-store items available for purchase, averaging in cost between $12.95 and $45. Rupprecht said she will custom-make items, but any orders for holiday gifts should be placed by the end of November.

Carroll's Craft Supply Shoppe, on Main Street in Hopkinton, sells dried flower arrangements and wreaths made from a variety of materials, including straw, boxwood and grapevine. The shop also will make bows to order.

The store has 20 to 25 items of different designs which can be bought right off the wall, and ranging in price from $10 to $40.

"Basically, it's just coming out of our own heads," said craftswoman Maria O'Neil about the store's merchandise. O'Neil said if someone sees an idea in a magazine which he or she would like to try making, a craftsman will show them how at no charge.

Carousel Crafts, on Main Street in Medway, specializes in woodcraft, but also works with florals and stenciling.

"We try to have all types of different things," said owner Trudi Stefan.

Stefan said she sells both dried flower and seasonal wreaths, averaging $20 to $25. Unfinished wood cutouts are also showcased, and can be custom designed, Stefan said. The cutouts range from $4.98 for some of the small ornaments to about $125 for a painted and stenciled wooden hutch cabinet.

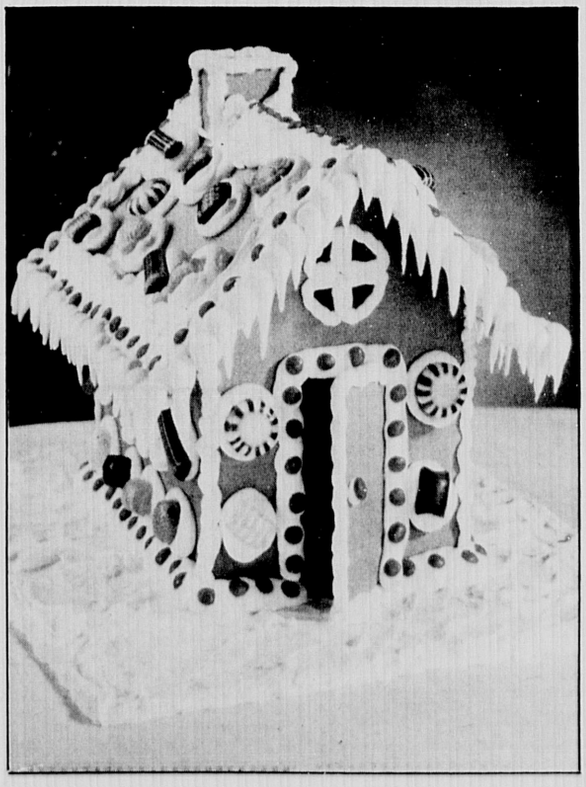

While Stefan accepts custom orders, she said any holiday gift requests should be placed by Dec. 10 or 12.

In addition to the items Stefan makes, she also showcases handmade goods in a crafter's boutique, made up of freelance artists who rent her store space to display their work, she said. Some items include tea-dyed antique dresses, wooden dolls, spool dolls, and dried apple decorations.

For people who don't want to go either the off-the-wall or special-order routes, Stefan offers eight decorative art classes each week from Tuesday to Thursday. She also holds a children's class on Saturday.

Classes include instruction in mak-

Fitness frenzy doesn't stop desire for delectable treats

BY CHRIS BERGERON

Shoppers seeking holiday gifts for gourmets or cooking buffs can take comfort in the area's rich ethic heritage and Santa's ample midriff.

Though fitness-conscious buyers are increasingly looking for leaner and healthier treats, shop owners are reminding them that holiday cheer doesn't necessarily mean spartan fare.

"We serve the health-conscious shopper, but it's the holidays, so throw caution to the wind," said Stephanie Cooper, co-owner of Cordelias in Marlboro.

The Marlboro caterer describes dreamy images of her chocolate ganache and Baby Watson cheesecake, but like most retailers offers specialties and bargains for literally every taste.

The retail store she runs with her husband, Richard, specializes in catering, but also offers delights like virgin first-pressed olive oils, brie, framboisse, a tangy raspberry liqueur, and "a pungent but lovely and spreadable" camberg cheese.

Adventurous shoppers who seek exotic culinary gifts don't have to travel any further than Homsy's in Westwood to discover a Middle Eastern bazaar.

Shoppers need only close their eyes and sniff the tantalizing aroma of 125 intoxicating spices or 37 different coffee beans and realize there's a gift here for anyone who loves to eat.

"This is not just a world class store," said owner Richard George. "This is the world. Though our niche is Middle Eastern, we serve the international gourmet."

George recites a litany of available spices and chocolates and nuts, which sounds like a tour of the globe's gourmet capitals.

matic rice in the world, eight kinds of peppercorn, saffron, the most expensive spice in the world. We stock sauces and spices from Bangkok, Shanghai and Tokyo but we've also got your basic salt-of-the earth condiments," he said.

Located in the Rainbow Plaza on the Providence Highway, Homsy's also offers 160-gram Swiss chocolate gifts shaped like a "passport" or jackknife — "scrumptious delicacies" suited for the sweet-toothed gourmet or as novelty items, George said.

Shoppers looking for the rural taste of New England should try Harrington's of Vermont, located in Wellesley, which specializes in smoked ham cooked the old-fashioned way.

Its hams, turkeys and pheasants are smoked "like the Indians used to" in its own Vermont facility over maple wood and corncobs, according to manager Mary Louise Moore.

"Our hams are rich with a unique flavor, sharp but certainly not overwhelming," she said.

In keeping with its bucolic image, the store also offers a "huge array" of mustards, imported and domestic cheese, gift baskets made to order, as well as — naturally — Vermont maple syrup and corncob bacon.

For the holiday season only, Harrington's offers stollen, a traditional German cake, rich in raisins and currants.

For shoppers seeking gifts for the gourmet that reflect the season's culinary trends, Lisa Lamme, "the sauce boss," has some advice: "What's real hot this year is real hot."

Her store, Le Saucier in Boston's Fanueil Hall Market, stocks 500 sauces from 36 countries, including a "shelf of death" which offers palette-searing habanero peppers, allegedly the hottest in the world.

"This is the '90s. Sauces have a cult following. We are the source for sauce in Boston," she said.

Recently returned from a Caribbean "sauce expedition," Lamme maintains Le Saucier is the only store in Boston where shoppers can find 'Doc's Special Hell Fire' from Jamaica, as well as sauces from Asia, Europe and Latin America.

The available sauces carry intriguing names like 'Archie Moore's Buffalo Wing,' 'The Wrath of God,' ("a religious experience," Lamme says) and 'Karen's Hot Wing Sauce.'

Other spices and condiments in stock are chutney, paparadons, salsa, peanut sauce, various marinades and a chocolate basket that Lamme calls "death by chocolate."

"People are tired of the dull and bland. This year is a food year," she said.

Shoppers seeking special seasonal fare for Jewish friends should consider Marcia's Blintzes in the Suisse Chalet on Route 9, Chestnut Hill.

"Blintzes are a versatile gift food item and can be served as an appetizer, main meal or desert," owner David Laine.

He explained that his store only serves "high quality, upscale kosher products" and is supervised by a rabbinical organization for total compliance to all religious requirements.

Laine pointed out that non-Jews can serve blintzes as an appetizer and that potato and sweet potato blintzes are popular when served with Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey, or as a side dish instead of a vegetable.

He stocks eight traditional varieties as well as latkes and an "outrageously good" cheese and noodle pudding.

Taking it easy

Don't let the holidays stress you out

BY MEREDITH RULAND
HARTE-HANKS STAFF WRITER

The holidays are a stressful time for most people, but accompanied by other life pressures, they can be even more trying.

Divorce, for example, can add to the stress people normally fee at this time of year, according to Melvin Rabin, Ph.D., and Debra Shore Rabin, M.A., ATR, of Rabin Associates in Needham. Family separations, sharing children with their other family and losing olds traditions are both disrupting and painful.

Sometimes, say the Rabins, children will rebel. Absent parents may send inappropriate gifts, out of guilt or pay no attention to their children at all, causing the children to feel rejected.

Traditions are important, say the Rabins, and building new ones is part of starting over. The Rabins agree parents should support their children's feelings of disappointment, and help them to accept the new realities. If parents don't have their children with them on the holiday, they should be sure to make being together before or afterwards special.

Anne Tavel, Ph.D., a psychologist in private practice in Wellesley, says the loss of a loved one can cause intense sadness at this time of year. Unresolved family issues can also result in anger and frustration, or guilty feelings about avoiding the family.

These feelings are in sharp contrast to the media hype about how joyful we should all feel. "Our expectations play a big role. We are supposed to be happy," Tavel said. Others expect us to be happy too, adding to our burden.

Support for these normal feelings during the holidays is very important. Reach out to a friend or group where it's safe to share your feelings, Tavel said. Self-help groups, such as Al-Anon and CoDA, are valuable in dealing with feelings. A member of the clergy or therapist may also be helpful.

However, Tavel warns people not to demand that holidays be perfect. "Give yourself permission not to do it all," she said. Instead, Tavel suggested deciding what you can manage and make the family part of the decision-making process. Enlist their support to keep things simple, she said.

Ben Benjamin, Ph.D., specialist in sports medicine and education, and director of the Muscular Therapy Institute in Cambridge, says stress causes muscles to tighten, making people tired and more susceptible to illness and injury, and robbing them of energy.

Benjamin says people should pay attention to pain, which signals that the body is not working properly. His book, "Are You Tense: The Benjamin System of Muscular Therapy," describes some antidotes to stress, such as deep massage, exercise, self-care, and injury prevention.

To relieve stress, Benjamin suggests dissolving one cup of epsom salts or sea salt in a warm bath and soaking one-half hour every night. If you can't sit still that long, start with less time and work up. Regular exercise also releases extra energy and relaxes muscles. Also, a couple of muscular therapy sessions a week can do wonders.

Benjamin suggests this exercise to

For people who want to make something themselves but prefer cloth to wood, The Fabric Place on Howard Street in Framingham has several options.

Gordon Carlson, who works in the crafts department, said items include iron-on designs for stockings and shirts, stitchery kits which display holiday and winter scenes, and stained glass kits. They also sell different ribbon projects, wreath materials, and styrofoam balls which can be made into ornaments. The cost of materials ranges from 50 cents to $28.

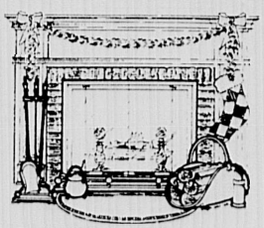

The Fabric Place offers classes in stained glasswork and general craftmaking. For information on meeting times and fees, or to sign up, call the store at (508) 875-9096.

Far better than the alternatives — boarding, imposing upon a neighbor or leaving food and water and hoping for the best — is the use of a pet sitter when you go away for the holidays.

Going away?

Consider hiring a pet sitter to take care of your special friend

You can avoid a lot of stress, even trauma, both for you and your pet by using a pet sitter during the holidays, particularly if a trip is planned.

Thanksgiving, Christmas and the whole holiday season are an anxious time for a pet, says Patti Moran, executive director of the National Association of Pet Sitters (NAPS), whose members must meet standards of reliability and responsibility to be accepted as affiliates.

"You're under a lot of pressure to begin with. A trip piles stress on stress. And you know this also takes a toll on your pet," Moran says.

Far better than the alternatives — boarding imposing upon a neighbor or leaving food and water and hoping for the best — is the use of a pet sitter.

Primary advantages include the fact the sitter comes to your house, no kennel stay or transporting involved. Your pet remains in familiar surroundings. You can check with the sitter by phone while you're away. Your pet is there to greet you when you come home.

"And you will find having a pet sitter costs less than you might think," Moran says. "A recent survey of our membership showed the average price for a home visit by a professional pet sitter is $10.68. And, most pet-sitting services will take in your mail and newspapers, water your plants and turn your lights off and on — so the house maintains a lived-in look — at no additional charge."

Here are some things NAPS believes you should know about using a pet sitter:

You'll meet with the sitter in advance to introduce your pets, talk over their needs and show the sitter around. Often your sitter will be someone from your neighborhood, someone with a lot of love for animals and often with considerable knowledge of your pets breed. A contract detailing your variety of materials including: graphite ($80), carbon ($90), aluminum ($29 to $64), fiberglass ($29 to $64) or wood ($13 to $26). If you are buying a hockey stick for someone, you might as well pick up some tape for the grip and a puck or two for good measure. A mouth guard probably wouldn't be a bad idea either.

Gift ideas for the outdoor camper include the usual assortment of backpacks, sleeping bags, tents and fanny packs. Coleman also makes a great 6V battery-powered, fluorescent lantern ($23 to $30) or a rechargeable lantern ($40). These lanterns give off a lot of light, do not require fuel and can be plugged directly into your cigarette lighter via an adapter.

For those of you who like good things in little packages, I recommend a survival kit in a can called "You Can Survive" ($10). In addition to this reassuring message, the kit contains: a folding wing stove, hexamine fuel tabs, tea bags, candy, sugar packets, a poly water bag, an energy drink, dampproof matches, aluminum foil and instant broth packets, all in a container smaller than a can of Campbell's Chicken Noodle Soup.

By now I hope to have raised your level of holiday shopping inspiration. There are a number of fun, practical, expensive and inexpensive gift items "out there" to consider for the holiday.

The prices mentioned will vary, but they are offered as a guide. The shelves are well-stocked and there are extra salespeople to answer questions and be of assistance. For all of you procrastinators, don't wait too long, you might miss out on that model Zamboni.

Every holiday season brings a "gold mine" of skiing equipment. Manufacturers offer new and more advanced equipment each year.

wine and "designer waters."

When serving white wine, champagne or sparkling water, suggests Edelstein, use fluted glasses and add a strawberry. "It's elegant but simple."

Remember the generational differences of your guests, reminds Edelstein. Have seating and small tables available for older guests.

Your holiday party can be a success if you organize, stay simple and keep your guests' comfort and enjoyment in mind. Or, you can work with a full-service party caterer or coordinator who, in Edelstein's words, "will make the party, bring it to you, and make it go away."

If entertaining at home is not what you had in mind, consider a location such as Doo Wops of Marlboro. Doo Wops is a dance club which specializes in private parties. The club is decorated in '50s motif and neon, and offers a choice of buffet menus to its hosts. A professional in-house disc jockey is available to keep parties moving.

Says Doo Wops functions coordinator Jean Healy, "We're planning lots of company Christmas parties. The company gets to extend its feelings to its employees, and it's more like a night out than a business obligation."

explicit instructions will be completed and signed by both parties and arrangements made for key pick-up and return.

Be sure that you're dealing with a reputable service. Look for one that bonds and insures its sitters. Reputable pet-sitting agencies are happy to provide references. You can also ask your vet, pet store or local humane society for recommendations.

Another sign of a reputable sitter is NAPS affiliation. NAPS, which has about 250 members nationwide, does not accept all who apply. Moran cautions those shopping for a sitter to ask for the membership number or call the NAPS office to verify that the service you are dealing with has met NAPS' exacting standards.

For additional information, call the NAPS office at 919-983-9222. Their Nationwide Referral Network is available from 1:30 to 5 p.m. EST Monday through Thursday.

(From PRNewswire.)

Shopping for the nature lover

AUDUBON, FROM 22S

"People who love feeding or watching birds come to the shop with questions all the time," says Pat DeFlorio, who has worked at the shop for more than 10 years. "Most people want to know if we have any squirrel-proof feeders." The advice she offers? "Try your best to place or hand the feeder in a location that the squirrels can't jump to, use a baffle with it, and if you're going to hang it, use very thin wire, the longer the better, so squirrels can't shimmy down."

Another method that may work is to string the wire between two trees, like a clothesline. If all else fails, one customer lamented, admit defeat, throw some inexpensive seed on the ground for the squirrels, and hope that they don't bother the feeders too much. Customers can often be heard exchanging advice on what has worked best for them, while they watch an enviable variety of birds at feeders outside the shop windows. At one count last winter, there were 12 pairs of cardinals.

For the many enthusiasts who venture out to watch birds and wildlife, the shop also sells binoculars and spotting scopes, some for as low as $59, and others as high as $1,000. For people who don't know which model best suits their needs, the staff has been trained to make decision-making easier by answering questions, explaining the technical terms, and allowing shoppers to compare different pairs in the shop.

Gardeners can browse through an extensive book department and displays of sundials, carved granite fountains, wind chimes and weather vanes to brighten any yard or garden. Of course, for natural history enthusiasts, the shop carries a complete line of Peterson Field Guides and a wide array of other nature guides.

One of Massachusetts Audubon's greatest strengths is working with children. Many children visit Drumlin Farm every day and society-wide, education programs in school and on-site are offered across the state. At the shop's "Children's Corner," young visitors or adults looking for educational nature gifts will find toys, puppets, stuffed animals, books and puzzles. Rubber snakes, owl pellets, squeaky toads and rocks are also big favorites. Picture books, coloring books and young readers all encourage children to explore our natural world.

The Audubon Shop is located at the Drumlin Farm Wildlife Sanctuary on Route 117 in Lincoln. The hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, and on Monday holidays. All profits help support the efforts of the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Mindful gift giving

When you are about out of ideas for certain people on your gift giving list this holiday season, check out their favorite interest or pursuit.

While you haven't a clue as to what a hunter would need and have no desire yourself to browse in the garden shops it may be difficult to find the right gift. You can look for a tool all the serious enthusiasts need. "Whether they hunt, garden, work around the home with a passion, or simply enjoy watching birds they could all use a journal," said Gina Kennedy.

A log to keep notes, information and reminders. Journal writing makes life easier and gives the hobbyist a tool that will enhance and continually develop their pursuit. The journal doesn't end there. It is in the reading and rereading of the years notes and adventures that the memory is jogged and the good times relived.

"As Mae West put it 'I always say, keep a diary and someday it'll keep you,'" Kennedy said.

With the shopping season already here this type of gift may be just what you have been looking for. So take a look at what people are already enjoying and give them a new way to be mindful of it. Once people start journaling they usually find the rewards are unrivaled and they will have you to thank.

Taking it easy

Don't let the holidays stress you out

STRESS, FROM 27S

relax your back and increase circulation: lie down on the floor with two tennis balls under your back. Move around, letting the balls gently massage your back.

Dr. Barton Herskovitz, a Newton psychiatrist, suggests shoppers plan well and shop ahead to spread the holiday tasks out. Asking family members to share the burden of cooking, shopping, or wrapping lightens your load and allows others to participate in making the holiday enjoyable.

Also, if money and time are tight, explain the realities to children. Recruit their cooperation in making a happy holiday.

"In the long run, children remember family feeling, rather than how many gifts they got," said Herskovitz.

Schedule changes and unrealistic hopes that someone has changed may also bring on holiday stress. If you tend to experience holiday depression or anxiety, prepare ahead. Remember, children can pick up on your stress and act it out.

Ben Benjamin, Ph.D., specialist in sports medicine and education, and director of the Muscular Therapy Institute in Cambridge, says stress causes muscles to tighten, making people tired and more susceptible to illness and injury, and robbing them of energy.
